Some of the reasons for this are plainly beyond the control of exporters. British car sales to Canada and the United States have suffered severely as a result of the North American recession. They have also been hit by the development of an American compact car and the full impact of this will not be felt until some time next spring.

This, say the economists, is not unexpected. But what disturbs them is the fact that continental auto makers are outselling the British with a more aggressive pricing policy.

COSTS NOW RISING

In its study on wages, costs and prices, the National Institute found that during 1959 costs and prices generally were either stable or falling.

Now, costs are rising, partly because labor costs have increased steeply and partly because the leveling of output has reduced the rise in productivity which previously offset the rise in the wage bill.

The research organization concludes that there is little hope for improvement in the outlook for British exports.

"Major structural changes in world trade—the progressive loss of protection in Commonwealth markets, and our exclusion from the larger of the new protected market systems in Europe—are working unfavorably for our exports. . . ."

In contrast with Britain's rather gloomy outlook, the boom on the continent—particularly in the European Economic Community—continues, although at a slower pace than in the first half of 1960.

CREATE BIG MARKET

This is one of the fruits of the creation of the dynamic Common Market three years ago by France, Germany, Italy and the Benelux countries. Their goal is to eliminate all tariff and trade barriers among themselves, a move that will result in the creation of a market almost as big as that of the United States.

In preparation for this, investors and industrialists are pouring millions of dollars into new plants to meet the requirements of a new large-scale outlet.

Among those contributing to this expansion wave are American, British and Canadians—all building factories within the Community to overcome the common tariff wall that ultimately will ring the Six as a whole.

Britain and her partners in the rival Outer Seven bloc — the Scandinavian countries, Austria, Switzerland and Portugal — all looking at this protected market system from the outside, now are anxiously seeking ways of joining forces with it.

There is, however, little likelihood that the breach between the two blocs will be healed early in the year. .

AUTO EXPORTS DROP — Britain appears headed for an economic downturn in 1961 as export markets shrink and production levels off. . . Even exports of small cars—such as these being loaded at Ewer, England—which have made a big impact in Canada in recent years are down. Sales of British cars in North America are affected by the recession and increased competition from home-produced compact autos. (CP Photo from UKIO).

Heavy Snowfall Diverts Traffic To Railroads

Montreal-Toronto Runs Operate in 5 Sections

Heavy snowfall of the past few days has diverted traffic from highway to railways that already are staggering under heavy holiday bookings.

Canadian National Railways divisional superintendent A. W. Wilson said this morning the rush to the railroads has resulted in increased travel facilities.

"There will be five sections today and tomorrow on the regular Montreal-Toronto runs," he said. These are pool trains. Night trains also will have added sections.

All transcontinental reservations have been booked solidly for some time.

The downtown ticket office of the CNR said that reservations have not been quite as heavy as those of a year ago, but the recent storm should result in a last-minute increase.

BUSES HAD BEEN BUSY

The Colonial bus line office here said that busloads had been exceptionally good up to the time the storm hit. They are hard to compare traffic to that of a year ago because the holiday season comes on Sunday and many travelling people had the shorter holiday.

Long distance bookings were down because of this reason.

Despite the fact the heavy snowfall was confined to this Eastern Ontario district, Ingmar J. McDougall of the Ontario Provincial Police said authorities heavy highway traffic.

"Police and staff are every officer out," he said, "and we shall be snow-bowed heavily on speeders and drinking drivers. People should not drive over 30 miles an hour on slippery roads.

DEFENCE BUDGET TO REMAIN SAME IN COMING YEAR

Spending Quarter Of All Outlays

OTTAWA (CP)—The 1961-62 defence budget will amount to about $1,800,000,000, reliable informants said today.

Defence expenditures, in other words, will be about the same as in the current fiscal year which ends March 31, 1961. The 1960-61 defence budget is $1,836,000,000.

Spending on defence takes up about one-quarter of all federal outlays.

The treasury board, a cabinet committee, has approved the defence budget but it had a difficult time keeping it at about the 1960-61 level.

Main reason for this is that $150,000,000 had to be found for the CF 104 reconnaissance bomber program in 1961 - 62, double the amount required in the current fiscal year.

PAY BOOST IS FACTOR

Pay increases for the armed forces will cost about $40,000,000 and spending will rise on the $120,000,000 program of mid-life two Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles based, new radars and the SAGE electronic system for air defence.

Interceptor said savings will have do be made in armed forces operations and maintenance to leave funds for new weapons.

Procurement of weapons and equipment amounted to $1,000,000,000 this year or about 18 per cent of the defence budget.

The defence department is putting on a new economy drive and talks will result in such things as fewer transfers of personnel and less consumption of fuel.

The size of the 1961-62 defence budget would appear to rule out purchase of the Avro Arrow or Voo jet interceptor as a replacement for the aging CF-100 jet.

John Daly Weds Virginia Warren

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Cheered by a crowd of 2,000, broadcaster John Daly and Virginia Warren, daughter of the chief justice of the United States, were married here then flew to Hawaii for their honeymoon.

The "What's My Line?" moderator and former ABC news director became a little nervous before the altar in the candlelight ceremony.

"I didn't think it was possible for me to get the jitters," said the veteran television personality after his performance, "but I got 'em bad."

CONTINUE SEARCH FOR 8 MISSING GN TANKER

Chief Engineer Is Still Aboard

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A destroyer sped most of the 29 survivors of the storm-broken tanker Pine Ridge toward shore today while the U.S. Coast Guard searched the Atlantic for eight seamen still missing.

Still aboard, the bobbing stern section is chief engineer John Richart, 38, of Wilmington, De. He may be picked today — if weather permits—by volunteers from the crew who would assist in salvage operations.

The commercial tug Lamberts Point stood by to take the ship into low for Norfolk.

Survivors were transferred from the aircraft carrier Valley Forge to the destroyer Conway for the trip to Norfolk. The convoy is expected to arrive about 4 p.m. EST today.

TORN BY WINDS

The Pine Ridge was ripped apart Wednesday in 100-mile-an-hour winds that churned waves 100 miles east of Cape Hatteras, N.C., northward of the Atlantic.

Twenty-eight survivors were plucked from the bobbing stern section Thursday by navy helicopters from the Valley Forge.

Eight men were missing and apparently lost, but the search went on. Among those rescued drowned is the master, 44-year-old Capt. Clark Snyder.

Snyder is no stranger to peril at sea. He had two ships torpedoed from under him on Caribbean runs in the Second World War.

RESEMBLES CARLSEN

Richart's vigil aboard the stern of the Pine Ridge has many parallels the feat of Capt. Kurt Carlsen, who stayed aboard the American freighter Flying Enterprise for two weeks before it sank.

Should the engineer leave the ship, the Pine Ridge would be a salvage prize for anyone daring to go aboard her. In the last two years two ships of the American waters have been salvaged by wildcat crews, one not far from the stricken Pine Ridge and the other off the Louisiana coast in the Gulf of Mexico.

Pope Calls on World Leaders To Act Honorably in Disputes

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—Pope John Thursday night called on world leaders to act "honorably" in the face of increasingly "grave" global conflicts.

His appeal in the third Christmas message of his reign also was directed at persons responsible for public opinion which is being formed or deformed" by mass communications and other means.

The 79-year-old pontiff urged Roman Catholics to have a "horror" of counterfeiting of the truth.

"The news, ever more grave, of the storms which rage over some parts of the world . . . moves us in this Christmas appeal to direct a word to those who have the highest responsibilities in the public and social sphere and to invite them, in the name of Christ, to place their hands on their breast and act honorably in these days of general danger."

He said the storms "threaten not only the social order but more important, many souls weak and unstable, rather than of ill-will or wicked."

"We happen to be living between two concepts of human ways of living together, on the one side the reality of the world examined, studied and reduced to scientific accounting and to the design of God; on the other hope and will and love to repeat the counterfeit of this same reality made easy by technical skill and the ingenuity of man.

"Confronted by the four - fold deceit of thinking, honoring saying and doing what is true, and the daily spectacle of the opposite . . .

NORTH BAY (CP) — Mrs. Doreen Coulas, 32, a tiny mother of five, was charged with first-degree murder in the rifle-slaying of her husband at Cross Lake Thursday night.

Thomas Joseph Coulas, the year-old truck driver, was shot through the head while he slept.

Mrs. Coulas' two women was brought here today from the tiny village in Northwestern Ontario 80 miles southwest of Pembroke. She will be held in district jail here until a date is set for her preliminary hearing.

Govt. Settles With Gas Co. For $500,000

OTTAWA (CP)—A $500,000 settlement has been reached between the federal government and Consumers' Gas Co. of Toronto for damages to a centretown office building damaged in a 1958 multi-million dollar explosion in Hazeldean.

The government had filed suit against the gas company for $1,000,000 in the Exchequer Court of Canada. The action arising out of the blast explosion which killed three persons and injured 39 others.

The $500,000 settlement was announced Wednesday by the justice department.

It also was learned that the gas company has abandoned its claim that the city of Ottawa should contribute anything toward the settlement of claims resulting from the explosion.

A total of $1,300,000 has been paid out by the company in out-of-court settlements of more than 300 damage claims.

$18 Million Shipbuilding Program Announced by CGE

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. has launched an $18,000,000 shipbuilding program to give employment stimulant to the Canadian shipbuilding industry.

CGE President J. Herbert Smith said Thursday work has already started on a 25,000-ton bulk carrier in Saint John, N.B., by the Saint John Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. Ltd.

Work will start immediately on another 25,000-ton carrier and two smaller freighters by Canadian Shipbuilding and Engineering Ltd. at Collingwood, Ont.

In connection with the project, Mr. Smith said the CGE plant at Peterborough will start making marine steam turbine drives. It will be the first time such engine units have been built in Canada.

The four ships will be chartered to shipping companies for operation on the Great Lakes.

The two larger ships are worth $7,000,000 each, the smaller ones $2,000,000.

Saint John Shipbuilding estimates it can employ 2,000 men at its yards and subcontractors.

About 900 men are employed at the Collingwood yard and 1,000 at the CGE Peterborough plant. The program will halt layoffs in both centres.

Extreme Cold Predicted for Que., Ontario Over Christmas Holiday

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

As Canadians from coast to coast prepared to celebrate Christmas 1960 this weekend, weather forecasters were as varied as the geography of the 10 provinces.

Eastern and Western coastal regions are expected to have a green Christmas, while snow covers the Prairies, Ontario and Quebec.

Mild weather which has already moved into Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Alberta is expected to stay through the weekend.

Extreme cold is predicted for Ontario and Quebec.

Toronto temperatures are expected to stay about 10 above, while usually-mild southwestern Ontario is getting below zero weather. On the Prairies, the mercury is expected to stay about 20 degrees.

Coastal areas of British Columbia have a high of 46 predicted for Vancouver, with lowest temperatures in the province set by Prince Rupert.

Snow for Christmas Day is predicted in Montreal, with a high of 26 F.

Montreal stores report heavy buying during the last few days. Most night clubs in the city city have Boxing Day parties on Christmas Eve, but all Quebec liquor outlets have to close at 9 p.m.

Toronto's bars stop serving at 6:30 p.m. Merchants are expected a big rush on Christmas Eve because it's a full shopping day.

In both cities downtown areas are decorated for the festivities, with loudspeakers playing seasonal music.

Ship Student To Hawaii As a Prank

HONOLULU (AP)—Andy Mullan, a University of Washington senior shipped to Hawaii by fraternity brothers as a prank, doesn't think it's funny anymore.

It's nearly Christmas and he will be 6,000 miles from home and he'll get back to his home in Seattle, Wash., late.

He was grabbed by his fraternity pledge class and blindfolded—in a bathing suit, slippers, raincoat and sunglasses—and put in a plane Dec. 13. The freshmen gave him $6.

It was very funny—then.

He went swimming and sight-seeing and had a good time for a couple of days.

But no funds are in sight for the return home.

Andy is living rent-free in a Honolulu apartment owned by an asst at the University of Hawaii cafeteria and pays with the money he has left. Andy said his fraternity house in Seattle is closed for the holidays and he doesn't know how to contact his buddies.

BERLIN (AP)—There are two kinds of Christmases in this divided city.

Most Germans in the eastern sector would like to celebrate the same way. But they live under the Red-ruled dictatorship.

But the Communist press lectures on a new way of celebrating around the Christmas tree. They call it a tannenbaumfest, or fir tree festival. Instead of children singing carols and reciting traditional poems before receiving their gifts, they submit to a political quiz. There also they have absorbed their Lenin and have got gifts.

East Berlin's Christmas market in Marx-Engels' Square has toy teller, coasters, acrobats and shooting galleries. A series of cutout figures are from German fairy tales. But Snow White and the seven dwarfs promote collective labor." And the main figure is a massive sputnik and the sign reads "Peace."

Illustrated magazines in the West are lavish with pictures of church interiors, snowscenes and other age-old seasonal subjects. The controlled eastern press is heavily loaded with political pronouncements.

East Germany's humorous magazine Eulenspiegel devoted most of this week's issue to a mockery of Christmas. Santa Claus of Bethlehem was the U.S. Air Force star on a rocket mean-while leading the reindeer in the trees of a wintry landscape.

But East Germans have not succeeded in eliminating the Christmas spirit. Said a housewife:

"My son came home from school in tears. He had been asked to take his accordion to play at the school party. But the teacher hawled him out when he played a Christmas carol. 'Only socialist tunes can be played here,' she told him.

Canada Came Into Its Own Last Week in Disputes

OTTAWA (CP)—If a country's importance in the world can be judged solely by the number of disputes it got into, Canada might be said to have come barrelling into its own during the last week or so.

Suddenly, it has begun ruffling feathers all over the place—and some pretty gaudy feathers at that.

At last weekend's now-famous NATO Council meeting in Paris, External Affairs Minister Green, it now develops, had tart words with no fewer than three of the big stars in the Atlantic firmament.

He clashed with Britain's Lord Home on colonialism; with France's Maurice Couve de Murville on the French disdain of the United Nations; and with Secretary-General Paul - Henri Spaak on whether NATO should operate as a unit. Mr. Green does not think it should.

The American delegation was reported highly amused by the whole performance. Or perhaps Mr. Green—who for all his gentle manner can on occasion be tough and unbending as any man—just left them speechless.

According to one report circulating here, Mr. Green, annoyed

Santa's Helpers Already Busy Delivering Gifts

Santa's helpers are already busy with their delivery chores. It was reported this morning by Fire Chief Gerald Vance. The local firefighters' annual gift parcels to distribute to some 1,000 children in Belleville. The gifts have come a long way as the Kiwanis Club and Eric Cooper's toy project, a generous donation by the Bata Shoe Company, and with other goodies purchased by the Firemen's Underprivileged Children's Fund.

This latter source has been substantiated by the firemen from their weekly bingos over the past year, which have realized about $1,000 due to the patronage by local bingo-players. Other donations to the fund have come from the Ladies of the Royal Purple, Elks' Lodge, in occasional dances and the CNRAA, the guest at the annual Firemen's Banquet and from several personal donators.

Each year every cent donated for charity goes to the children to ensure that no child within the City of Belleville is forgotten by Santa Claus. Many boxes of toys, articles of clothing and bags of candies are overnight will be distributed both today and tomorrow by the firemen.

Youth Fined Total of $27 On Two Charges

A 17-year-old youth who, when ordered Thursday to leave a local hotel, threatened to put a few of the hotel's insides, today was fined a total of $27 when he pleaded guilty to the magistrate's court to consuming liquor in a tavern and creating a disturbance in a public place.

City police Inspector J. B. McLaughlin told Magistrate T. W. Wills that Ernest Bennett, 24 West Moira St., had been ordered to leave a beer parlor when a waiter saw him pick up bottle of beer from a table and walk away with it. Before leaving, however, the inspector said, Bennett threatened the waiter. Bennett was arrested Thursday night at another establishment a beer parlor waiter recognized from a being a minor under the influence of alcohol.

In lieu of paying the fines, the youth could spend seven days in jail on the liquor charge and three days in jail for causing a disturbance.

Sentence was placed on suspended sentence last fall when he was found guilty of assaulting a city police constable.

136th Victim of Air Collision Died Worrying About Pet Dog

NEW YORK (AP)—He was getting along in years. And he moved slowly and couldn't see too well.

His name was Terry. He was an elderly cocker spaniel.

It meant a trip outdoors.

The day was blustery, that morning in Brooklyn. And while Krooks' doorman reversed the hat, Terry — shabby tail wagging furiously—waited impatiently.

The master and dog walked out into the morning—to meet death.

Ironic use as they neared Sterling Place and Seventh Avenue, a jet airliner that only moments before had collided with another aircraft in a one-in-a-million accident crashed into the quiet residential neighborhood.

Flaming jet fuel swayed the trees. Dr. Krooks' home started over more than half his body. He was taken to hospital in critical condition.

Terry?

Only his leash was found.

Over and over in Swedish Hospital, Dr. Krooks inquired: "How is Terry? Where is he? Has you got Terry?"

A family member said they stalled the doctor, never letting him know the dog was missing.

Obituaries

GEORGE D. BALDWIN

MARMORA — The funeral of George David Baldwin was held on Wednesday afternoon in St. Andrew's United Church with Rev. J. M. D. McLeod conducting the service.

The bearers were Jack Grant, Ross Conner, Roy Frost, Jack Jones, Percy Grey, Victor Neal.

Interment was in Belleville Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by the Howden Funeral Home.

PHILIP JOHN BOLYEA

Emergency treatment with oxygen equipment was given Belleville Fire Department failed to revive 16-month-old Philip John Bolyea at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bolyea, 41 Trafford Street, yesterday morning at 10.40 o'clock.

The young lad had been treated for a minor convulsion earlier in the day by the family doctor, Dr. A. E. Dales. The convulsion later came suddenly and the child died before ambulance assistance could be applied, Dr. R. T. Potter, coroner, stated today.

Philip was born in Belleville, the son of Joseph Bolyea and Cecile Slamon, of Holy Rosary parish. Also surviving are two brothers, Douglas and Bruce, and two sisters, Lucy and Joanne, all at home.

Funeral at the funeral residence of George F. O'Brien, 30 West Moira Street; funeral arrangements appear elsewhere in this edition.

Urge Motorists To Take Time Over Holiday

That it may on snow and ice-covered roads.

That is the pre-Christmas advice for motorists issued from Ontario Provincial Police Inspector McDougall.

"Thirty miles per hour is fast enough even in a 50 miles per hour zone, when the road is covered with snow and ice," stated the Inspector.

The inspector asked the cooperation of district motorists in driving safely over the coming holiday. "We want everyone to have a happy Christmas," he said.

All traffic officers will be on duty over the holiday period in district highways.

"If we see any indication of carelessness or drunken driving, they will be taken from the road," the Inspector promised.

Two City H.S. Principals Go To Resolute Bay

Many are travelling from city to town in their country places to spend the Christmas week with relatives and friends. What is rather common occurrence at this season of the year is not a Christmas trip, which will begin at Trenton Airport on December 24th, will culminate in a visit to Resolute Bay in the Arctic. Two of the city's well known residents, Alderman L. F. Reid, principal of Quinte Secondary School and W. Ab. Hargrove principal of Moira Secondary School. Alderman Reid and Mr. Mansfrove will spend Christmas week there as guests of the R.C.A.F.

Grim Christmas Seen Facing Many Belgians

Gas and electric workers throughout the country were called out. Socialist unions in Liege ordered cafes, restaurants, movie houses and theatres to go on strike in the big eastern industrial centre. Holiday mail deliveries nearly everywhere were at a standstill.

The Socialists are fighting the government's planned austerity program which is designed to offset loss of Congo revenue by raising taxes and cutting social service expenditures.

Public transportation was operating normally in Brussels, but trains were running behind schedule or stopped in southern Belgium.

The strike centred in the French-speaking southern Walloon area, where the Socialist trade unions are powerful in the industrial centers.

GO WITHOUT PAY

In Charleroi, big industrial centre, many firms were unable to pay their workers because banks' staffs were out. Strike pickets at school entrances turned away children arriving for morning classes.

Riot police guarded parliament and government buildings. Premier Gaston Eyskens remained determined to press for adoption of his government's economic reform law before the end of the year.

Opposition Socialist deputies raised such a noisy uproar in parliament Thursday night that the president, Baron Pauls Kreckaker, suspended the session discussing the legislation. The debate resumed today.

Under the government's program $250,000,000 would be cut from state expenditures and taxes raised $100,000,000.

or masked betrayal of this kind, the hand-clasp to crush its anguish, and our own voice trembles."

The Pope's appeal to "act bold-ly" was directed at heads of state and other civic leaders, parents and teachers, "to all who have in their hands the fate of boys."

Also referred to in the Christmas message were those responsible for public opinion "which is being formed or deformed by means of the press, radio and television, by the cinema, theatrical plays and exhibitions of every kind."

He said all Catholics should give testimony to the truth—never lend yourselves to any counterfeiting of the truth. Have a horror of that."

"Do not avail yourselves of them to corrupt the consciences as yet unformed or wavering.

"Do not become a vehicle for spreading those germs which desecrate love, break up the family, and thereby slowly loosen the foundations of the social order.

"Know how to build with quiet perseverance, unified and undaunted the conditions for better times, healthier, more just, more secure."

Find Dead Child In Negro Home Overcome By Fumes

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — One Negro child was discovered dead and seven others reeling from fumes along with seven other Negro adults who were suffering from exposure and malnutrition.

The body of the dead child, a two-year-old, was found on bare springs of a dilapidated bed, the police chief, Joe Pittman, said.

The other seven children were taken to hospitals where they were admitted in serious condition. The three others were later found in a detention home after being fed warm food.

A Negro woman, identified by police as Mrs. Dorothy Thomas, was charged with child desertion after police had started an investigation culminating from complaints of neighbors. Trinity Gardens, a segregated apartment project, is in north Mobile.

The woman identified the dead child and five others as hers and two as her sister's. The sister was not located.

DRIFTS BLOCKED

miles north of London, Ont., a car carrying 14 Canadians was stranded after battling snow-filled roads and deep drifts. The passengers moved into a hotel.

At Colborne, members of the Royal Canadian Legion branch served food and coffee to stranded travellers packed into the Legion hall and the village arena.

Mrs. Charles Wood, owner of the Queen's Hotel, said her lobby was crammed with people.

"Most of them were shivering and wet," she said. "None was warned that conditions were so bad."

Many Charges Laid Against Belleville Man

A Belleville man who was wanted by more than a half dozen police departments in Ontario has been arrested and today appeared before Magistrate T. W. Wills for remand.

Fred Donald Scott, 337 Coleman St., has been charged by Corp. Keith Webb with counts of fraud and one of uttering, while city police have laid two fraud charges of their own and are holding three from Kingston.

Toronto police have 11 charges against him, including two of theft, while in Dunnville and Brighton police departments have each laid two fraud charges against him.

Police spokesman said more charges are expected to be laid by other police departments.

Scott will appear in court next Thursday. He was escorted to court today by O.P.P. Corporal Gordon Stout and special constable in connection with the local charges.

Scott was arrested at his home on Sunday by city and provincial police. He is being held without bail.

Request Cars Removed From Main Streets

The city Public Works Department is once again requesting that local citizens remove their cars from Front and Pinnacle Streets by midnight this evening so that snow removal operations may take place. City Engineer Malcolm Turnbull reports that citizens have been most co-operative in this regard in the past and the department is most thankful for this co-operation.

The department's snow removal crews may be faced with "one heck of a problem tonight if a reported snowstorm over Toronto materializes," Mr. Turnbull stated, but as yet (noon today) there is no indication either one way or another as to the probability of this happening.

Air Collision Claims May Run To $15,000,000

NEW YORK (AP)—Estimates of the cost of the Dec. 16 air collision have run as high as $15,000,000 or more. No actual figures are yet available.

Insurance experts agree on the basis of $50,000 a person that deaths claims for the 134 victims will run to about $6,800,000.

Real estate losses in Brooklyn where the United Air Lines jet plane crashed and burned in the heavy fog are estimated at about $1,000,050.

In addition, there was an unknown amount of accident insurance bought by air victims in terminals, and there are expected to be sizable claims for damages of personal property on the ground.

of Collingwood said the three ships should keep the yard going for three years.

The order comes at a key moment for Shipyards. Great Lakes and Montreal area had reached the end of their orders and the Collingwood yards might have been idle by next summer.

Mr. Smith said CGE entered the contracts with the support and encouragement of the federal government, "and under the intent and terms of federal legislation aimed at stimulating and revitalizing the Canadian shipbuilding industry."

The government has promised legislation to help create a Canadian merchant fleet, but no details have been released.

Air Guidance Traffic System Will Stay Same

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Agency intends to continue the air traffic guidance system used by the jet airliner that collided with a DC-8 jet over Brooklyn, N.Y., last week.

A spokesman for the FAA replied "no" when asked by reporters whether, as a result of the collision of the United DC-8 and TWA piston-engined liners, changes would be made in either procedure or personnel in the high density air traffic region of the metropolitan New York area.

On the basis of present information, which includes a tape recording of radio conversations among pilots and controllers and the planes, the spokesman said that "we have no reason to think that requires a change." But it was explained that this will depend on what the CAB inquiry now under way, might develop.

In New York, the Herald Tribune said one navigation radio receiver was out of service on United Air Lines' jet at the time of the collision.

A Washington dispatch to the newspaper said the jet pilot had reported "over a position frequency to United Air Lines" that one of his navigation radio receivers was out of order, but ground controllers in Idlewild and La Guardia airports were unaware of it.

Radio tapes released Wednesday by the FAA showed ground controllers had not overlooked the plane's position.

Iciest Weather In Several Years Covers States

CHICAGO (AP) — A severe cold wave stung much of the eastern two-thirds of the United States today. And more snow blanketed across the snow-covered northern sections from the Rockies into New England.

The iciest weather in several years topped temperatures to zero and below for the date in some areas. Not much relief was in the offing.

The middle west, hit by a heavy snow storm earlier this week, got the simplest weather, including a bonechilling 36 below zero to Joliet, Ill., and 23 below in International Falls, Minn.

Snow flurries peppered the Ohio valley southward into Tennessee and northern Georgia. The cold air swept from the highlands of the Carolinas into parts of Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama and west-central Florida.

Belgle-zero marks were general from the eastern Dakotas into the upper Great Lakes region, northeast Iowa, Illinois, northern Indiana and northwest Ohio. Chicago, some 46 miles northeast of Joliet, the 1 below reading was the lowest mark since Dec. 16, 1951.

Conn Smythe Wants Russians To Put up Purse

TORONTO (CP) — Conn Smythe, president of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, said Thursday Russian hockey bosses should consider putting up a large purse to support their claims of being in world hockey power.

He was commenting on a statement by Johnny Horeck, former manager-coach of Chatham Maroons who accompanied that team on a present tour of Soviet Union.

Horeck said Russian hockey players have progressed to the point where it will be necessary to send NHL teams to Europe to uphold the prestige of Canadian hockey abroad.

"You cannot stop progress and the Russians are making rapid progress in hockey," Horeck said. "We should send at least a strong mined squad there the next time but the Russians would still beat the Montreal Canadiens or Leafs."

He said the Russian teams are only six years away from challenging the NHL.

Smythe said:

"When the Russians are ready, they should put up a purse big enough on a winner - take - all basis, starting from the present $1,000,000 which would include television and we'll see who has the world champs."

Then, he said, "we should send the Stanley Cup champs, sudden death or best-of-two."

"I would entertain such a proposition. But it would take a lot of money.

"But as for going to Russia for the trip alone, then I'm 1,000 per cent against it."

Smythe said the Russians should test the NHL and any profit could be split between the players' pension fund and the promotion of hockey in general."

He said Canadians have been coachers to improve the Russians at their own expense.

He said he would like to see Canada pull out of the so-called world tournaments.

"I hope the (amateur) brass will get their free trips and get lots over—they're doing themselves hockey or Canada speak nicely no good."

Child Survives Serious Eye Affliction

CALGARY (CP) — Five-year-old Angela Koester, who doctors predicted seven months ago might not survive a serious eye affliction, came home Thursday for Christmas Thursday, apparently on the her way to recovery.

After a delicate operation in Sweden to remove a cancerous tumor of the eye, Angela had spent five months in that country recuperating.

She had forgotten all the English she knew, but even the native tongue of her German-speaking immigrant parents.

But babbling slightly in Swedish, an animated Angelika took the hand of a specialist reunited in Calgary airport.

"I don't understand a word you are saying," she told parents and friends. "I only speak Swedish now."

Her exchanges with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Koester, and sister Gabriele were translated by Norwegian consul Eric Stethold, who was Mrs. Stethold, the consul's wife, who last September started a campaign that raised $4,000 to pay for the child's operation and treatment that her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Helmut Koester, could not afford.

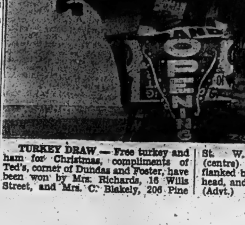
TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister Robarts of Ontario Thursday supported a proposal by Claude T. Bissell, president of the University of Toronto, to recognize Grade 13 as the basis for high school education.



Constructive criticism was the way Mr. Robarts described Mr. Bissell's proposal, made in his annual presidential report to the board Wednesday night.

Mr. Robarts said: Making maths the present Grade 13, or senior matriculation year, also is called, a year of preparation for university. Students would concentrate on a specific subject of which they would major at university.

Mr. Robarts said Mr. Bissell is chairman of the university matriculation board which has general jurisdiction over setting standards for Grade 13 examinations.

The board recently set up a special committee to look into the possibility of adapting the examination system in Grade 13 to those who intend to go on to university and those who are not, Mr. Robarts said. The possibility of reducing the number of Grade 13 exams by combining some related subjects was also being studied.

In the midst of all our frantic, last - minute preparations for Christmas, let us all stop, if even for just a moment, and think back to that day, almost 2,000 years ago, when Christmas began.

For the second consecutive year Trenton girls' volleyball team has won the COSSA championship. The girls are to be congratulated on their hard-won victory.

A certain boy from grade 13 has come up with a very unique way of preparing for the coming Yule festivities. He has lined the roof of his car with fresh milkbone. How can he lose?

The annual semi-formal proved to be quite a success. Around 250 people attended. Late in the evening, supper was served by the girl students. This was followed by another hour of dancing.

"Teenagers" are hoping to hold their final dance for 1960 this week at Brownies. Plans are being for a dance during the holiday. have been abandoned due to lack of space in which to hold it.

Students enjoyed the special Christmas assembly this week. Carols were sung for the first appearance before the students and was well received. The assembly gave everyone a chance to get in to the Christmas spirit.

We will say "30" until 1961. Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all.

Gardens Plans Busy Holiday Hockey Schedule

TRENTON Hosting Day, Dec. 28, is Minor Hockey Day in Trenton from 8.45 a.m. until 10.30 p.m. Ice commencing Gardens will ring with the sound of hockey feet cheering their teams to victory.

The schedule:

8.45—Midget games.
10.00—Squirts.
11.30—Novice games.
12.15—Pee Wees.
2.15—Belleville Squirts vs. Trenton Squirts.
2.30—Belleville Pee Wees vs Trenton Pee Wees.
3.45—Belleville Bantams vs Trenton Bantams.
5.00—Free public skating through the courtesy of Trenton Minor Hockey Association.
7.00—Belleville Midgets vs Trenton Midgets.
8.45—Campbellford Juveniles vs Trenton BCAF Juveniles.

The boys in the various teams are between the ages of 8 and 18 years. Each boy will receive for the event and he is asked to wear Squadron Leader Rene Lemieux.

Trenton Bantams are sponsored by the Trenton Legion, the Trenton Squirts are sponsored by the Rotary Club, the Trenton Pee Wees by the RCAF and the Trenton Midgets by the Lions' Club.

Tickets will be sold at the arena. Admission is 50 cents (a) ticket draw with the winner receiving two tickets to a major hockey game in Toronto on January 14, and two tickets to a Junior game in Trenton, January 15, plus paid hotel and travelling expenses.

Slavery Still Practised

Did you fill up the family jalopy on the way to work this morning? If you did, did it occur to you that you might have indirectly been aiding in the perpetuation of one of the oldest blights on mankind's history, slavery?

A pamphlet issued by the Free Africa Committee is a well documented reminder that slavery still exists in Saudi Arabia and Yemen. For instance, Coronet for August, 1956, is quoted as stating that "in the room towns of Saudi Arabia . . . money from dollar oil royalties is plentiful, and there is a growing demand for domestic and work slaves." A photograph which illustrated an article by Dr. Pierre Granville, which appeared in the January, 1959, issue of "True," shows an Arab sheik standing in a doorway from which hangs a man's hand—chopped off for theft. An article in the London Daily Express of January 3, 1957, reports that in 1954 Yemeni troops were tried to escape were beheaded standing up, "in the main square." Dr. Granville says that twelve Baluchi slaves of King Saud of Arabia were beheaded for attempting to reach freedom. In February of 1956 The New York Times reported "Saudi Arabia's slave dealers, seeking concessions for the harems of wealthy customers, are reported to be increasing their African traffic, on a trans-continental basis"—hence, apparently, the interest of the Free Africa Committee. At a press conference of the Anti-Slavery Society in London on March 31, 1959, Commander Thomas Fox-Pitt reported seeing a slave market on a street called the Sukei Abed in Mecca. Pilgrims to Mecca are arrested for "illegal entry" and then sold as slaves, according to Coronet, and Emanuel LeGreve where who conducted an investigation for the Assembly of the United Nations estimated that this pilgrimage traffic "at more than 600 slaves a year."

Is there any good reason why the United Nations cannot decide that this is one instance where interference in the "domestic affairs" of a nation is justifiable—and proclaim the sanctions necessary to enforce an end to slavery? Dollars are worth more than the slaves and with oil a glut on the market at present there should be little difficulty in bringing the sheiks of Arabia in line.

Beauty and Blight

Sunday night's snowfall added the finishing touch to the Christmas scene in Belleville. Even before the soft white blanket covered the scars which fall had left on lawn and garden, the city streets were merry with bright lights. Every year there seems to be an increase in the number of persons who decorate the exterior of their homes, or place strings of lights on shrubs and trees, or carefully locate the family tree in front of a large window so that it can be plainly seen from outside. Even in these cases, there are overdone and the result is garish, rather than pleasing. But even these examples of over-enthusiasm will have their glare softened by the snow which now covers the city, while the more tastefully planned displays will take on added beauty.

It seems a shame that there should be some among us so blind to beauty, so unkind and so stupid, that they would wreck these efforts to brighten the season. It would be bad enough if lights were being stolen for use elsewhere; it is even worse, we suggest, when the object is not to expropriate the beauty created by another for one's own use but to destroy it wantonly, without rhyme or reason. There is something wanting in the makeup of a person, of whatever age, who would steal lights just to smash them, something much more seriously wrong than can be expressed by adding up the mere cost in dollars and cents of what is so senselessly destroyed.

Fifty-nine years ago Leopold II wrote to one of his ministers referring to the Congo: "Young trees need stakes to support them, but the stakes must be removed once the trees begin to grow, precisely so as not to hinder their growth."

It may appear that even now the stakes have been removed too soon. Had the trees been more wisely nurtured over the years, the great continent would not be so troubled as it is today. (Montreal Star).

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WITHOUT HIM — DARKNESS

"I am the light of the world." of the overwhelming challenge of human life and the immensity of that creation of which we are but a part, all is hope.

We should also recall at this time of year two other things. One was that He is the Bread of Life. He not only revivals God or the individual soul but brings nurture and sustenance.

Another thing He said about himself was that he was the Door and that by Him if any man enter in he would be saved. Thus at this season of the year we are thinking about the birth of one apart from whose coming human life is dreadful to contemplate and hard to endure.

But with Him and in Him is light and Life.

Enrichment of Uranium

By HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY

Article #7

It has become general knowledge that the market prospects in this decade for Canadian uranium are uncertain. As Canada produces natural uranium only, and much of the world may adopt U.S. type reactors using enriched uranium, which at the moment is U.S. monopoly, it has been suggested in some quarters that Canada should enrich some of its uranium and break into this market. Let us see whether this is a feasible suggestion.

Uranium metal is almost entirely of two varieties or as they are called "isotopes of uranium." U235, the type lighter weight is fissionable, and U238, the heavier weight is not. Natural uranium has one atom of U234 (a still lighter isotope) to every 139 atoms of U235 and to 16,546 atoms of U238. (Thus, U235, the fissionable isotope, normally represents .7% of natural uranium). Enriching uranium consists of treating uranium so that, instead of seven parts U235 per thousand parts U238, it will have more than seven parts per thousand U235, and less than before of U238, which dampa down the fission process. Using this enriched uranium has certain advantages. The major one is that it would be possible to build smaller reactors than is possible with natural uranium (assuming, however, which have a very large minimum size?

The next advantage is that building the smaller reactor is cheaper, because certain reactor uranium the designers can allow leeway that is out of the question with the small margin of reactivity available with natural uranium. Therefore, in theory the small reactor fuel costs are higher, and the question to be answered in each case is, do lower capital costs (putting the cost of the fuel in the reactor) more than offset higher fuel costs?

There are other advantages, and other uses for small reactors, mostly for military purposes, which would be impossible with the only type technically feasible for the near future, the generation of large blocks of electricity for industrial power consumption, cost is what matters. Cost and safety in operation will be the criteria used to choose between enriched and natural uranium reactors for power generation, for in large power stations either type of reactor is feasible.

MARKET IMPLICATIONS

From the point of view of selling Canadian uranium, enrichment is important if it will enable Canada to capture a larger share of the market. The United States has been concentrating on developing reactors using enriched uranium, and has been pushing enriched uranium reactors in Europe. Since the United States has the only available supply of enriched uranium, it was argued that Canada should enrich uranium to prevent being shut out of this market.

But the question when it is vested immediate investment in enrichment facilities were somewhat premature. There are three main arguments against this course, each decisive in the immediate future. (a) To enrich the ability of producing enriched uranium at a competitive price per pound would have to make a minimum investment of $100-200 million in a gaseous diffusion plant and hydro-electric generation. This would be quite a gamble, in view of the facts mentioned above. It probably soon be able further to cut its prices, and that the total market for enriched uranium, even if it were competitive, would be relatively small, less than 1000 tons by 1970, yet such a plant would produce 2000 to 2500 tons of enriched uranium annually, (b) The gas centrifuge method of enriching uranium has recently been in the news. With the gas centrifuge there may perhaps be possible for Canada to produce small amounts of very high cost enriched uranium, for research purposes, by the method, without investing a minimum of $100-200 million in a gaseous diffusion plant, as France is doing. But it should be noted that even an investment of this size buys you a difficult plant which produces only 50 to 100 tons of enriched uranium annually at a high cost. However, for commercial purposes the gas centrifuge still appears much more costly than the gaseous diffusion method and is not likely be more costly for several years.

The gas centrifuge is not of interest to Ontario, but Canada might well consider it to create fuel for the OCDE reactor now under development. Canada might consider it, but before it is economic, because in a few years it should be possible to buy or build some centrifuges with a comparatively low outlay.

The benefits would exist to bring the price of the equipment to technical expertise, and as well

(c) enriched uranium form the base for a broad Canadian small and medium size reactor program. (c) The clincher, to my mind, is the fact that there are 7,000 tons of fuel in Canada, is staking its research resources almost entirely on the heavy water natural uranium reactor. Slowly has backed the right horse.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, which was previously very critical of the natural uranium program, has in this year's appropriation $5 million for participation with Atomic Energy Canada in the fuel research program. Furthermore, their attitudes has become much more favorable in their public statements. By the time the Canadian power reactor (NPD2 (1961) and CANDU (1965) have been completed, Canadian nuclear power costs it is hoped will be little above conventional power costs in Southern Ontario.

CONCLUSION

It would appear that the enrichment of uranium can be of little assistance to Canada's uranium industry in the present time, because the U.S.A. can produce enriched uranium probably more cheaply and because in the long run there is no guarantee that the export market for reactors will be captured by Canadian manufacturers, in which case there would be no need to break the U.S. monopoly of enriched uranium fuel. Furthermore, for international reasons, the prices are approximately equal, when the long term nuclear power reactor programs, many countries would not wish to take the long term risk which would lead to a dependence on enriched uranium from a single huge method has become cheap, Canada will be able to build such equipment for producing obsolete diffusion plant research purposes, at a cost of hundreds of millions of dollars.

Babylonians Used Credit

Houston Post

If you believe buying on the installment plan is a relatively modern practice and a feature of life typical of our era, you're wrong. Installment credit in primitive forms existed in Babylon when it was practised by the Babylonians and Phoenicians, who are known in Rome under Julius Caesar, especially in real estate.

Apparently the plan was invented by Babylonians early in the 18th century when the Code of Hammurabi was found in transcribed by merchants in Paris. When she returned to London, Miss Lida Shaw King discovered it. At about the same period described in the United States.

It was quite similar early in its present century that the idea of banks lending money to individuals on their personal security and income, with repayments in monthly installments, would put into practice.

With installment credit so firmly entrenched in our way of life; there seems little merit in arguing for or against the provisions of this system of buying. Banks, which must exercise prudence and caution in their lending practices, have found it worthwhile practices, based as it's on the character and income of the individual borrower, and commission today certainly reflect the stability of both the national character and economy.

The cold type person who puts on the pale impetus for such a development program is John Doe himself. Until the public becomes enthusiastic enough about physical fitness to encourage and expend the program at all levels, there'll be no great effort made. As in most things, the decision rests with the people, not the government, the schools, or any other bodies.

Nov. 13, 2026 To Be S-Day

Baltimore Evening Sun

Out at the University of Illinois some engineers have been trying to figure out a solution to world trends, starting back in the 1940's, toward getting forward to infinity, the point at which there will be too many people in the world. Their startling announcement is that S-day (subtraction, or at least zero) will be along in 2026 — to be more exact, on November 13 but 66 years hence. That day, the computerized engineers say, the world's population will be "exactly infinity" — and extinction.

They warn on the part of these experts about food resources; their projection in terms of simple elementary "breathing space. "Our great-great-grandchildren will not starve to death," says Dr. Heinz von Foerster, "they will be suffocated to death." The picture, as in early science fiction, is that of the blob, a formless mass which grows and spreads and expands until there's no room else anywhere.

The claustrophobe is fat, however, with easy resources — other scientists, other headlines even apart from the possibility that they will be mathematics is fallible. Life on the planet isn't quite all that tranquil and foreseeable, not by a long, loud shot. Even ruling out the Russian bomb and the fission bomb — what's the latest rumor on that impending further horror, the hydrogen bomb.

Experience Can Assist Parents, Too

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"It's the third baby that's so wonderful," said the young mother to me at dinner. "I don't know why, but the third one is always the quietest and easiest to handle."

She had asked me about my work, and I told her he was a dream. She then said that her children got "better" as they grew older.

What she meant, of course, is that she got "better." She was less anxious, less nervous, less inexperienced with a strange little creature.

We speak about a "first child," but strictly speaking there are no first children if there are only first parents. Each child begins as the second child, and ends as the second child.

It is the parents who change, who become better, more relaxed, more familiar with the taxing and often monotonous routine of tending an infant. The third child has been known if he had ever been a parent. Indeed, Freud's greatest contribution to psychology was his discovery that so much of the personality of the child is formed in the first few years of life.

Samuel Johnson said many wise things, but surely the most foolish thing he ever said was, "One cannot love lumps of flesh," and little infants are lumps of flesh.

They are much more, as he himself has

Spotlight Was on Africa In 1960 But Big Story Was J. Kennedy's Election

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Jungle chaos and surging nationalism kept the world's attention focused on Africa during much of 1960 but the year's biggest single news event was the election of a new American president.

Nearly a score of new nations were created in Africa during the last 12 months. The birth pangs of one, The Congo, were particularly violent and even now the fledgling nation's continued life is uncertain.

Belgium completed its hasty handover of responsibility for that sprawling land on June 30. Six days later the army mutinied. Belgium sent in paratroopers to restore order and rescued lives.

The Congolese asked the United Nations for help, setting off a sequence of events that has sapped the UN of much of its cash assets and exposed it to abuse from half a dozen sides.

South of The Congo, the white supremacist government of Prime Minister Hendrick Verwoerd won a vote of confidence when the electorate agreed South Africa should become a republic, probably in 1961.

South African Negroes protested at a humiliating law which requires them to carry passes at all times. About 70 were killed and more than 200 wounded when police fired on demonstrators at Sharpeville March 21 and 22.

ASSASSINATION TRY

On April 9, Verwoerd, opening an exposition marking the 50th anniversary of the Union of South Africa, was shot twice in the head by a white farmer. The prime minister recovered.

In Algeria, the nationalist revolt against France dragged into its seventh year. President de Gaulle's plan for a referendum early in 1961 that may give Algerians greater political autonomy proved unpopular with right-wing politicians and European settlers in Algeria. Eight European and 114 Moslems were killed during furious December rioting.

Elsewhere, there were other violent demonstrations against prevailing governments.

Opponents of Haile Selassie seized the opportunity of the Ethiopian Emperor's absence in Brazil to attempt a coup d'etat. The effort failed but the death toll in a two-day reign of terror was officially estimated at 2,000.

Syngman Rhee resigned as president of South Korea in the face of student-led riots and charges of election fraud. In Turkey, students protested curbs on civil and political liberties. The army seized power, removing Adnan Menderes from office.

United States-Japanese security treaty signed in Washington in January bore bitter summer fruit. Rioters angry at the country's involvement in the cold war forced Premier Nobusuke Kishi to ask President Eisenhower to cancel a planned visit of Japan. Kishi then resigned.

WAS SECOND BLOW

The humiliation for Eisenhower was the second in two months. On May 1, an American U-2 reconnaissance plane was shot down deep inside Soviet territory while on a spying mission, two weeks before the long-awaited summit conference at Paris.

It was never held. Khrushchev refused to begin the talks unless Eisenhower formally apologized for the U-2 incident.

An attempt to repair the shattered hopes of a summit meeting when world leaders converged in the UN General Assembly session in September produced nothing. There was much emphasis on disarmament, and Khrushchev was so angered one day that he pulled off a shoe and banged his desk with it.

On disarmament and other pressing matters, there was a tendency to await the outcome of the American presidential election.

The voters' choice, by an exceedingly slim margin, was the Democratic party's selection, John F. Kennedy, at 43 the youngest man and the first Roman Catholic elected to the office.

Of nearly 69,000,000 votes cast, Kennedy received 49.7 per cent. Vice-President Nixon, the Republican standard bearer, got 49.5 per cent and the other candidates picked up the remaining .7 per cent. Kennedy received 303 electoral college votes out of a possible 537. He needed 269 to win.

NEW BABIES

It was a year of some notable births: Prince Andrew, second in line to the throne, Feb. 19; a son to the shah of Iran and his queen, Oct. 31; and a son to President-elect and Mrs. Kennedy Nov. 25.

The year also noted the marriage of Princess Margaret, 29, to a commoner, Antony Armstrong-Jones, in a glittering Westminster Abbey ceremony May 8.

Disasters claimed thousands of lives. An estimated 4,500 persons were killed when earthquakes, a tidal wave and fire devastated the Moroccan resort town and port of Agadir early in the year.

In May, a series of earthquakes, huge mountain slides, volcanic eruptions and tidal waves took perhaps 6,000 lives in Chile.

Just before Christmas, two airliners collided over New York, with one of them falling into a populated part of the city. And in Munich, Germany, a U.S. Air Force plane crashed on top of a crowded streetcar. One hundred eight-four persons died in these tragedies which were quickly followed by a fire aboard a still uncompleted aircraft carrier in New York, taking nearly 50 more lives.

Bing Crosby's Son Denies Being Child's Father

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Another man testified Thursday he thinks he may be the father of the child that a divorcee says was fathered by crooner Bing Crosby's son, Dennis, 26.

"I never saw that man before in my life!" said the divorcee, Mrs. Marilyn Miller Scott, 28, after hearing testimony by Edward L. Davis, 34. Years ran down her cheeks, and she buried her face in her hands.

The tall, brunette secretary told a Superior Court jury to declare Dennis the father of her daughter, Denise Michelle.

Dennis denied being the father but admitted on the witness stand Wednesday that she had been intimate with Mrs. Scott—after consuming 18 to 20 drinks of vodka. The size of each drink was not specified.

Davis testified he first met Mrs. Scott in a bar in December, 1956, and that they went to a motel. He said the again visited the motel in February, 1957.

In May, 1958, when newspapers first published the accusation Mrs. Scott's contention that young Crosby was the father, Davis recognized her photograph he testified.

WENT TO SEE HER

"I went to see her because I thought maybe the child was mine," he told the jury, "and her that if the child was mine I would marry her and support them. But she said she just wanted to be left alone."

Mrs. Scott burst into tears. A recess was called.

Earlier Thursday, a drug expert testified that if Dennis Crosby drank as much as he said he did on the night in question, he couldn't have fathered the child.

Dr. Thomas J. Haley, professor of pharmacology and toxicology at University of California at Los Angeles said it's physically impossible to consummate a love-making after 16 or 20 drinks of vodka.

Haley said he had experimented for more than 16 years and found that what he termed complete love - making was impossible after four drinks of 100-proof whisky.

Dennis married Las Vegas showgirl Pat Sheehan six months before the child was born.

Scouting activities

By CHRIS F. LEGGAT
CHRIST CHURCH

A combined meeting of all Christ Church Cubs and Scouts was held in the Parish Hall to pay honor to Patrol Leader Howard Glenn Rainbird. Glenn joined as a Cub and took part in most of the Pack activities. At a Cub's Own concert he was cast as a little old lady. When the curtain went up the people were very amused to see "Mother" rowing away majestically sitting "boy fashion". Glenn forgot he was a lady. On becoming a Boy Scout life became more serious and he worked hard to qualify for badges and be an efficient Scout. He wears the coveted Religion and Life award, a most difficult badge to possess. In church he is a Crucifer and leads the choir, bearing the Cross with dignity beyond his years. Glenn is a very popular boy and can accept praise without his head becoming dislodged as in the "Littlest Angel". He was rewarded for his efforts at this memorable meeting when Scoutmaster Lionel Blaker proudly awarded him with the "Queen's Scouts" badge.

QUEEN'S SCOUTS CEREMONY

Akela Kemp and her Cub Pack opened the meeting with the Wolf Cub Howl and Promise. The Scouts after depositing the colors, reaffirmed their Promise and Vow. Archdeacon J. R. Creegan led the people assembled in prayer. A.S.M. R. Ingraham briefly told of how H.M. King Edward VII, in 1908, offered the suggestion to "B.P." that Scouts who passed severe tests of efficiency, qualifying them to be of service in their communities be called "King's Scouts". Queen Elizabeth II requested that the title be changed to "Queen's Scout". S. M. Blaker then proceeded with the investiture of P.L. Rainbird. A.S.M. Terry Johnston took a lighted candle to the youngest Tenderfoot Scout, Scout Rainbird lit the ceremonial candles while reaffirming his Promise, after which Scout Rainbird had "Queen's Scouts" badge, Mr. W. E. Sandercock, M.P.P. presented the Parchment. A.D.C. Robert Williamson congratulated Glenn and the 2nd Belleville on behalf of the district staff.

BADGES

S.M. Blaker presented the following badges, Queen's Scout Glenn Rainbird — "S" All-round Cord, Pathfinder and Camper: Bruce Johnston — Camper, and Ambulance-man; Dural Livingston — Ambulance-man; Geod Gray — Ambulance-man; Steve Turner — Camper; David Middleton — Swimmer; Brian Reid — Gardener. The Scoutmaster then read the names of King and Queen's Scouts for the 2nd Belleville since 1924, George Brown, James Cooke, Allen Lennox, John Evans, John Aitken, Franklin Lang, John Spencer, Jack Carter, Barnett Smith, James White, R. Kline, Ken Moore, John Bedford, Robert Owen, Phillip Stewart, Roger Wilkins, Norm Jamieson, Dave Burley, Glen Stewart and Ritchie Rowbotham.

CUBS TAKE OVER

Up to this point the meeting was quite serious but when the Cubs entered the picture the atmosphere changed completely. Akela Kemp informed us that there was no rehearsal for the little play by the Cubs. Maybe they were better on their own because they sure did a remarkable job with "The Night Before Christmas". Father Christmas was very ably personified by Dancy Skinkle. The Cub included Donald Breast Kleinfpelner, Larry Carr-Brion, Douglas Rainbird, Carl Yates, David Fisher and of course "Rudolph" who was Sir Peter Middleton. David Gibson was the narrator. They all performed well and the result was a very funny show.

Among the guests we noticed Mrs. M. Button, first president of the Auxiliary who was introduced by the present president, Mrs. Rainbird; Mr. M. Button, first District Council president; Mr. L. G. Monteith, president District Council; Mrs. Gelsthorpe, president Belleville Boy Scouts' Auxiliary. Space forbids naming all the guests but they all enjoyed the evening. Rev. Everett Smith and Rev. H.A.C. Masstah were present. A very nice lunch was served by the ladies which was a very happy way to close the meeting.

Vota Vita MC Elects 1961 Officers

The December meeting of the Vota Vita Mission Circle of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church was held in the Sunday School room and was highlighted by a play, called "Child Vikings." There were only four members of the cast, but in their costumes and with the aid of the sotly-lit stage setting of a room at the time of the birth of our Lord, they were assisted by Marjorie Haley, they performed admirably. Mrs. Ross Hall was Esther; Nellie Wynne, Rebecca; Ruth Mary Wood, Ruth, and Jean Hagerman, Sarah.

At the end of the play, all were surprised when Rebecca suddenly sang the beautiful, "Bethlehem."

OFFICERS INSTALLED

Mrs. Ross Woodcock was the leader during installation of the officers for 1961. They are as follows; honorary president, Mrs. Woodcock; president, Marjorie Haley; vice president, Nellie Burn; secretary, Irene Bowerman; treasurer, Grace Pearson; Lighthouse Flashes, Elizabeth Stewart; reporter, Brenda Clayton; "Link and Visitor" organizer, Alice Fitzgerald; pianist, Doris Price; song leader, Dorothy Hunter; Canadian Christian work, Irene Girling; group leaders, Ruth Soles, Barbara Bowyer, Mildred Fox and Joan Long.

The executive served refreshments at tables tastefully decorated in the traditional motif after which Santa Claus came and gave each one a gift.

WMS Elects 1961 Officers

MARSH HILL — The Christmas meeting of Marsh Hill WMS was held at the home of Mrs. Leslie Finkle and Mrs. Frank Finkle with 11 members present.

Mrs. Farley Lindenfield, president, opened the meeting with a reading, "Prudence in the Parsonage".

After the singing of the hymn, "Angels From the Realms of Glory", the president led in prayer.

Mrs. David Little, literature secretary, gave the highlights from the December Monthly. Mrs. Searles, stewardship secretary, gave a reading, "Are We, As Women, Stewards".

The missionary for prayer for next year will be Miss Florence Ward.

Mrs. E. B. Finkle gave a reading, "Temperance Policy".

The members reported sending 17 cards and making 14 house calls and five hospital visits.

Mrs. Harold Detlor gave a full report of the annual meeting, and Mrs. Fred Campbell, the report of the nominating committee.

Mrs. Farley Lindenfield thanked all the members, and Mrs. Harold Detlor, "What is Christmas?" for accepting a place as leader from the study book.

After the benediction, the hostesses served refreshments.

The report of the nominating committee presided over by Mrs. Alvin Finkle; 1st vice president — Mrs. Harold Detlor; 2nd vice president — Mrs. Eric Clare; treasurer — Mrs. Leslie Finkle; literature secretary, Mrs. Fred Campbell; literature secretary — Mrs. Jack Little; stewardship secretary — Mrs. Bert Finkle; assistant supply secretary — Mrs. Frank Finkle; press secretary — Mrs. Leslie Finkle; Christian citizenship secretary — Mrs. Bert Finkle; community friendship secretary — Mrs. Alex Tanner; associate members secretary — Mrs. Vernon Mills; pianist — Mrs. Berson Mills; Mission Band leader — Mrs. Leslie Finkle.

Sr. Citizens S.C. Enjoys Yuletide Dinner

The annual Christmas dinner of the Senior Citizens' Club was held in the Recreation Centre on Tuesday evening and was a wonderful success, with almost 100 members and guests participating.

Mr. H. Scales, president, thanked the staff for their unproficient manner and the executive with the assistance of a volunteer staff, put on a delicious dinner.

After the introduction of the guests which included Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Downs and Mr. and Mrs. William Gault of the City Recreation Commission, Mr. Scales gave an interesting and humorous eulogy of his experience on becoming a member of this club. How he and his wife (both joined the club with the sole intention of finding a partner. They are the only couple belonging to the club that so far have been successful and after three years of married life they are both satisfied and proud of being members of this "social" club.

Mrs. William Gault then favored with two vocal numbers. This was followed by the showing of Christmas films, after which the president called on Mr. James Doyle of the entertainment committee to "Mc-Gregor" the group for the evening, with dancing.

The music was provided by Mr. J. Clement, as violinist, with Mrs. Sheila Reid as pianist, accompanist.

To say an enjoyable time was spent by all present is simply expressed at the party came to a close.

A hearty welcome is extended to all Belleville citizens who are 60 years of age and over, to join this progressive "social" club.

BGH Education Hall Resounds To Yuletide Joy

The assembly hall in the new Education Building at the hospital was the scene of a family gathering for the children, especially happy children, the nurses and members who are members of the Board of Governors; the doctors, the staff and the employees. On entering the auditorium with its decorations of balloons and bright tinsel, you were greeted with the sounds of boys and girls and the Spirit of Christmas was everywhere.

Led by a chorus of carolers, the children and their parents joined in singing Christmas hymns. There was an address by members, doctors, nurses, staff members and greetings back and forth across the room filled with good cheer. Everyone was a feeling of uniqueness in this gathering because somehow you sensed that she was fortunate enough to be mingling with people whose business in life was the business of caring, of healing, of giving of themselves for others; sharing a moment which was enhanced by the ill of children's voices and the purpose of adults to alleviate suffering with a smile and with the true meaning of Christmas spirit. Each and every Christmas gathering has its own inherent core and this was felt to the core of the spirit of the party in the auditorium of Education Hall. Everyone was close to the uninhibited happiness and each in his or her own way was not far removed from his affinity with the rooms and corridors of the hospital, he never ed so well.

Mr. Bouchard introduced Mr. Frank Domenico, the chairman of the Board of Governors, who spoke a few words of welcome to all. Two girls in red and silk costumes then presented a majorette delighted the children and a solo dance was enthusiastically done. Soon Santa Claus appeared and after a cold sight with his bundle of presents. His helpers indeed had arranged most of the gifts because his sleigh could not contain them all. Santa was also dressed to a boy or girl, the child of hospital parents and Santa Claus called each name out. As soon as Saint Nicholas of Christmas had distributed his bounty, the guests large and small in the dining room were treated to raisin bread, doughnuts, cookies, cracker jacks and cheese, ice cream, soft drinks and coffee.

One realized that Santa Claus was indeed a busy man because somehow he would find time to visit the hospital again on Christmas Day. The Board of Governors, the doctors, the nurses and staff would help him and some of the cheer, and of the spirit would be spread throughout the hospital on Sunday by these same folk who had made so many children happy this night. From all of those outside to all those who gave so much goes a sincere thank you' and the wish for a "Merry Christmas."

Mr., Mrs. Frank Gray Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

MARMORA — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gray, William Street, were "At Home" to around 100 of their friends and relatives on Sunday, December 18th, on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray were married in Madoc by the late Rev. R. Haworth, and a wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Bowen, in the immediate families. The following evening friends gathered for a dance and many gifts were received. The weather at that time was cold with a thaw over the fence posts.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray have lived their entire lives in Marmora Village where Mr. Gray was associated with the G. B. Airhart Lumber Co. for many years and also plied his trade as carpenter; he is now retired.

Their family of seven children were all home for a dinner at high noon. They are Mrs. Jim (Verna) Carl Deline, Hayes St., Marmora; Mrs. (Edith) Wilfred Beatty of Long; Mrs. (Joyce) Gerald Fox of Malone, and Everett at home.

Afternoon tea was later served to the many visitors, with the daughters serving and pouring tea. The table was centered with a beautifully trimmed cake. Floral decorations in the home were golden and bronze mums.

Mrs. Gray wore a blue dress of miracle silk with Sweetheart rose corsage.

The lovely array of gifts now in the room in which the couple are held, among which was noted a china cabinet to Mrs. Gray and a swivel chair to Mr. Gray from their children.

Guests from out of town were present from Napanee, Foxboro, Tweed, Peterborough, Havelock, Long, and Marmora district.

Congratulations were received from Frost, P.P.M.; Rod Webb, from P.M. J. Diefenbaker; Hon. Leslie Frost, P.P.M.; Rod Webb, M.P.; and from friends in Vancouver, Toronto and other places.

Christmas Day Especial One For Mr., Mrs. John Benham

PICTON — Christmas day is an especially auspicious one for Mr. and Mrs. John Benham, Sunset Ridge Apts. for they will mark the seventy-first anniversary of their wedding. They reside at West Lake, about five miles north-west of Picton. There will be no special [illegible] to present gifts and treats.

While Mr. Benham is not enjoying the best of health, Mrs. Benham who will be 92 in the January, is remarkably active. She does her own housework, washing by hand and various chores around the place. Mr. Benham is 96.

Residing with them in their home, Howard who is Mr. Benham's brother, Wilfred, who is 89, resides near by in his own home.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Benham have spent most of their lives in Prince Edward County. His mother lived to be nearly 102 years of age. They were married at Bloomfield and recall that the winter 71 years ago was a severe one.

Last year Mr. and Mrs. Benham were pleasantly surprised when they received messages of congratulations from the Queen and from Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Women's Activities

C. W. L.

DESERONTO — On Sunday afternoon the Catholic Women's League held their annual Christmas party for the children of St. Vincent de Paul Church.

The tables were beautifully decorated with small Christmas trees, candles and snowmen, and the luncheon was enjoyed by all the children.

The children sank carols, also poems were recited by some of the boys and girls. Mrs. J. Edwards, Jr., presided at the piano. Santa Claus came, as usual with a pack of candies and oranges for each of the children.

The ladies were thanked for [illegible] the children in the candlelight.

QUEBEC ENTERS PLAN

OTTAWA (CP) — Quebec has joined the federal-provincial program for training unemployed workers, Labor Minister Starr said Thursday. Agreement between the federal government and Quebec—last province to enter the plan—was reached earlier this week.

MORE TIPS ON BUFFET ENTERTAINING

Wouldn't it be wonderful if the spirit of good fellowship, so much a part of us all at this time of year, carried through year round? Everyone is so friendly, so eager to please everyone else. There's a feeling of happiness in the air and it is certainly contagious. On all sides you are greeted with a merry "Merry" or by for a Tom and Jerry or some eggnog anytime.

Because of everyone's wish to please others, I have had many requests from readers to enlarge on my column of last week about buffet entertaining. The chief questions seem to be how to arrange such a party inexpensively, and also a more definite idea of what to serve. Here are my further suggestions.

For the opening for Tom and Jerry) get-together, it is not necessary to serve sandwiches, or open your refrigerator for cold Christmas candies, the customary fruit cake or spice cakes and cookies are really all that should be served with these drinks. If you have a party to stop a table. Place several small plates and napkins at the front where the let people help themselves. Be sure to have some napkins handy as paper napkins will do for all informal gathering.

There are no set rules to follow in setting a buffet table, whether it be for a formal luncheon or supper. It's up to you to work out your decorations, which need not be elaborate or elaborate to create a very attractive effect. For example, the holiday motif may be carried out by using a white table cloth, and placing a centerpiece of poinsettias and holly and red candles at either side (in silver or glass holders). If space is at a premium, push the dining table up against a wall and place the decorations at the back of the table, leaving plenty of space in front for the food.

A coffee urn may be placed at one end of the table, balanced at the other end by a large bowl of eggnog, punch or hot spiced cider. A turkey, or ham, may be placed in the centre of the table. Either or both should be sliced ahead of time to save confusion, and make it easier for your guests to help themselves.

A hot casserole, perhaps of seafood, is a nice addition. A green salad and hot rolls can round out a simple, yet delicious, menu. To be really festive, after the table has been cleared, serve on the traditional plum pudding which you have set afire before placing in front of the master-piece.

Be sure to have the plates stacked at one end of the table, with forks and napkins before them, so the guests may pick them up before serving themselves.

Other suggestions: Have a place for your guests to sit while eating. For the small party, little mat tables beside chairs are ideal. At larger gatherings the guests may have to stand, but there should some place for to set things, like glasses, when eating. Clear the sideboard, or leave space on tables in the living room. Whatever you do, do something! Have plenty of ashtrays around. If you don't have a maid, to you a friend who will help you keep ashtrays empty, and used glasses cleared away. Most important of all, plan all these little details ahead of time, so you can enjoy your own party, and so your guests will enjoy it too!

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Question: Nowadays you run into paper napkins almost anywhere you go. Unfortunately, I seem to disagree with most of them with a little wad that is anything but attractive. What do I do with it? There never is a waste basket around, and it is really embarrassing to leave it on your plate. Should I put it in my pocket? — Mr. L. B., New Toronto.

Answer: Goodness, no! At times we are all faced with this problem, so you are not alone. While it may be unsightly, the only procedure to follow is to place the "wad" on the side of your plate, if it is being served buffet. If a seated meal, place it to the left of your plate where you leave the table, just as you would a cloth napkin.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family discussion presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counsellors and family counsellors.

Karin F. — I'm homesick. American women are so unfriendly.

Henri F. — She should be patient and learn to understand Americans.

Karin F. — My husband and I are from Denmark. He's been in this country six years, and is a teacher. I've been here four years. At first I worked for an airline, but I quit a year and a half ago when we bought a house in a large development. Our baby girl was born shortly after we moved in.

For the past few months, I've been longing to go back to Europe. I feel that I am a stranger. I'm alone from 8 a.m. to midnight most of the week, without a car, and far from transportation. My neighbors go shopping every day and when I ask them to take me along they said, "Some other time," but never do.

One of them invited me to have coffee with her and some others. I did, but they all hollered so loud I couldn't get into the conversation.

They only come over when they're expecting company, and then it's, "Thank you, I have to rush home." If I'm asked, I'm accepted. I want to go back among Danish women.

Henri F. — I want Karin to be patient. I know its hard for her stranded at home without the car. Perhaps she could get to the shopping center during the week.

On our weekends make up for it. She has only light marketing to do then. I pick up the groceries on the back of the table, leaving plenty of space in front for the food.

Big Decisions Loom in 1961 For U.S. Farming

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The year 1961 may be one of major decisions for U.S. agriculture.

It brings into power a Democratic administration committed to stronger measures to raise farm prices and income. The latter is running about 28 per cent below levels many farm leaders contend farmers deserve.

Without further government action, the new year probably will be about the same as 1960. Economists say production and marketing factors probably would keep U.S. farm income at this year's level of slightly more than $11,000,000,000. In the post-war period, it climbed to nearly $17,500,000,000.

The experts look for continued heavy sales and disposal of crops and livestock products abroad. They also foresee continued bumper crops, assuming of course the weather is normal.

MORE FOOD NEEDED

Farmers' incomes as a whole are expected to be somewhat higher for 1961 than for 1960, thus putting a firm foundation under the demand for food.

The new year, like its immediate predecessors, will bring additional technological advances. Farm families are expected to turn more and more to opportunities elsewhere to supplement incomes.

There is no letup in sight in the high cost of farm production. Tractors, harvesters and other farm supplies, are expected to hold strong in price. Farm wages rates continue to advance; so do taxes. These costs figure strongly in a levelling off of a long boom in land prices.

The year could bring new price troubles for the livestock segment of agriculture. Cattle numbers have been climbing to levels which already have weakened prices. A further decline appears likely this year.

Hog production is on a new expansion cycle. Lower hog prices are expected next fall. Lower egg prices also may be in store.

U.S. Hog Market Reversed Trend Of Previous Yr.

By GIL MAYO

CHICAGO (AP)—The U.S. market for butcher hogs in 1960 reversed its trend of a year ago but slaughter steer prices were lower until the final months.

Farmers switching rates slump about 30 per cent in 1959 to gain of $11.50 a hundredweight on average. U.S. hog breeders cut their 1959-60 fall and spring pig crops so sharply that the remedy began paying dividends almost immediately.

In 1959, the average cost of all barrows and gilts at the Chicago stockyards started off at $17.25 a hundred and steadily declined until it hit a low of $14.50 just before yearend.

In contrast, prices this year have sat at steadily until early August when they topped slightly higher before hit that peak again in October and November before settling.

Late in the year, low corn prices and higher hog prices touched off a feeding sale one of the most favorable for swine breeders in several years.

Except for a brief period last spring, slaughter steer prices generally were within a dollar or two of their 1959 levels. After topping at about $28.25 a hundredweight for the average price of choice grade steers in March, prices went into a slow and protracted general decline until October.

At their best this year, prices were about $2.50 under the 1959 peak, but the lowest level was more than $3 under the bottom a year ago.

CASTRO ADDRESSES SUPPORTERS — Premier Fidel Castro of Cuba gestures wildly as he addresses a crowd of supporters outside the Presidential Palace in Havana. Such speeches by Castro and government leaders, frequently referring to threats of foreign invasion, keep Cubans constantly stirred up. (CP from AP).

They Want Out

Cubans Would Walk Across Florida Str. if It Were 40 Miles Wide Instead of 90

By JACK BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HAVANA (CP) — A Havana businessman was driving down the wide, gently-curving thoroughfare called the Malecon which skirts this city along the Florida Strait.

"If that were 40 miles wide instead of 90," he said, gesturing in the general direction of Florida, "people would walk across it."

It was his way of illustrating how anxious many people are to get out of Cuba, a country seething with intrigue and kept stirred up by government-inspired reports that hostile elements abroad are about to launch an invasion.

In the last year, according to the regime's apparent drift toward Marxism and blame it for business stagnation and food shortages. Still others are fleeing because they think there is bound to be more bloodshed.

Among those who have left, well-informed sources say, are large numbers of professional men—people the country can ill afford to lose.

MANY RATESPEED

But while there is evident dissatisfaction among many middle-class Cubans the revolution is reaching the people it most wants to draw to its banner—the young and the very poor.

Their bubbling enthusiasm is brought home to anyone who visits a school, housing development or co-operative farm established by the Castro regime.

The feeling was summed up by a woman at the Sain Brothers co-op farm 100 miles west of Havana in Pinar del Rio province —named after two boys who died in the fight to overthrow former dictator Fulgencio Batista.

"Now we have everything, thanks to Fidel," the woman said. She was speaking in the living room of a neat three-bedroom bungalow, one of 120 homes built by members of the co-op with materials supplied by the government.

The farm produces tobacco. Residents say the homes will be paid for out of the co-op's annual dividends.

FIGHT ILLITERACY

Accomplishments in education are recognized. Schools are being built all over the island. It is said that 45 per cent of the population used to be illiterate; next year it is hoped the percentage will be down to five.

Former military compounds have been converted into education centres. One of these is "Liberty City" just outside Havana which in Batista's time was called Camp Colombia. Her military barracks have been turned into classrooms and several hundred children, most from poor families, are learning to read and write and to sing the glories of the revolution.

Critics of the government's programs say that increasing the amount of currency in circulation right per cent each month is a desperate attempt to finance ever-extended economic and social ventures is undercutting people's savings and savings.

Another criticism is that large numbers of small investors who put their money into real estate to ensure an income for old age have had their investments wiped out. The opponents doubt the ability of the government to reimburse such people through monthly remittances, as it has promised.

THE NAVY'S JUBILEE YEAR — The Royal Canadian Navy celebrated its 50th anniversary in 1960, and by a happy coincidence, the jubilee came when the Navy's strength in ships and men was at peacetime peak. Above are some scenes from the Navy's year: Top left: A St. Laurent class destroyer escort of the Second Canadian Escort Squadron is seen as she leaves Esquimalt harbor to take part in sea exercises. Top centre: Governor General George Vanier cuts a huge anniversary cake while Vice-Admiral H. S. Rayner, Chief of the Naval Staff, looks on. Top right: Marching columns of naval men proudly displayed their smartness and precision in jubilee ceremonies and parades: Centre: A special salute to the RCN is formed on the flight deck of the aircraft carrier Bonaventure by some 400 members of her ship's company. Bottom left: Ships of the Atlantic Command staged an impressive sail past in Halifax harbor during the 50th anniversary observances on the East coast. Bottom right: USS Burrfish, U.S. Navy submarine, is now refitting at Philadelphia prior to being transferred on loan to the RCN next spring. Slated for training duties in the Pacific Command, she will be renamed HMCS Grilse.

CELEBRATE FESTIVAL — A merrymaking troupe parades through Cape Town in the annual New Year's day carnival put on by South Africa's Coloured population. The 1,500,000 Coloreds, representing many generations of multi-racial mixture, have a social status somewhere between that of Negroes and whites. Plans for the January 1 carnival were dampened by a recent government order that the Coloreds must develop strictly separate from other races in South Africa. (CP Photo).

On Eve of Coon Carnival

Verwoerd Tells Colored People They Must Develop Aloof From Other Races

Brian Barrow is a South African journalist long experienced in reporting on the problems of his country, in this story he discusses the position of the mixed-race Colored population of the Cape Peninsula.

By BRIAN BARROW

CAPE TOWN (CP) — Ironically, the Verwoerd government's latest blow at the hopes of Cape Town's Colored people has come almost on the eve of their most joyous and carefree festival.

They were already preparing for the yearly Coon Carnival, which starts at dawn on New Year's day, when the prime minister announced that from now on they must develop on lines strictly separate from other races. Perhaps more keenly than ever before, the splendor of this year's carnival will highlight this tragedy.

There are 1,500,000 Coloreds in South Africa, the product of racial mixture for many generations among Afrikaners, Englishmen, Frenchmen, Malays, Hottentots, Africans and natives of India. Their social status is somewhere between the country's 10,000,000 black natives and 3,000,000 whites.

Always the approach of the new year has been highly important in the lives of the Coloreds. Thousands stream from their homes all over the peninsula and turn the streets of Cape Town into a brilliant riot of movement. They virtually "take over the city. Long processions of "Coons" dressed in silk as bright as the sun dangle and tumble through the streets to strumming banjoes and thumping tambourines. They do not break the color bar. Even drunks are careful not to pit on park benches reserved for whites.

FORGET TROUBLES

The word Coon, incidentally, as applied to the carnival, is commonly used and is not regarded as derogatory.

Every day for a week, the top-hatted revellers dance to breath-taking rhythms, as though to dance their troubles away. This gaiety is spontaneous. It is also sad. There is always the feeling that this hilarious abandon is the childlike optimism of an unwanted people hoping for reconciliation.

Here in Cape Town and in the surrounding districts of the western provinces the great majority of these people have lived side by side with whites for nearly 300 years, working in the orchards and vineyards and, excelling in many crafts and trades. They have adopted the white man's language, culture and religion. They are a completely Western, civilized people, as different from the Africans as are the Europeans.

The color they range from dark brown to European pink. Scores of thousands could pass as whites. Every year hundreds make pathetic efforts to cross the color line. Many are related to families who have white families. In any European country their assimilation would be a foregone conclusion. In South Africa the faintest touch of colored blood is still a grave social stigma, a mark of inferiority.

CHARMING PEOPLE

But the destiny of the Coloreds is irrevocably linked to that of the whites. By every possible standard, except that of skin pigmentation, they are an integral part of white society. Since the early days they have emerged a highly educated and talented Colored middle class: Businessmen, teachers, clergymen, doctors, lawyers, writers, artists, clerks, builders and artisans; producing an amazing charm and vivacity.

Recently the most august African parliamentary body in the Union, the Academy of Arts and Science, gave its highest literary award to the Colored poet, S. V. Petersen.

Colored writers and intellectuals are bridging to the gap in racial attitudes. Coloreds have excelled as members of Britain's Royal Ballet. Colored artists have made their impact. The finest opera company in Africa is the Zaon Group, an all-Colored company. Some years ago it refused a government subsidy rather than fulfil a condition that it not perform before mixed audiences.

The Colored people feel that the time for their social and political emancipation has arrived. They feel they have proved themselves; that only one barrier remains—the color of their skin, which they cannot help.

VOTE RESTRICTED

But ever since the Nationalist government came to power in 1948 with a mandate from the white electorate to implement apartheid, their rights and their hopes have been whittled away. They were removed from the common voters' roll, a right they held for a century.

Then the group areas act they have been forced to leave homes they have occupied for generations. They have been prevented by law from entering certain jobs. They have been embarrassed by laws that prevent mixed marriages and make love between white and Colored a crime. The latest blow in November when Prime Minister Verwoerd rejected Colored representation in Parliament and any form of integration. The prime minister said the only sort of new deal that could be considered must be along strict apartheid lines.

He followed this up in December by announcing that the Coloreds from now on would evolve on lines strictly separate from other races, with eventual local autonomy over their own areas.

The prime minister's uncompromising position has been welcomed by the extremist Nationalist supporters in the Transvaal and the Free State. But the more moderate Nationalists in Cape Province are openly shocked. Many of the Cape Nationalist leaders, especially the Afrikaner professors whose views carry enormous weight, have called for an end to political, economic and social discrimination against the Coloreds.

FATE ENDANGERED

The political future of Dr. Verwoerd and of the Coloreds now depends on the stand the Cape Nationalists will take. If they openly oppose the prime minister the break-up of the Nationalist party and the present government will be inevitable. But if they decide, for the sake of Afrikaner Nationalist unity, to give him tacit support, apartheid will be placed on an even firmer and more uncompromising basis. And perhaps the 100-year struggle of the Colored people for their freedom and self-respect will be lost.

Yet, ironically, another domestic victory for Dr. Verwoerd would make his policy of apartheid more vulnerable than ever. Apartheid could perhaps be justified in the case of the Africans who have their own homelands and whose backgrounds and stage of development are vastly different from the whites.

But to apply it forever to the Coloreds, who are a Western Christian people in every sense, would merely mean a declaration to the world that the whites in South Africa do in fact consider themselves a superior group destined to govern all other races in perpetuity.

It would destroy the moral basis the Nationalists claim for apartheid, for it would prove beyond all doubt that they consider color and not merit the criterion of human worth.

WELLINGTON

Men's Club Views Travelogue

WELLINGTON — The Men's Club of St. Andrew's Church, Wellington and Christ Church, Hillier, held its annual banquet recently in the town hall, Wellington.

A large number of men were present to enjoy the turkey dinner prepared by the ladies of St. Andrew's Choir Auxiliary, and to hear a most interesting illustrated talk by Dr. Slack, of Picton. The men sat down to a sumptuous dinner deliciously prepared and efficiently served by the ladies.

Walter Nicholls tendered sincere thanks to the ladies and observed that the obvious enjoyment with which the men ate, expressed more accurately than words, their appreciation of the ladies' efforts.

C. W. Mac Davern in a few well chosen words, introduced Dr. Slack, who spoke briefly on his itinerary through Europe. Beginning in Montreal, colored slides transported the viewers to Scotland, England, France, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Italy and Greece. Of particular interest was a series of slides on the famous, "Oberammergau, Passion Play."

At the end of the travelogue, Mr. Wilbur Young expressed the appreciation of all those present to Dr. Slack for an entertaining and informative talk.

Dr. B. A. Evans spoke a few words of welcome to the visitors who had come to enjoy the evening with the members.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, January 11th, commencing at 8 p.m. at the home of the president, King Terry, R. R. 1, Hillier.

Scoharie

SCOHARIE — "Whatever else be lost among the years,
Let us keep Christmas still a shining thing.
What doubts assail us or what fears,
Let us hold close one day, remembering
Its poignant meaning for the hearts of men.
Let us get back our childlike faith again.

Wealth may have taken wings,
Yet still there are Clear window panes to glow with tinsel star,
There are boughs for garlands,
and a star
To tip some little fir tree's lithel height
There is no doubt too heavy or too sad
But some small gift of love can make it glad.

There is no heart too heavy or cold
There are kind deeds and cheering words to say
Let us be happy on the Christ
Child's day."

Grace Nell Crowell.

What lovely words, may all take them to heart. Someone has said, "If everyone cared and everyone shared, everyone would have enough. How much one wishes that could be and that one could share his or her bounty with the less fortunate in other lands. At least one can do a little to cheer someone nearer home.

Christmas Tree Business Now Big in Canada

TORONTO — If your Christmas tree this year seems a bit greener and not quite so shaggy as in the past — and perhaps a bit more expensive — you can put it down to the fact that the cultivation and marketing of Christmas trees in Canada has become big business.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce, in its current Commercial Letter says that at wholesale Canadian Christmas tree sales last year announced to $9,000,000. Production is becoming more scientific and as a result trees are rapidly improving in quality.

About 18.4 million trees were harvested in Canada last year and just under 11 million were exported, most of them to the United States, but some went to Bermuda, the Caribbean and as far south as Venezuela. (A quarter of the trees sold in Montreal in 1959 originated in Canada).

The acceptance of conifers as a Christmas decoration, even in the tropics, appears to be so established that, the letter says,

Quebec and Nova Scotia lead the province in tree cutting — four million each last year. Three million trees were cut in British Columbia and two million in Ontario.

Ontario growers made more money per tree than growers in the rest of the provinces because of the large of number of "productions" and hence better quality trees. The average price to Ontario growers last year was 67 cents a tree while the national average was only 57 cents.

But the Christmas tree business appears paltry compared to another Christmas custom — the giving of toys. The Letter notes that the retail value of toys sold in Canada last year was roughly $200 million and Christmas sales account for almost 60 per cent of the total, or $120 million. About 55 per cent of the toys sold were made in Canada.

Toys intended for boys outnumber those for girls about five to one — the Letter adds.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sandercock and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Millar attended the Christmas party for the Couples Club of Grace United Church at Trenton on Monday evening, at the Miller hall.

Congratulations are extended to Sgt. John Linn and Mrs. Linn of Kingston, on the birth of a son, Richard Kenneth, on Saturday, December 10th, at Kingston General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Casey Ketchenson and Mrs. Florence Bell attended the funeral of their cousin, the late Mrs. Clifford Ketcheson, on Saturday, at the Bush Funeral Home, in Belleville.

CANDLELIGHT SERVICE

Mrs. George Bilham, Mrs. W. A. Jeffery, Mrs. Albert Jones, Mrs. Eric Jones, the Misses Wendy and Cindy Jones and Mrs. Norman Haywood of White's Church, assisted in the candlelight service, at Wesley United Church on Sunday evening, singing two anthems, "O Little Town of Bethlehem", and, "In The Night". Centenary choir also assisted in the fine pre-Christmas service. The church was tastefully decorated with evergreen, a red bow and candles at the end of each pew. The windows and the front of the church were illuminated with many candles and two lovely decorated trees stood on each side of the altar.

The friends of Mrs. Walter Jones and Mrs. Manchester Ketcheson will be sorry to learn that these two ladies are patients in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

The Rev. T. F. Townsend of Belleville, was guest minister on the Bayside charge on Sunday, owing to the illness of the Rev. Roy Rickard, B. A. His many friends hope that he will soon be well again.

The Misses Katherine and Christine Jones celebrated their birthdays together on Saturday, with their sisters Cindy and Wendy, their brother Dennis and Miss Dena Glydon as guests.

Mr. and Mrs. William Linn accompanied Mrs. Richard Kilcoran, to Kingston, on Saturday and spent the weekend with their son Sgt. John Linn and family. They also visited Mrs. Linn and baby, Richard Kenneth in Kingston General Hospital.

No Reliable Missile Warning System for Several Months Says Air Marshal Slemon

OTTAWA (CP)—North American will not have a reliable missile warning system for at least several months, says RCAF Air Marshal Roy Slemon, deputy commander of North American Air Defence Command.

He said Thursday in a statement issued here that the system began Oct. 1 its testing period of several months.

"Refinements will continue to be made to give the system's computer the capability to screen out all radar reflections which could possibly produce uncertain or irrelevant information and lead to possible false alarms."

The air marshal also said: "Reliance will not be placed on the information obtained from this system until it has been thoroughly checked out by extensive tests and until adequate experience has been gained with the capability of the system."

RADAR PICKS UP

Slemon's statement was prompted by a Canadian Press account of an Oct. 3 incident at NORAD headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo., in which the missile warning radar at Thule, Greenland, picked up 'registrations' — Slemon's word —from the moon.

Slemon said that in mid-afternoon of Oct. 3 the missile warning unit "commenced indicating an activity far out in space and the warning levels began to register."

"However, no alarm was felt by these to authority because the system was not registering certain important information which would indicate that the activity in space was similar to that which could be expected from ballistic missile movements through space.

NORAD, of course, is a defensive organization only and has no authority under the U.S. Air Force's bombers and missiles into action.

As Slemon said, such decisions "in all cases rest with the highest political sensibilities of the countries concerned."

TALKED WITH KUTEN

Slemon, occupying the "hot seat" at NORAD headquarters on Oct. 5, said he was in constant radio-telephone communication with NORAD Commander Gen. Laurence Kuter, then en route to Colorado Springs by air from an inspection trip.

Slemon said the information from the Thule radar was discussed with "NORAD's military superiors" in Washington and Ottawa and with headquarters of U.S. Strategic Air Command at Omaha, Neb.

The information did not result in an increased alert for either Strategic Air Command or the air defence system, Slemon said.

He was in voice communication with the Thule radar, "with the object of getting the maximum experience possible from this useful incident."

"The officials at Thule confirmed that they had definite radar returns from an object far out in space but that the returns did not conform to what would be expected from, ballistic missile activity.

NOT MOVING

"Specifically, there was no indication that the object in space was moving lower to the earth.

"It was quickly determined that the radar was more powerful and precise than had been hoped. In fact, it was necessary to cut add picking up registrations from the moon."

Slemon said the missile warning system "gives high promise of great effectiveness and reliability."

Further test periods will continue with the object of gaining complete knowledge and confidence in the system as a tool of air defence and to accomplish its priority learning task in the overall systems on which the Canada-U.S. commander depend in making their assessment of the air situation."

Twin Sister To Give Kidney As Present

BOSTON (AP)—A 12-year-old Canadian girl got court approval Thursday for a very special Christmas gift—a kidney—to her critically ill twin sister.

Massachusetts Supreme Court Justice Arthur E. Whittemore approved a petition authorizing a kidney transplant operation on Lana and Johanna Nightingale of Belsbeach, Man.

Under Massachusetts law, court approval for such all operation is necessary for protection of the doctors who will perform the surgery at Peter Best Brigham Hospital.

Johanna is the twin, who since the age of seven, has spent months in Canadian hospitals, suffering a serious kidney ailment.

Their mother, Mrs. Agnes Wynegaarden Nightingale, said in the petition which the court approval of the surgery:

"It is the wish of great emotional impact upon Lana if this operation is not performed, and of Johanna also."

Lana's Christmas gift to Johanna will be a little belated as physicians plan the operation sometime during the week following the holiday.

Lana and Johanna arrived in Boston Dec. 7 from their small native town, after local doctors found they could do no more for the ailing girl.

Both recommended the kidney transplant which has been performed frequently and with possible success at Peter Best.

UNDERGOING TESTS

Since then the twins have been undergoing various tests and their mother, quartered in a Boston hotel, has visited them daily.

Their father, John Nightingale, is a bakery salesman. He requested a petition to care for the other children, Alda, 11, Sandra, 9, and Robert, 2.

Nightingale, a Canadian veteran of the Second World War, resettled in Belsbeach in Shoal land.

Mrs. Nightingale said part of the expense of the very costly operation will be paid through a special kidney grant applying to kidney transplants.

But funds for travelling expenses were raised by neighbors; the Red Cross; the Kinsmen, a fraternal group, and the Canadian Legion, in a specially named "Nightingale fund."

New York Times Not Happy With Action

NEW YORK (CP)—The New York Times says that Canada's move to check the flow of United States capital investment into Canada "is unfortunate at the time has come to readjust American investments abroad not only to the American balance of payments but also to the political sensibilities of the countries concerned."

The influential newspaper states in an editorial that following British protests over the American Aid Act Motor Company's bid for a complete takeover of the British Ford, "Canada now appears to have embarked on a policy of discouraging a further inflow of capital, principally American capital by eliminating capital tax incentives."

The editorial says U.S. investments abroad "have now reached proportions and a pace that begin to cause concern on two counts.

"One is that, while these investments earn approximately $2,500,000,000 a year, at least $1,000,000,000 is retained for reinvestment and the rest, even if it were transferred to this country in full (which it is not), merely equals or exceeds the dollar inflow of private capital investment. The second is that the outflow of dollars to run at $2,500,000,000 a year,

"Is not serious in the long run more serious consideration is quite apart from Communist propaganda about 'dollar imperialism,' the influx of American capital seems to cause disturbing ripples abroad about a possible 'over - foreignization' of foreign domination, of a country's economy, or, as in Britain, of certain branches of it.

"These misgivings have been especially pronounced in Canada, where American capital controls one-half of the country's manufacturing industry and more than one-half of its total industry."

Skilled Workers Of Civil Service Get Pay Boost

TORONTO (CP) — Pay increases ranging as high as $840 a year for up to 600 skilled tradesmen in the Ontario civil service were announced Thursday by Provincial Treasurer Allan Lawrence.

The boosts will apply to bricklayers, carpenters, electricians, machinists, masons, mechanics, painters and decorators, plasterers, plumbers, sheet metal workers, steamfitters and welders with journeyman standing. The changes are retroactive to July 1, 1960.

Under the new schedule, a bricklayer whose salary range is $7,320-do $3,000 annually will get $4,200 to $4,400 a year. Corresponding increases will be granted to sheet metal workers, carpenters, machinists, masons, plasterers and steamfitters.

Solidarity in International Affairs Good Servant, Bad Master

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

When an alliance such as NATO virtually chains itself to the ideal of solidarity, difficulties are bound to arise.

Like so many other excellent qualities, solidarity in international relations is a good servant and a bad master. No one would question the need for unanimity on the basic principles that hold the western powers together but there is no point in trying to find unity on lesser issues where none exists.

The minor furore that arose over External Affairs Minister Green's speech in Paris last week provides an object lesson.

TOOK EXCEPTION

Briefly, what happened was that the Canadian minister said a few things at the annual meeting of NATO's ministerial council to which some of his colleagues took exception in varying degrees and a certain amount of discussion arose.

Paul-Henri Spaak, NATO's secretary-general, omitted all reference in the matter from his statement to the press at the close of the three-day private session, obviously anxious to banish any suggestion of disharmony in the ranks.

Inevitably, there were leaks, however, the report got abroad that the meeting ended on a note of acrimony, with almost everyone taking a shot at the Canadian in the course of the talks.

Piecing together the versions of those in the room, it remains difficult to determine the degree of heat engendered by the dispute, and it is possible to conclude that a dispute existed and to get some idea what it was about.

BOOST FOR UN

Green, a relative newcomer to NATO but a longtime participant in the work of the United Nations, is a passionate believer in both organizations and urged NATO members to work more energetically to promote their common cause in the larger body.

To such nations as Belgium France and Portugal, stinging from recent rebuts at the hands of UN majorities that occasionally included fellow - members of NATO, these sentiments were not particularly welcome. Others, noting that the Canadian had mentioned no names, felt themselves unjustly rebuked.

In the resulting recriminations, the point of the minister's remarks was overlooked. His speech specifically urged that the idea of a NATO bloc, bowing to a common line on all issues, but looking rather to a free association of allies making common cause of their determination to resist Communist domination.

The resulting debate probably did no harm.

FIGHT OVER WOMAN

TAIPEI (AP) — Two grandfathers battled over a woman Wednesday. Chen Chun - chang, 64, went to hospital with knife wounds and other injuries. Police are looking for his rival, Chen Tu-ko, 63. The woman is a widow in her 30s.

Phone Worker In Philly Gets Halifax

HALIFAX (CP) — How's this for getting wires crossed?

Allison Cox picked up the receiver when his telephone rang.

"Who's this speaking?" someone asked.

"It's Al Cox."

"Al Cox . . . where are you?"

"Ten Green Street."

"Where's that?"

"Halifax."

"Halifax — where's that? I'm in a manhole in Philadelphia and I'm a line cable."

The pair 'passed compliments of the season and hung up.

Cape Hatteras Said Graveyard Of Atlantic

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C. (AP) They call it the graveyard of the Atlantic, the space of brutal sea that flows past this historic peninsula.

Fierce storms and lashing winds have been responsible for countless wrecks and sea disasters similar to the one Wednesday which saw the freighter Pine Ridge break in two. There are 29 known survivors of the crew of 37.

Author - historian David Stick, who lives in the area, recorded 648 vessels lost along the North Carolina Coast from 1526 through 1945. There have been many more since.

The warm Gulf waters and air currents which flow sometimes as close as 20 miles from shore are the cause of violent weather, he explains says.

There are many shifting sand bars and strong currents in the area. The hot gulf air mixes with the cold air from the shore causing frequent commotion in the atmosphere.

Wife Is Held

CROSS LAKE, Out. (CP) — Thomas Coulas, 39, was killed Thursday when shot through the head as he slept in his home here.

His 39-year-old wife is being held for questioning by provincial police. Cross Lake is a small community 120 miles west of Ottawa.

Police said Mr. Coulas, a truck driver and the father of four, was shot in the head with a .22 calibre rifle.

HALTS FOAM

TORONTO (CP) — Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. announced Wednesday it will cease production of pure foam rubber because of competition from synthetic substitutes.

Truman Says Gen. McArthur Wanted to A-Bomb China During the Korean Conflict

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Truman says that Gen. Douglas MacArthur wanted to bomb China and eastern Russia during the Korean conflict. MacArthur terms Truman's assertion "completely false".

Both men are in New York. MacArthur resides here, and Truman arrived Wednesday to spend the holidays with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Daniel.

The controversy was touched off by Truman during a television interview last Saturday night in Chicago. The transcript of the program became available Thursday.

Irv Kupcinet, Sun-Times reporter, moderator of the program, had asked Truman if, when he was president, he had been under pressure to unleash the atomic bomb during the Korean War. He said Truman replied:

"Yes. MacArthur wanted to do just that. He wanted to bomb China and eastern Russia and everything else."

MacArthur issued a statement Wednesday night in part:

"Any statement such as that attributed to Mr. Truman that I ever advocated the use of atomic bomb in the Korean War is completely false.

"The records are available and will show that atom bombing in the Korean War was never discussed either by my headquarters or in any communication to or from Washington.

"The allegation that I contemplated . . . action against Siberia or areas not directly within the field of operations is equally fantastic."

Truman told Kupcinet:

"I recalled him (MacArthur) for disobedience of orders. He was in private contact with the Republican minority leader in the House of Representatives, Joe Martin (of Massachusetts) and had been warned that the commander-in-chief was still the commander-in-chief.

"MacArthur was just another general as far as I was concerned."

Commented MacArthur:

"It is equally untrue to say I disobeyed any orders."

"Our failure to win the Korean War was a major disaster for the free world."

Russians Ready to Improve Relations With United States After Kennedy Inauguration

— Gromyko

MOSCOW (AP)—Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko said today the Soviet Union is ready to improve its relations with the United States following the inauguration of President-elect John F. Kennedy.

Gromyko told the Supreme Soviet parliament that his government hopes U.S.-Soviet relations after Kennedy's inauguration will revert to the state they were in during the administration of Dwight D. Roosevelt. He hope previously expressed by Premier Khrushchev in a cable last month congratulating Kennedy on his victory.

"The Soviet government expresses its hope that the present unfavorable situation soon will be cleared," Gromyko said. "This could help by 100 times the solution of many problems now unsettled.

"I am authorized to state that on the part of the Soviet government there is full readiness to promote the all-around betterment of Soviet-American relations."

REVERSES SITUATION

Khrushchev was on the platform as Gromyko reviewed the international situation and Soviet foreign policy for the joint session of the Supreme Soviet.

An expected foreign policy speech by Khrushchev did not come. But the session ended following unanimous approval of the premier's foreign policy.

The Supreme Soviet is due to meet again in the spring. The premier leader, who has been down with a bout of influenza, has made no speech. The Supreme Soviet since it opened its sessions four days ago.

Gromyko's review—lasting an hour and 45 minutes—was a rehash of previously-stated Soviet positions. He gave no indication that Soviet policy would be modified to improve relations with the United States.

Once more he blamed the Eisenhower - Nixon administration for the present state of affairs.

He called again for a special summit session of the U.N. General Assembly in the spring on disarmament and attacked the Western powers as "opponents not only of disarmament but also of control over disarmament." He claimed that all neutral states now support the Soviet demand for speedy complete disarmament.

Gromyko repeated Soviet accusations that UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and his representatives in The Congo are "accomplices of the colonialists." He called for "putting in order the structure of the United Nations bodies," in reference to the Soviet demand that Hammarskjold's control of the UN secretariat be replaced by a Communist - Western - neutralist triumvirate.

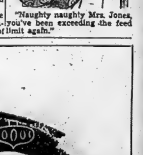
"Well, what d'you think of them?" asked Joe, pointing to the four tables, each with its square top newly surfaced in wee square tiles. "I just finished the job."

Ted examined his friend's handiwork. "Very neat," he commented. "I see each top has six fewer tiles on the side than the next larger one."



"That's right, and all the tiles are identical, replied Joe. "They were the top of a hideous old relic. It was square too, and luckily the tiles were all there and I broke none."

Having just the right number was quite a coincidence. But how many was that?

Fleming Wants To Meet Bennett On Power Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — A personal meeting between Premier Bennett of British Columbia and Finance Minister Fleming is being proposed to clear away Columbia River "misunderstandings," informants said Thursday.

A letter by Mr. Fleming is going off immediately, asking to meet Mr. Bennett at the latter's convenience — something Mr. Fleming said Monday in the Commons he was willing to do.

In another facet of Columbia development, Justice Minister Fulton gave reporters a detailed but restricted restatement of the federal case in its dispute with the B.C. government. It contrasted with his answer two weeks ago in Victoria when he tried unsuccessfully to reach Mr. Bennett.

Mr. Fulton said he hopes that a long - term treaty with the United States will be ready for government approval before President - elect Kennedy sets into the White House Jan. 20. He still hoped work could begin in 1961 on the $438,000,000 Canadian program.

Mr. Bennett is at odds with Ottawa on two counts in preparing for the self-liquidating Canadian program of hydro and flood control benefits on the Columbia, which rises in southeast B.C. and flows into the U.S.

He has spurned a federal loan of $172,000,000—half the cost of three storage dams — and said B.C. will cover the whole cost if necessary. He wants an outright grant.

He has also accused the federal government of seeking to achieve control of a provincial resource.

May Take More Than 50 Yrs. For St. Lawrence Seaway To Begin Paying Its Way

By ALEXANDER FARRELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—It became apparent during 1960 that it may take more than the expected 26 years for the St. Lawrence Seaway to pay for itself. But officials expect business to perk up during 1961.

The cut in imports of iron ore by Uhite States steel companies was a major reason why traffic on the inland waterway did not meet expectations for the second year in a row.

Preliminary statistics released by the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority show total cargo tra-ffic in 1960 amounted to 16,000,187 tons to the end of October. In 1959 the April-October figure was 18,140,816.

It was touch-and-go whether the 1959 total of 20,960,000 tons would be surpassed when figures for last November are released in late January or February.

Economists originally estimated that the seaway's business would approximate 25,000,000 tons in 1959; 29,000,000 in 1960 and a break-even level of 30,000,000 by 1962.

FIGURES DISCARDED

These estimates went out of fashion after 1959 but they had been the basis of the forecast that the seaway would pay for itself in 50 years. It cost $450,000,000.

Shipping officials here are of the opinion the estimates were over-optimistic and they are not alarmed about failure to meet them.

R. J. Rankin, seaway president, said in Ottawa his 1960 season was "most satisfactory."

The main factor in failing to reach expectations in 1960, he said, was a decrease in iron ore shipments. Heavy iron ore is a main bulk commodity moving through the seaway, any fall off in it is reflected in the overall picture.

On the 1961 outlook: "We're going ahead with winter works projects designed to increase the efficiency of transits through the seaway and we are most hopeful that the 1961 navigation season will be the best yet."

Montreal harbor officials expect an increase in trans-shipments in 1961 mainly because ocean shipping companies lack vessels of the type that can use the seaway conveniently. This situation may change in 1962 because several shipping firms are building ships especially for seaway use.

NEW OFFICIALS

The seaway came under new management in both the U.S. and Canada during 1960.

Mr. Rankin was named third president, succeeding B. J. Roberts. Lewis G. Castle, first administrator of the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation, U.S. counterpart of the Canadian authority, died in June and Martin W. Osterhagen, his deputy, was named acting administrator.

Little light was shed in 1960 on the possible long-term effects of the seaway on the port of Montreal.

The preliminary estimate of the port's cargo tonnage this year is about 17,500,000—level with that of 1958 and 1959. Main basis for confidence in the long-term prosperity of the port is the steady expansion of metropolitan Montreal, Canada's largest market.

Cargo tonnage downbound increased during the April-October period to 9,787,316 compared with 8,202,864 in the same period last year. This, however, was offset by the drop in upbound tonnage down to 8,233,621 from 8,957,146.

CANADIAN ARMY IN PEACETIME — The Canadian Army during 1960 continues to serve for the cause of peace in many parts of the world including the Congo, Kashmir, North and South Viet Nam, Cambodia, and the Middle East. The Canadian Army also maintains a Brigade Group in Germany serving with the NATO Land Forces. These overseas commitments have seen a total of approximately 67,000 troops serving outside Canada in the last 10 years. British Police Brainwashing In Lonely Cells

By BORIS MISKEW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — An Inverness gating committee has found that forms of brainwashing are used in lonely cells in Britain's police stations.

The 10-member legal body, in a report, calls for changes in methods used by police to obtain statements from suspects. Findings will be submitted to the Royal commission on police.

"Those of us who practise in the criminal courts are aware of the milder forms of brainwashing," a lawyer, acting as spokesman for the committee, told a press conference.

Brainwashing sometimes took place soon after a suspect reached a police station. The spokesman, who remained anonymous because he was expressing views on behalf of colleagues and because of professional etiquette, described the most common methods.

First the suspect is interviewed by a tough officer. Then he has to wait perhaps five hours alone in an empty room. Finally a kindly officer appears with a cup of tea, cigarets and fatherly advice. The spokesman added:

"These techniques are the technical niques of brainwashing in miniature and are centuries old. The Inquisition used them and they are to be deprecated.

"I think it is not an uncommon practice for the police to alternate periods of fear with periods of isolation, and follow them with periods of reassurance."

The brainwashing techniques are of little value, however, on the wealthy businessman who has enough sense not to start talking unless his lawyer is present and on the hardened criminal who refuses to say a word.

Lawyers do not regard the obtaining of convictions as the end of criminal justice, said another lawyer, and the sooner most police officers take exactly the same view justice will be better served and more guilty people will be convicted.

"It is common experience among those who practise in the criminal courts to infer that juries often acquit people who are guilty because they do not think they have been treated fairly by the police."

The lawyers agree the 24 hours that the police have before they must bring a man into court in Britain is not long enough for complete brainwashing.

But they quoted a psychiatrist who made a special study of brainwashing as saying that it is possible within 24 hours to brainwash a suspect into distorting the truth in a way beneficial to the police and detrimental to himself.

"We are not suggesting that any officer sets out to induce an innocent man to confess to guilt," added the spokesman. "But they (police) may believe a man to be guilty who is not."

BUSINESSES DESTROYED
SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) — Fire destroyed a two - storey building housing three business establishments and two apartments Thursday on the western outskirts of Sherbrooke. Fire Chief Percy Conahue estimated the loss in excess of $100,000.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

HODGE-PODGE

Three youngsters of the Algoma Contractors juvenile club of the Sault Ste. Marie league have set a scoring record. They scored four successive goals in 63 seconds. The forward line of Bumbacco, Grasso and Bazzanelli netted all four markers without assistance of their defence mates . . . The record beats that listed by the NHL when the Rangers scored a quartet in 2.57 minutes on December 26, 1943, Reggie Abbott, Steve Flatley, Ralph Hamill and LaPorte . . . Wiener Brown has scored two hat-tricks since joining the Clinton Comets . . . Young hopeful asked the old man the definition of a hignicl and was told "A fellow who loves not wisely but TWO well."

In reference to that "letter to the editor" re minor hockey bitch documents the 1906-61 Ontario Minor Hockey Association constitution and by-laws. "Every player in any series of the Association must file with the registrar an official document issued by the Registrar-General's Department of the province in which he was born, indicating the player has not attained the age limit as set out, to wit, the first day of August of the season in which he intends to compete . . . The OMHA insists on registered birth certificates, not personally written certificates of birth . . . This department's thanks and appreciation to Carlings through Messrs. Fred Roland, Norman Costello, Bill Neuno and Elmer Hardy for the invitation to their highly enjoyable press party. . . .

Gary Schreider Christmas cards that playing for and winning the Grey Cup was the biggest thrill of his life to date. Make it two in a row, m'lad . . . And thanks to Tommy Masseros for that very, VERY original holiday greeting . . . Brandon writer opines Belleville has so much chance getting junior "A" hockey as a dodo bird laying a dozen eggs . . . Heard a yarn the other day of a business man who fired a couple of Christmas chinchillers but good. It seems they bounded him for a turkey or so. He wined 'em and dined 'em meanwhile saving to it that two turkeys, chickens, ducks, etc., were placed "alive" in the luggage compartment of their car. When they arrived in Toronto and investigated they were met with a whiff of wings. One turkey was captured out of the fowl. They also paid money for cleaning fluid to restore the luggage to a presentable appearance.

Terry Sawchuk of the Red Wings is fed up with part-time employment. "Trade me or sell me" is what Terry wants Detroit to do . . . Quite a turmoil developed in the Victoria Arena the other day when manager Dukie Dutkowski and all the help rampaged . . . Cordie Howe's young sons have lost the most of his puck souvenirs. "I used to have the 200th, 400th assist, things like that," he said. "But my kids take them to play with and I never see them again."

Former McFarland Rosser Mair had a try-out with the Cleveland Barons recently, so did Bob Forhan . . . It's an ill wind, Jean Paul Lauzon of Montreal and Clinton Comets defence, no end, and Wayne Brown has sparked the attack."

The pros are beating pains to the doors of retired Al Rollins, Hank Goldup, Jackie McLeod and Billy McNeill, but the boys are giving them the brush-off. Ole rockin' chair and road jobs look better than chasing and slapping pucks . . . Rumors have made the rounds Lou Fontinato for Dicky Duff or Johnny Bucyk. Appreciation to Moe Bennett and Floyd Crawford for their colorful Ontario Knights Christmas cards . . . Carrier to the Maple Leafs Reg Kelly and lovely wife Andra. What do you suppose the couple have named their new son? Keadry? "Cheap" . . .

And many thanks to those who remembered this department with holiday greetings through cards and other media. Just a reminder to the chap who sent us the Christmas cheer, Please, next time send one with contents included.

Wins National Slug Title

CINCINNATI (AP) — Frank Robinson's batting average and home run output declined in 1960 but the Cincinnati Red outfielder still won the National League slugging championship, official averages confirmed today.

However, his batting average was only .297 as compared with .311 in 1959. He had 31 home runs in 1960 and 36 in 1959.

Tie Blues For Fifth

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Coach Mill Schmidt's hopes of getting his Boston Bruins rolling in the National Hockey League race have been given a boost.

Schmidt, assisted by the Boston management he was in no danger of being fired despite the Bruins' poor showing this season, set a target for the team before a game Thursday night against the Chicago Black Hawks—to be in fourth place, or close to it, by early January.

The Bruins, playing on home ice, scored early — two goals within 37 seconds in the first period—and coasted to a 4-2 triumph over the listless Black Hawks.

The win pulled them into a third-place tie with New York Rangers and within seven points of the Hawks, who are in fourth place. Chicago now has 30 points, New York and Boston have 23 each.

The sagging Black Hawks have only been able to get one victory and three ties in their last 11 games.

SCORE IN FIRST

Andre Pronovost, recently acquired fro mMontreal Canadiens, and defenceman Aut Erickson started the Bruins moving with the quick goals—in the first period which each team was playing one man short.

Schmidt was given what amounted to a vote of confidence by Bruins' general manager Lynn Patrick Wednesday.

"Sure we're disappointed the way things have been going," Patrick said in discussing the plight of the team which had won only six games in 30 starts. "But you can't blame him (Schmidt)."

HOCKEY LINERS

Schmidt immediately set about juggling his lineup and then said:

"If we're lucky and they (Chicago) don't gain any ground and we can help ourselves, we can close the gap between us by New Year's Day."

Hawks and Bruins have another game coming up against each other — next week in Chicago—on New Year's Day.

Boston's Fern Flaman and Chicago's Ab McDonald were in the penalty box when Pronovost and Erickson scored.

Pronovost let go a 25 - footer which caromed off a Chicago defenceman and into the net behind Glen Hall at 5:30. Sixty seconds later Erickson let go a long drive from the point which caught the lower corner of the net.

Willie O'Ree, the Negro prospect in over play in the NHL, assisted on both goals. It was O'Ree's eighth game in junior hockey and his first points.

Balfour put Chicago back in the game with his 13th goal of the season four minutes later but Boston opened up another two-goal lead before the period ended. Labine got on passes from Charlie Burns and Jim Bartlett.

Boston went ahead 4-1 at 1:56 of the third period on Toppazzini's goal. Balfour's second tally of the night came at 10:41 of the last period.

Set March 20 as Date

Floyd, Swede Will Fight In Miami

NEW YORK (AP) — Promoter Jack Fogarty said Thursday heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson would defend his title March 20 at the Miami Beach Fla., convention hall against ex-champ Ingemar Johansson.

Fogarty, managing director of Feature Sports Incorporated made the announcement at a press conference after a meeting of the board of directors of the corporation that promoted the second Patterson-Johansson bout last June 20.

William Fugazy, president of Feature Sports, returned Thursday from a trip to Sweden where he conferred with Johansson. He brought with him a statement by the ex-champ which gave the promoters permission to name the site and date.

HALL HOLDS 18,000

The Miami Beach hall holds 18,000. It would be needed for the 200,000 capacity with tickets ranging from $100 down to $25.

Dan Driscoll, a lawyer who is secretary of the corporation said there would be an announcement within two weeks about the division of ancillary rights from closed circuit TV, movies, radio and foreign rights. Each fighter will receive 25 per cent of the live gate.

This will be the third bout between Johansson and Patterson. The Swede floored Patterson seven times and stopped him in 2:06 of the third round in a tremendous upset, June 26, 1959 at Yankee Stadium in New York. Patterson, younger boxer ever to win the title when he beat Archie Moore in 1956 at the age of 21, became the first man to win it back when he knocked out Johnson in 1:31 of the fifth round last June 20 at New York's Polo Grounds.

FAVOR PATTERSON

Patterson has been made a 3-to-1 favorite for the third title bout.

This should bring a big smile to Ingo's face, since the betting choice in this rivalry has been knocked off twice.

Patterson was a 5-to-1 choice to win the first fight, when the big Swede, then unbeaten, blitzed Patterson.

A year later Johansson was a 7-to-5 favorite but before Patterson knocked him unconscious.

Johansson already has expressed confidence in his ability to regain the crown. He even told Bill Faversham "I am no contender" for another fight this year in the United States.

Drop Paddling Slap in Face Says Coach

TORONTO (CP) — Jim Moorman, coach of Canada's 1960 Olympic paddling team, Thursday termed the decision to drop paddling from the 1964 games as "a slap in the face."

"This comes as a big surprise," said Moorman. He said the Japanese had told him and representatives of other countries unofficially that paddling would be included in the 1964 games at Tokyo.

Three other sports were dropped from the 1964 program —the decision yesterday of the IOC and handball—and volleyball and judo were added. The Japanese said the discarded sports have little popularity in Europe or Asia.

"The screams from Europe are going to be loud and long," Moorman said. "Paddling is a growing sport in Europe and the countries were eager to have the sport on the Olympic program."

23 NATIONS COMPETED

Twenty-three countries competed in paddling in Rome in 1960. We needed 25 nations to be automatically in the Olympic program. When 23 nations are competing, it's amazing that the sport isn't popular.

"This is a major setback for paddling in Canada. Our boys always had a berth on the Olympic team to shoot for. Now we have to think of something else as an incentive. We'll probably compete in the world paddling championships in Germany in 1962 if we can raise the money to send over a team."

Ken Farmer, president of the Canadian Olympic Association, said in Montreal that Canada will be opposed to any proposal to drop canoeing from the 1964 games.

Ole Archie Has 20 Days Or Else . . .

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York State Athletic Commission received a challenge from Jacksheques and challenge for Archie Moore's world light-heavyweight boxing title Thursday and notified the champion that he has 20 days in which to reach agreement with a challenger.

The $2,500 cheque and challenge came from Erich Schoepner, West German's European champion. Previously, Doug Jones of New York had challenged Moore and deposited the 500 forfeit money.

The National Boxing Association has stripped Moore, from San Diego, Calif., of his title for failure to defend it in a six-month period but he still is recognized as the ruler in New York state.

Score Was 3-0

Czechs Blank Maroons

PILSEN, Czechoslovakia (CP)) Winnipeg Maroons, outplayed in almost every department, lost 3-0 decision to Pilsen Spartaks Thursday in the opening game of the Czechoslovakian exhibition hockey tour.

The 11,000 hometown fans had plenty to cheer about as Spartaks, top team in the standings of Czechoslovakia's best hockey league, displayed a sharp passing attack that paid off for a goal in each period.

Both clubs played cautious hockey in the early stanzas of the first period. But at 6:05 a pretty Spartak pass pattern set up wingman Haber right in front of the Canadian net and he slapped the puck home to make it 1-0.

Spartak team captain Vachov netted the other two goals for the Pilsen club. Both of them were from close in.

Maroons, overcoming their early caution, played better as the game progressed. But they were unable to get many shots on the Spartak net because of the fine work by the Pilsen defence.

Maroons goalie Gerry Collins playing with little practice after a two-year retirement was outstanding for the Canadians and drew repeated applause from the crowd for his fine work.

Coach Gordon Simpson of Maroons gave Spartaks full credit for the victory. "They outhustled us and their passing was perfect."

Wings Whip Petes 6-3

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Red Wings, riding the hottest streak this season in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series, Thursday night whipped Peterborough Petes 6-3 to carry their unbeaten string to nine games.

A four-goal outburst in the second period provided the margin for a win that lifted Hamilton into third place in the series with 22 points, one behind the idle second - place Toronto St. Michael's.

PHILADELPHIA (CP)—Green Bay Packers will pit power runners Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung against the passing of quarterback Norm Van Brocklin of Philadelphia Eagles Monday in a bid for the National Football League crown.

The 3 o'clock (EST) kickoff at the Franklin Field stadium will be carried on the CBC television network starting at 11:45 a.m. (EST).

It could be the last game for the 36-year-old Van Brocklin and Eagle coach Buck Shaw, 61, both of whom have announced their intention to retire.

Van Brocklin, a 13-year NFL veteran, and Shaw, who has been coaching for nearly 40 years, quit out of retirement to join the Eagles in 1958 and guided them from a last-place finish that year to the eastern conference crown this season.

FAVOR GREEN BAY

Green Bay has been established an early 6-to-5 favorite on the basis of the ground liner and the running of Taylor, a 215-pound fullback from Louisiana State University who finished second in rushing during the regular NFL season, and Hornung, also a passing and place - kicking threat who finished seventh in rushing and set a league scoring record with 176 points in 12 games. Some observers favor the Eagles on Van Brocklin's precision passing.

Shaw is hoping for a dry field because he feels a muddy or icy field would be advantageous to the Packers.

The weather bureau said it probably will be a chilly day with temperatures around 30 degrees above zero.

HE SET RECORD MARK

Hornung set the league scoring record with 176 points on 15 touchdowns, 15 field goals and 41 converts, surpassing the previous mark of 138 set by Don Hutson of Green Bay in 1942.

Van Brocklin is virtually the Eagles' entire offensive attack. The former Oregon great who played in four championship games during his nine seasons with Los Angeles Rams finished second in the league in touchdown passes (24), total yards gained (2,471) and average gain (8.70 on 135 completions in 284 attempts).

In Green Bay, Wis., Packer coach Vince Lombardi said the boys will follow his script in the big game. But he declined to spell out definite strategy. It is no secret that the Packers will rely heavily on running and ball control.

It will be the first meeting between the two clubs for the title. Green Bay last won the championship in 1944 by defeating New York Giants 14-7. The Eagles did it last in 1949 with a 14-0 victory over Los Angeles.

Daily Double Winners Defy Uncle Sam

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A bonanza $2,347 daily double at Tropical Park horse track Thursday produced defiance of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service's directive that pari - mutuel ticketholders must identify themselves to collect on tickets worth more than $600.

Twenty - one persons held tickets on the winning combination of Patricia's Shoe ($181.20) in the first race and Regal Ryder ($30.90) in the second. Two winners agreed to identify themselves. Seventeen declined, and got paid anyway. Others didn't at once cash their tickets.

A track announcement advised racegoers of Federal requirement, but said Florida Attorney-General Richard Ervin had told the park could not legally refuse payment on any winning ticket whether or not the holder would give his name.

Picks Italy To Win Davis Cup

SYDNEY (AP) — Professional heavyweight Pancho Gonzales today picked Italy to win the Davis Cup and warned that Mexico may replace the United States as tennis king of the Americas.

"Now that Barry MacKay and Earl Buchholz have turned pro, I think Rafael Osuna of Mexico is the best amateur in the American zone," the swarthy Los Angeles star said in an interview.

"Osuna is capable of winning both his singles matches against anyone the U.S. can put up. That gives Mexico a big edge in the Americas zone competition next year."

In advancing the challenge round starting here Monday between Italy and Australia, Gonzales said: "I am sticking my neck out and saying Italy will win either the best-of-five series 3-2 or 4-1."

T-Birds Trim Wolves 6-2

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Sault Thunderbirds increased their second-place margin Thursday night by beating Sudbury Wolves 6-2 in a game that was delayed 20 minutes by a free-for-all.

Referee Vern Buffey called 74 minutes in penalties, most of them following the third-period rhubarb. Defenceman Bob Wilson of Thunderbirds got a fighting major and a game misconduct while defenceman Leo Amadio of Wolves got two majors and a game misconduct. The same scrap brought a major to left winger Merv Kurpiuk of the Sault and milder to teammate Guy Brassard and Cleland Morrison of Sudbury.

Kurpiuk scored two goals for Thunderbirds, Jim Pavelich, Ed Lochor and Milan Marcetta got one each. The scorer came on rookie Cliff Schmautz, his 20th of the season.

Sudbury scorers were Ken Girard and Amadio.

A crowd of 2,304 watched the game which was tied 1-1 at the end of the first period and saw no scoring in the second.

MONTREAL (CP)—If the Sam Etcheverry football trade is shaping up for court action, Dink Carroll, sports editor of the Montreal Gazette is convinced the deal is already a flop.

"Almost any lawyer in town will tell you that if Sam wants to pla ycotball in the United States next season, he can. G. Sydney Haller to the contrary notwithstanding," says Carroll Thursday in his column.

"Mr. Haller is a lawyer, but he is also the commissioner of the Canadian Football League. When he says that Sam can't play for a club in the National Football League, he is speaking as the agent of the Canadian Football League and not as a lawyer."

In the mid - November deal Etcheverry and end Hal Patterson were traded to Hamilton Tiger-Cats for quarterback Bernie Faloney and defensive lineman Don Paquette.

Carroll emphasizes a clause in Etcheverry's contract whereby Sam couldn't be dealt off to another club without his consent.

The trade "was a breach of contract which terminates Sam's obligations to the Alouettes and makes him a free agent."

"It's a cinch bet that any court here or in the U.S. would arrive at that decision.

"Now Mr. Haller declared that Sam can't sign with a club in the U.S. unless and until the eight eight clubs in the Canadian Professional Football League have waived on him.

"In other words, he didn't belong to any one team; he belonged to the league. What's going to ask waivers on Sam? The Alouettes? The Tiger - Cats? Neither club now owns his contract.

"If Mr. Haller were right, Sam would wind up with the Saskatchewan Roughriders who would have first claim on his services by virtue of finishing in last place in the western division of the CFL.

"The basic fact to remember is that the Alouettes breached the contract with Sam by failing to live up to its terms. If the case were to go to court, the court would never lose sight of that fact."

Carroll says it's true Sam has been approached by a number of clubs both in the NFL and the new American Football League.

Senior Hockey

STRATHROY (CP) — Strathroy Rockets moved into fifth place in the Senior Ontario Hockey Association League with a 5-0 victory Thursday night over Woodstock Athletics.

Ed Lochhead, making his second start with Rockets, turned aside 34 shots to register his first shut - out since being borrowed from Ingersoll Marlands for last Saturday's game against Stratford Indians. The Indians protested his appearance to the OHA.

GROWING PROBLEM — Unemployment ranked as the top domestic problem in Canada in 1960 and is expected to hold that position for most of 1961. Graph shows Canadian unemployment from 1953 to 1960 as a percentage of the total labor forces. It reached 10 per cent in the winters of 1958 and 1960. At the end of this year, with the nation facing what could be the worst winter for unemployment in 15 years, nearly seven of every 100 workers were without jobs in Canada. (CP Newsmap.)

Unemployment Will Remain Canada's Top Home Problem For Good Part of Next Year

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) —Barring war or an unexpected spurt in the economy, the swollen ranks of the unemployed will remain Canada's top domestic problem for a good part of 1961.

That's the outlook as 1960—bad year for jobs—draws to a close.

Toward the end of the year the federal government stepped in with what it called a "vigorous" attack on the problem which is a deep - seated, painful, public symptom of a more general economic ailment gripping North America.

It moved to set up a productivity council, a 25-man body of all the experts on efficiency, to prod and push Canada's productive talent and, as a result, to open up more jobs.

It also offered a carrot to the employers to build more schools to prepare workers for the automation and speedier-moving processes with the federal purse paying up to 75 per cent of the capital costs for vocational schools.

With municipal workers' program, new loans to small business, more generous unemployment insurance benefits and legislation, the government moved to inject new life into the economy.

THEIR JOBS NOW

The parliamentary opposition found the measures commendable but nevertheless criticized them as not tackling the immediate trouble, not doing enough to uncover new and ready jobs for the jobless—600,000 in November—who faced an uncertain winter.

There was still some question as to exactly who the unemployed are, why they can't find jobs, where they live. A special Senate committee put a small team of researchers to work on the problem and some of the answers are emerging at the year's end.

Thirdly, another jet, Prime Minister Diefenbaker summoned leaders in industry, labor, commerce, finance and trade, as well as others, to a conference on unemployment. Main result: The productivity council plus a better idea of what people are thinking and proposing on the jobless issue.

The government also tossed out the old two-standard measure of unemployment, coming up with a new yardstick that has for the first time official sanction. It measures people without jobs and seeking work, plus those who are laid off temporarily, on JUNE and MERRY MONTH.

By this new standard, 647,000 were unemployed when the year ended. At its seasonal point, in June, the figure was 315,000. In November, 6.8 per cent of the total work force of 6,458,000 were out-of-work. All signs pointed to an increase in the total before the situation became better, as the growth of the labor force outstripped the number of new jobs created by the economy.

And with higher unemployment, there were fears that the unemployment insurance fund—the kitty that provides help to out-of-work people—would dry up. It dropped below $300,000,000 in mid-1960—under the safe level, said a special business-labor advisory team.

But the throne speech opening the fall session of Parliament the government promised measures to strengthen the fund and indicated action to invest those contributions in a way that would, often illegally.

Not the problem of the fund and unemployment itself seemed to be wrapped up in a bigger argument, a recession slowing Canada's over - all growth. The solution to this involves international trade, monetary policy, taxation, even the weather.

The chief accent appeared to be moves to bolster demand. For Trade Minister Hees, this means pushing Canadian sales abroad. For Worgi Minister Walker it means more money, easier terms for home-building. For Labor Minister Starr this means retraining.

Labor suggested more government spending, deficit financing be necessary, in order to prime the pump, to get the economy rolling ahead once more.

Business sought more incentives to commit capital to new plants, lower taxes to free money for investments, a better interest rate, a lower premium on the Canadian dollar.

Now Jerry Lewis Film, To Open Sunday After 12.05

As if the world weren't topsy-turvy enough, Jerry Lewis takes an old reliable like the age-old favorite legend Cinderella and turns it into a film story called "Cinder-Fella." Technicolor star - studded comedy with music, which is tailored to his inimitable talent and which will arrive Sunday, midnight, December 25th, after 12.05, at the Belle Theatre.

Produced by Jerry Lewis himself for Paramount, "Cinder - Fella" co-stars Ed Wynn as the fairy godfather, Judith Anderson, as the wicked stepmother, Henry Silva and Robert Hutton as the mean stepbrother and Anna Maria Alberghetti in the role of "The Princess". As is immediately obvious, only the stepmother retains her original sex, but there are many other changes in this modernized version of the old fairy tale.

When CinderFella goes to the Ball he does some fancy stepping to the music of Count Basie and his World Renowned Band, which features the singing of Joe Williams. And he doesn't get there in any kind of a pumpkin transformed into a coach. No Sir! His bicycle is miraculously changed into a $75,000 custom-built automobile of pearl exotica and 24-karat gold trim, equipped with every known electronic marvel — except imaginable. CinderFella never had it so good! And movie fans will agree that Jerry Lewis never had a better frame in which to display his particular brand of hilarious comedy than "CinderFella". The regular engagement begins on Monday at the Belle Theatre, showings on Monday begin at 2.00; 7.00 and 9.05.

Visitor Has Hard Time Finding Out About Christmas

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—'Twas the night before the night before Christmas, and all through the night the visitor could find no indication of what the celebration was about.

He walked along the marble-fronted building of Beverly Hills, their windows ablaze with candle and silver. Crystal chandelier lamps of Wilshire Boulevard were brightly lighted with pictures of choristers, reindeer and santas in a chimney. Judging from these, the season might mark some pagan fete.

TV cowboys just off the range were filling their sports cars with gifts. The choice was vast. At Uncle Bernie's toy emporium, parents could buy their kiddies a six - foot stuffed dinosaur for $350 or some singing toy bords for $60, including cage.

SELL A CAVIAR

At the Gourmet, late shoppers could pick up fresh Iranian caviar at $4 the ounce or a delicatessan (138 ounces) of French champagne for $75 ("The bigger the bottle, the better the wine.") or, for those with a big appetite, there were baby bees, chocolate-covered ants, buffalo meat, quail eggs, rattlesnake (diamond back, of course), alligator soup, fried grasshoppers, mice meat.

The visitor wandered into the drug store at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel. It was also equipped for the outpouring of dollars. Five pounds of Sloen could buy a man's hair brush (sailwood, wild boar bristles), $450 a solid gold compact.

"We don't sell many compacts because they're in bad taste," explained a salesgirl. "But we do sell some of the brusher; they're a nice gift for the man who has everything."

The visitor failed in his quest until he left the brilliant lights behind and started over the Cahuenga Pass. High on a hill above the pilgrimage theatre, he discovered a white neon cross that gave him a hint of what the celebration was for.

DIVORCE AT HOME

At the Gourmet, late shoppers could pick up fresh Iranian caviar at $4 the ounce or a delicatessan (138 ounces) of French champagne for $75 ("The bigger the bottle, the better the wine.") or, for those with a big appetite, there were baby bees, chocolate-covered ants, buffalo meat, quail basis.

He has such definite ideas on his job. In fact, he has drawn by a list he calls his "ten commandments." These include:

Understand what you are saying—rarely know what message the sponsor wants to get across.

Never forget the importance of the "off-camera" performance—it's your company in private life as well as public.

Simplicity is the highest form of art—in personal appearance, in speech, even in what clothes as background for the product.

Be confident — viewers' confidence in you will be in direct proportion to your confidence in yourself.

MUST REHEARSE

Be prepared—rehearse, check your props.

Make the other guy look good —arrange questions, think behind-the-camera people, and make sure they get full credit.

Stick to your style—stay with it, approach it with right for you. You're not an actor portraying different roles but a specific individual visiting people's homes.

It's not a bad list of suggestions for any ambitious businessman.

TRAVELLING STAGE

A revolving stage will be sent to Toronto's O'Keefe Centre from England for the Mermaid Theatre's production of Treasure Island, beginning Dec. 28.

TV 'Personalities' Making Big Money in Commercials

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the more lucrative sidelines of a television "personality" is making an occasional commercial. Just this week the agent for a broadcasting figure asked—and got—$10,000 for his client in exchange for one short commercial, plus additional payments for each re-use of the film.

Among the biggest moneymakers in television are the comparatively few top professional salesmen with contracts to represent a few large companies. One pleasant-faced, smooth-voiced young man earns $75,000 a year just as the spokesman for a gasoline company, and he has two or three similar contracts.

Rex Marshall, an easy-mannered, genial man, is a pioneer member of this charmed circle. He has been a top TV salesman for 13 years, and is on his ninth year as spokesman for two non-competitive companies, his second year with a third.

IT'S A CAREER

To Marshall, being a company spokesman is a career. He attends conventions and sales meetings of his companies, tours their factories, meets their employees and considers himself the company's representative on a round-the-clock and calendar basis.

He has such definite ideas on his job. In fact, he has drawn by a list he calls his "ten commandments." These include:

Understand what you are saying—rarely know what message the sponsor wants to get across.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Saturday, December 24

General Tendencies: Today and tonight are certainly adverse for good arguments, accidents resulting from taking chances and for yielding to a desire that is present to make sudden and dramatic changes and to upset present conditions. However, the night finds you able to raise your consciousness to a higher level by focusing your thoughts on the Messages brought by the Prince of Peace.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Before lunch, it is best you do more for others instead of expecting too much for yourself. Be sure during the remainder of the day that you forget any grievances or own shortcomings and live in the spirit of tomorrow. Be happy.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Put aside that private worry that could spoil this day for you and believe that the Prince of Peace can truly save. Be reflective and go about your duties calmly. Evening can be full of love and happiness. Don't gamble in any way.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Have an opportunity now for some real accomplishment by using originality in your energies. But steer clear of that smooth operator who wants you to appear in the wrong light while reaping the profits. Be diplomatic and quick.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — While you want to be of real assistance to those highest-up you admire, you cannot do this successfully if you are in an unorthodox fashion. Plan your activities and follow the accepted rules — remember that form is very important.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — If you follow the teachings of Christ now, you will become, as a Leo, a very powerful personality who will be an inspiration for others. Be charming with everyone and help them to overcome their shortcomings.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Don't follow your intuition today or tonight, since it is apt to be erroneous. However, you are fortunate in having a good friend whose influence will be sufficient for you to be very productive and happy during the holiday.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Associates could spoil this day for you by telling you of their worries and problems. Remain them by giving straight-from-the-shoulder advice instead of babying them. Be strong.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Make a good impression upon whoever seeks help from you and teach them how they, too, can be independent in the future. Give in a spirit of generosity and humility and be sure you control your temper. You will receive blessings.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — You are desirous of enjoying yourself today, but beware of being befriended by others in the ideal way to start the day. Don't be extravagant in party-giving, etc. Then all is fine. P.M. retire in prayer.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) — Generosity with those with whom you abide is important today. Also, concentrate on whatever will insure security in your future. Have a day of living the Golden Rule, don't let it simply lip service.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Imperative you control your temper today and tonight and be careful while out shopping or there can be an accident. Lastminute buying can be quite dangerous, so be sure you take yourself in hand early, then all is well P.M. have fun.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — While you may be tempted to be extravagant in buying gifts today simply to outdo the other fellow, remember that it is the spirit of giving that counts, not the cost of the article. Important you insure security now.

If your child is born today . . he, or she, will be one of those blessed youngsters who can envision the very highest in life. So, be sure you give the very best of education and religious training to fit your progeny for work in important circles, whether in government, the church, the satellite or executive or educational fields. Be understanding and disciplinarian, too.

CHILD FOR ADOPTION

RONALD is a husky nine-year-old Roman Catholic boy from whose racial background is Indian, French and English. Black-haired, brown-eyed and carb-complexioned, he is described about his foster parents as: Ron is healthy, has a pleasant disposition, is well behaved. A permanent home is badly needed for Ron. He is in good health, likes to play out of doors, ground, love him and both take a real interest in him.

If you think you could offer Ron these kind homes, and are interested in adopting him, please write to:

Winnipeg has a permanent string of decorative lights across sections of downtown Portage Avenue and Main Street. Some of the lights turned out earlier this week to sing Christmas carols at the Winnipeg Civic Auditorium.

Cabarets and nightclubs will observe regular Saturday hours there Christmas Eve, but beer parlors for men only are allowed to close at 6:30 p.m. if they give advance notice.

In all cities, police will crack down on drunk and impaired drivers. Toronto police have a special "tavern squad" which had arrested some 290 drivers on drunk and impaired charges by Thursday.

Listen Well And You'll Make A Good Spouse

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Listening as an art, spare service and two - headed worms attract the attention of experts.

LISTEN MY CHILDREN

Does your family listen to good listeners or likely to be good spouses, parents, leaders and business men?

So says Prof. Wendell Johnson, speech authority of the state University of Iowa, who calls effective listening an art and a main reason for marriage. Principal faults in our listening habits, he adds, are:

We listen too much in a self-defensive way, fearful the speaker may disturb our accustomed attitudes and beliefs; we pay too much attention to the speaker and his symbols of authority, or lack of them; we translate his language into the language we would use to say what he has to say.

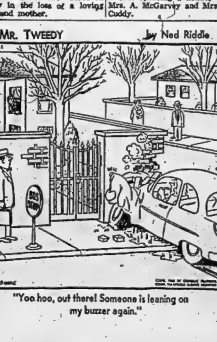
SPACE SERVICE

Medical reports on a manned space ship when something goes wrong would be like "performance of a Stradivarius on a rusty stilshire." Time would be precious, and no mistakes permissible, says Hallm Ockapian, space psychologist at Republic Aviation Corp.

Astronauts can't land for repairs or medical attention, he said. And, knowing they had to act quickly, they might err in making a psychological handicap affecting their reactions.

So Ockapian suggests establishing robot service stations located on earth. Then, a spaceman would have electronic communication with Chimmy-Man all details about all operations of the space ship. They could make quick diagnoses of any troubles from clues radioed by the astronauts, then give instructions for repairs, or would tell the crew to bail out aboard emergency escape craft.

THAT EXTRA HEAD



Having two heads rather than one leads to faster learning, at least among flatworms.

That conclusion by remarkable powers of regeneration, so Dr. Ross Adey, Kincaid and University psychologist, created two-headed worms by surgically dividing the worms' head and letting two develop.

Subjected to learning tests, it proved to respond to an electric shock when it turned from one of the two - headed flatworms "learned" faster because they had more total brain cells because they had four eye spots and could perceive light better.

Advent Wreath Best Known Of Old Customs

By JULES LOH

NEW YORK (AP)—How many shopping days remained when it came to pass that Mary and Joseph went from Galilee to the city of David to be enrolled?

The question sounds specific enough — which points up the problem: determining precise, especially parents, who are anxious to stress religious aspects of the Christmas season in a world dominated by commercialism.

Fortunately there are a number of customs—ages old, most of them—which capture the imagination of children at home as much as the window display's downtown.

Perhaps the best known is the Advent wreath. Similar to it is the Advent house. Both teach the liturgical significance of the days leading up to Christmas.

The Advent wreath probably had its origin in the pagan fire wheel, used in pre-Christian times to celebrate the month of Yule in December.

In the 16th century the Lutherans and others generally adopted the ancient custom to the Christian season of Advent. The practice spread among Protestants and Roman Catholics throughout many country, and German immigrants brought it to North America.

The wreath consists of a circle of evergreens fastened to a hoop, with four, or with a four - candled standing upright on the rim.

One candle is lighted on each of the four Sundays of Advent in early morning ceremony accompanied by appropriate prayers or hymns. During the final days before Christmas, all four candles burn, mindful of the coming of Christ "the light of the world."

Advent houses have a similar custom, with the added element of suspense.

The general silhouette of a house with four windows takes the place of the wreath and its four candles. Behind each closed window is a picture or liturgical quotation bearing on Christmas or one of the many symbols of the Christ Child found in the Old Testament. Each Sunday a window is opened, with a lesson on the message it reveals.

Many Advent houses from a Latin word which means "coming," and refers to a penitential period of preparation for the coming of Christ.

The Yuletide custom now is practised in many North American homes—and often has better effect on children's pre-Christmas behavior than the notion Santa Claus is watching them.

For each good deed, or act of kindness, the children put, or place a wisp of straw in a tiny manger.

By Christmas morning when, behold, a figure of the Christ child appears in the manger, the infant should have a nice, soft bed.

Frankford Pilot Joins Flight At Langar, Eng.

LANGAR, Nottinghamshire, England — Providing a vital supply link between 38 Air Material Base here in the English midlands and other RCAF Air Division units on the Continent and the Island of Sardinia, is a small airline which has built up an enviable record since its formation eight years ago.

This aerial connection is provided by 137 Transport Flight, whose five Bristol freighters shuttle supplies to the four fighter wings in France and Germany as well as the Air Weapons Training Unit in Sardinia.

Formed here in 1852 as a quick and efficient supply channel between 30 AMB and other RCAF Air Division formations, it has since carried some 30,000 passengers and more than 30 million tons of freight.

A pilot from Frankford, Ont., who recently joined this flight is Flight Lieutenant Kenneth A. Anderson, 37, son of Mrs. Dorothy C. Anderson of Frankford.

Four scheduled flights to the Fighter Wings and one to Nice Idnia and Pisa, Italy, are completed weekly by these five aircraft. In addition, every third week, either two or three Bristols are used to rotate groundcrew personnel and equipment of the fighter squadron operating at the Air Weapons Training Unit in Sardinia.

The Bristol is designed for freight carrying, and its nose-opening cargo permit easy loading. A dismantled Sabre jet fighter can be stowed within its capacious cargo hold, as well as other unwieldy pieces of equipment.

While flights to the Continental Wings and Sardinia are regularly-scheduled, this air transportation flight is often called upon to provide "special" airlift, carrying Canadian officials here to Athens, Greece, and Istanbul, Turkey.

Ready and able to fly almost anywhere, anytime, 137 Transport Flight has continuously proved itself over the past eight years, and should an RCAF aircraft become unserviceable at any of the many NATO airfields of Europe, chances are that 137 Transport Flight would be called upon to take a Bristol with the necessary equipment, to its assistance.

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — A perplexed German immigrant couple Wednesday sought the return of their five children who were committed to an institution Tuesday after they were found living in a Zulu hut with the family's Negro servant.

The children, a nine-year-old girl, a boy of seven and a girl of three, were taken from the home by police and committed by a court to an institution "where children in need of care."

Their father, Victor Niedermayer, a teacher who emigrated from Munich several months ago, said Wednesday that the case "nothing wrong in allowing my children to holiday with their nurse in a Zulu hut."

"We wanted our children to have a holiday in the open. The hut is perfectly clean and the children looked sunburned and fit when we visited them last weekend. . . We planned to fetch them home on Christmas Day."

The Johannesburg newspaper Die Vaderland said the discovery of children "in a Bantu hut . . . has caused an upheaval."

The paper said the welfare department would decide whether legal action would be taken against the parents under the Children's Act.

Mr. and Mrs. Roly Jackson and Dawne returned to Oshawa on Sunday. Mrs. Jackson had been a visitor for the past week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Petherick. Mr. and Mrs. Ted Grills and family, Belleville, were also Sunday guests with her parents.

Sunday School Lesson

As Luke Heard the Story

By ROY L. SMITH

No story ever told among men has ever been provided of so much art, so much music, so much theology and so much controversy, as the one Dr. Luke, the young Greek physician wrote to his friend "most excellent Theophilus" (Luke 1:3). In explanation of the title of the Christian faith.

Dr. Luke's contribution is the story of the birth of Jesus. He was not present, but he was called to attend a stranger in the city of Troas who was suffering from an attack of a recurrent illness to which he was subject. Sometime, during his illness, the stranger found time to tell his young doctor about the annunciation person and work of one whom he called Jesus.

Several years later, while accompanying the stranger on a trip to Jerusalem, in the course of which his patient became involved in a religious riot, the young physician had a chance to get the story from first hand sources, and sometime later he incorporated it into a little book which he sent to his distinguished Roman friend (who may have been his sponsor at one time, when he was getting his medical education).

At any rate the account of the first Christmas, as it appears in the Gospel according to St. Luke New Testament (called by Renan "the most beautiful book ever written") is the story as Dr. Luke heard and believed it.

When Theophilus began reading the story, as it was written to him by his young friend, Dr. Luke, he probably said to himself, "This is strange! the story of a number of nobodies."

As a highly placed Roman official, Theophilus must have wondered that the principal actors in the drama were recruited from among the most inconspicuous and the least important people of the land.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for December 25:, GOD'S GIFT OF LOVE," Luke 2.

Strangely enough, Dr. Luke does not seem to have known the names of any of them except those of Joseph, the carpenter, and his wife, Perhaps that is because of the fact that he was a physician and not a journalist. A good reporter would have had the names, the initials, the street addresses and the phone numbers of the shepherds, the inn keeper, the wise men, the owner of the oxen and the asses in the stable, and he would probably have secured in addition, an interview with the stable-boy and with two or three of the chief guests. Certainly he would have had a pictures of the mother and the baby. As it is, we have only the story as a young doctor heard it and used it on.

A SAVIOR IN SWADDLING CLOTHES

Not the least strange and unexplained part of the story is that the shepherds were told to go to Bethlehem to find the New-Born Babe and that they might make no mistake, they were told that they would find Him "wrapped in swaddling cloths."

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lefort and family motored to Smith Falls on Sunday, to bring little Dawn home for the Christmas holidays.

Crofton

CROFTON — Mrs. E. Crook was a guest of her sister Mrs. Charles Haight and Mr. Haight, at Belleville, on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grey, Bill and Gordon of Deseronto were Saturday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Grey and family and also called on his mother, Mrs. W. J. Grey and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lefort and family.

Miss Gertrude Walmsley, of Picton, spent the weekend with Mrs. Vickie Bongard.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Crook spent Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Adams at Redneckville, in honor of Mrs. Adams' birthday.

Mrs. W. J. Grey was a supper guest of her son and family Mr. and Mrs. John Grey on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lefort and family motored to Smith Falls on Sunday, to bring little Dawn home for the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. George Hobson is spending the Christmas holiday, with her sister Mrs. Patterson, at Burlington, and Mr. Hobson will be with his daughter and family Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sharp at Roslin.

Nothing could have been less expensive than the story of the birth of a son to a peasant maid, but nothing could have been more amazing than that this child, lowly born, should be acclaimed as the savior of the world.

Even by the time Dr. Luke wrote the story for his friend Theophilus new had died in defense of their faith in Him. And not the least astounding fact about the whole affair was the recruitment of thousands of Europeans as His disciples.

Here and there in an occasional congregation there was to be found some person socially and economically important in his community. But for the most part the converts were coming from the lower social classes in the empire — fishermen, dock workers, the dispossessed and the unlettered.

As if to confirm everything the angels had said about Him, the Christians who called Him Lord were, nevertheless, giving abundant evidence of the fact that God, through Jesus Christ, was making new creatures of them.

The promise of a Savior of the world in swaddling clothes was the most preposterous than that the poor of the world should suddenly become rich in the inspired and the transformed.

The story as Dr. Luke heard and told it has become the greatest story ever told.

Tax Increase Bills Passed By Que. House

QUEBEC (CP) — Two tax increase bills effective Jan. 1 became law in Quebec Thursday night.

One reduces the personal income tax exemption to $2,000 from $6,000 for married persons and to $1,000 from $1,500 for single people. The other raises the government's take on succession profits to 13 from 10 per cent.

The increase on personal income, approved through a stormy seven-day debate in the legislative assembly, earlier was feared headed for a blockade in the legislative council, the provincial upper house, where the Union Nationale opposition has a majority.

The council approved the increase on division, meaning the opposition was not in favor of the increase but did not insist on a vote. The legislative assembly approved it by a final vote of 39-20.

WORLD UNITES TO MARK CHRISTMAS EVE

Canadians Head Home To Enjoy White Christmas

Pre-Noel Fling of Office Parties Soars to Climax

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadians headed home on Christmas eve to enjoy a quiet Christmas Sunday with their families at church and by the traditional hearth.

It will be a cold, white Christmas for most of the country, the perfect setting as Santa—sometime after midnight — parks his reindeer and team on the roof, chimney to fill the stockings which will bring joy to so many children.

Fitting the hectic pre-Noel fling of office parties soared to its dizzy climax, while today shopping centres made a last frantic bid to buy the just-remembered gift in crowded department stores.

Airlines, trains and buses carried people to join distant relatives and friends for the Christmas, but traffic began tapering off today after Friday's record clip.

The end note, however, was added by a grim forecast by the Canada Safety Highway Safety Council that 32 Canadians will die in highway accidents during the Christmas holiday. The prediction was based on past experience, weather and the law of averages.

Early today the traffic toll began to mount as darkness began to come in of accidents on slippery, icy roads. Police patrols were reinforced in most areas and a crackdown was ordered against drunk drivers.

However, the Christmas spirit was much in evidence in the Lake Ontario northshore communities of Bowmanville and Port Hope, where local branches of the Royal Canadian Legion offered to provide a free taxi service home for drivers who felt the Yuletide cheer had got them internally or externally.

Canadians who plan to eat their turkey and plum pudding away from home included prisoners at jails where a Sunday meal is laid.

And 76 dancers, musicians, stage crew and wardrobe personnel of the National Ballet of Canada will have their dinner in the clouds when the troupe's wastes of Northern Ontario on their way to a Monday night engagement in Victoria.

OFFICIAL'S SON DEFECTS

BONN (Reuters) — Guenther Schwesser, 27, son of Hans Seigewasser, East German Communist Germany's secretary of state for cultural affairs, has fled to the West for political reasons, The West German Social Democratic party announced today.

GOOD TO BE HOME — Doctors said Angelica Kuester, 5, might not survive a rare tumour of her right eye, but an operation in Sweden apparently was successful. Thursday, Angelica flew back to her Calgary home in Western Canada, with her mother and father, sister Gabriele, 4, and girlfriend Ilse Stiffel pausing to greet her. She was gone five months and now speaks only Swedish. (CP Wirephoto).

Prime Minister Says Cuban Trade Will Continue

SASKATOON (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Friday that Canada's effort in maintaining mutually beneficial economic relations with Cuba "may help and contribute to the resumption of traditional relations between Cuba and the Western world."

For Canada to restrict exports of non-strategic Canadian goods to Cuba in conformity with the United States embargo would be "to impose a stricter control on trade with Cuba than we have with the countries of the Sino-Soviet bloc," he said in a prepared statement.

The prime minister issued the statement to reporters when he arrived here Friday by train from Ottawa to spend Christmas with his mother and brother.

Canada, he said, will not permit export of strategic and military goods to Cuba and no pressure will be given to export to Cuba any commodity of United States origin.

Baby's Stepfather Facing Charge Of Murder

TORONTO (CP) — A two-year-old baby died Friday in his home of injuries inflicted by beatings over a period of several weeks, police said.

Homicide detectives said the little boy died of a brain haemorrhage following beatings so bad that gangrene had set in. The boy's left arm was broken and the middle three fingers of the right hand were nerveless.

Police said the injuries were inflicted by hand and with a stick and belt.

Young, an unemployed former employee of a rubber company, had been supported since October by the boy's mother, who works as a sales clerk in a downtown department store. He married the woman in July.

Police said Young had been looking after the boy, fed him his meals and put him to bed at night. Mrs. Young said she was unaware of the child's condition because he was always sleep by the time she returned home.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Arctic weather will continue to grip Ontario. Temperatures fell to 10-15 degrees below zero the night in some points in southwestern Ontario, while in Northern Ontario early peaks reported temperatures 24-29 below. Skies are generally clear except for cloudy periods with snowflurries near the Great Lakes. Cold weather will continue today and there will be snowflurries in southern regions. On Christmas Day a little milder weather in southern and central regions will be accompanied by occasional light snow.

CONSERVATIVES WILL NOT MISS CHAS. VAN HORNE

'Dissatisfied Tory' Resigns N.B. Seat

OTTAWA (CP) — Word of the resignation of rambunctious Charlie Van Horne, self - styled "dissatisfied Tory," Friday, hit a capital depleted of most political fans by the Christmas holiday.

"No comment," said External Affairs Minister Green, acting Prime Minister while Prime Minister Diefenbaker visits Saskatchewan. Mr. Diefenbaker said the same thing at Saskatoon and so did Allister Grosart, national director of the Progressive Conservative party, from his home here.

Opposition spokesman were less restrained about the member for New Brunswick's Restigouche-Madawaska riding since 1956 byelection, unabashed critic of his own party.

"I don't think Mr. Diefenbaker will be sorry," said J. W. Pickersgill, Liberal front bencher from Bonavista — Twillingate. "After all, he was the man who said in the last election campaign that Parliament needs 'my friend Charlie'."

"I'm sorry to see him leave," said CCF Leader Hazen Argue. Charlie was the one Conservative

Royal Family Leads Exodus Of Londoners to Countryside

LONDON (CP) — With noisy Christmas office parties behind them, thousands of Londoners swarmed to the countryside Friday to continue Yuletide celebrations with their families.

A green but cold holiday was expected in most of England, with a white Christmas in northern regions and in the highlands of Scotland.

The possibility of snow was not ruled out by the weather forecaster here but showers and sleet were more likely.

A spending record was set in two days before Christmas—with expenditures of £118,603,052 ($332,-288,000 dollars). More on any previous year since records began in 1928.

Bank of England figures also showed a six-per-cent increase in spending over last Christmas.

Spending, much of it on expensive toys, has been supplemented by heavy withdrawals of savings in post offices and trustee banks.

Thousands Travel to Warmer Climates but Mostly by Air

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Thousands of Canadians will journey to warmer climes during the holiday season, but fewer will go by train.

A Cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows increased booking of air line, while both of Canada's railways report a 25-per-cent drop in southbound passengers.

Trans-Canada Air Lines said Friday will add 189 flights to its domestic schedule during the holiday season. Transatlantic bookings are especially heavy this season, with bargain return fares to Europe.

Some travel agents report a sharp drop in trips to Cuba and the Canal Zone, plagued by political uncertainties.

But Eastern Canadians prefer Florida and the British West Indies as a holiday haven, while Vancouverites say Christmas in Hawaii is "the old home week."

Consensus is that travel south is increasing. Says the head of Newfoundland travel agency: "Years ago only the well-to-do could afford to travel south, but now we get stenographers, secretaries and young married couples."

OTTAWA (CP)—Take a Christmas tree delivered by RCAF parachute, with a well wish for sled races and turkey from the deep freeze and top with an Eskimo snare dance.

That could be the few flavors of Christmas celebrated Arctic style by Eskimo families who break the gloom of winter's long night.

The North remains a land where the mandatory togetherness of a small settlement is a way of life. But festivities this weekend will reflect modern change as well — larger communities, communication with the outside world, the hi-fi and gin and the plenty of super-market shelves.

For many, older customs prevail. Weather permitting, the din of dog-teams is marking the arrival at trading posts in the eastern and central Arctic of Eskimo families from the distant hunting camps.

The trader, the missionary, the RCMP constable or—that recent arrival—the teacher will co-operate in throwing huge meals for the hungry. There has been a welcome air still staples and this year throughout the North the caribou has been more plentiful than for several years.

There will be gossiping, full attendance at the Anglican and Roman Catholic missions and—games where the big attraction is the dog-sled race.

Largest hardings will journey into dance halls for the long and spirited square dancing, perhaps to old Scots reels remembered by vanished whalers and rendered by Scandinavian.

GOVT. DEFICIT IS $45,500,000 AT END OF OCT.

Goes Into Red 4th Straight Month

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government went into the red for a fourth straight month in November, boosting the deficit for the first eight months of the current fiscal year to $45,500,000 at the end of October.

Finance Minister Fleming's monthly treasury statement showed that revenues in the first eight months of the year were $6,530,320,553, compared with expenditures of $6,575,703,000.

Deficits in August, September, October and November more than wiped out surpluses accumulated in the previous four months.

In the first eight months of 1959 revenues totalled $5,332,150,-000 and expenditures $5,431,120,-000, producing a deficit of $98,970,000.

Mr. Fleming's budget last March 71 forecast that for the whole of the current fiscal year that began April 1 there would be a modest surplus of $12,000,-000. However, in his baby budget Tuesday night he scaled down his estimate of budget revenues and predicted a deficit of $285,000,000.

Chief Engineer Keeps Lone Vigil On Stern Section of Broken Tanker

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Twenty-eight survivors swarmed from the storm-wrecked tanker Pine Ridge were at home with their loved ones today or on their way.

Seven of the Pine Ridge's crew were lost when the ship broke in two Wednesday in heavy seas 100 miles east of Cape Hatteras. The 28 — all — except Richard — arrived here Friday aboard a destroyer.

On the stern section with Rich-ard were four men from the commercial tug Curb, which is towing the stern to Newport News, Va. The towing job is expected to take about 48 hours.

The Coast Guard said it knows of no special provisions being put aboard the stern section to help the five men aside from normal gear. The Pine Ridge's galley is part of what is left of the ship, and there should be plenty of food aboard.

Richart, 53, of Wilmington, Del., by sticking to his ship, is protecting the salvage rights of the owners, Paso Tankers Incorporated and the Keystone Shipping Company of Philadelphia. A vessel abandoned on the high seas becomes the prize of the first to board her.

James Lewis and L. H. Ridley spoiled such terms as "rust bucket" and "unseworthy" to the tanker. Shipping company spokesmen were not immediately available for comment.

A formal inquiry will establish whether the wreck was due to any fault at the ship.

Carols Ring Out In Africa's Heat And Arctic Snows

Pilgrims Trek Through Jordan's No-Man's Land

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Festive parties and religious observance marked Christmas eve from the newest nations of Africa to Europe, the Americas and Asia.

African carol singers in flowered costumes paraded the streets of Lagos, Nigeria, in 80-degree temperatures and 90 - degree humidity, celebrating their first Christmas eve as an independent nation. Churches were expected to be crowded out before traditional services in all except the Moslem north. Stores sold gifts and Christmas puddings.

Pilgrims from the corners of the world in unprecedented numbers made the devout trek to the manger scene in Beth'ch-em. About 3,000 passed through Jerusalem's Jordanian Gate and the no-man's land between Israel and Jordan.

But as usual the Christmas season was one of many contrasts.

Most Europe as a country closed out one of the most prosperous Christmas spurees in history. Britain reported Christmas spending up to 50 per cent from last year. Shopkeepers in Italy said they were running out of table, milk and chocolate. Paris night club reservations were sold out. British scalpers sold tickets for Christmas dinner totalled a record $10,000,000.

DIE OF HUNGER

But in The Congo, the head of the United Nation's mission, Rajeshwar Dayal of India, planned to send Christmas Day at Bakwanga in Kasai province where some 200 refugee Baluba tribesmen are reported dying of starvation every day.

In a Christmas message to 20,-000 UN soldiers, Dayal asked: "What nobler and more disinterested task could there be than to help render service to an entire nation in need?"

Plum pudding rations were distributed to Irish soldiers in The Congo, turkey to Canadians. Military units from Christian nations planned Christmas Eve Mass parties, whether they were stationed in Leopoldville or jungle outposts.

Canada, possible city of crime in the new year, had many people far from home observing Christmas Eve. Besides the 10,-000 or so Allied troops, plus detachments there are about 20,000 Germans driven from their homes in Eastern provinces in 1945.

WOULD ABOLISH IT

Communist regimes behind the Iron Curtain were worried ways of dealing with this year's Christmas. In some areas, such as Bulgaria and Albania, the Communists have tried to purge the old customs of Christmas eve and turned Christmas into a regular work day.

In others, such as Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia, the authorities have decided to tolerate Christmas, permitting Mass and midnight church services.

Although the Soviet version of Christmas, centring about Father Frost, was still a week away, Muscovites in fur hats and fall boots crowded stores buying up merchandise in place around New Year's trees.

Marie Dionne Has Baby Girl

The girl weighed five pounds, 13 ounces.

Both mother and baby were reported doing fine at St. Justine's Hospital.

Marie was married to Florent Houle, 21, in 1958. It was the couple's first child.

It was the third child born to a quintuplet.

Cecile, married to Philippe Langlois, was the first quint in the world to bear a child when she gave birth to a boy Sept. 13, 1959.

Yvonne, the other surviving quint, is unmarried. Emilie died in 1954 at 20.

Shaw Desmond Dies Suddenly Of Heart Attack

LONDON (Reuters) — Shaw Desmond, 83, Irish poet, novelist and dramatist who believed in reincarnation and once wrote of an earlier life as a Roman gladiator, died in hospital here Friday.

Desmond, author of 75 books, had a heart attack and was admitted to the hospital Sunday.

"As a boy in Ireland I had painfully distinct memories of my own life as a gladiator in the Circus of Nero, of my fights in the arena and of the cruel, enduring, gifted and licentious brute," he wrote.

Christmas Spirit Is Evident As Needy Families, Children Provided With Festive Cheer

The spirit of Christmas will move afield in the city over the week-end.

Many willing hands, motivated by the Yuletide "Goodwill toward men" will bring festive cheer to many less fortunate than themselves, and us.

Individuals and organizations will see to it that needy families and those under institutional care will not lack for the most of the good things synonymous with the holiday.

The Belleville Fire Department has covered the city dispensing toys to the youngsters who otherwise would lack them.

The Salvation Army will hold a service there at 9.30 Christmas morning and will distribute nuts, oranges, candy, etc. A movie will be shown.

The Army has already visited the county home, the general hospital and four nursing centres, distributing cheer, music and entertainment, not to mention the famous "sunshine bags."

Some 215 inmates of the Hastings County Home will enjoy a full-course turkey dinner with all that goes with it. They will get it in a truly Christmas atmosphere for Superintendent Ken Yorke and matron, Mrs. Yorke, have arranged for six illuminated Christmas trees. The home has been decorated in Yule fashion while each room in the hospital wing has its own individual holiday decor.

There will be presents for all, also entertainment.

Thanks to the efforts of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans Branch here, the Canadian Legion branch, with their auxiliaries, and the Argyll and St. Julien Chapters of the Imperial Daughters of the Empire, needy veterans will receive their Christmas hampers.

ASSISTED BY POPPY FUND

Major John Carter of the Salvation Army who, with his staff will be extremely busy during the Christmas weekend today expressed the Army's sincere appreciation of the assistance, financial and otherwise given it by the general public.

The Army, he said, is holding a Family Candlelight Service at the citadel at four o'clock Christmas afternoon.

The various staffs of the Belleville General Hospital will distribute gifts to children who will be inmates over the holiday.

The Kiwanis Club, through the Salvation Army will help needy families.

The Belleville Collegiate Institute Key Club have made up 23 baskets of food, canned and otherwise for distribution to the needy. The Quinte Secondary Key Club likewise has raised many baskets.

The Belleville Shrine Club entertained a large number of retarded and crippled children at its annual Christmas party a few days ago.

Nursing centres of the city and district will see to it their charges enjoy Christmas in a truly Yuletide atmosphere.

Industry fraternal and military organizations have likewise sored Christmas parties for employees and children.

Many individuals in an unsung way see to it that needy families do not lack for Christmas fare.

Mercury Drops To Eight Below This Morning

Once again the westherman has predicted a low of 10 degrees for this night — right on the nose — except that the mercury went to 10 below, a difference of 20 degrees.

Last night the weatherman missed out by 19 degrees with a low of five degrees predicted and the thermometer going to 14 below.

The worst part of the night was before midnight, the mercury then gradually rising to just one below at six o'clock. Then thermometers again started to plummet. It was three below at seven; eight below at eight o'clock and five below at nine.

But whether or not the weatherman missed out on his probs, it was a cold night — the coldest of the season.

Tyendinaga Twp. Family of Six Is Burned Out

A family of six persons, including four boys ranging in age from five to 17 years, was left homeless last night when fire destroyed their farm home on the 7th concession of Tyendinaga township.

Homeless are Mr. and Mrs. Everett White who little more than a year ago lost their barn. The White family is left to scavenge among and on their return home last night about 10 o'clock smelled smoke. Investigation revealed flames in the attic.

Mrs. White ran close to a quarter of a mile to the home of Joseph Shannon to spread the alarm, while her husband and the boys attempted to stem the fire.

Neighbors quickly rallied to the telephone alarm and most of the household contents were carried to safety before the flames spread to the downstairs part of the house.

Belleville firemen were called but could do little to halt the flames. The house was a complete loss.

Neighbors said the loss would be heavy as the White home had been recently renovated, with modern equipment being installed. Mr. White works at Corbyville.

Stirling

In failing health for the past two years, Mrs. Mary Stiles of Stirling died at her home Saturday morning. She was in her 90th year.

Daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tanner, she was born in Rawdon and had lived in that municipality until she moved to Stirling 23 years ago. She was a member of St. John's Anglican Church. Her husband, John Stiles, died in 1953.

Also surviving are a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Burnett of Miami, Manitoba, and a brother, Thomas Tanner of Stirling. There is one grandchild.

Resting at her late residence. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

IN MEMORIAM

ALEXANDER. — In loving memory of a dear grandmother, Rachel Alexander, who passed away December 24th, 1947.

Sadly missed and lost sweet remembrance.

There is memory fond and true;
There is a token of affection, Gram.
And a heartache still for you.
—Always remembered by granddaughter Mary.

BOWSLEY. — In loving memory of our wonderful daughter, Carolin Margaret Bowsley, who passed away one year ago, December 25th.

The month of December now is here
The day you left us is very near.
We think of you with sadness and woe,
But God knows best, we will go too.
—Sadly missed and remembered always by Mother, Father, brothers Ricky, Wayne and Gregory.

BRANT. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Ethel Brant, who passed away December 24th, 1959.

Dear mother, you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you no more dwell
Still in memory you are with us,
As you always were before.
—Lovingly remembered by daughters Audrey, Thelma, Florence and families.

CONVELL. — In loving memory of our father, James Convell, who passed away December 24th, 1955.

We think of him in silence,
We often speak his name,
There is nothing left to answer,
But memories just the same.
—Sadly remembered by son Pat, and daughters.

CULLODEN. — In loving memory of our dear father, Arthur Culloden, who passed away on the 24th day of December, 1958.

A silent thought, a secret tear,
Unseen by many, but ever dear;
Time takes away the edge of grief,
But memory keeps you ever near.
—Sadly missed by Rita and Don.

CULLODEN. — In loving memory of a dear son, Arthur Honey, who passed away December 25th, 1958.

We do not forget you, she do we will,
We think of you often, and will to the end;
Gone and forgotten by some you may be,
But dear to our memory you ever will be.
—Lovingly remembered by Mother, sisters, brothers and grandparents.

DARRAH. — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Kyrann, who passed away three years ago, December 24th, 1957.

We miss you more than words can tell,
We suffered in silence, when no one else could tell.
Never a day or hour we went through;
His memory is sudden his last thought a unknown.
But his memory we are proud to own.
—Always remembered by mother, father, brother-in-law Vernon and family.

FOSTER. — In loving memory of our dear son, Ronald Foster, who was killed in a car accident December 24th, 1955.

Our hearts are sore, our tears flow free,
Our son was gone and we loved him so.
But when we lay his valiant challenge happy we were when Bill let him go.
If all the world were ours to give
We'd give it you and more,
If Bill could only just come back
We'd ask for nothing more.
Memories of both still wandering who
One we young should have to die.
—Sadly missed and ever remembered by Mom and Dad.

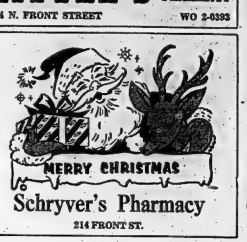
SEAMES. — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, George Arthur Seames, who passed away December 25th, 1959.

The pain of parting without farewell
Is more than anyone can tell.
More each day we miss you father,
Friends may think the wound is healed;
But they little know the sorrow,
That lies within our hearts concealed.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by son Keith, daughter-in-law Joan and grandchildren.

SEAMES. — In loving memory of my dear father, George Arthur Seames, who passed away December 25th, 1959.
—Always remembered by son Joe, daughter-in-law Betty and grandchildren.

WELCH. — In loving memory of our dear husband, Ed, who passed away December 24th, 1959.

So many things we've planned,
Since you were called away,
So many things to share with you,
But you were left in the clay.
Every day in some small way,
Memories of you come our way,
Though absent, you are ever near,
You're always dear.
—Sadly missed by wife Eleanor.



A whole chorus of best wishes to you!

Fire Dept. Kept Busy by Series of Runs

Bellevville firemen were kept on the run last night as a series of calls ranging from smoke investigation, to a false alarm and a house fire were received during the night.

A vacant barn was also burned in Sidney township.

Firemen were called out first shortly before eight for an investigation at Vermilyea's Shoe Store on Front Street and a few minutes later every piece of fire fighting equipment owned by the department was called to the Ontario School for the Deaf. But there was no fire. The trouble was a short circuit in the alarm system at the school.

At ten o'clock the reels were called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Wilde, 7th concession of Tyendinaga. The home was a complete loss.

Furnace trouble took firemen to the home of G. N. Thompson, on Orchard Park Drive, shortly before three o'clock.

Then at 7:26 this morning the reels were out again ,this time to the east end CNR yard office where camage was caused to an oil shack.

And shortly after eight this morning still another alarm took the reels to the 2nd concession of Sidney where a vacant barn owned by a Mr. May was destroyed.

The barn was situated considerad and the fire reels coud not get to the scene until the road was cleared by a snowplow.

The Lions Club held its Christmas draw at the Bellevville School for Retarded Children on Tuesday. Alderman Robert Temple assisted by president Harry Frid made the draw.

The proceeds from the draw will be used to assist the Bellevville Association for Retarded Children in the work of educating those children who require a specialized type of education. The photo was taken in one of the school rooms on the premises on John Street which the Lions Club has taken on as a major project.

The lucky winners of the draw were: first prize, E. Moss, 189 Albert St., remaining prizes went to C. A. Miles, Colours Ont., E.G. O'Connor, 326 Charles St., Mrs. J. Raymond Sinclair St., F. G. Dafoe, Shannonville and D. Allen, 37 Fairway Ave.

The Lions Club extends to everyone the compliments of the season and also wishes to thank all those who assisted in the draw.

Children of the RCAF Station Trenton Protestant Chapel Sunday School recreate the Nativity scene during the Christmas pageant presented Wednesday night. The hour long program included carolling for the audience, and the affair was organized and directed by WO2 and Mrs. Ralph Scott.

Women's Club Holds Christmas Banquet

TRENTON — Last Wednesday, the dining room at the Gilbert Hotel was gaily decorated for Christmas, was the setting for a Christmas banquet when members of the Trenton Business and Professional Women's Club attended.

Miss Eva Baker, vice-president, was in charge of the meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. Jenny Willis.

Mrs. Mary Thompson led the members in a round of carols. Christmas songs were sung by a chorus comprised of Miss Marion Baker, Mrs. Doris Webb, Miss Eva Baker, Mrs. Violet Kennedy, Miss Elizabeth Blackledge and Mrs. Thompson. Miss Lucy Baker played piano accompaniments.

A puppet dialogue, depicting a hat sale by Eva Baker and Doris Webb, was an amusing feature.

Two readings, "The Bellmaz of Mona," by Alice Wilson and "The Touch of the Master's Hand," by Elizabeth Blackledge were examples of the more serious side of the Christmas season.

A draw for a Christmas table centre was won by Helen Alyea. Other draws were won by Alice Lovell, Clarbell Allison, Keitha McCrodan and Doris Stewart.

The climax of the party, "The Christmas Story," narrated by Miss Marion Baker, with a vocal background provided by The Club Singers, brought out the real meaning of Christmas.

Miss Wilson proposed a vote of thanks to Miss Marion Baker, who, as program convener, had arranged the excellent Christmas program.

Girl Dying Of Cancer Wants Cards

TRENTON — Little Doris Ridgway of Route 1, Hardy, Virginia, who is dying of bone cancer, has sent a request for greeting cards from all over the world and the RCAF at Trenton has passed this information along to the newspapers. Christmas or New Year's cards to Doris from this area would be greatly appreciated by the family.

Local Family 'Adopts' Korean Orphan

TRENTON — A Trenton subscriber yesterday phoned the Trenton office of the Ontario Intelligencer to say that her family would have one of the most satisfying Christmas seasons ever this year.

Early in December all members of the family had decided to "adopt" a Korean orphan for Christmas. Accordingly, each member of the family sacrificed some of his or her Christmas spending money and bought a number of useful gifts and a few toys. Mother washed and mended useful articles of clothing which was sent in two separate packages.

The two bundles were sent to the Unitarian Service Committee of Ontario, 78 Sparks Street, Ottawa, 4, with instructions to send them to a Korean orphan.

The family also pledged to support an orphan. This will mean that $7 a month must be sent to the Unitarian committee. This sum will provide the orphan with clothing and food. If the yearly donation of $84 is paid at once, the committee will send the name and address of the orphan to the sponsors, so that letters and photographs may be exchanged.

The Trenton family, which asked to remain unidentified, received a letter from the committee this week, thanking each member of the family and assuring them that their parcels had been sent to Korea.

The idea was sparked by a television program which outlined the plight of the many Korean children, who often freeze to death in the streets for lack of warm clothing.

DIES OF BURNS

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Myrtle Scott, 50, wife of district Fire Chief Alex Scott, died Thursday of burns suffered when her bed caught fire, Coroner Dr. K. Alexander said Mrs. Scott was apparently smoking.

Christmas Eve Services Planned Tonight

TRENTON — Midnight candlelight services will be held tonight in King Street United Church. A Christmas Eve service will be held at 7.30 p.m. in Grace United Church. At St. George's Anglican Church, a song service will be held, commencing at 11 p.m. The Christmas Eve service at 6RD Presbyterian Chapel will commence at 11.30 p.m. High Mass will be celebrated in St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, commencing at midnight, and a Mass will be held in Bresdner school auditorium at midnight.

Special services will be held in all Trenton churches on Christmas Day.

Christmas Parties

TRENTON. — On Thursday, children who attend the North Trenton school classroom for retarded children, held a Christmas party. Parents and friends were delighted at the interest the children took in a visit from Santa Claus. Gifts were exchanged and the children enjoyed a special Christmas treat of cookies and candy.

Children in the town's public schools also enjoyed an exchange of Christmas gifts and goodies on Thursday morning, in several instances, the home and school club of the school donated the cookies and chocolate milk.

Napanee Man, Homer R. Sweet, Found Dead

A 58-year-old Napanee man, Homer R. Sweet, was found dead in the ditch this morning along No. 2 Highway about half-a-mile east of Napanee.

Provincial police said the body was found about eight feet from the travelled portion of the highway about seven o'clock this morning.

It was not known whether the victim died as result of an accident or whether death was due to exposure. A postmortem has been ordered.

Sweet was unmarried and lived with his mother. Relatives are said to live in Belleville.

To make his resignation effective officially said, Mr. Van Horne will have to notify Speaker Roland Michener of his intent but whom his resignation letter to the prime minister could be delivered for either to serve that purpose.

Mr. Van Horne bowed out with a typical unorthodox flourish by saying he'd achieved his purpose as an MP in the bridge linking New Brunswick and Quebec. It is the Fort Lawrence-Campbellton River. The federal government has paid for it.

In debate, Charlie was a rough-and-tumbler with a blunt turn of speech. He said former trade and agriculture minister James G. Gardiner had "as much respect for the truth as an alley cat has for a marriage licence." Former trade minister C. D. Howe was a "bird brain," Premier Lesage of Quebec, as federal president-affairs minister, was the "misfit minister of the neglected Eskimos."

He had badly embarrassed the Conservative government while maintaining he was still a true-blue Conservative.

"We're not getting off the ground and forgetting all the many of the promises we made to spurre the country up," he said. "I'd rather be a dissatisfied Tory, which I am, than a member of any other political party in Canada at the moment."

SHIP DAMAGED

QUEBEC (CP)—Officials from three Quebec City stations Thursday extinguished a fire which started "mysteriously" in a cabin and cargo aboard the Allodian German freighter Ostelgreene in Quebec Harbor. No estimate has yet been announced of damage to the superstructure and cargo of the vessel.

Miss Alice Dague, Foxboro, and Mrs. Florence Law, 131 North Front St., Belleville, were winners in the "Free Doll Draw" being held daily at Ronald Keel Jewellers all week.—Advt.

Remarks Heard Over Din Of Office Christmas Party

By HAL BOYLE

"What did the gin in the water cooler?"

"You know, Miss Hotchkiss, a girl like you could go far in this form if she played her cards right."

"It's the third time your wife called, and this time she wants you just left!"

"Here's a special letter to J. B.—if years in the mail room and darn little to show for it. security-wise."

"Take your hand off my knee, Mr. Frothingham."

"Keep pouring, Fred. What's a holiday without a little kick to it?"

"There's nothing like a party to pep up the place. Why don't we do this every day?"

"Let's call up good old George in London. The office can foot the bill."

"Where — hic! — now look here J. B. Leth talk man to man and forget — hic! — you're the boss—I mean boss."

"Yeah, a party's okay, but let's get to the meat of cranberry. When I do they hand out the Christmas bonuses."

PIGEON HUNT

"Hey, somebody give me a hand, will you? Charley opened the window ledge trying to catch a pigeon with a handful of potato chips."

"I'd rather have just a few drinks ago. Have you looked under his desk?"

"No, I don't mind the petty cash box and send out for a couple more jugs."

"I told her I'd be on the 7:06 train for sure. Oh, well, Christmas comes but once a year, so let's live a little, eh?"

"No, I don't mind your singing, Jim, but don't you know any other tune than Sweet Adeline?"

"Hurry, that wild looking one from the stenographic pool is going into her dance again. Crazy, man."

"All right, quiet down everybody, I want to introduce your friend and mine, the greatest little old lady in the world—good old J. B. himself."

"I think I think I got the present he meant for his wife. Why would he give his secretary a floor waxer?"

"Why end the party now? Let's all go up on the roof and wait for the reindeer."

"The Night Before Christmas"

'Twas the night before Christmas when all through the house,
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse.
The stockings where hung by the chimney with care,
In hopes that Saint Nicholas soon would be there.

The children were nestled all snug in their beds,
While visions of sugarplums danced in their heads,
And mamma in her kerchief and I in my cap,
Had just settled down for a long winter's nap.

When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter,
I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter.
Away to the window I flew like a flash,
Tore open the shutters and threw up the sash.

The moon on the breast of the new-fallen snow,
Gave a lustre of midday to objects below,
When, what to my wondering eyes should appear,
But a miniature sleigh, and eight tiny reindeer:
With a little old driver, so lively and quick,
I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick.

More rapid than eagles his coursers they came,
And he whistled and shouted and called them by name:
'Now, Dasher! Now, Dancer! Now, Prince! and Vixen!
On, Comet! On, Cupid! On, Donner! and Blitzen!

To the top of the porch, to the top of the wall!
Now, dash away, dash away, dash away all!'
As dry leaves that before the wild hurricane fly,
When they meet with an obstacle, mount to the sky,
So up to the house-top the coursers they flew
With a sleigh full of toys, and St. Nicholas too.

And then in a twinkle, I heard on the roof,
The prancing and pawing of each little hoof.
As I drew in my head, and was turning around,
Down the chimney St. Nicholas came with a bound.

He was dressed all in fur, from his head to his foot,
And his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot;
A bundle of toys he had flung on his back,
And he looked like a peddler just opening his pack.
His eyes how they twinkled! His dimples how merry,
His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry.
His droll little mouth was drawn up like a bow,
And the beard on his chin was as white as the snow.

The stump of his pipe he held tight in his teeth,
And the smoke, it encircled his head like a wreath.
He had a broad face and a little round belly,
That shook when he laughed, like a bowl full of jelly.

He was chubby and plump, a right jolly old elf,
And I laughed when I saw him, in spite of myself.
A wink of his eye, and a twist of his head,
Soon gave me to know I had nothing to dread.

He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work,
And filled all the stockings; then turned with a jerk
And laying his finger aside of his nose,
And giving a nod, up the chimney he rose.

He sprang to his sleigh, to his team gave a whistle,
And away they all flew like the down on a thistle.
But I heard him exclaim as he drove out of sight,
"Happy Christmas to all and to all a good night."

The Wonder of Christmas

By Dr. Ralph W. Sockman

There are some wonders we outgrow; there are others which grow with us.

The Bethlehem event is a wonder which grows in my own mind. I confess that Christmas was the reddest of the red-letter days of the year when I was a child. And the emotional excitement of Christmas has cooled with maturity. But the wonder of it has deepened and widened.

Whereas in childhood I thought most about the presents to be received and given, now I think beyond the gifts to that tidal wave of good will which sweeps up the coastline of the world, lifting the hearts and hopes of men despite the darkness of the sky of our day.

What keeps Christmas growing? More people observe it each year. Does some cynic say that it is the commercialization of Christmas which keeps it going? To be sure, tradesmen have taken advantage of the holiday's spirit and turned it all too much into a profit-seeking period.

But Christmas carries far beyond the lanes of commerce. It will quicken hearts in barren refugee camps, in lonely mountain homes, even among Russian peasants. Business interests do not make Christmas. The wonder is that a babe born in a manger can make such a booming business.

And the wonder of Christmas grows still more in my mind as I think that not only does the observance of it increase with the years, but also that our time itself is measured from the Christmas event. What other event could seriously be considered as a date from which to compute our calendars? Genghis Khan some 700 years ago set up an imperial regime which swept across Asia. But who ever met a man on the street who knows about Genghis Khan and likely he will not know whether you are talking about a mountain peak, a race horse or a Hollywood connection.

The fall of the Roman Empire, the signing of the Magna Charta, these mark significant dates but they would have little meaning in Asia or Africa. Only the one figure whose appeal is sufficiently universal to serve as the starting point in our calendar. The kings of history is on the stable door at Bethlehem.

Why this universal and growing appeal for Christmas? The only explanation is that the event is that given by the prophet Isaiah and repeated in Matthew's Gospel, "His Name shall be called Emmanuel (which means God with us)." Christmas lives and grows because it brings to clearer view the God who is with us.

For us today, Bethlehem brings us to see the God within us. The appeal of the Christmas story is spontaneous, almost instinctive. Our spirits migrate toward Bethlehem somewhat as the birds fly southward at the approach of winter. It is said that when the migrating season comes even birds confined within cages feel the strange thrill.

Likewise to us there comes a time when Christmas is in the air. We feel it even though we cannot analyze it. The free minds of little children take naturally to the idea of the shepherds, the manger and the Magi. And we who are caged in our adult occupations, our wings of imagination clipped by the shears of science, our spirits domesticated to the routine of daily hard facts — even we feel something joyous stir within us.

When we come back to Bethlehem we are like foreign travellers returning to our native land. The tender mother love of Mary, the kindness of the shepherds, the hospitality of the humble — these are the real and genuine things of life. The kindness, giving and cooperation made our spirits feel at home. We are getting back to where God meant us to be.

Christmas is not a more fanciful dream of loveliness set amid the stern and cruel realities of life. Christmas is the season when the real breaks through the shell of custom and convention.

It may be hard to believe that God is as good as He seems at Christmas. But recall George Frederick Handel, whose "Messiah" is sung every year at this season. Listen to his biographer: "His health and his fortune had nearly reached the point of ruin. He had become paralyzed and his money was all gone. His creditors seized him and threatened him with imprisonment. For a brief time he was tempted to give up the fight, and then he rebounded again to compose the greatest of his inspirations, the epic 'Messiah'."

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

By Dr. Earl L. Douglass

TRAFFIC JAM AT BETHLEHEM

"You have your hands full today, Marcellus," said one Roman centurion to another as they stood at a crossroad near Bethlehem and watched hordes of Jewish men and women streaming their way along the road in response to the Emperor's decree that all the world should be enrolled. Marcellus and a little group of soldiers were directing traffic.

"Oh yes," said Marcellus wearily. "Will this procession never come to an end? Where do all these Jews come from? Some walking. Some on donkeys. Oh here comes a donkey with a woman seated on it, a woman about to have a baby. I should say, and her husband leading the beast. One more baby will be born within a few hours. They come by the thousands, by the millions. They die — and that's the end."

The procession moved on. "You see what I mean," said Marcellus to his fellow soldier. "One more baby will soon be born to live, to die, to rot."

"Ah," said his companion, "but you never can tell about people. Life is strange. That baby might just grow up and make a stir in the world. He might someday even be a king."

"That baby?" cried Marcellus and threw back his head and laughed heartily. "No, no, friend, you are wrong. Nothing will happen but pain and travail, and one more baby. Just that, one more baby."

Canada's Competitive Position in Uranium Field

By Hon. Robert W. Macaulay
Ontario Minister of Energy Resources

Article 32

As I explained in my previous article, Canada's uranium industry has been forced to recognize that its present market from now until 1966, but after 1966 even this reduced market will no longer be guaranteed by contract as it is now.

The uranium industry has faced in the period 1968 to past 1970 consists of (a) other countries being able to produce uranium as cheaply as Canada, (b) the possibility following from (a) that the price would fall so low for such a length period that Canadian uranium mines could stay in business until the market picks up (c) the possibility that many civilian readers will use enriched uranium which Canada will not be in a position to supply and (d) that even if there is a sizable non-nuclear use for ranium, such as for alloying with steel, there is a chance that cheap U.S. depleted uranium will be made available in quantities before 10,000 and 20,000 tons per year, because of large stockpiles, as the result of used operation of the U.S. enrichment plants.

LOW COST FOREIGN MINES

Differences in the cost of producing uranium arise largely from differences in the ore bodies which are worked, how complete they are and how much uranium they contain per ton. Some of the ore bodies worked in the past few years in the United States and Australia have in general a higher uranium content than the better Canadian ores so far discovered. This would possibly enable these mines to cut their prices a little further than we can. Canadian mines in any cutthroat competition, following upon the fall in price, can uranium is produced partly as a by-product of their gold-mining industry. However, their uranium assays are not good, and gold is a product as to how far they could cut prices.

Even the best Canadian mines will have to fight hard to gain markets. Therefore, it seems probable that by 1966 the industry may again be reduced, with the most efficient mines surviving.

The possibility that by a large part of the market will be for enriched uranium has to be kept in mind. It has been suggested that, as some of the reactors now using the use could Canada will depend on enriched uranium, which is at present a monopoly of the U.S. for civilian purposes, Canada should build its own enrichment plant. I have gone into this question more than elsewhere, but it is sufficient to say that here, if we were to build an enrichment plant, it is not enough to meet the demand which Canada is likely to have in the future from the vast U.S. enrichment resources. In any case our pound of enriched uranium would be far above the present American price, in that the 25 per cent reduction in price the U.S. expects to be able to make by 1965.

MAY GET OVERSTOCKED

If Canada builds a plant large enough to achieve the lower prices possible with a larger scale of production, we may have moralities of enriched uranium which we cannot sell. Either way, it is a very shaky proposition. Only in the future or would certainly be called upon to enlarge, at great public cost and little public benefit. To top this all the large-scale natural uranium reactor may have a good chance of proving just as acceptable in the market, and hence there might be little demand for enriched uranium.

NON-NUCLEAR USES

Such non-nuclear uses for uranium must also be considered as potential. The technical problem of alloying uranium with steel are being investigated by the Federal Government, Atomic Energy of Canada Eldorado, and progress has been made. However, even if it turns out that it is feasible to use uranium in such fields as the manufacture of stainless steels, the high price of uranium compared with conventional alloy metals will tend to confine uranium to high-grade specialty steels, and the market used would not do much to alleviate the uranium marketing problem. It must be remembered, nonetheless, that this kind of uranium research is a very early stage, and a technical breakthrough may well occur.

The situation is complicated by the existence in the United States of very large quantities of depleted uranium. This has lain in reactors is at present largely unexploited. It may be brought used a decade from now in fast breeder power reactors. It is impossible to tell whether the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission will in fact make available in large quantities f non-clear uses.

The present U.S. price is about $3.30 per pound of uranium hexafluoride. Even without price reductions, this could probably be made available, after conversion to uranium metal, at less than $3.00 per pound. As depleted uranium is a by-product of the operation of their diffusion plants which will soon in any event be completely amortized, the Americans have in practice the depleted uranium almost any price they might name.

HUGE STOCK POTENTIAL

It is believed that during this decade they can make available between 10,000 and 20,000 tons annually, presumably, as the result of over 50,000 tons in stockpile, and of continuing production from the very large enrichment plants in the U.S. Moreover, U.S.A.E.C. pricing policy would not be affected by Canadian U.S. domestic private enterprise uranium producers, so this threat may not be a serious one.

THE GENERAL PICTURE

There is a thorny path ahead for the uranium industry after 1966 because of the expensive productive capacity and the competition which will be created by existing enrichment facilities for uranium. Canada might be transferring the burden to the taxpayer's shoulders. There are cheaper forms of energy for the foreseeable future. Finally, the possible non-nuclear uses for uranium are not large enough to assure a 7,000 to 10,000 tons per year uranium industry, in the near future. In the long term the prospects are bright, as there will almost certainly be more clear and non-nuclear technical breakthroughs, but this long term demand will be essential in the case of a uranium industry different in size and shape from that projected into existence and largely paid for by the American defence program.

Church Paper On Funerals

United Church Observer

"Here comes the bride," playing the wedding march, has been eventually be banished to Hollywood, say editorial in the current issue of The United Church Observer says.

"Weddings have always been cluttered with secular music and vulgar display, the magazine says, but declares, "they are improving."

"Good Christians, the church paper says, are anxious to have funerals as Christian as Christians are becoming more sensitive to what is right for such occasions.

Funerals used to be marred with tasteless display and sentimental preaching. The Observer contends. "Weddings and funerals are occasions for both thanksgiving and intercession and combining one is unfair to the Christian faith," the church paper reminds.

The Observer says that for many, funerals and weddings are the only time many people step into the church and some of it rubs off on them, the non-Christian."

The Observer says that some funerals are so quick, cold and formal, "you can't help wonder if the minister thinks that the most important thing is to cooperate with the undertaker and so he can get, as many funerals in during one afternoon as possible."

Would Scrap This Debate

Trois Rivieres La Nouvelliste

If there is one outworn tradition that should surely disappear, it is the "throne" speech from the throne. It has been been pressed by those who want to see their name in Hansard, but who haven't much to say.

The throne speech debate, like the Speaker's long-drawn to speak of anything and of praise their beautiful province, city . . . This means wasting time and money and the session could be speeded so that it would be done before the warm weather.

Silent Tribute

Calgary Albertan

The New Abstinent Society in London, England, has departed from tradition by refraining from the traditional gifts of engraved prayer, illuminated scrolls and what not. Word has been received that the society has voted to award pocketknives of garbage cans with rubber lids and bottoms—to patrons who refreshingly themselves in combatting noise. The gift rewards the deed in a practical manner.

"Outrageous, aren't they?"

LOOKING BACKWARDS

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

December 24th, 1930

Again the salutation "Merry Christmas" is heard across the world. For the second year Christmas comes to mankind who know not. The Christmas spirit lives. Christmas with all its precious associations has always enriched life and today on the eve of the great festival it cannot be forgotten for it has a message even for such times as these.

Mr. Lorne McDougall is spending Christmas at his home in North Bay.

Mrs. William Hughes and Mr. Ted Hughes are spending Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hughes and family in Toronto.

Mr. James Johnson of Boston, Mass., and Mr. F. B. Johnson of Toronto visited relatives in the city yesterday.

Mrs. James Hamilton of Kingston is spending the holiday season with her daughters, Mrs. George Graham, and Mr. Graham.

20 YEARS AGO

December 24th, 1910

Mr. W. A. Quinlan is home from Winnipeg to spend Christmas.

Mr. E. H. Farrow of Winnipeg is home to spend Christmas with his family.

Mr. George Wilder of Montreal is home to spend Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burrows of Toronto will spend Christmas here with relatives.

Mr. Maurice Lynch of Chicago, Ill., an old Belleville boy, will spend Christmas here with relatives.

Mr. Stanley Her, who has been in Western Canada for some time, has returned to the city.

Mr. Robert Hamilton is home from Toronto to spend Christmas with friends.

50 YEARS AGO

December 24th, 1910

Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, who is in the clothing trade, is off for over forty young men between the ages of sixteen and twenty years in Bridge Street Methodist Church Sunday School, was waited upon at its residence last evening by the members of the class and presented with a handsome black walnut chair, accompanied with an address in which particular mention was made of Mr. O'Flynn's interesting and helpful teaching and his deep interest shown in many practical ways, in the welfare of the class. A presentation was also expressed for many pleasant evenings that the class had spent as the parlors of Mr. and Mrs. O'Flynn gain their home.

Skating is excellent in the harbor and there are large crowds, young and old, are enjoying themselves.

Wants Coins Of Plastic

St. John Telegraph-Journal

Britons won't be able to jingle the change in their pockets if a proposal by the Royal Mint for coins made of plastic money proves acceptable.

The idea is not a retreat from hard currency to a serious suggestion, according to John Hastings James, deputy master and comptroller, in his annual report. The plastic coins would be durable, he says, light, discarry, brightly colored and easy on the pocket.

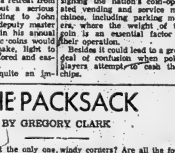
The latter is quite an important point. Last year the mint turned out 1,707,000,000 coins, most of them big and heavy enough to wear holes in the pockets of pockets.

However, a switchover to plastic coins might upset the coin collectors of the nation who will write them bright and shiny silver pieces in "mint condition." And it could result in the necessity of designing the nation's coin-operated vending service machines, including parking meters. Since it would lead to a great deal of confusion when pokes parrots attempt to feed their chips.

THE PACKSACK

By Gregory Clark

Santa Claus isn't the only one working tonight. All through the house not a creature stirring, not even a mouse. But, mister, you go and pick up the telephone and call anybody anywhere in North America, Ste. St. Louis or Edmonton, El Paso or St. John's, Newfoundland. Hear those girls picking up the line? Thousands, tens of thousands of them.



Look out the window, the way Scrooge did after his last dream, and what do you hear? Isn't private eye only: that's buses, street cars, delivery vans, trucks on every 400 miles from here; and that distant boot is a diesel, Diesels, mister; and all across and up and down the continent, tens of thousands of men operating them, and on time.

Can you get anywhere tonight, and what do you see? Light, endless lights from the edge of the horizon bell clear down to Mexico. Somebody is keeping them lit.

Do the hospitals close up and shut off the lights, the doctors go home and the nurses take the day off? Are the firehalls all deserted now? Nobody in the police stations, no cops on the dark windy corners? Are all the four-dry fires out, all the factory gas-ereators still, all the night watchmen home in bed, the restaurants locked up and dark?

No, sir. Not a bit of it. A lot of company tonight all over the wide world.

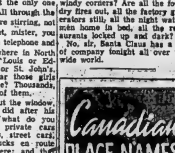
SPENCER WOOD

This is the name of the official residence of the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, situated just west of Wolfe's Cove, about two miles from the city of Quebec. The Canadian government owned the land, having bought it from Henry Atkinson, and when the Quebec government sought to acquire it, the condition was laid down that it was to be used only for the official residence of the first citizen of the province of Quebec.

TODAY'S TALK

By George Matthew Adams

THE MANGER MESSAGE



Christmas celebrates the birth of a child who was born in a manger in Bethlehem, which is in Judea.

And around this remarkable birthplace there has grown the most beautiful and tender conglomeration of ideals in the human heart — because this child from His youth up had but one purpose in view — to serve.

His most famous teaching was crystallized in the three words, "Do unto others."

Now with the closing of the year 1960 again comes Christmas time, with its inspiration for each individual to serve because the One whose birthday it is, spent His whole life serving and working for others.

We are just as much a babe was born in a manger, in simple makes the poorest in money or skills able to love and appreciate Him.

So thoughtful and concerned was this wonderful person, when He grown — and even when a child — that all classes were drawn to Him. The rich young ruler admired Him. And the woman with her mite — who gave all that she had — immediately recognized in Him the worth and nobleness of character.

Jesus inspired others to think of others.

Now with the closing of the year 1960 again comes Christmas time, with its inspiration for each individual to serve because the One whose birthday it is, spent His whole life serving and working for others.

Owen Sound Sun-Times

There has been a change in thinking in regard to the late practice of cattle. There was a time when livestock was hurried indoors once the weather became cold, often into stuffy quarters not up to standard. Cows were said to give less, beef cattle were said to lose pounds of flesh if subjected to the cold of late fall.

Now it appears, livestock is left out of doors as long as possible. They are healthier for the experience and the winter work schedule in life stable is eased greatly at the end of the year. Late falls such as we are now experiencing are a welcome boon both from the work standpoint and that of feed savings. Right now after the snow comes, it is still a common thing to see cattle out of doors, probably in a sunny part of the barnyard. Presently cattle, dairy and beef, are left so they may come and go indoors, safeguards against direct draughts being provided.

It's a big advance over the old days when large number of cattle were herded into a small and poorly ventilated stable, the floor thick with manure.

Cardinals 'Hinge Men'

Catholic Digest

Probably the world record for the longest-enduring nickname is held by Cardinals of the Catholic Church, who have been operating with a Latin nickname since the first century A.D.

The word "cardinal" means "hinge man," from the Latin cardo (hinge) or cardinis (of hinge).

The Christians of Imperial Rome noted the papal princes' ability to open and close influential or threatening doors, and promptly tagged them "hinge men" — "cardinals."

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

GOOD OR BAD
By WINIFRED WILSO

Much controversy has taken place as to the status of crows, grackles, hawks and so on. Which do more good than harm, which should be wiped out?

Those of us who have had the pleasure of observing a family of house wrens are apt to speak in their favor, unless we have been shocked by some of the actions of the head of that household. We are attracted by his merry song, his energetic ways, and the amount of insects food stuffed into the waiting mouths of the wrenlets. He is a persistent singer, carries twigs to prepare several holes before final decision is made for a home, and manages to deplete the insect population considerably in spite of his small size. But this otherwise delightful little bird has one bad trait. He cannot stand any neighbors. Most birds will not allow others of their own kind to intrude on what they consider their own private territory but ignore other species. The house wren will not tolerate the intrusion of any bird whatsoever, punctures the eggs of catbirds, song sparrows, the warblers, or kills their nestlings.

Reams have been written defending the crow because it eats quantities of injurious insects both as adults and as larvae, carrion, mice, and reptiles. On the other hand it is persecuted and frequently shot, because of its fondness for eggs and young of other birds. Much the same can be said of grackles: they feed their young harmful insects but destroy other inhabitants of Birdland.

The amount of good done by hawks and owls because of their fondness for mice, rats, injurious insects and the like far outbalances any harm done by a few predators. Gosbawks, sharp-shinned and cooper's hawks, and great horned owls are really the only ones that damage what man prizes, unless we count the rare individual red-shouldered or red-tailed hawk nesting near an unprotected poultry yard. And how can we blame it for catching such easy prey?

Fruit growers are sometimes loud in their complaints against robins, grosbeaks, or waxwings. Birds actually prefer the wild varieties, so the best method of saving our own tree and bushes from these marauders is to cover them with nets and plant wild fruit-bearing bushes.

Even serious bird students have not entirely come to a satisfactory conclusion as to the advisability of meddling with Mother Nature's plans. Left to herself she is very efficient, and seems to fit that a proper balance is kept. Interfered with, she has much difficulty in straightening out the tangles made by human beings.

Wedding

NOLAN — BERRY

A quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized recently in the United Church parsonage, Roseboro, by the Reverend F. R. Darke, when Freda Evelyn Berry of Hallowsy, Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Berry, was united in marriage to Garry Herbert Nolan, of Belleville, son of Mr. C. Nolan and the late Mr. Nolan.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her pale blue bridal gown, featuring a fitted bodice having a "V"-shaped neckline and three-quarter sleeves. The bouffant skirt was in street-length, and her accessories were black.

She was attended by Mrs. John Gray, of Belleville, who wore deep rose, fashioned with full skirt in street-length molded bodice with short sleeves, and deep "V" neckline, with black accessories.

Mr. Kenneth Nolan of Belleville, attended the bridegroom.

The bride's mother, for her daughter's wedding wore a grey suit with black accessories and the bridegroom's mother a black wool suit with black and white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Nolan are residing at 80 Dundas Street, east, Belleville.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: This Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a woman's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counsellors and social workers.

Martha C. — Suddenly he refuses to observe the practices of our religion.

Eugene C. — It has dawned on me that this has nothing to do with being a good person.

Martha C. — We've been married two years and have no children and it's a good thing. I want to have the matter of religion settled between Gene and me, instead of quarreling about it in front of our future family.

Before we were married, I didn't discuss religion much with Gene. He lived in another city and whenever he visited me, he accompanied me to services and gave the impression of being devout, pious and observant. We are of the same denomination and my childhood pastor officiated at our wedding.

But now, suddenly, Gene reveals that he was merely humoring me! He doesn't approve of organized religion, he says, and he's not going to be hypocritical about it.

This is a terrible shock. My faith is a great comfort to me. How can I bring up a child to be God-fearing and God-loving if his father throws all worship and practices overboard?

Eugene C. — I knew Martha was an intense religionist but, since she never brought up the matter of my own attitudes toward all that hocus-pocus, I figured she'd leave me alone about it and I'd leave her alone, too.

I'm even willing to let her have her way with our future children. A strict upbringing can't hurt them and it won't stop them from breaking loose later, once they get out in the world and meet wonderful people from other groups It didn't stop me.

Martha knows I'm a good man. And I believe in God, mainly as He reveals Himself in good people — people who are kind, honest and industrious. I can't see where singing hymns, and lighting candles and going through awkward ceremonials has anything to do with being god-like.

Also, I dislike rigid groupings. I feel more comfortable when I'm among a natural sampling of all kinds of people who are interested in things outside themselves.

But to make things easy for Martha, I'll join her occasionally.

The Council: The predicament the C's find themselves in reveals that intermarriage can take place between people of different faith, as well as those of opposite faiths! They indicate what can happen when, within the same religious persuasion, extreme right wing weds extreme left wing.

Whatever Martha accepts "on faith" and without question, Eugene rejects as superfluous "hocus-pocus." Without defending or attacking the position of either of these mates, we can discuss two points: The importance of a united front on the "official" religious position of the family before children arrive, and the place of "form" in expressing and preserving spirit.

Perhaps a clergyman from a middle-of-the road branch of C.'s church can assist them toward a compromise of their tenets. Religion, after all, is meant to increase family love since the beginning. Both Martha and Eugene, out of respect for each other's sincere convictions, will have to "budge" and give in a little, for a "homogreneous" home.

As is ritual, Martha must admit that one can worship without it. Every fine thought and good deed is a form of worship. But Eugene, in turn, must admit that precious things are best preserved in strong containers. Formal prayers and observances are the traditional "containers" for group and communal worship.

Let's hope. It won't oppress Eugene too much to go to services just for Martha's sake, or Martha too much when ? doesn't.

This and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

The day before Christmas is no doubt the one singular day in the year whose tomorrow contains more meaning for more people in more ways than any other day of, each year. The idea of accepting Boxing Day, the day after Christmas, as a day to relax and to count our blessings and to reflect is becoming a Canadian custom. And who is there amongst us who can or has the right to say "Christmas means this or that and should for all people." Christmas is the great compulsive and the most personal singular day in the year for all of us and each of us in the hearts and minds of men. For all of us and each of us who by accident or from habit read these few lines today is our day before Christmas.

Tomorrow is the day whose meaning can never alter, no matter how men may believe or how men may desecrate. A Child of Peace was born and significance of the meaning of "Peace on earth, goodwill toward men" is a common denominator that is insulted from nuclear threat. If the idol is ignored and really becomes destruction then only mankind will be destroyed, but the Ideal of Christmas remains a star in the heavens.

Alike for individual man and individual nation, Christmas Day has its legend, its historically peculiar background, its common denominator.

Back in 1541 Jacques Cartier and his scurvy-stricken group of men, without benefit of priest or august assembly, repeated the Litany and sang hymns. Cartier said, "God will protect us if we believe in Him." That was Christmas Day. Imagine if you can the day before and the day following in 1535. One hundred years later to the day, Christmas Day, the celebrations were sorrowful for the father of French Canada, Samuel de Champlain, died. Christmas Day in 1791 was celebrated with thanksgiving at Saint John, N.B., when Trinity Church was opened. The royal coat-of-arms which had been brought from Trinity Church, New York, was dedicated by the Loyalists. Picture or let us try to picture how barren and far from peace or goodwill were the Christmas Days of the war of 1812-13-14, Army of the Ghost many thousands of miles from Canada the representatives of Canada, Great Britain and the U.S. met. As the Christmas bells started to chime out the message, "Peace, men, heart-sick of war, placed their signatures on a peace treaty. Once more Christmas was promising, and goodwill raised its hopeful meaning. On Christmas Day in 1866 our Fathers of Confederation met in Westminster, London, and completed the draft of the treaty making Canada manifest, the British North America Act. On Christmas Day in 1898 the Imperial penny postage was made effective in Canada. Christmas Day in 1901 Signor Marconi stood on Signal Hill in Newfoundland and heard the first signal of the letter "S" cross the over 2,000 miles of Atlantic Ocean.

It is thus and thus that nationality, provincially, in family groups and individual minds today's Christmas treasure of memories, present joys and future aspirations. Tomorrow is the day when great armies whose business it was to slaughter 364 other days have been known to cease fire, to sing carols to each other and in individual hearts say "Why do we kill, I don't hate my brother." Tomorrow is the day when hope and promise are made brighter because the background of the realities of our fallibility stand out in relief.

At least we have our tomorrow in 1960 and maybe, someday, our tomorrows will follow each other until the carolers' peace becomes the battle hymns of nations and the spirit of the United Nations. And so for tomorrow-T and T what you all a Happy Christmas.

ONCE UPON A CHRISTMAS TIME

"Like a flame on a candle so creative and light, may you have a Christmas that is merry and bright!"—from an old Christmas greeting.

Among the Christmas greetings received in the mail this morning was a delightful one from a very close friend for more than a quarter of a century. In the corner she has written, "Still remember our Christmas in Rome!" signed, "Ginger."

How good to be reminded!

Probably everyone collects one Christmastime that stands apart from all others — such as the one Ginger and I spent, when we were young and gay, on a "real" Frenchman's farm in Italy. Among the events wonderfully planned by the British educational authorities was a tour of Italy during the Christmas holidays, for teachers from all over the commonwealth.

On reaching Rome, we were informed that Pope Pius XI, much interested in education, would grant our party an audience. We were instructed to wear the customary long sleeved, high-necked, black dress and a black head veil.

Fortunately, I happened to bring along a suitable black dress and, worn it to the Vatican beneath my new fur coat. A black kimono and my pride and joy, so brand new it actually gained me if anything as much as touched its soft, grey fox collar. All that was missing was a gleam and grace for it.

We were inside the Vatican now. The audience with His Eminence was to take place within a matter of minutes, when Ginger, who, all along, had declared she was disinterested, now suddenly decided she most definitely must attend this event.

"What about your dress? How can you attend in a red dress?" everyone gasped.

Shivering from plain nervous tension, I previously had thrown my fur coat cape-fashion over my shoulders and my fingers clutched it a trifle closer to me, I heard Ginger's voice, purring sympathy with words:

"Quickly! That's a darling. Let me have your coat. I've an inspiration!"

The Vatican, of all places, is the last one conducive to effective quibbling. Before anyone could guess Ginger's intention she had stripped the coat from my shoulders, slipped under its glorious collar as she drew the coat and buttoned it securely so that one would never suspect a collar was even attached to the coat. It did not prevent her, however, from a stuffed thickness about the neck, giving her a brooding owlish look. Her hands, too, dangled some six inches from the sleeves, which were far too short for her.

"But you cheated. You must have black ones," someone reminded her.

"Hush" then, some guardian angel brought forth from our pacific every large, real Australian woman, who declared she had just intended going because of her cold and that Ginger was welcome to her shoes, though they might be a little large; she always wore size 12!

Ginger hugged her gratefully, wriggled out of her own size six red shoes and in a flurry slipped on her new footgear and shuffled along like a Hollander wearing sabots. Someone draped an extra black scarf about her head just as she joined our black-clad circle.

In fact, it might be said, Ginger added an interesting "odd" note, that gives a feeling of relief from monotony; as if one of our members might have come from some place like Eskimo land!

Afterward, Ginger said, triumphant and beaming as she slipped off my coat, fluffing up the fox collar, so utterly mutilated looking, (forgot your manners? yes) to as good as new: "I never thought I'd own an audience with the Pope, to a fur coat!"

The fox collar has gone the way of all fox collars, after all these years, and is further recently advised to "just burn the coat" that once witnessed the truth that sometimes a prized possession may give a blessing to others and leave to its wake a happy memory, as revived today when Ginger handed back my coat, along with a Christmas time ever to remember.

A merry, merry Christmas, everyone!

CHRISTMAS TREES AND TRADITION

On the eve of Christmas, the bringing in and burning of the Yule log is an age-old tradition which has come down to us from our Scandinavian ancestors. Legend has it that at this season of the winter solstice they kindled fires and feasted in honor of their god, Thor.

In olden times in England, the burning of the Yule log was a very impressive ceremony. The log was drawn into the castle amid great gaiety and singing, which has since engaged many a trio to sing to the log, but the poorer class saluted it themselves with appropriate songs. When the last flame died out, the remnant of the log was put away until next Yuletide, to be used to kindle the new one.

Today the burning of the Yule log on Christmas eve has a deeper meaning to us, but the significance of the rite is really the same. It is a symbol of good fellowship and good cheer. Family and friends usually gather round on this evening and sign Christmas carols.

The Christmas carol was popular before the fourteenth century, and through the years they have remained a traditional part of the Christmas observance. Over a hundred old carols have survived. They are sung today just as they were centuries ago. We continue to follow the old ritual of having groups of people go from door to door singing the Christmas carols, to be sure to offer them something to eat and drink, or better often money.

When you are decorating your Christmas tree tonight, stop and think what it stands for. Remember some of the impressive legends that have come down to us about the first Christmas tree. Though there is some doubt as to just who originated the custom, it is interesting to delve into some of the stories surrounding the beginning of this wonderful tradition.

It is generally believed that the decorated pine or cedar, or so popular with us today, is of German origin. It perhaps harks back to the medieval custom of welcoming guests with trees studded with candles, while the minstrels sang.

Perhaps Martin Luther could claim the honor. There is a story that he derived his inspiration for a tree from thousands of glittering stars on Christmas eve. Be that as it may, the Christmas tree was introduced into England over a hundred years ago, after the marriage of Queen Victoria and the German Prince Albert. But, even before that, it had been brought to America by German immigrants and the New World settlers, they took up the symbolic tradition.

In these troubled times, Christmas tree may well signify the desire of all of us to live up to the Christmas ideals, for it is but a symbol of the universal love for our fellowmen.

Basically, it is a solemn reminder to each and every one of us, regardless of our station in life, of what we can accomplish by showing consideration for our fellowman.

Women's Activities

MOIRA W.A.

The president, Mrs. Wesley Farrel, opened the meeting. The Scripture reading was by Mrs. Dyson from Isaiah 9:7-36. Comments were made by Mrs. Don McIlroy and prayer by Mrs. W. Farrel.

Business was dealt with and reports given. A slate of officers was brought in with all the offices the same as last year.

Mrs. John Farrel was program convener and the following program was presented: reading by Mrs. George Elsthy; solo, Mrs. A. Mumby, "Long Ago"; topic prepared by Mrs. A. Farrel, "Christmas Brings the Promise of Peace," Mrs. W. McIlroy; a reading, "Memories of Marigny" by Mrs. Milton Vanderwater; a reading by Mrs. Nattel and a piano solo, "Christmas Chimes" by Mrs. James Vanderwater.

A dainty lunch was served, after which Christmas gifts were exchanged.

W. Cook and Mrs. J. Durant.

The consolation prize went to Mrs. J. Peverly, Mrs. V. McClean, Mrs. W. Slade and Mrs. D. Cowley.

Ladies' Section Q.C.C. Holds Bonspiel

The ladies section of the Quinte Curling Club held a one-day bonspiel on Monday with eight rinks participating.

Mrs. P. Acton, head of the committee, assisted by her skippers, Mrs. H. Mott and Mrs. J. E. Bateman were responsible for the success of the day.

Mrs. V. White, president of the Quinte Curling Club, presented the prizes.

The 1st prize went to Mrs. H. Mott, Mrs. G. Hume, Mrs. J. M. Murphy and Mrs. R. G. Lumbers and the 2nd to Mrs. P. Acton, Mrs. J. E. Bateman, Mrs. D. Cowley.

Happy Talk

Someone told me recently that sentimental is a good thing. I was glad to hear this for I am unashamedly sentimental and welcome this opportunity on Christmas Eve to spill over.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

SATURDAY (Christmas Eve)

Oyster Stew; Crackers; Generous Western Salad; Tomatoes, Cucumbers, Lettuce, Parsley, Cabbage, Slivers of Cheese and Mayonnaise; Hot Mince Pie; Cheese; Tea.

MONDAY (Boxing Day)

Cold Sliced Turkey or Goose; Cranberry Sauce; Hot Casserole of Scotch (limas and corn in cheese sauce); Toasted Cornbread; Green Salad with French Dressing); Fresh Fruits: Oranges, Apples, Grapes; Christmas Fruitcake, Christmas Shortbread; Tea.

Christmas morning in the Moore household will revolve around one-and-a-half year-old Susan. Four happily doting adults will watch the cuddly new baby furry toys and watch her gaze enraptured at the lighted tree. We will have the unmeshed pleasure of observing her first conscious Christmas. There will be a slight wistfulness for we will remember her mother and father and brothers cannot be here. However, happy thought, they will reach Saint John God willing by January fifteenth, then there will be a second and oh so happy Christmas dinner. There years is a long time to be away from one's native land.

Although I am a great family woman, I want to make sure you know how much you add to my overall happiness. I consider it a rare privilege to be in close touch with you daily. The letters I receive always give me a lift as I seem to live in a perpetual state of excitement vicariously. This year I have had letters on all kinds of rare topics: One girl had ready misconsent that succeeded and would she be afraid it would explode! Between me and a gentlemen of eighty-two recipes are flying for he wants new dishes to cook for his daughter. From Oxford, England comes a request for elements of English baking powder to use with English flour. (Maybe Marianne will know!). By mistake a letter intended for another columnist asked me how to overcome burping; A young man from White Horse Woods saying he could buy a moonstone for $10.00. Did I think his girl would like it as well as a pearl for an engagement ring?

No wonder Eleanor and I open the mail every day with mixed feelings of apprehension and glee.

So another year is drawing to a close, for me it has been a wonderful one. I've seen my loved ones in England and have met one of their pets right here in my arms. Under the tutelage of Mary Allen Wilkes, Nole is enjoying immensely his first postgraduate year in Psychiatry at Queen's. Everett Hughes, I'm secretly hoping a certain young man may play with a screen for our brand new fireplace.

May your lives burn bright. May your hearts be warm with love from and to your own on Christmas morning.

Christmas Concerts

MOIRA SUNDAY SCHOOL

MOIRA — On Friday night Moira Public School Christmas Concert and "Award Night" was held in the church hall. Mr. Wesley Farrel's class had charge of the worship service.

Mr. Dyson acted as chairman and presented the "Award" of the evening, gold to the boys and girls of Intermediate class and Miss Jimmie Vanderwater and Roy Mumby were presented hymn Books, for highest standing in Intermediate Class. Miss McIlroy was given a cross on a chain, and for the junior class Miss Rhonda Vanderwater was given a Bible. Mr. Dyson spoke a few well chosen words. The program was as follows: reading Mary Ann Mumby; duet — Diane McIlroy and Gail Thompson, "Silent Night"; coronet solo — Billie Vanderwater; solo — Rhonda Vanderwater "How Great Thou Art" and a Christmas play by nine children. Mr. Donald McIlroy showed two films.

Santa Claus arrived and distributed Christmas gifts and bags of candy and nuts to each child.

HALLOWAY S. S.

HALLOWAY — On December 17th, Halloway United Church Sunday School presented a fine Christmas concert. There was a large attendance and the pupils did exceedingly well in their parts, and much credit is due also to the teachers of the various classes.

Juniors — Christmas Nativity Pageant" — Marlene Tufts, Marilyn Kennedy, Linda Wilson, Jane Donaldson, Lenny Workman, Carol Dixon, Glen McMullen, Raymond Hansey, David Huffman;

Junior High — dialogue — "A Lesson in Salesmanship"—Teddy Huffman, Bruce Kennedy, Bill Tufts; duet — "Silent Night" — Frances MacKenzie, Wayne Bowser, and a recitation, "How I Pass the Church" — John Morgan.

The Young Peoples presented an amusing short play — "An Hour in School", Mr. John Emerson appeared stern in his role as school inspector, but he certainly had the sympathy of the audience in that his pupils were anything but models. Even a visit from the inspector in the person of Mr. Ron Denyes, did not improve matters.

Stories of Famous Hymns

By Horace B. Powell

"O HOLY NIGHT"

O holy night, the stars are brightly shining,
It is the night of the dear Saviour's birth;
Long lay the world in sin and error pining,
Till He appeared and the soul felt its worth.
A thrill of hope, the weary soul rejoices,
For yonder breaks a new and glorious morn.
Fall on your knees, O hear the angel voices!
O night divine, O night when Christ was born!
O night, O holy night, O night divine!

Led by the light of faith serenely beaming,
With glowing hearts by His cradle we stand;
So led by light of a star sweetly gleaming,
Here came the Wise Men from the Orient land.
The King of kings lay thus in lowly manger,
In all our trials born to be our friend;
He knows our need, to our weakness is no stranger,
Behold your King, before Him lowly bend!
Behold your King, before Him lowly bend!

Truly He taught us to love one another,
His law is love and His gospel is peace;
Chains shall He break, for the slave is our brother,
And in His name all oppression shall cease.
Sweet hymns of joy in grateful chorus raise we,
Let all within us praise His holy name!
Christ is the Lord! O praise His name forever!
His power and glory evermore proclaim!
His power and glory evermore proclaim.

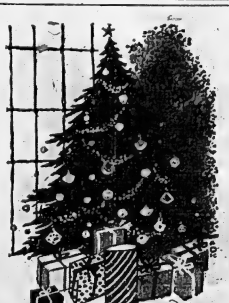
Christmas worship throughout the English speaking world has been enriched for more than a century by this exquisite French carol, and for many Christmases before it came to us through translation is was a favotie in France.

Its French name was "Cantique de Noel" and it still appears under that title in many twentieth century English hymnals.

Little is known about the hymn's creator, M. Capeau de Roquefaire, and about the writing of the original French verses. The lovely English version which has become precious to so many Christians was written by Dr. John Sullivan Dwight, the popular American music critic.

The matchless hymn music was turned out by the celebrated nineteenth century French musician, Adolphe Charles Adam. Mr. Adam wrote church music, pianoforte pieces and many successful comic operas and ballets. He also wrote incidental music for some 30 plays. His fame as a composer of ballet music spread to London, Berlin, and St. Petersburg and won him personal invitations to all of these capitals. Today he is remembered chiefly for his ballet, "Giselle", and for his "Cantique de Noel" music.

Adolphe Adam was born in Paris in 1803 and was the son of the pianist and pianoforte teacher, Louis Adam. The lad showed as early and strong desire to become a musician but his career had to wait for several years while he tried vainly to persuade his father to permit him to enroll at the Paris Conservatoire.



The hymn's translator, Mr. Dwight, was a native of Boston and lived there for more than 80 years. After graduating from Harvard University in 1832, he became a Unitarian minister. His church career lasted only a few years, however, and he withdrew to teach music and classics at the Brook Farm Community. This project also was short-lived and, in 1836, he returned to Boston to found Dwight's Journal of Music, a publication which flourished under his direction from 1852 to 1881.

Wonderful Disneyland Wears Various Faces Each Busy Day

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Anaheim, Calif. — On a hazy-sunny Sunday morning we sat in the little park just inside the entrance to the mecca of world's child-dom known as Disneyland.

It was the first of the day's faces, its silent sleep ruffled only by an occasional arm-gartered or straw-hatted employee unlocking a shop on Main Street, U.S.A. Opening time was still an hour off as somewhere beyond the confusing times and places of supermarkets and freeways the sound of church bells drifted into the little nineteenth century town.

In the rest of southern California when they talk about the turn of the century, they mean the next one. But here the streets are inlaid with trolley tracks and flanked with meat markets and nickelodeons, candy butchers and ice cream parlors, all returned from the time out of mind in which they had somehow become lost over the years.

At the end of the street Wood the green and shady central plaza surrounding its wooded band pavilion and girdled by the gingerbreaded Victorian restaurants with their old-fashioned porches — not lanais or patios, but porches. If the streets had suddenly filled with gentlemen in morning coats and ladies in bustles on their way from church, nothing could have seemed more natural.

At 10 o'clock Disneyland put on its business face and went to work, giving smiles and music to the dream. Horse cars and surreys started their rounds of the street, klop-klopping in harmony with the toots of the Disneyland and Santa Fe's steam whistle, the clanging of the Matterhorn's careening roller coaster and the roars of the man-made bigons in the jungle river rids.

Jazz bands, marching bands and ragtime bands paraded the streets in an everyday Fourth of July; a barbershop quartet in bowlers, handlebar mustaches and hairpieces parted in the middle serenaded from a bicycle built for four; and the bark of the U.S. Marshal's shots as he gunned down Black Bart in the streets of Frontierland drew crowds of children from miles around.

And through it all flowed the tireless whooping and racing of children — walking, running and glumphing from Sleeping Beauty's castle to Tom Sawyer's raft, from the monorail overhead to the Nautilus Polar cruise underwater. In Fantasyland they rode in elephants that really fly, Alice in Wonderland, Peter Pan and Snow White come to three-dem-ensional life from them as they trace the outputt through darkened tunnels to participate first hand in the fairy tale adventures.

It's all as faithful and real as a child's dream, delightfully scaled down to five-eighths life size, and the beefy outnumbered 1-hour to one) grownups are often heard to remark, "Let's leave the kids home next time."

By night Disneyland turns wholly to fancy and fantasy. Gaslamps illuminate Main Street. Sleeping Beauty's castle washes in the lights and hues of a Disney cartoon, and fireflies light up the trees. Disneyland has put on its last face of the day, that of an amusement park — flashing, garish and delightfully unreal.

Resorts and attractions come and go on the American scene, but what has made Disneyland a classic is only five years, luring by 28,000,000 persons through the shifting moods and effects of the Magic Kingdom?

IT WILL LAST

For one thing, the whole approach is characteristic of Walt Disney's philosophy — complete-ness, a grand train, minute detail and careful safeguards against the place turning into the hard-billed tourist trap that is the fate of so many projects.

The 300-room Disneyland Hotel, for example, has free tram service to the park instead of the high-priced taxi concession on which so many operators would have cashed in. There is direct limousine and helicopter service to Los Angeles International Airport, removing the obvious complications of getting there. And they even have a playground for when and if the park palls on the kids. Admission, rides and food prices are all reasonable.

Moreover, Disneyland is never finished. Already it has more than doubled in size. And next Sunday it will add still another face, its holiday mood.

As part of its Christmas Festival, a "Parade of All Nations" is scheduled, with more than 3,-000 participants dressed in the holiday manner of 31 national entries, visiting Yuletide customs from throughout the world.

In addition to song and dance groups, bands and floats, there will be Disney's own "Parade of Toys" — 138 animated wooden soldiers, clowns, trains, dolls and jacks-in-the-box, as well as a single on horseback, cavalry troops and live animals. The toy parade will be featured from Christmas through New Year's.

As Disney continues to outdo himself from year to year, he continues to show that the difference between Disneyland and other amusement attractions is the difference between talent and genius.

SANTA IN AMERICA

A jolly old gent, with a "little round belly," "dimples how merry," and a nose "like a cherry" . . who but Santa Claus!

The description, of course, is from Clement Clark Moore's famous poem which begins "'Twas the Night Before Christmas." Moore, Washington Irving and Thomas Nast are generally credited with being responsible for the images of Santa Claus as we know him today.

Irving is credited with being the "father" of Santa in this country. The year was 1809 and the publication of Irving's Knickerbocker History of New York, which contains 25 references to the fabled gift giver.

According to Irving, Santa wore a "low, broad-brimmed hat," huge pair of Flemish trunk hose and rods over the rooftops dropping his gifts down chimneys. He also had Santa smoking a pipe which was twisted in the hand of his broad-brimmed hat when he was not smoking.

It was Moore who took Santa from the horse-drawn wagons and put him in the sleigh, exchanging the horses for eight tiny reindeer. Thomas Nast, who enjoyed a great reputation as a political cartoonist, started drawing caricatures of Santa about 1863. He retained Santa's pipe, as given him by both Irving and Moore, as well as the beard and furs. But he enlarged considerably Santa's "little round belly," making it the big round one Santa has sported ever since.

"Bill has big ideas", I'd say.

Sometimes when Little Mary's friends were throwing big weddings, she'd look a trifle wistful and say, "Maybe I was a little hasty, but I don't care. Bill says he'll buy me a ring as soon as he gets on his feet. Bill has big ideas. He's going to buy into the business as soon as we get the car and furniture paid off."

George just guffawed when I told him that. "Think's he's going to be a big shot any day now, eh! Oh, well, they'll come out all right."

It was Morry Young who gave away the secret. He's the jeweler in our town, and when Little Mary went in to make a payment on the silver, he winked knowingly and said, "Somebody's going to get a pretty fine Christmas gift". Little Mary teased but he wouldn't tell her more. "Can't say another word", he grinned. "Just that a young man I know is making payments every month now on something mighty fine."

Little Mary came home bubbling. "Oh Mom, I'll bet Bill is giving me a diamond wedding ring for Christmas. Morry says" — and there were stars in her eyes, and I knew then how proud she'd missed it all.

ANXIOUS

As the gifts were distributed we held our breath. At long last, George, playing Santa, pulled out the big one, placed it in Mary's lap. "As if I didn't know", she carped, smiling across at Bill, who shouted, "Go on, open it up".

Little Mary untied the huge bow with shaking fingers. She lifted the big gingerly, expecting to repeat the process. But instead a cotton-wrapped monstrosity loomed up. Quickly she tore away the cotton.

"Sis! Bill! Oh Bill!" she moaned and drew forth— a thirty-two cup silver percolator.

Somehow it didn't look like a coffee-maker to me — it looked exactly like Grace Goodhue Weimsarner. But Bill had Little Mary in his arms, and her heart was in her eyes even if the tears were in her eyes even if the stars were gone, as she kept saying, "Darling, it's exactly what I wanted!"

I guess they know what true love is anyway.

A CHRISTMAS RESTITUTION

BY D.L. ALEXANDER

Mary Wendell stood at her bedroom window scratching at the frost on the glass. It was bitterly cold outside, with a hard wind blowing. Deep snow covered the ground and clung to the leafless trees, and the birds who had neglected to return to the warmer south huddled in such shelter as could be found.

Mary's face wore a look of sorrow and dejection, and a sob rose once in a while to relieve the tension that otherwise threatened to engulf her.

She had tried to save a little money for Christmas, but after paying her bills she hadn't a cent left. Christmas hadn't mattered much because Donnie had been too young to know about such things. This year he had heard people talk about Santa Claus and had asked questions.

It was the day before Christmas, a time of cheer and good will. But there was no cheer in her heart. Life had been trying for her since she had left Concord and cut herself off from her friends of former days. Sickness and the loss of one job after another had kept her on the edge of destitution.

"Mommie, will Santa bring me something?" Donnie had asked when she had put him to bed the night before.

"I don't know, darling," she had answered, knowing she could not buy him even a stick of candy.

She raised her head and looked at the crib where he was sleeping. His was well covered and warm. She left the window and went into the sitting room where a cheery fire dispelled most of the cold. She went to the window and pulled the shade down as if, unconsciously, she could dispose of the black mood that assailed her.

In the centre of the room she fell to her knees. "Oh, God," she prayed in anguish, "please help me. "May I come in," he inquired. my burden for me. I know I did wrong, but I know You have forgiven me by allowing me to keep my little boy. Please, God, provide me with the means of making this a happy time for him, in recognition of Your Son's sacrifices for us. Amen."

VISITOR

A knock on the door brought her to her feet. She glanced that way but didn't cross the room until it was repeated. Then she opened the door to confront a tall, blond man in army uniform who stood in the dimly lit hallway. She recognized him instantly.

"Why, Donald Bruce," she cried hoarsely.

"May I come in?" he inquired. She was too startled to answer, so he laughingly brushed her aside and entered.

He took a quick look around the room and noticed the evidences of poverty. "Why did you quit writing?" he inquired.

"There wasn't much to say," she answered weakly.

He went to the doorway of the kitchen and looked inside. Then he entered the room to the bedroom doorway, saying, "It seems to me there could have been a lot to say."

His eyes took in the crib and the baby in it. He hurried across the room, Mary following him. He looked down and studied the face of the sleeping child for a few minutes, and then turned to Mary with an unspoken inquiry in his eyes.

He looked again at the child searchingly, and then said: "Why didn't you tell me?"

"I didn't think you would care."

"Good Heavens, woman, do you think I'm heartless? Do you think I'd have left you to face all this alone without any help?"

He held his arms out to her, and she flew into them, the tears coming freely.

A voice came from the bedroom. "Mommie, has Santa come yet?"

"Is a little while, dear, and He's going to bring you a new papa," she answered.

LITTLE MARY'S CHRISTMAS GIFT

BY ONA F. LATHROP

this young generation coming up. They have such big ideas, and they want to start in where we left off, instead of at the bottom as we did. And yet they know what true love is. Little Mary's Christmas gift proved that!

George and I didn't get married until we had the down payment on a home, and we had a proper engagement and wedding with rings for each and all the other traditionals. But nowadays . . .

Our little Mary fell madly in love her last year in high school. She talked us out of college and into letting her marry that crazy Bill Fenton at the age of eighteen. He'd found a job — of sorts.

Little Mary didn't want a big wedding. No, no she'd be married in a suit at the J.P.'s. All my dreams of chantilly lace over satin with my own long veil for her, and the brides-maids in pastel colors went glimmering. But I didn't say a word.

They moved into our little garden guest home but insisted on paying rent, even though George secretly salts it away in an emergency fund for them. And Bill never did give little Mary a ring. At the time, she didn't seem to mind.

"Who wants a silly old ring" Bill and I would rather have a dog". So they bought 'The Grey Ghost', a very expensive Weimaraner, instead of an engagement or wedding ring. They paid so much a month, as they did on all their furniture. And now that they have little Marietta they don't pay much attention to him.

"Somebody's going to get a fine Christmas gift".

Christmas Has But One Meaning

Probably, if all the words that have been used to describe the meaning of Christmas were laid end to end, side by side, they would form a gigantic bridge from here to Bethlehem.

Throughout the world, in every corner of Christianity, Christmas is THE holiday, universally celebrated, universally recognized.

Because of the fact that so many have written so much about Christmas and its meaning, it is remarkable that the story of the Nativity has remained such a simple and unaffected narrative . . . "For God so loved the world, He gave His only begotten Son."

In this modern world that we live in, and the space age to which we have directed our best minds and greatest talents, it should be a welcome change for every man, woman and child to seek the serene solitude of the Master's House and there meditate, with reverence, unashamed, upon the true meaning of this holiday that we celebrate as Christmas.

Away from the laughter and festivities, the caroling and the presents, one can still stand in the shadow of the, momentous event which took place nearly 2000 years ago. Because God so loved the world, He sent forth a Redeemer, His only begotten Son, bringing the promise of eternal salvation.

The true meaning of Christmas is neither hidden, nor is it obscure. It is obvious. And it cannot be ignored. This is why Christmas is universal; why it belongs to men of all races, in every corner of the world. And this is why each and every one must carry the meaning of Christmas within his heart—and build his own bridge to life eternal.

LATTIMER'S DRUG STORE

The Christmas season is a magical time of year. Children make impossible wishes and hope dreams they dream delight even the angels. My sister Kathy, at the age of seven, was possessed of one such dream. She credited it to "The Christmas Star."

It was twelve at the time, and looked upon Santa Claus and such things with the tolerant eye of an adult.

"Do you know what I dreamed last night, mommy?" asked Kathy this particular Christmas Eve.

My mother looked up from the dressing she was making. "That you were a princess in a far-off castle?" she asked.

"Oh, mother! I dreamed that last summer. Last night I dreamed that Santa Claus came to visit me, and he brought a lot of friends with him, and each of his friends had a present for me, and—"

"Oh, brother, has this kid got the 'gimmees'," I cut in. "You'd think she was the only one on Santa Claus' list."

"Shut up! Make him shut up, mommy. If I ask my Christmas prayer it will happen—just like in a dream."

"Goody, Goody!" cried Kathy. She scooted for the stairs.

My mother gave me a signifi cant frown. She turned to Kathy: "You should be happy with one or two presents, dear. Besides, I'm sure Santa Claus is far too busy to bring all his helpers to one house." Then she asked me: "Is it still snowing, Bob?"

My mother wasn't merely changing the subject. She was worried about my father. He was due on the 7.15. Our town lay at the end of a spur. During heavy snowfalls the main line was kept clear by the plows, but our little sidetrack usually waited until the next day.

I shook back the curtain. "It's stopped; sure is deep, though. Look how clear the sky is all of a sudden. I'll bet Kathy will be able to see her Christmas Star tonight."

My mother shook her head. "Kathy will be awfully disappointed if her father has to stay in town."

"Dad knows that. He'll make it somehow," I assured her. But I had my doubts. Lesser storms than this had stopped the line.

FEAR GROWS

Kathy went to bed early to speed things up. My mother and I trimmed the tree. By eleven o'clock mother could no longer hide her disappointment. "Isn't this terrible, Bob?" she asked. "If only we had the teddy bear. That's what Kathy wanted most."

Suddenly there was a commotion outside the front door. The door flew open before we could reach it. Grinning like a triumphant general, my father stood in the doorway. Several other guests stood on the porch behind him; some of them were strangers to me.

"We made it!" cried my father.

Why Do We Have Christmas?

It is now the season of Christmas, 1959 years since the Prince of Peace was born in the Fulfillment of Prophecy, to reject a crown of gold and life of splendor for 33 dedicated years and a crown of thorns.

Because He came as a leader and teacher of men, there were those who devised unceasing efforts to degrade and destroy Him. Yet, in spite of this God-like manner, He walked in the valley of men, teaching the fundamental principles of life and truth by both parable and example.

Because He lifted the eyes of mankind above the meaningless values of worldly power and earthly riches. He sinned against plunderers and tyrants, and for this He was crucified.

Because He called out in pain for the forgiveness of those who had tortured Him and nailed His body to a cross between two thieves, He set the highest example of the Golden Rule.

Because He came, with Divine direction, to lead mankind unto salvation, He is with us, always.

Because of His example and sacrifice, the tyrants and plunderers who seek to conquer and enslave are eventually set aside and relegated to oblivion . . . while the lessons of His Divine teachings remain forever, showing the way toward peace on earth, good-will to men.

Because He is always with us, it is fitting that we observe the Christmas, the anniversary of His birth, in the hope that on this new Christmas the hearts of men everywhere will open up to receive His most wondrous message.

The railroad sent a special train out because it's Christmas Eve. It's stuck in a drift this side of the quarry. Fix these folks some hot coffee, honey, so we can get 'em home for Christmas." The plows are working on the roads already."

HAPPINESS

I'd never seen my mother so happy. She served coffee in fifteen or twenty people. They sat in a circle around the tree and chatted noisily. Old ePte Dawkins even tried on the red and white suit he had bought.

Suddenly the talk stopped. All eyes turned to the little girl on the stairs.

"It's Santa's helpers!" cried Kathy. She rushed down the stairs and into my mother's arms. "See mommy, they're here, just like I told you! Now do you believe my Christmas Star?"

"I believe it, darling."

And you know, I felt kind of creepy myself. I went to the window and pulled back the curtains. Kathy's Christmas Star was still there, brighter than the rest, and winking a Merry Christmas to all.

Twelfth Night, Traditional End Of Yule Season

Twelfth Night, or Epiphany, is marked with many customs, ceremonies and legends throughout the world. French and Swiss children, for example, look forward to the pastry they receive on that day in which a bean, coin or china figure is hidden. Whoever gets the prize is crowned King of the family.

Epiphany means "appearance" and commemorates the visit of the Three Wise Men to the infant Jesus. Their arrival was good to believers that at last the Savior had been born.

The visit is told in Matthew 2:1-2: "Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judaea in the days of Herod the king, behold there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem.

"Saying, where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him."

During the Middle Ages, Epiphany or Twelfth Night, was commemorated with plays presented in churches. Solemn observances largely disappeared in Elizabethan England, and they became a time for revelry.

Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" reflects this mood. It was probably presented in a command performance at Whitehall Palace on January 6, 1601, according to historians.

Today child "kings" crowned with golden paper coronets roam the streets of Europe on Epiphany, singing hymns and carols. In Italy, millions of children awake to find their stockings filled with presents from La Befana, the good-hearted witch, who takes the place of Santa Claus.

CUSTOM

In France, a portion of the Epiphany cake is often set aside as "le part de Dieu"— God's share. It is given to the first poor person who comes to the door.

In Greece, three pieces of cake are cut: one for Christ, one for Mary, and one for St. Basil. In Britain, Twelfth Night cake is washed down with Lambs' Wool, a drink made with hot, strong ale spiced with nutmeg and sugar.

New England Tots Had Toys in 1880's

Old Sturbridge Village, Mass., is known about the country for its annual "Muster Day," but this recreated New England town of 150 years ago also comes in for attention at Christmas because of a unique collection of early American toys.

In the early 1880's, Christmas was just another day—unless it happened to fall on a Sunday, as the austere Puritans did not observe the holiday. But children of the day were like children of every period and every country. They did have toys and playthings.

Most of the toys of the day, of course, were probably hand-made carefully and painstakingly by parents. Most of them were made of wood, although some were tin, probably made and sold by the local tinsmith.

The collection of toys at Old Sturbridge Village includes miniature furniture pieces, doll beds, wooden rocking horses, and even a pair of tin "stilts."

Examination of the toys of these early American children indicates that, just as Christmas hasn't changed, neither has the children's preference in toys.

TURKEY and CRANBERRIES

Practically every nation has its special Christmas dish, and since Americans represent people from all parts of the world, it is not surprising that one finds different holiday menus in the various parts of our country. Two menu headlines, however, have thoroughly American pedigrees — turkey and cranberries.

Indians ate wild turkey, cranberries and pumpkins before the first European colonists arrived. The turkey on present - day holiday tables is a domesticated variety of the native wild turkey. Though thoroughly American, the bird acquired a name and foreign origin. It happened that the gobbler was mistakenly identified with the guinea cock, a bird imported from Africa by way of Turkey.

Raising domesticated turkeys is an exasperating business, producers say. The birds are dullwitted, sometimes will not eat for no apparent reason and stampede at the slightest provocation. Cranberry growers flood their bogs in winter to protect vines from cold and insect pests. Machines grade cranberries by their bounce — berries with plenty of bounce are firm and good.

Among other fods on the holiday table, olives and celery are traditional. Celery first made its appearance in France in the 17th century. Olives probably originated in the region extending from Syria to Greece.

Potatoes, corn, lima beans, tomatoes, sweet potatoes, squash and garden peppers claim to be American, born and bred — but most of them first grew in South America, rather than North America.

Gift-Giving 'Must' For Big Business

Christmas business gifts amounts to real big business when it comes to executives of large companies, a survey reveals. It has been estimated that about $2 billion a year is spent on Christmas presents alone by industries for customers, suppliers and others on whose good will businessmen depend.

And fifty per cent of the executives don't like the idea although they continue the practice because they feel they must. Typical comments concerning the practice: "Anyone who doesn't give is out in left field." "A d

"It's a shakedown, and we know it. But we're helpless. We're suckers if we do and saps if we don't."

Many companies believe that a no-receiving policy isn't wise or won't work and permit employees to accept gifts of limited value. They offer the rule of thumb attributed to former President Truman: "If you can eat it up, smoke it up, or drink it up in one day, it's all right."

Six out of every 10 executives in big business "flatly disapprove" of giving business Christmas gifts.

SKIPPY AGAIN

A meal usually leaves the stomach within three or four hours after eating.

FAMOUS SCENE — Folks come from far and wide each year to view the Christmas decorations at New York's famous Rockefeller Centre and to attend the annual Candlelight Concerts held beneath the famous tree shown in the centre of the photograph.

Christmas in Britain Delight for Visitors

There are certain things a traveller expects to find wherever he happens to be at Christmastime: Christmas trees, carols, glittering displays in the shops, the postman rat-tatting at the door and something rather special cooking in the oven. To these things, which stand for Christmas the world over, Britain adds extra ingredients to form its own typical celebration.

Christmas in Britain is heralded by many signs. In London's beautiful and famous Regent Street great blobs of color and light swing gaily over the heads of busy shoppers and all the windows have a festive glitter which adds excitement to the goods on view. Out in the country there are expeditions to the hills and woods to watch the Christmas trees being cut and to gather mistletoe and red-berried holly. The street markets have fantastic arrays of turkeys, geese and chickens, decorations and all the trappings of celebration—so much, in fact, it is a wonder that all is sold in time.

For the Canadian visitor, far from home during this essentially "family" time, Britain provides many homes from hosts. Hundreds of inns throughout the country cater especially to the Christmas traveller—with good traditional food, great comfort and convivial company.

What does the Christmas visitor to Britain remember most vividly? The revelry, perhaps, or the quaint customs which survive in odd corners of the country. Or it might well be the peace and quiet and friendliness of the people. He may feel this on a Christmas morning country walk, in the heart of a city at nightfall; in Trafalgar Square, with its illuminated fountains and giant Christmas tree, which is a present each year from the people of Oslo in Norway, in a gay-stone Cotswold village, where gaily dressed mummers perform a masque in the streets and inns.

The religious significance of Christmas is never lost in Britain and many churches have illuminated cribs depicting the Nativity. In London's St. Martin-in-the-Fields there is a special Christmas Day. There, too, is the Nativity Play. The same pattern is followed in churches, hospitals and schools throughout the country.

Christmastime in Britain brings the pantomime season, with its comical old "dames," who are always men, and its principal boys, who are always girls. Playing their parts, too, will be fairies and goblins, wicked witches and talking animals — in fact, all the colorful characters who go to make up nearly every children's story that was ever written. Like many well-loved and cherished British traditions, there seems to be no reason for pantomimes. They've just been going on for more than 200 years, so they must be good. The audience plays a very important part in every pantomime. They warn the hero of approaching danger, boo the villain and join heartily in the singing. The colorful gaiety of the pantomime is something which should not be missed by anyone who is visiting Britain around Christmastime. For it cannot be found elsewhere in the world.

Christmas in Britain is a time when people gather round the firesides, basking in the glow of blazing logs and roasting chestnuts. It is a time for village singers to wend their way by starlight to sing outside the door of some great country house. It is a time of mince pies and of children's stockings mysteriously filled during the night by Santa Claus. It is a very, very important time.

Whatever your way of life, your future depends upon your heart. No one is immune to heart disease. Canadians everywhere are learning that cardiacs can resume their places in their communities as useful and productive citizens. Heart disease is an enemy that takes more lives than all other causes com-bined.

We echo the prayer of millions throughout the world at this Holy Season... that soon there will be peace for all men. And, we pray that each of you will have a most joyous Christmas Holiday.

Following the Star

They followed a Star. But what of us? What star shall we follow? Sputnik? Echo? Vanguard? In our time have we any star to guide us, any truth to ask?

These men called "Wise Men" had a living Word to follow. They knew of a star, for they read, they thought, they prayed, they acted on the knowledge given to them.

These men called "Wise Men" were no lonesome strugglers with history. Together they searched and they reached beyond any narrow boundaries of nation or race.

They followed a star. Do you suppose any man could ever say that of us, and call us "wise"? It is not enough to talk of stars: We are meant to be like stars in a dark world.

To any who think we have no star to guide, look again. God's truth still breaks through to guide men to the only righteousness and the only peace.

To you—a Blessed Christmas—and a Star to guide!

— Ralph W. Loew, D.D.

CHRISTMAS HOME-COMING

BY WILLIAM L. ROPER

Jake Yancy took no part in the holiday merriment on the train. His ears, long accustomed to prison silence, resented the gay chatter of the youngsters going for Christmas. Even their plans were of a different kind.

As the train chugged by the long, curved grade toward Logansville, he stared unseeingly at the snow-laden pine trees glistening in the late afternoon sun. His mind was on what he planned to do that night — something that he had been thinking about for a long time. Almost unconsciously, he touched the handle of the small automatic in his overcoat pocket. His lips tightened into a hard line and he half-closed his eyes. It would not be long now.

Often during his ten years in prison, it had seemed a long way off. But now here was within a few miles of Logansville and Big Ben Patterson.

He could see Big Ben as he looked that day there in the courtroom, testifying for the State.

"It was him — Jake Yancy", Big Ben had said, "I recognized him by his brown overcoat and hat when he ran out of the store."

It was that testimony by Big Ben, Logansville's town marshal, that had convinced the jury. Thinking it over night after night in his prison cell, Jake had often wondered if Big Ben had lied deliberately, or if he had simply been mistaken. The fact that Big Ben had married Milly soon afterwards might indicate that it was deliberate.

It was getting dark when the train ground to a stop at the old weather-beaten Logansville station. Jake walked for the youngsters, bound for the Christmas holidays, to get off first. Then he came down the steps, he glanced quickly around, looking for big Ben.

The marshal used to meet all trains. Tonight his face was missing.

After a drink of coffee at the restaurant next to the station, Jake struck past the Christmas tree on the courthouse lawn. A group of children were singing Christmas carols.

"Silent Night, Holy Night!" The voices reminded him of other Christmas Eves when he was a little boy.

MEMORIES . . .

Somehow these memory-flashes of other Christmas Eves kept haunting him as he walked out the tree-lined street to Big Ben's home. He recalled the sleigh bells and the parties. And several times he paused, trying to shake off the Christmas spirit that seemed to have come over him.

Finally, he came to Big Ben's place. His heart beat a trifle faster.

Jake rapped softly on the door. He heard quick footsteps inside. Then the door opened. There in the lamp-light stood Milly, an expression of pleased surprise on her face.

"Why Jake!" she exclaimed. "It's so good of you to come. Please come in".

With a puzzled frown he followed her into the living room. Milly, he noted, appeared worn and tired. Yet she was still beautiful.

"Where's Big Ben?" he said. "Oh", she said, patting a hand to her forehead. "Then you don't know. Big Ben passed away last Sunday . . . drank himself to death."

"Drank himself to death!" Jake said. "Why, I never knew he touched liquor".

"It was the news that you were innocent, Jake". She spoke softly. "He started drinking the day the news came that another man confessed the bank robbery.

He came to Big Ben's place and his heart beat faster

THERE HE IS . . . Many a youngster would like nothing better than to catch Santa Claus coming down the chimney.

He felt terribly remorseful for his mistake.'

"Mistake!" Jake said.

"Yes, Jake, you don't think he deliberately framed you, do you?"

Jake shook his head. "Of course not, Milly. Besides what's done is done. And this is Christmas". He smiled and walked out into the cool, crisp evening.

A Careful Holiday

Americans are "holiday-minded" and, usually enjoyment of a holiday means piling into the family car and taking off for a visit with friends and relatives. Christmas and the after-Christmas holidays are, no exception.

Yet, this is the time of the year when driving conditions are at their "worst". In many sections of the country— snow, ice and unpredictable weather conditions.

Most winter drivers have snow-grips, chains, and comfortable auto heaters, all of which make driving easier and somewhat safer — certainly more enjoyable. But winter driving offers many more hazards than are present during other seasons of the year. So — be careful —don't mar the holiday season by injecting a note of tragedy. If you drive, drive carefully, as if your life depended upon it — which it does.

ABOUT EGG NOG

It is generally believed that Eggnog came to us from the Old English sack-posset, a hot drink which contains the same ingredients—milk, eggs, sugar and nutmeg. No one really knows who invented Eggnog. Researchers just say that it goes 'way, 'way back and like Topsy it "growed and growed."

The flavorful taste of Eggnog is not the only reason for the drink's popularity. Eggnog is easy to make, it goes a long way, and it allows the hostess to have as much fun as anybody else without having to worry about the guests. Eggnog is a serve-yourself drink, and most folks seem to prefer to fill their cup themselves.

Eggnog is flexible. That is, you can make a lot of it in one batch If you've got a large enough punch bowl and your refrigerator is particularly spacious. On the other hand, Eggnog can be made in smaller quantities—which are equally delightful and flavorsome.

And, of course, in these modern times, you can buy it at the super market or from the milkman—packaged in containers of various sizes.

Prime Minister Canada's Top News-Maker

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

John Diefenbaker was Canada's top newsmaker for 1960.

Voting in a Canadian Press poll, broadcasters of Canada's daily newspapers picked the prime minister over Jean Lesage, new premier of Quebec.

The federal prime minister then resumed a new ratification in 1957 and held in 1958. Last year he shared the spotlight with Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland.

For a second straight year the sailors picked Nikita Khrushchev as the world's newsiest man. He finished well in front of President-elect John F. Kennedy. Scattered votes went to Patrice Lumumba, Joseph Mobutu, Fidel Castro, Gen. de Gaulle, Dag Hammarskjold and Caryl Chessman.

His closest competitor was Anne Heggtveit, Ottawa's Olympic ski champion. Others in the top ten included publisher E. P. Thomson, Cyrus Eaton, Joan Atkinson of ice-wonderful fame, Maurice Richard, and pianist Glen Gould.

Christmas Concert

UNION SCHOOL

RYLSTONE — Mrs. Cora Reid and her pupils at the Union School, Rylstone, held a most successful Christmas concert on Tuesday evening, December 20. The singing included "Three Kings", "Silent Night" and all were invited to visit them in their home.

The ladies served refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed.

Mr. Keith Dempster of Barrie was the Station agent at Bonarlaw for the weekend.

Mr. Stanley Cook visited Mr. Wilber Lin in Peterborough on Wednesday.

Mrs. Tom Frost, Mrs. Bert McCoy and Mrs. Everett Heath were guests of Mrs. Mel Neal's 15th birthday party at the home of Mrs. Neal's daughter, Mr and Mrs. Geo Carisle on Stirling. The many friends of Mrs. Neal at Bonarlaw wish her many happy returns of the day.

Mr. Jason Baker is ill at his home.

Bonarlaw

BONARLAW — Mr. and Mrs. Bill McKelvie and boys of Campbellford visited Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Burkitt, on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Will Rose is with her grandchild, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lewis of Sovereign, Sask. owing to the serious illness of her mother.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Gerald McFaul in the death of Mr. McFaul's father, Mr. Wm. McFaul who passed away on Tuesday in Kingston Hospital, served attended the funeral on Thursday afternoon.

HOLD PRESENTATION

Friends and neighbors met in the Parish Hall of St. Mark's Church on Wednesday evening to honor the newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kitchener, after an evening spent in playing cards.

The Rev. R. G. Fleming invited Mr. and Mrs. Kitchener to the seat of honor. Ernest Stiles read the address and Mr. Jason Baker presented Stan and Violet with a purse of money on behalf of their friends, both graciously thanked everyone and all were invited to visit them in their home.

The ladies served refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed.

WILL TRADE CULTURES

CAIRO (AP)—The United Arab Republic and the Soviet Union signed a two-year cultural and scientific co-operation agreement Thursday. The agreement aims at strengthening cooperation in science, education, arts, sports, radio and television.

Geneva Control Commission May Be Revived

LONDON (AP) — A Soviet spokesman agreed with Britain Thursday that it would be a good idea to revive the 1954 Geneva commission to meet the crisis situation in Laos degenerates into a "second Korea."

This view was expressed by the official Soviet news agency Tass in an article by commentator Vasili Kharkov, broadcast by Moscow Radio.

Lord Home, the British foreign secretary, told the House of Lords today he planned to approach the Laotian government with a proposal to revive the Indian - Polish - Indian commission, which monitored the peace after the Indochina fighting six years ago.

Meanwhile, in Washington, the United States warned Russia anew Thursday of its "serious concern" over Russia's continuing airlift of weapons and supplies to pro-Communist rebels in Laos.

Christmas Bells

Bells have long been associated with Christmas and New Years as well as hundreds of other joyous occasions, but there are fewer today than there have been for centuries.

During World War II thousands of bells were melted down for metal or were shattered by bombs. After the war only three churches in all London had bells that could be rung. In Germany, the Nazis melted down an estimated 150,000 bells, only a fraction of which have been replaced. Italy restored more than 11,000 church bells lost or damaged in the war.

LAST MINUTE PRESENT

BY F.L. ROWLEY

Elaine glanced up at the clock. Fifteen minutes more and the doll would be hers. Mr. Rogers had promised to let her have it at half price if no one bought it before closing time. Ever since she was a little girl Elaine had wanted a baby doll — just like this one.

For the third time in ten minutes she arranged the few items left on the toy counter. These last minute shoppers were so messy. All except that charming man in the tweed coat. He'd been the only bright spot in a hectic day.

"Well, did you buy yourself the Christmas present?"

Elaine turned to see Helen Smith grinning at her. Helen was in cosmetics.

"Not yet, Helen. Mr. Rogers says I can take the doll off the shelf at exactly five o'clock. Isn't she adorable? I hope no one runs in to buy her at the last minute."

"Not at that price!" scoffed Helen. "Unless your prince charming returns".

"Prince charming"?

"Don't kid me. That chap in the tweed coat. Now there's my idea of a Christmas present! He was in at least twice today again —wasn't he?"

"Three times", said Elaine, blushing. "He's been my best customer."

"And greatest admirer, if you ask me".

"Oh cut it out! Judging from the toys he bought he must have a dozen kids. No one's given me a second look in twenty-nine years. I don't think they're going to start now".

"Really? Well take a peek at who just walked in the door!" Helen scurried away.

Elaine held her breath. The man in the tweed coat was heading straight for the toy counter. For a second Elaine had a wild urge to hide the precious baby doll. He was upon her before she could move.

BACK AGAIN

"Hello again!" he said gayly "Say, you're done a land-office business since I was here last. Not much left, is there?" His grey eyes studied the counter and the shelves behind Elaine. "That doll would make a fine present for some little girl".

Elaine's heart sank. "It's—it's more for a big girl", she stammered. "Besides — it's so expensive".

His eyes were sharp. He looked at her for a long moment, then said: "I'll buy the doll."

"Yes sir", said Elaine, turning quickly. She regained her composure while wrapping the doll. "Is it for one of your little girls?" she asked.

"For the little girl."

"Oh—and those other presents, too, bought?"

He leaned across the counter. His eyes twinkled. "There's eight boys", he whispered confidentially.

"Eight!" Elaine stepped back. "Goodness—what a big family!"

"That doll would make a fine present for some little girl."

The man in the tweed coat was laughing. "Yes, isn't it? Too bad they're not mine. I'm just an uncle".

"But the little girl — she's yours!"

SURPRISE

He stroked his chin thoughtfully. "I sincerely hope so. This morning I asked Mr. Rogers what she wanted most for Christmas, and he said: "The baby-doll on the shelf over her head.' To me it seems like an odd present, but I guess you know what you want". He held the box out to her.

Elaine gasped. "Mr — you mean me?" The clock struck five. "Oh, but you — I mean we —could have saved—"

"You could have saved. And if you'd bought the doll it wouldn't have been a present from me, would it? And then I wouldn't be able to ask a favor of you".

"A favor?"

"We have supper with me. And to have Christmas dinner with me tomorrow if you're not tied up".

"I'll get my coat", said Elaine breathlessly.

Congo Officials Held For Links With Red Lands

Mobutu Will Try Pair For Security Crimes

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Two high-ranking Congolese government officials were held under arrest, charged with illegal contacts with the Soviet Union and Red China.

They are Dominic Ube Tchitery, permanent director of the foreign trade ministry, and Alphonse Makwambala, head of the national statistics office.

Gilbert Pongo, security chief of Col. Joseph Mobutu's provisional government, announced that both were arrested before Christmas and said he has evidence against state security."

No courts competent to try such cases have been functioning in The Congo since most of the Belgian judges and court officials fled in the post-independence turmoil.

Pongo said both Tchitery and Makwambala were found to possess documents indicating they were in regular contact with Soviet and Red Chinese officials.

RULED ILLEGAL

"All such contacts are illegal in The Congo," Pongo said. "The Congo government official—since we take off all ties of colonialism—is a Communist bloc," Pongo said.

He added that Tchitery's wife was the head of a Communist-line women's movement and that Makwambala's documents showed a strong Soviet interest in his department. She was not arrested, however.

Pongo said most of the documents against those supported Communist-line rebel regime of Antoine Gizenga in Stanleyville.

Gizenga is trying to take the place of imprisoned ex-premier Patrice Lumumba. He has declared Stanleyville the national capital and his regime the nation's only legal government. The Soviet-bloc countries have expressed support for Gizenga's move but thus far have not given him formal diplomatic recognition.

KIDNAP PRESIDENT

Pro-Communist rebels in Stanleyville are believed to be trying to extend their control to another province with the kidnapping of the provincial president of Kivu and several of his ministers.

An extension of rebel power to Kivu would leave the pro-Westbloc government of Col. Joseph Mobutu with nominal control of Leopoldville and Equateur provinces and part of Kasai province in the Congo's interior.

The rest of Kasai and Katanga province have broken away under Katanga President Moise Tshombe. The leftist rebels hold sway in Oriental province while lies north of Kivu.

Fighting touching UN headquarters here said they seized Bukavu airport and Gen. Maurice Mirobo said a number of his ministers, who escaped the rebel attack, is the direction of Stanleyville, 600 miles northwest of Bukavu.

ATTACK UN LEADER

LONDON (Reuters) — Moscow Radio charged today that Ralph Allen McKeown, Irish-Army chief of staff now serving as deputy commander of the United Nations force in the Congo, "His name was connected with the slave-trade, that is with the people for whom Britain pays England," the radio said.

Only Kerosene Used Says German Airline

COLOGNE (Reuters) — The West German airline Lufthansa today denied "outrageous" a British claim that some big airlines used a fuel mixture which has dangerous explosive properties for their jet aircraft.

Lufthansa said since the introduction of jets in the airlines, only kerosene, which did not present a danger of fire, was used in their machines.

Misses Dinner Both at Home And in Prison

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — James Hamilton, serving three months for theft in Barlinnie prison, didn't get his Christmas dinner.

Prison officials told him Christmas Day he had been released. He was about to have Christmas dinner at home when police came and said it was a mistake. The prison had released the wrong man.

Hamilton missed Christmas dinner at home. He got back to his cell too late for the prison Christmas dinner.

U.S. Death Toll On Roads Below Total Expected

CHICAGO (AP)—Traffic accidents during the long Christmas weekend took a heavy toll in lives, averaging six an hour, but it was less than predicted by one estimate of 516.

The number killed in the three-day holiday period also may be the lowest for a comparable Christmas period in 12 years.

Safety experts were hopeful belated reports of traffic fatalities would hold the final count under last year's total of 493. That was the lowest toll for a three-day Christmas period since 1949 when the total was 413.

Deaths in traffic smashups slackened Monday night despite increased traffic as millions of motorists jammed highways heading for home from Christmas visits. Rain and ice made driving hazardous in some areas and the death rate dropped slightly.

The count at midnight local time, at the end of the 78-hour holiday period which started at 6 p.m. Friday, showed 474 killed in motor vehicle accidents.

Fires also took a heavy toll with 76 deaths reported compared with 42 for last year's Christmas weekend holiday. Various types of other accidents claimed the lives of 80 persons compared to 72 last Christmas for an overall total of 598 violent deaths. Last Christmas the total was 670 accidental deaths.

The National Safety Council, which estimated a possible death toll of 516, said traffic fatalities would number 330 on a normal non-holiday weekend at this time of year.

The record traffic death toll for a three-day Christmas holiday is 609 set in 1955.

1960 NOT HAPPY OR SUCCESSFUL QUEEN DECLARES

West, Communists Hear Message

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth called on the Commonwealth Christmas Day for a determined effort to "halt and reverse a growing tendency toward violence and disintegration."

The 34-year-old Queen declared in a Christmas message broadcorded for radio-television that 1960 was "by no stretch of the imagination" a happy or successful year for mankind.

"Arguments and strained relations as well as natural disasters have all helped to produce an almost unique tension and uncertainty over the whole world," she said.

Her message was televised and broadcast by radio throughout the world, including Canada, on Christmas Day. It is the traditional "same day" coverage by TV and radio of any event in history.

Versions of the 500-word message were also flown through out the Commonwealth for broadcast at local time Christmas Day, but throughout the West and into the Communist bloc.

CLING TO PRINCIPLES

The Queen said causes of tension are those of self-determination, but added:

"It is at times of change, disorder and uncertainty that we should cling most strongly at all to principles which we believe to be right and good.

"Sometimes we may know it, or would like it to be, depends upon a constant striving toward better things.

"In times of stress, such as we are living through now, the determined effort by men and women of goodwill everywhere can halt and reverse a growing tendency toward violence and disintegration."

A technical hitch robbed British TV viewers of her first few words. The Queen mumbled inaudibly through half of her opening sentence. Then the sound

Frost Opposed To Less Work For Same Wages

SUDBURY (CP) — Premier Frost of Ontario disagrees with Canadian Labor Congress industry union leader that the way to end unemployment is a reduction in the work week without any reduction in pay.

Claude Jodoin, president of Local 598, International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Ind., has released for publication his reply to his letter to Mr. Frost.

"There is no other real way to end unemployment except by increasing productivity," he wrote. "If we are then more productive we simply cannot sell our goods to the markets of the world."

Mr. Jodoin said the 35-hour work week with a take-home pay based on 40 hours, the present work week.

Ont. Secondary School Teachers Think Highly of Their School Bds.

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's secondary school teachers took a long look at their employers last spring and have rated the province's school boards high.

A confidential report, issued to members of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation this week, sets boards up replies to a questionnaire from 90 per cent of Ontario's teachers.

The questionnaire, drawn out by the federation executive last year, was designed to help and give their opinions on the local school boards' attitude towards educational improvements, relations between teachers and the board, and conditions of work.

Only Hamilton received many criticisms from its teachers. The report showed that teachers have a high opinion of most other boards.

Teachers were cautioned not to reveal contents of the report.

Donald Thomas, president of the federation, said in the report it was intended "mainly as a help to teachers who are changing positions and also gives some general conclusions as to the opinion of teachers of their school boards."

He added that the report "should be of considerable interest to the province's school boards."

Of 90 boards rated, 10 got 100 per cent, good 66-74, fair 42-58, inadequate 35-50 and unsatisfactory less than 35.

The following boards falled the "good" level:

Bradford, Burford, Cartwright (Orono), Dryden, Fort William, Hastings, Chelmsford Valley, Cobalt, Dufferin Centre, Eastview, Grimsby, Haileybury, Hamilton, Little Current, Lucknow, Manitouwadge, Mountain, Osgoode Township, Petrolia, Plantagenet, Rideau, Rockland, Russell, Set-forth, Schreiber, Simcoe and Stormont North.

Any board on which there were fewer than 75 per cent of all possible replies was excluded from the lists in the report.

Canada Has White Christmas; Christians Pray for Peace

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Christmas, 1960, was quiet in Canada. Canadians celebrated the holiday around their hearths and at solemn church services.

From coast to coast it was a white Yuletide—and generally a crisp one, with temperatures hovering near zero or dropping below it in many areas.

The Christmas scene was strictly different on Canada's Atlantic and Pacific coasts. Temperatures were in the 15-30 range Christmas Day in the Maritimes and climbed to the 40s Monday. Christmas had its share of white Christmas on each coast, and Anglo Saxons the world over, making the youngest man in the crew captain for the day while the real skipper trudged back and forth from galley to mess with the turkey dinner.

Boxing day was sunny in Vancouver, but Premier W. Alexander Jim McCague splashed through slushy water to make first place in the annual swimming race for the second straight year.

Toronto, with 2.3 inches of snow, had a white Christmas.

Stores in most Canadian towns and cities were closed Boxing Day, but shopping in some areas was in most areas were open.

Police said most of the traffic on the roads was light. In general, it was one of the lightest days for traffic in years.

Toronto, with balmy weather Christmas day changing to freezing late Boxing day, reported a record number of drinking drivers rounded up Christmas and Christmas night in jail. On the week-end only 70 were arrested were on impaired driving charges.

Kennedy Aides to Discuss Expansion Space Program

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John Kennedy and senior advisers will delve into the nation's space plans for expansion and strengthening of the United States' space program in the years to come.

Scheduled for more discussion, too, are state department operations.

Kennedy arranged another round of talks with Vice-President-elect Lyndon Johnson and Senator Robert Kerr, Oklahoma Democrat who is a friend of both Johnson as chairman of the Senate space committee which the new Congress convenes next month.

Also sitting in again will be Representative John Rooney, New York Democrat who is chairman of the House of Representatives appropriations subcommittee which handles state department funds.

Kennedy has announced that in the new administration Johnson will be chairman of the National Aeronautics and Space Advisory Council.

During the presidential campaign, Kennedy accused the Eisenhower administration of lagging behind the United States lag behind Russia in moving into space. Kennedy promised that if elected he would beef up the American program.

During the Christmas weekend there were these other developments:

Kennedy headquarters put out a lengthy critical report dealing with the government's regulatory agencies. The study, made for Kennedy by Landis, a former chairman of seven of the agencies, recommended a far-reaching reorganization.

Landis said the agencies were influenced by outside pressures, undue power too cozy with those they are supposed to regulate.

He accused both Presidents Eisenhower and Truman of a lack of concern for the agencies, of "indifference bordering on hostility," political reasons rather than ability to do the job, and failing to avoid outside influences them-selves.

Kennedy called the report a most important and impressive document, and said it deserves the attention of Congress and the agencies.

Says Big Airlines Hush Up Use of Explosive Jet Fuel

LONDON (AP) — Lord Brabazon of Tara, a veteran authority on aviation safety, Monday accused major airlines of hushing up the use of a highly explosive jet fuel.

The now fuel is called JP-4 and is a blend of gasoline and kerosene. It is used by a growing number of airlines whose jet aircraft have replaced the less explosive kerosene.

Brabazon, 76-year-old chairman of the British Air Registration Board who was knighted by Queen Elizabeth in 1953 for his services to civil aviation, said: "It is patently clear that the switch over to JP-4 is based on money-making."

He made the charge in a letter to The Manchester Guardian, correspondent of the International Federation of Air Line Pilots' Associations which represents the major airlines.

Brabazon also made public an earlier letter from Hildred Carlton of airline pilots' association statements before "emotion-charged meetings."

The argument started with a television program in which Brabazon charged that

Rail and Bus Travel Heavy As Result of Bad Weather

After Brief Relief Mercury Plunges Again

After a brief respite from the zero weather experienced late last night, the thermometer again tumbled suddenly last night with temperature this morning registering a chilly four below.

Comparatively mild weather was enjoyed for Christmas Day and Boxing Day with a high of 37 degrees recorded yesterday. Then late yesterday afternoon the thermometer started to drop and turned to snow and at four this morning the mercury had gone down to zero.

And it continued to drop until right this morning, when the low of four below was registered.

Water Works System Topic At P.U.C. Meet

CAMPBELLFORD — The Campbellford Public Utilities Commission held its regular meeting this week when they decided to have a telephone interview Dr. A. E. Berry of the Ontario Water Resources Commission in Toronto early in 1961, to discuss the proposed water and sewage system for the town.

The delegation will include Manager Arthur Evans, Public Utilities chairman H. A. Mac-Arthur and Mayor F. M. Rutherford.

Arthur Evans reported that the new sub-station in the industrial area is constructed and supply power to the new Campbellford Woollen Company plant, should be ready for operation by the weekend. The sub-station, which at a cost of about $40,000 has a capacity of 3,000 KVA. The new pulp mill will require about 2,000 KVA, which leaves a surplus for future expansion and additional industrial requirements of about 1,000 KVA.

The manager and the chairmen were asked to look after organizing the Christmas party for the families of PUC employees.

Last Thursday's severe blizzard today was credited with boosting rail and bus travel over the Christmas holiday weekend.

Spokesmen for Colonial Coach Lines and the CNR were delighted with business over the weekend but not holding out hope for any increase over the New Year weekend.

Colonial Coach Lines spokesman said that although business "Christmas night wasn't exceptionally heavy", it was steady. Extra buses were pressed into service on some trips, he added, noting that last week's blizzard helped business.

How about business possibilities this coming week-end? "We'll see," he said, "it all depends on how much money the people have left, I guess".

Meanwhile, the CNR-CPR pool trains were reported to have done "exceptionally good" business over Christmas. Transcontinental trains were booked solidly and the airlines picked up a fair to handsome share of the Yuletide vacationer's business.

"We got a lot of the highway traffic", said a ticket office spokesman at the CNR station. "All trains were well filled".

Four extra trains were operated on the east end west runs Christmas Eve and one was pulled off the Montreal run last night. Trains this morning were reported to have been running on schedule carrying the holiday overflow.

Passenger travel was quite heavy due to the blizzard last Thursday, Canadian Pacific spokesmen Alex Wilson. "People who don't have motored were by train".

Mr. Wilson noted the coming New Year holiday as being a normal holiday weekend". Mr. Wilson said the railroads claimed the railway on the New Year holiday gets about two-thirds of the Christmas business.

AGREEMENT SOUGHT — Federal-provincial negotiations on a new tax agreement to replace the one expiring March 31, 1962, have been adjourned.

Negotiations now are being carried on by letter in an effort to resolve differences that cropped up during conferences in July and October.

Graph shows a steady increase in total grants from the federal government to the province since 1950.

Unconditional grants are mainly tax-sharing payments. Conditional grants cover shared-cost programs such as the Trans-Canada Highway, welfare payments and health grants. (CP Newsmap).

Federal-Provincial Accord On Constitutional Reform Has Brighter Prospects Now

By JAMES NELSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Prospects grew brighter in 1960 for federal-provincial agreement on constitutional reform.

In a series of meetings, to be continued in 1961, the two levels of government made more progress on the problem than at any time since the 1920's.

A new spirit of Dominion-provincial co-operation also was shown in the willingness of Ottawa and provincial governments to join Ottawa in long-standing joint undertakings such as the Trans-Canada Highway and hospital insurance.

An impasse had developed over tax-sharing arrangements. Political wars between the Progressive Conservative administration of Prime Minister Diefenbaker at Ottawa and the Newfoundland Liberal government of Premier Smallwood continued with no easy solution in sight. Ottawa also had a fight on its hands with British Columbia's Social Credit Premier Bennett over Columbia River power development.

PRESERVE BNA SPLIT

Underlying all Dominion-provincial affairs is the division of legislative responsibilities written into the British North America Act in 1867, which all disputants want to preserve, but on the application of which they argue. The conflict arises from provincial need of federal help, particularly in finance, while the two levels of government strive for retain financial sovereignty in their separate fields.

The stage for the year's developments was set when new governments, both Liberal, took over in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, the Premiers Lesage and Robichaud took their places at the Dominion-provincial fiscal conference table in July.

Mr. Robichaud, as a representative of one of the so-called have-not provinces, spoke strongly in favor of the same things sought by Premiers conferences by his predecessor, Conservative Premier Hugh John Flemming, now federal forestry minister.

But the biggest change was in the attitude of Quebec, generally a hold-out under the late Union Nationale premier Maurice Duplessis. Premier Lesage assumed the ministry stand on federal-provincial relations with Ottawa and took the lead in two important directions.

WIDEN BILL OF RIGHTS

At the July conference he proposed, and Mr. Diefenbaker readily agreed, that the senior governments should tackle constitutional reform immediately and see to extend to the constitution a Canadian Bill of Rights applying to both federal and provincial jurisdictions. The present bill applies only federally.

Premier Lesage also suggested a conference of the provinces to discuss provincial problems. This bore fruit in early December when representatives of the 10 provinces—including eight premiers—met at Quebec in the first conference in its kind in this country. Another conference is scheduled for next spring in Charlottetown, where an 1864 pre-Confederation conference agreed on the broad structure of the Dominion.

The first Dominion-provincial constitutional conference since 1950 was convened in Ottawa in October with constitutional expert Paul Gerin-Lajoie, Quebec minister at young, joining the attorneys-general of the other provinces and Justice Minister Fulton.

It agreed a formula could be worked out for transferring the BNA Act from the British parliament to Canada and, at a November meeting, that the provinces should try to compromise their principal points of view on Premier Smallwood reiterated, amendment of the constitution in Canada.

SASKATCHEWAN RALKS

Everyone agreed that bilingualism and provincial rights in education should be preserved, but Saskatchewan refused to recognize the rule of unanimity for constitutional changes to offset acts of the constitution.

Another constitutional conference is to resume Jan. 13-13. Saskatchewan's stand may be modified.

But the main discussions on fiscal matters are to be carried on indefinitely, following conferences on the premiers and federal ministers in July and October. Negotiations are being assisted by correspondence in an effort to resolve differences before the expiry of the present tax-sharing arrangements March 31, 1962.

Ms. Diefenbaker tossed a bombshell at the premiers when he suggested that the provinces take the political responsibility of increasing their shares of personal income and corporation taxes and succession duties. Ottawa offered to fill whatever gap resulted.

The federal government now occupies the tax in all three fields and turns over an agreed share—20 per cent of personal income tax, nine per rent of corporate profits and 50 per cent of succession duties—to provinces which rent the Edels to Ottawa.

STAR DOUBLE TAKING

Eight provinces now have rental agreements covering all three, while Ontario rents the personal income tax field and Ottawa and collects Its own corporation profits tax and succession duty. In both provinces, federal taxpayers are shield for provincial taxpayers in line with the 13-8-50 formula.

But the prime minister's suggestion ran into provincial criticism that it would lead to encroachment to the jungle of double taxation of the pre-war period. The federal government also spoke in favor of the same things sought by premiers conferences by his predecessor, Conservative Premier Hugh John Flemming, now federal forestry minister.

But the biggest change was in the attitude of Quebec, generally a hold-out under the late Union Nationale premier Maurice Duplessis. Premier Lesage assumed the ministry stand on federal-provincial relations with Ottawa and took the lead in two important directions.

Obituaries

WILLIAM ANDREW CRANSTON

In failing health for some time, William Andrew Cranston, 62, of Everett Street, died Christmas Day at the Shepherd Nursing Home. He was in his 65th year.

Mr. Cranston was born in Farmaugh County, Ireland, in the village of Enniskillen. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Cranston.

He came to Canada at an early age and immediately associated himself with the Canadian Pacific Railway where he resided for some 35-40 years.

Mr. Cranston owned a fine farm on the eighth concession of Thurlow and became known as one of the more successful farmers of the district.

He was highly esteemed by a large circle of friends and greatly respected in the agricultural areas in which he worked and moved.

During the past fifteen years Mr. Cranston had been engaged in the cattle and hog shipping business.

He was a member of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church and was a life member of Tweed L. A. F. & A. M. Lodge No. 219. He was twice married, his first wife being the late Hettie Ann Bell in 1934.

He is survived by his wife, the widow of the late Thomas Lloyd, one son, Richard John Cranston of Halifax, three daughters, Mrs. Milton (Marjory) Snider of Wellington, Mrs. Earl (Beatrice) Snider of Hallowav and Mrs. George (Ruth) Hall of R. R. 5 Belleville, and a stepdaughter, Mrs. Ernest Hall of Belleville.

Also surviving are a brother, Albert of Hamilton, and a sister, Mrs. Frank (Ann'e) Doxtator, of Shannonville. There are 14 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Resting at the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Home, the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

ALFRED TILL NEAL

MARMORA (Special)—H gh-ly respected resident of Marmora village and Rawdon township, Alfred Till Neal passed away suddenly in his 63rd year on Saturday.

Mr. Neal was resting when stricken suddenly with a heart seizure.

The funeral was held at 2.30 this Tuesday afternoon from the Bowdon Funeral Home, Marmora, with the Rev. R. G. Fleming officiating at the chapel and graveside services. Interment was made in Marmora cemetery.

Mr. Neal was well-known in the district having been born and lived in Rawdon township and residing in Marmora for the past 35 years prior to his retirement five years ago.

He was engaged in the cheese-making industry having made cheese in Rawdon township for 30 years. During his time he owned and operated the Double Point Lodge at Crowe Lake.

He was a member of St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora and for many years a member of Marmora Lodge No. 118.

Mr. Neal was always interested in public affairs and a staunch Conservative in all his life.

Surviving are one daughter Mrs. Ruth Wilson (Edna) of Port Colborne, two sons Clayton of Marmora and Harold of Marmora and three grandchildren. His wife the former Dora Bowdon predeceased him 12 years ago.

ALEXANDER BONIAKOWSKI

The funeral of Alexander Boniakowski was held on Saturday, December 24th, at 2.30 p.m. from the John R. Bush Funeral Home to Holy Rosary Church for Requiem Mass. The service was conducted by Rev. Maurice Imbbolt with prayers by the deacon side by Rev. J. Bolger.

Interment was in St. James Cemetery.

Bearers were Michael Masin, Michael Reshkan, Peter Vyshepenko, Milton Bowers, Joseph Storey and Ken Vene.

Christmas in the City Was Quiet, No Serious Mishaps, Say Police

A quiet Christmas!

Despite a heavy volume of holiday traffic which streamed along No. 2 and 401 highways, there were no serious accidents in Belleville or immediate district with only one minor resulting in personal injury.

And there were no motorists found to be driving under the influence of drinks with police from both departments reporting no drunk or impaired drivers.

In the city one borderline ordinary drunk was picked up on Christmas Eve. But police were lenient and the man went home to his wife and family.

Since Saturday morning provincial police have investigated eight accidents, all comparatively minor with the exception of one which saw a three year old boy suffer facial lacerations.

The accident occurred Sunday night at No. 37 and 401 highway. Police said cars driven by Charles Reid, 45 Bridge Street, Belleville, and William Stevenson of Ottawa, collided. Mr. Reid's young son Charles William Reid, suffered facial cuts.

Only a few minor accidents were reported in the city.

The only other police activity was in the role of peacemakers. Several calls were received Christmas Eve with officers settling as marksmen in as many family quarrels.

Christmas Busy For Fire Dept. But Loss Small

Christmas doesn't necessarily mean a holiday for firemen and the holiday weekend was no exception for members of the Belleville Fire Department who since Saturday have been called out on no less than five occasions.

Two of the calls were for fires, one was a false alarm, one a smoke investigation, while the other was a service call. .

Sunday morning firemen were called to 58 Yeomans Street where a small fire was reported in the basement of the home.

Also on Sunday morning, firemen were called to the Central School for the Deaf for what turned out to be a false alarm. It was the second false alarm at the provincial school within the past week.

The reels were also called to the Bonisteel General Hospital once for a smoke investigation which resulted in firemen becoming from a sterilizer, and again for a service call to remove icicles which were a potential hazard hanging from a roof.

Canadian Finds Chinese Not Building Bomb

NEW YORK (CP) — Data gathered by a Canadian scientist indicates that Communist China is far engaged mainly in theoretical work rather than experimental in nuclear physics—a pathway to atomic energy or bombs.

Dr. Robert T. Beyer of Brown University in Providence, R.I., is presenting data gathered by Dr. Ta-you Wu of the National Research Council in Ottawa, on Monday China has at least one atomic reactor, at an undisclosed location.

The reactor presumably was built with Soviet aid, Dr. Beyer told the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The meeting heard a dozen experts spell out China's progress in science and technology in the 10 years since the Communists came to power. Generally, they found it impressive.

Rotary Club Hears Yule Message

CAMPBELLFORD — The Rotary Club were hosts to some of the elderly gentlemen of the town at their Christmas meeting, on Monday at the Legion Hall.

Dr. Dave Burgess proposed a toast to the guests and Major J. Wyatt responded. Secretary Sam Howe, 96, went the honor of being the oldest guest present. He received a prize from this president Hector Macmillan. President Hector also presented the Legion ladies with a gift, which was received by Mrs. Shaw.

GUEST SPEAKER

Past president, Paul O'Sullivan, introduced Father Molonay, who delivered a Christmas message. In his address he asked the question "Why Do We Need a Saviour," and outlined the history of Christ's coming as mentioned in the old testament in saying, "Christ, son of God, yet became the form and likeness of man wag born and died to be the Redeemer of men. This is why we are happy at Christmas. As the prisoner is set free from prison, we are set free from our sins through His redeeming power."

The speaker was thanked by Rotarian, Gordon Whitehorne.

It was announced by the president, Hector Macmillan that the club's offer made for the old Separate School property and equipment, has been turned down by the principals concerned and the transaction should be completed shortly.

her next atomic instrument below ground.

The French did not issue the usual 12-hour warning to airlines to reroute their African flights to stay clear of a wide area around the test base at Reggane. This indicated the French government there was no danger of radioactive fallout outside the immediate vicinity of Reggane, a desert area 1,500 miles south of Oran, Algeria, which is closed to commercial flights at all times. The nearest inhabited oasis is some 80 miles away.

Almost all the independent states of Africa have protested the French tests at Reggane. The African governments contend the fallout from the tests endanger their populations.

The third test was one more step in President de Gaulle's determined drive to gain France a voice in the exclusive "atomic club"—so far confined to the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union.

With the third explosion, he now may be able to claim U.S aid in atomic development with more force. The U.S. McMahon Act limits the sharing of atomic secrets to friendly nations that have made "substantial progress in their own defense development. Previously only Britain qualified.

France's exclusion up to now has angered the United States to diplomatic friction within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. One result has been de Gaulle's refusal to allow storage of his air force with NATO's new air defence system.

Further friction between de Gaulle's determination—despite opposition at home and abroad—to build an all-French nuclear striking force independent of NATO.

Two Nominated For Reeveship In Tyendinaga

A possible election in the township of Tyendinaga is looming on this year as result of a spirited nomination meeting held in township hall on Monday.

There were three nominations for reeve, two for deputy reeve, and eight for the three seats open for the township council. Candidates have until nine o'clock this evening to qualify.

For the reeveship there could be an election between incumbent Charles Fitzgerald and deputy reeve Michael Horrigan. Mr. Horrigan has already qualified while Mr. Long has yet to make up his mind whether to run for reeve or not.

Nominated for deputy reeve were Ernest Vanalstine and Fitzgerald, both members of this year's council. Mr. Glass has already qualified.

Nominated for council are Russell Glass, Alvin Fitzgerald, Delbert Harvey, Bernard O'Sullivan, Joseph Hickey, Ross Warfame, Jack Sherman and Charles Bates Jr. Mr. Fitzgerald, Mr. Harvey and Mr. O'Sullivan have qualified.

Should there be an election for reeve in Tyendinaga this year it will be the first contest for that post for many years.

Dr. G. G. Clegg, Trenton-Born, Buried Today

KINGSTON (CP) — Funeral services were held today for Dr. George Gilbert Clegg, 73, a founder of the Ontario Crippled Children's Society and the second president of that organization.

Dr. Gilbert Stafford Clegg had lived in Kingston for 18 years. He graduated from Queen's University medical school in 1913 and during the First World War was head of the isolation ward at the old Kingston military hospital on Cataraqui field.

Before going into private practice as a general practitioner, Dr. Clegg served with the department of veterans' affairs.

He died in Kingston General Hospital Friday night after a brief illness.

Kenneth Clegg of North Bay is a son.

5 Cars Collide On Saturday

TRENTON — In spite of an overlapping rain and snow and icy road situation, accidents in Trenton over the holiday weekend were few and far between.

On Saturday at the 3 p.m. rush hour, five cars in a traffic line up were involved in a chain reaction accident, resulting in an estimated $400 damage.

Cars driven by John Chouinard, Sidney Street, Ronald Jones, and Cecil Humphrey were involved. Driver of the fifth car, which was first in the lineup, is unknown. Damage in this case was so slight that the car was apparently unaware that four cars behind him had piled up, so he drove away.

No Accidents

BRIGHTON — Corporal Lloyd Lyle of the Ontario provincial Police reports that this area was free from accidents over the weekend. One minor accident resulting in $50 damage occurred this morning.

Cpl. Lyle said he thought motorists in the area were exercising particular caution while driving this month.

'Nye' Bevan Was Best Known Politician to Disappear From World Scene in 1960

By TOM MITCHELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Aneurin Bevan, who began his career in Welsh coal mines at 13 and rose to become deputy leader of Britain's Labor party, died of cancer during 1960, probably the best-known politician to disappear from the world scene.

"Nye" Bevan had been sent in the House of Commons continuously from 1929 until his death July 6. He endeared himself even to his political opponents with his ready wit, determination and his clear-cut, sometimes cutting, speeches. At health minister from 1945 to 1951 during the Labor party's term of power, Bevan helped forge a socialized system of medical care still operating in Britain.

In the field of literature, death took Boris Pasternak. Dr. Zhivago novelist who won a Nobel Prize for his Doctor Zhivago but it was not permitted to leave his country to accept it.

THREE AUTHORS DIE

Nevil Shute, 60, author of many novels including A Town Like Alice, On the Beach, died in Melbourne. An auto accident in France killed Albert Camus, 46, French novelist and playwright, John Phillips Marquand, a 1938 Pulitzer Prize winner, died at his Kent Island, Md., home.

Many talents disappeared from the world of music.

Arthur Rubinstein, 83, a star of New York's Metropolitan Opera, died in New York after brain surgery. Jussi Bjoerling, 49, Swedish tenor known to opera audiences around the world died of a heart attack. Leonard Warren, 47, star baritone of the Metropolitan Opera, died during a performance.

The popular music field lost Oscar Hammerstein, 63, whose composing genius helped make Oklahoma! and South Pacific world famous.

Famed Greek conductor Dimitri Mitropoulos, 64, died suddenly of a heart attack ended the career of Clark Gable at 59. The durable star died just months before the birth of his first child, due early in 1961.

Ward Bond, 57, a television and movie actor, died in Texas of a heart attack.

Is This a Wise Move?

The recent decision of the City Council to add an administrative assistant (personnel manager and purchasing agent) to the executive staff at the City Hall is one of the decisions from council members. We do not at all question that the same appointment would be accorded the appointment by the general public—and we have an uneasy feeling that, in a case of least, the general public is more likely to correct than are the members of the Council, despite the fact that these members are, or ought to be, much more familiar with the problems involved.

With the theory of central purchasing there can little quarrel. It is doubtless true that this system is served many private companies well. But it not be too frequently emphasized that the business the Corporation of the City of Belleville is not a rate business, but public business, and that there st important differences between the manner in hich the city's business is administered and the anner in which a private firm manages its affairs.

Ald. Ben Corke, who did raise objections to the appointment, appears to have put his finger on a real flaw. To date there is absolutely no assurance at the various independent boards, commissions and committees will co-operate with departments under the rect control of the city council in the proposed central chasing system. Without such co-operation, the nefits which might accrue from such a system will be tastically curtailed.

But, if such co-operation is forthcoming, it seems us that there will arise certain problems, which ight not be duplicated in a private business, the anches of which, while perhaps the responsibility of ferent individuals, are in the final analysis under e over-all control of one chief executive. There is such chief executive, or board of directors, for the airs of the city. The Mayor of the city happens to a member of the Police Commission and of the ydro Utilities Commission, by virtue of his office. t is far from all these commissions are every bit independent and sovereign bodies, in their own fields responsibility, as the City Council itself. Even the ds and committees whose members are appointed, whole or in part, by the City Council enjoy a large easure of freedom in the conduct of their affairs. The nd we are trying to make is that the purchasing ent will have not one, but many, bosses. If this es not make his task impossible, it will certainly ncrease its difficulty.

Aside altogether from this point, can any one man e expected to possess a proper knowledge of the types equipment required for a "business" such as the versity of interests as the City of Belleville? The rchasing agent, we presume, will be expected to be re than an order clerk, filling out the forms to plement the orders of the heads of various depart-ents. But where can the man be found who knows much about hospital equipment as the person who now responsible for the purchase of such goods, much about electrical supplies, from transformers fuses, as the person who now places the orders for e needs of the Public Utilities Commission, as much about road rollers as the engineer and as much about hool supplies as the administrator of the public hool board?

As the same time there are many areas where operation is not only possible but the lack of it ould be sheer bull-headedness. There is no sense, r instance, in every office in the City Hall buying its wn stationery, as we understand was once the case and may still be so. The purchase of uniforms for he policemen and firemen might well be undertaken cooperatively, at a saving. The functions of the ublic works department under the City Council and he water department under the Public Utilities Commission frequently overlap, to the extent that there re instances where the same official is in charge of oth operations, and some co-operative buying would ppear to be indicated here.

But is there any need for the appointment of a new official to "co-ordinate" such activities? We suggest that there is not—that, in fact, the reverse is true and that since the same department may find it expedient, to co-operate, in different spheres of its activities, with various other departments, under the direction of various wholly-independent boards, the best results would be obtained by leaving the liaison between departments to the various boards who administer the affairs of these departments, letting them adjust arrangements to suit differing personalities and circumstances.

This system would have the added advantage of saving almost $10,000 as compared with the arrangement approved by City Council.

To those who have always believed, as in one of the eternal verities, in the doctrine that a French cook could consider it insulting to create a dish on the basis of anything but the most freshly purchased of food, the news that France is going in for frozen foods will come as an earthquake. Now anything can happen. We expect any day to hear of gum-chewing in Westminster, or hamburgers at Lord Mayor's banquet.—Halifax Chronicle-Herald.)

Housekeeping On the Moon

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

Don't be in too big a rush to line up for that trip to the moon. Like up there could be a bit rugged.

However, Prof. Zwicky, of Mount Wilson and Palmar observatories, says human beings probably could eke a living on the moon and might even create a kind of atmosphere which they could breathe with the aid of a mask stocked with certain gases.

Rocks on the moon's surface almost certainly contain all the chemical elements which could be made available for synthesizing fats, drink and other necessities, says the California astronomer. The professor recently addressed the Meeting of the National Astronomical Observatory and the Academy of Scientific Investigation.

Prof. Zwicky is the discoverer of "supernovae," the distant stars which flare up with the brilliance of a million suns and burn themselves to death in a few moments.

Hundreds of years back in the early flush of rocket and satellite enthusiasm, Robert Emery United States business man opened up an office selling space vessels for trips to the moon. So far as we have heard, they are not selling many. Prof. Zwicky may have secured your little ranch on the moon—so here is what you will need to set up housekeeping, according to Zwicky:

Rocks, and a furnace, a solar furnace which focuses the sun's rays to produce great heat, and a crucible to hold batches of rock to be disintegrated by the heat.

An iron jet electric generator which produces positively and negatively-charged particles from the disintegrated rocks to produce current.

The first products of rock disintegration would be oxygen, nitrogen and carbon dioxide, for breathing; and water, set into vapor part of rock crystals.

From these chemicals and a few more such as carbon, sulphur, Chlorine, sodium and potassium could come food, and even alcohol for a cocktail now and then.

Plants, green plants, nourished by water and fertilizer from the rocks and plentiful sunshine to stimulate growth, would furnish materials for salads and also would help close the circuit.

We have no information on the cost of such a moon trip.

So there it is folks—but don't crowd—they haven't announced the off-time yet for that first passenger rocket yet.

Atomic Waste Causes Worry

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

Health Minister Monteith, who never has been one to show undue concern over the dangers arising from either fall-out or nuclear waste disposal, continued to maintain a bland attitude when he was done little to allay public fears.

In answering a question concerning reports that the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission planned to dump radioactive garbage of some sort little more than 100 miles south of Yarmouth, Mr. Monteith said this to say in the House of Commons on Friday:

"The authorized area closest to Yarmouth is about 100 miles to the southeast of the continental shelf. International authorization is that only materials can be maintained over the distance of twelve miles under certain conditions such as those employed in this area."

Apart from the discrepancy in the basic matter of mileage, this statement leaves a few serious grave doubts. The subject is worth a fuller explanation than that given by the Health Minister and his rich seal-top beds.

Discourages Copying U.S.

The Ottawa Citizen

There is no longer much interest in the country in a U.S. style social security scheme, and quite rightly.

Although Prime Minister Diefenbaker in his last election campaign spoke enthusiastically of the scheme as a possible means of supplementing Canada's universal old age pension plan, a government-financed study by Dr. Prof. Robert Clark, of the University of British Columbia, has discouraged action.

Prof. Clark has now told members of the Canadian Tax Foundation in Toronto that continuing study of private pension schemes is best, provided they do not be made more portable.

But a major weakness of private pensions schemes is that in most cases, workers cannot take their equities with them to new jobs. If they could, the working force would be much more mobile and it would be easier for persons over 45 to find jobs.

Qantas Real Air Pioneer

New York Times

The story of Qantas, the Australian airline, which is welcomed Perhaps no other facts of heroic dimensions in pioneering and technical decelebrated airline. The Australian airline has a symbol that appropriate as well — the flying kangaroo.

It started operations with two war surplus biplanes in 1920 engaging in passenger, mail, express and air taxi operations. In twelve months it had opened various setbacks, including desertion of its pilots and the unauthorized flight of flying boat during the Second World War, the line began to show signs of health. From a pouch baby it has grown to a position among the top ten international air carriers.

Its present-day passenger crossings were epics of aviation history. The Indian Ocean hops, Perth to Colombo, 3,513 miles, in overloaded Catalina flying boats were made in radio distance and with no modern aid of navigation. Among the first women to was inaugurated of the first round-the-world air service through New York in 1938 and the same route in 1939 with pure jets. It is now flying Boeing 707 jetliners, Electra turboprop-liner aircraft and the propeller-driven Super Constellations. An airline still poised for other leaps — in commercial aviation, it is to be congratulated.

Columbia Meets Debts

Memphis Commercial Appeal

A round of applause is due Colombia.

The government and businessmen of this Spanish-speaking nation in 1956 owed $47 million dollars outside the national boundaries, and had almost run out of credit for borrowing more.

Only four years later the external debt had been reduced by 270 millions, and credit has been restored.

A former newspaperman, Alberto Lleras Camargo, became president in 1958. He introduced austere methods. For instance the average age of automobiles in the streets of Bogota is 18 years. Some imports are illegal and others are very high to say so, but there are low prices for Colombian products.

But most of all this end of piling up of bills to be paid by another generation, the actual reduction of debt, is a sublime example of refreshing that everyone ought to know about it.

Picket Line In Bowlers

Windsor Star

The scene of something or other occurred in Derby, England, recently. A number of strikers sprawled while wearing bowler hats and carrying umbrellas. This was no mere stunt or affection. It is understood that to many of the strikers, bowlers and neatly furled umbrellas are accoutrements of their trade.

It was a strike of bankers, of all things. It didn't concern only the clerks. There were 14 different grades in the parade of 500, the workers and their immediate bosses being in union in shirking all were underpaid. The managers were receiving £2,031 a year, or approximately $3,500. What the more lowly employees got can be imagined.

Bank managers in the United Kingdom belong to the financial class which is expected to be impeccably dressed. The bowler hat and umbrella are indicative of th ir status (all except financial status, that is).

Derby is the natural site if bowlers are to be worn by strikers. "Derby" is a synonym for race.

Strictly Personal

Plane Travel Still Only For the Elite

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Hardly a week goes by that I don't take a plane somewhere. I like the airline people, I like their courtesy, their efficiency. My complaints are minor, and far over-balanced by my gratitude;

But let no one talk about airplane travel as "mass transportation." Not yet. It is still for the elite, especially when it comes to overlong distances.

Mrs. Harrison wanted to go to California for a week during the holidays to visit relatives. Papa and mama and two small children, I inquired about the roundtrip fare on "family plan". The cost: $977.

When I picked myself up from the floor, I cancelled each jet. This time the answer didn't cost me; I just stayed firmly put and hung up the phone in a trance. The cost: $676.

Mind you, I am not indicting the airlines, for whom I have a constant affection. Theirs are expensive to buy and to operate. There is no suggestion that the airlines are making excessive profits.

Even travel figures, like all figures, can be deceptive. For instance, the domestic scheduled air carriers in Canada carry 5 million passengers last year. It is estimated that 80 per cent of the tickets sold are accounted for by less than one per cent of the adult population.

If these figures were weighed by the size of the wallet, one would find that the airlines get half their business from one-third of one per cent of the adult population — or about 6 fifth of the adult population. Drive Cadillacs.

The automobile has become by far the greatest mass travel medium in the country. It has crippled the railroad passenger service. It may eventually injure the long-distance operations of the airlines, unless fares can be brought down to the level of the average income.

Until then, the nation will continue to spend billions on new highways that are out-moded almost before they are completed. What this highly mobile country needs as much as anything else is a mass-travel, air-rail, long-term program for transportation that will meet the public's needs, make a decent profit, and cost less.

Queen Drops Token Rents

The Marquis of Savernake need no longer blow a horn if the Marquis of Aylesbury is dead. The Lord Mayor of London no longer presents him with horseshoes a year. To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

COLOSTOMY PATIENTS RESUME ALL FORMER ACTIVITIES

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please write an article concerning colostomy people — diet for comfort and to keep weight down, but still enough food to keep tract function, etc. — Mrs. R. M."

Colostomy is the term used when, because of some disease affecting the lower part of the colon, that organ is shunted to the abdominal wall. Cancer is one such disease; severe colitis and some other conditions also can require removal of part of the lower colon and hence make a colostomy necessary.

Often surgeons have patients who are to undergo the operation talk with others who have had it, because the idea of a colostomy is, understandably, a great worry to many people.

The purpose in having patients talk with others who have had the operation is to assure them that it is possible to resume all former activities afterwards. I am not indicting the airlines, for whom I have a constant affection. Theirs are expensive to buy and to operate. There is no suggestion that the airlines are making excessive profits.

COLLECT PEOPLE

As we walk further into life, the people we meet along the way mean so much more to us that we are inclined to start collecting them for greater or less degree. But soon we begin to draw on them. We see in them the use we have and want. And so, like the miser, we find that each person we become a part of them and they a part of us.

What you are is mostly what a score or a hundred or a thousand other people have already been.

I'm into a friend recently who told me he began years ago to keep a list of interesting and helpful people whom he met. He then said he now has a list of more than 4,000 names. And that in this list are those who inspired him through his business career and that inspiration for him in his personal life.

What finer business could one

THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARK

Two years ago, a couple of men I knew almost ended a business partnership that had profited them both for fifteen years. In the final accounting, one of the partners took advantage of a legal technicality, left the partnership and came off much the better of the two.

The one I knew best, the loser, with whom I have done some fishing, consoled himself after meeting with a very curious theory.

"Jim," he said, "I'll get even with you. You won't know I am even with you. But I will."

In the two years that have passed the loser in the partnership dissolution has flourished financially and materially and it seems full of a secret glee. The winner, whom I encounter from time to time, and who is aware that I heard about the threat, has only appeared depressed. Yesterday I met the loser and he was positively crowing.

"By the way," he said, "I got a note from my late partner today. He says he is now glad with me. What do you suppose he means?"

I hadn't the vaguest idea.

It must be a nasty feeling to know that you have been got even with unawares.

Import Buying Jumped Sharply In November

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's import buying jumped sharply in November and produced a $58,200,000 trade deficit, ending a four-month string of trade surpluses, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

This let Canada with a $115,600,000 trade deficit — excess of imports over exports — for the first 11 months of the year. But the country's trade picture was still well ahead of last year, when there was a $412,000,000 deficit in the January-November period.

Exports in November totalled $675,700,000, down four per cent from the November, 1959, figure of $685,600,000—last year's peak month. Imports in November rose to $514,900,000, up 7.3 per cent from the year-earlier level of $480,300,000.

Niagara Falls Ice Jam Breaks

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—An ice jam which nearly dried up the American falls last weekend appeared to be breaking up today as water thundered over about one-quarter of the 1,000-foot-wide cataract.

The ice had choked the eastern channel of the upper Niagara River from Goat Island to the American mainland above Prospect Point. The jam diverted the pounding water to the larger Horseshoe Falls on the Canadian side.

Water ran over a 50-foot section of the American falls Sunday. Local sources said it was the first time in more than 20 years that river ice had sealed off that much of the falls.

An ice jam dried up the American falls for a week in 1936, but

De Gaulle's War-End Plan Attacked by Politicians

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle's plan for ending the bloody Algerian war was attacked by two leading politicians Monday night as Moslem rioting continued in Oran, Algeria's second largest city.

Conservative leader Roger Duchet and radical Felix Gaillard, a Fourth Republic premier, used the state radio and television network to condemn de Gaulle's self-determination plan.

Both said the voters should be guided by their consciences in the Jan. 8 referendum, which will approve for speedy settle's proposal for speedy self-government in Algeria, with the Moslem majority taking a much bigger part, and a referendum in the North African territory after peace is restored to decide on Algerian independence.

SAYS SENSELESS

Gaillard said de Gaulle's plan has been "accepted of all sense" by the recent bloody clashes in Algiers and Oran. Duchet said de Gaulle was installed in the presidency to save Algeria and maintain French control over the territory.

Moslems, European settlers and police clashed intermittently throughout the day in Oran. Officials said the casualties were one Frenchman killed, five French wounded and two Moslems wounded.

WARN RIOTERS

French authorities in Algiers, scene of rioting two days a weeks ago, warned that continued clashes between Europeans and Algerians would lead to Algeria's ruin.

A French army spokesman claimed that 344 rebels were put out of action in fighting throughout Algeria last week. Of these, he said, 31 per cent were taken prisoner. As usual, no French casualty figures were released.

The Algerian rebel government in exile also attacked de Gaulle's referendum, saying it is an obstacle to peaceful solution of the Algerian war.

New peace talks were offered by French Premier Michel Debre in a speech at Amboise. But once more he said negotiations must be confined to obtaining a cease-fire, and he again refused to recognize the rebel government as the sole representative of Algeria's Moslem majority.

Four Children Burned to Death Near Brantford

BRANTFORD (CP) — Four young children were burned to death when fire destroyed their home on the Six Nations Indian reserve, about 10 miles south of here Saturday night.

Those killed were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Orton Webster, who left the house a short time before the fire to deliver Christmas presents to relatives living nearby.

The fire followed another at Minaki, Northwestern Ontario, where four children died in a blaze that levelled their one-room cabin Friday night.

The Brantford youngster were Olga, 4, Gwen, 3, Chester, 2, and Martin, nine months. Another child, Jeanette, 6, escaped. Witnesses said Gwen reached the front door and then ran back into the flaming house.

A neighbor, Albert Marsele, said he saw the house a mass of flames and could hear the children screem. He broke a window of one of the bedrooms, but it was not the room containing the children.

He said, "It was so hot and smoky I just couldn't get to them."

The Minaki dead were Josephine Kelly, 4, Alice Kelly, 3, Mary Kelly, 2, and Ann Waggoner, 2, the children of Dennis Kelly and John Waganese.

Thirty persons stood by helplessly as the cabin burned. Minaki, 21 miles northwest of Kenora, had no water to fight the fire.

Bodies Probing Railways, Mags, Autos to Report

OTTAWA (CP) —Three of five federally - appointed royal commissions studying problems vital to Canada's future are expected to report to the government early in the new year.

They are the commissions inquiring into railway transportation and freight rate problems, the Canadian automobile industry, and the economic and other forces affecting Canadian periodical publishers.

Most of the three others' reports are ready, two other commissions will be at work on government organization and operation and on the health needs of Canadians.

Announcement of the latter was made by Prime Minister Diefenbaker last week. Its composition and terms of reference will be announced later.

This brought to 12 the number of royal commissions named by the Progressive Conservative government since it took office in June, 1957. Seven have made reports and the government has acted on some of the recommendations.

SITS JAN. 4

The six-man commission on railway transportation, headed by Regina lawyer M. A. MacPherson, has been at work since September 1959. It will hold its next session in Ottawa Jan. 4. Final argument by all parties will start Feb. 10. Mr. Diefenbaker says he will receive the commission's recommendations by March 31.

Meanwhile, the government had Parliament postpone until mid-May a threatened strike by railway non - operating unions, hoping the commission's recommendations will help solve that problem.

Catholic Priest Bans Church Bazaars, Raffles

WEST NEW YORK, N.J. (AP) The pastor of a Roman Catholic Church here says there'll be no more carnivals, bazaars or raffles to get funds for parish needs.

Instead, church members will be asked to donate 10 per cent of their gross income to the church and church - approved charities, he said Monday.

The priest, Rev. John P. Weiland, said he was taking the step to put an end to the church's "carnival atmosphere."

The new system he outlined—which really isn't new at all—traces its history back to the early days of the church. It is called tithing.

A spokesman for the Jesuit weekly magazine America says the custom of tithing is virtually unknown in Catholic parishes in the United States.

But he added that Father Weiland would be within his rights in specifying to parishioners how to apply the law of the church, which obligates all Catholics to contribute to church support.

Father Weiland said bingo games would be continued. About 95 per cent of the bingo players are not members of his parish.

Tito Declares China Behind Parley Attacks

BELGRADE (AP) — President Tito Monday accused Communist China of engineering the attacks at last month's Communist summit conference on Yugoslavia's independent brand of communism.

Then as if to show Peking his kind of communism works, Tito told parliament the new five-year economic plan will turn Yugoslavia into an industrial country and make life for its people easier and richer.

The efforts demanded by the plan, he said, "will not be made at the cost of the various privileged or halting the tempo of the rise in the standard of living, as was necessary in the first phase of post-war reconstruction."

Communist China, organizing its economy for rapid development with absolute power to society, has been the most persistent critic of Yugoslavia. Tito's brand of communism allows greater personal freedom than in any other Communist nation and follows a line independent from Moscow in foreign affairs.

At last month's Moscow meeting of 81 world Communist parties — and including Yugoslavia — a final communique assailed Yugoslavia's policies, which Communists call "revisionism."

"How did the Christmas dinner go?" asked Susan. "Quite a chore with so many!"

"Call it a chore, if you must," she said. "Half of us took no puddings, a quarter of us refused turkey, and by the time the party would eat neither. However, half of us there ate both, so it wasn't all wasted."

People and their fads! She must have been disappointed after all the trouble.

How many must there have been at that dinner?

Ham Operators Work Overtime Christmas Day

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. (CP)—Ham radio operators in the far north and in all 10 provinces worked overtime Christmas Day to permit people at isolated northern outposts to communicate with friends and relatives on the "outside."

Many amateur radio operators between British Columbia and Quebec were on the air specifically to handle Christmas messages to and from the North.

Licensed radio operators in the Northwest Territories, whose call letters all are prefixed with the call-VE2, traditionally hold a Christmas Day "radio party" with assist each other in taking to relatives, in cities and towns across Canada.

The longest call reported was from within the Arctic Circle to Phoenix, Ariz. The most northerly points on the air were Aklavik, Eache Harbor and Mould Bay, all in the Northwest Territories.

WEDDING

CHAUMONT — COONEY

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Salvation Army Citadel, Belleville, on Monday, December 19th, 1960, when Major J. Carter united in marriage Beverly Joan, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cooney, of Ivanhoe to Paul Richard Chaumont, only son of Mrs. Lorraine Chaumont of Belleville.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Barbara Cooney of Ivanhoe and the bridegroom by Mr. Marvin Cooney of Belleville, brother of the bride.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's sister in Belleville. The young couple will reside in Belleville.

W.A. Holds Party, Elects 1961 Officers

JOHNSTOWN — The Women's Association of Johnstown held a Christmas party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sickle's candle-lighted home with a fine attendance on December 14th at 8 p.m.

The meeting opened with the theme song and prayer, Miss Alex Vandervoort gave a pleasing report on the results of the candle light tea and sale. A donation was given to Johnstown W.A. by Mrs. Curt Orr. Donations were sent to Worlds Missionary, the Retarded School, and to Scott's Mission.

Mr. Walter Lukes offered a week's work early in the spring if it was decided to redecorate the church and if some of the men folk would care to help him.

A slate of officers for 1961 was brought in by Mrs. Ernest Bush: president — Mrs. Earl Sickle; 1st vice to be filled later; 2nd vice — Mrs. F. Johnson; secretary — Mrs. Alex Vandervoort, treasurer — Mrs. William S. Harry; pianist — Mrs. Glenn Silckle; assistant — Mrs. Arnold Harry; sick committee — Mrs. Gideon Sickle, Mrs. Arnold Harry, Mrs. Maitland Harder, Mrs. Arden Gilchrist; card secretary — Mrs. Fred Meyers; buying committee — Mrs. Maitland Harder, Mrs. Douglas Harry, Mrs. Clayton Curtis; Missionary superintendent — Mrs. Arnold Harry; nominating committee — Mrs. K. Sickle, Mrs. E. Clapp; church reporter — Mrs. Alva Meyers.

The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Johnson with Mrs. Fred Meyers and Mrs. William S. Harry in charge of the program.

The theme of the December meeting was "Home for Christmas," with Mrs. Brunt giving a poem about it. All sang "Praise the Lord, the Heavens Adore Him." Mrs. Ernest Bush read the Christmas story interspersed with Christmas carols. Mrs. Douglas Harry read a poem, "Home for Christmas" and Mrs. Kenneth Sickle gave a humorous reading called, "Mrs. Forgert's Christmas Cake," closing with "Joy to the World" and the benediction.

The members exchanged

Mrs. Brunt was thanked by Mrs. Bert Sickle for her fine [illegible] president for the past two years and as she had moved to Hilton, this is the last year she will be attending Johnstown W.A., unless as a visitor from time to time. All are sorry to lose her and Mrs. Smith also, who moved to Hilton some time ago, but Hilton's loss will be another church's gain.

WHA Appoints 1961 Officers

Prior to the regular meeting the members gathered in Education Hall to enjoy a delightful chef, a cup of coffee and the choice of delectable desserts.

The tea table, lighted and attractive with its Christmas centrepiece of greens, entirely with colored motifs was in charge of Mrs. George Diment and Mrs. Harold Bloom.

A display of gaily dressed puppets in one corner of the room, under the supervision of Mrs. P. Allcorn, attracted a number of purchasers.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. R. Burley, the president, Mrs. W. Musgrove read the minutes of the last meeting and also the recent Executive meeting. Reports of various offices followed as corresponding secretary — Mrs. W. R. Sibbald; treasurer — Mrs. W. Dulles; coffee shop — Miss Ivy L. Dickens; Opportunity Shop — Mrs. F. Beeby.

VOLUNTEER WORKERS' SERVICE

Mrs. J. Bushen gave a brief account of the services of the volunteer workers and stated that with the establishment of the Olive Delaney of the Belleville Public Library a mobile library cart for the use of patients would be introduced in the New Year.

The president announced that a dinner meeting would be held in Education Hall in January when the slate of officers would be accepted and officers for 1961 would be installed. Mrs. J. Lemon Smith, Mrs. R. B. McCullock and Mrs. O. Pinkston are in charge of arrangements for this special event.

1961 OFFICERS

At this time, Mrs. Burley called upon Mrs. Lemon Smith for the report of the nominating committee. The officers for the Women's Hospital Auxiliary for the year 1961 are as follows:

President, Mrs. M. F. L. Jones; first vice-president, Mrs. F. A. Beeby; second vice-president, Mrs. J. B. Casey; secretary, Mrs. W. G. Musgrove; treasurer, Mrs. George Hicks; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. C. Vrooman.

Mrs. Burley expressed her thanks to the nominating committee and welcomed the new president and executive. She also spoke briefly on the recent vein saying that even though subjected to some such a responsibility as president of the auxiliary, the challenge had been appealing and interesting. There had been hard work at times but the spirit of old and comforting co-operation of the executive, especially the in benefit of wisdom and experience as given her by the past president, the pianist and the staff and she was most grateful.

Mrs. Burley presented Mrs. Burley's leadership, the work she had accomplished, the kindness of her approach to problems and her great interest in hospital affairs were given by Mrs. H. J. Fuke and echoed by all present.

CHEQUES PRESENTED

A highlight of the afternoon was the presentation of two substantial cheques to the president. On behalf of the Opportunity Shop, Mrs. Beeby presented a cheque for $1850, and from the Coffee Shop and its workers, Miss Ivy Dickens proffered a cheque of $1000. Both these sums of money are the result of many hours of hard work on the part of auxiliary workers.

As a most interesting feature of the afternoon Mr. W. F. Deechesi, administrator of the hospital, introduced Dr. J. B. Beattie, chairman of the Hospital Planning Committee. He spoke of the serious lack of accommodation and the immediate requirements of the hospital. Lastly, he enumerated the needs of a hospital in the future with 720 beds. A model of a six-storey patient tower section and at its base two-storey units for hospital services had been erected on the stage. This new building would be a six million dollar project.

SPECIAL GUESTS

At this Christmas meeting there were some special guests, Mr. W. Deechsi, Dr. W. Beattie, Mrs. Doris Smith, and ladies from Toronto and Calgary.

The meeting closed with happy Christmas greeting and New Year wishes.

Nurses' Assoc. Elects New 1961 Officers

CAMPBELLFORD — The last meeting of the year of the Nurses' Association 'of Campbellford was held in the board room when the following executive was elected for 1961: past president, Catherine Brabazon; president, Frances Berry; vice-president, Beverly Sharp; secretary, Betty Heath; treasurer, Maureen Dolan; program committee, Miss Vera Edit and Mrs. Grace Wynn; auditors, Gladys Hardy and Mary Stephens.

Following the business meeting Miss Edit read the paper she had presented at a "Small Hospital" forum in connection with the 44th annual convention of the Ontario Hospital Association in November.

LIKES CARPENTRY — Mrs. Gordon Stronach, wife of the new mayor of London, Ont., pretends to be a carpenter as she pee-wee hockey team to high heels and housework. She does most of her carpentry in the kitchen of her suburban home. A tall, slim brunette, she took over hockey coaching when her husband campaigned for election Dec. 12. (CP Photo).

London's First Lady Hates High Heels, Housework

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—London's municipal election Dec. 12 gave the city a first lady who hates high heels, hats and housework.

Mrs. Gordon Stronach, wife of the new mayor, is happiest when she is coaching her pee-wee hockey team or building a bed-side table.

Her new position holds no terrors, however, for the woman who eloped with a Mountie she met on a skating rink when she was a schoolgirl in Humboldt, Sask.

"I like the idea very much," she said. "I'll enjoy it. There's only one thing wrong. I'm against hats. I hate hats."

Mrs. Stronach owns one hat. "But if I have to wear one I will," she added.

This willingness to adapt has helped Mrs. Stronach through her married life which started in an isolated RCMP outpost in Saskatchewan. Her first home had only oil lamps for lighting. Water came from a pump in the yard and the cookstove a coal stove.

Until her husband retired and became chief of London Township police six years ago, Mrs. Stronach had to adapt to new surroundings constantly. The longest period she was husband stayed in one place was three years in Weston, Sask.

CONTINUE HOBBIES

The new first lady doesn't intend to let official duties interfere with her hockey or carpentry. She does most of her woodworking in the kitchen of her suburban home — between cooking for her husband and 12-year-old son Sandy.

She and Sandy plan to start work soon on their latest project to date—a boat.

Mrs. Stronach, a tall, slim brunette who says she has not knitted a hockey sweater in 20 years, took over coaching of the University Heights Peewee team from her husband when he turned his attention to his election campaign.

Hockey wasn't new to her. As a schoolgirl in Humboldt she played on a girls team which invariably won its annual match against the members of town council.

She is equally skilful at curling —playing seven days a week with the London Ladies' Curling Club —tennis, badminton and swimming. She once did a two-year stint as a lifeguard at a swimming pool.

Mrs. Stronach, who smiles when she recalls once attending a May Court tea in curling garb, says:

"People are people regardless of how they dress. If someone has a responsible position it's no reason to get a big head. I'll just be myself."

Baptist Church Presents Fine Carol Service

CAMPBELLFORD — A special Carol Service enlitled "Christmas Around the World," was presented in Campbellford Baptist Church, December 18th, under the leadership of Mrs. James Richardson, who also presided at the piano. Ten carols were chosen to represent different countries of the world that had contributed Christmas music. These came from such countries as Germany, Bohemia, Italy, England and the United States.

The choir was composed of junior and senior members, with appropriate parts being taken by each. The junior choir in the singing by a duet, "Silent Night, Holy Night," by Roy Ford and Mrs. William Whittaker as the duo took part of the carol, "O Little Town of Bethlehem." Mr. Ed. White, Mr. William Whitaker and the Rev. C. K. Dolby sang, "We Three Kings of Orient Are," with the choir assisting in the chorus. Mrs. James Richardson also sang, "O Holy Night," with Mrs. Ed. White accompanying her at the piano.

The Rev. C. K. Dolby, gave a brief message on "Six Things the Wise Men Did," basing his remarks on Matthew 2: 1-12.

Many favorable comments on the service were offered by those present.

Latter Day Saints W.D. Holds Party

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Department of The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints took the form of a Christmas Party for members, their husbands and their teen-agers. The party was held Wednesday, December 21st, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Cassidy, 239 Dufferin Ave.

The guests were entertained by Misses Sandra and Diane Carmiff who did a hula dance. Following this, Miss Betty Else gave a reading, "A Christmas Legend on The Little Clock Maker". Miss Else conducted a number of parlor games. Prizes were won by Mrs. R. McIntosh, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Mogg, Mrs. W. L. Cassidy and Mrs. S. C. Else.

Miss Carol Carson played several numbers on the piano accordion. Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Mogg sang a duet. The group took part in carol singing, with Mrs. Carmiff accompanying on the piano.

A buffet style luncheon which was beautifully arranged in keeping with the festive season was given by the host and hostess.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Cassidy, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Else and Miss Betty Else, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Mogg, Mr. and Mrs. H. Carson and Miss Carol Carson, MA and Mrs. Walter Roboose, Mrs. Ruby McIntosh, Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Tosh.

Grandmother Says Happiness In Home in Direct Proportion To Roundness of Father's Girth

By JEAN-LOUIS LAFRANCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—Grandmother Rosa Lafrance has a philosophy about men.

Happiness in the home is in direct proportion to the roundness of father's stomach, is grandmother's motto.

But, she said in an interview with her reporter grandson Jean-Louis Lafrance, modern Christmas and New Year's dinners don't give dad a chance to put on that extra girth, the way the almost legendary holiday feasts of the earlier French-Canadians did.

"In my day," she recalls, "our revellion didn't consists of a little bit of flavorless turkey and little cakes bought from the corner grocery."

"Le revellion" is the traditional French - Canadian repast eaten after midnight Mass at Christmas and New Year's. It is a family affair.

Years ago le revellion consisted of a plate made of layers of g e m e' and doused with g'whisky and alcool, with 30 per cent water. It took weeks to make.

HAD LARGE VARIETY

There were meat pies, head cheeses, various pork dishes, chicken and pies of every flavor —most made from wild berries and cakes of all kinds. All of this was washed down with home made wines, beer or the traditional "whisky blanc."

People began preparing for the holidays in November, said grandmother, who at 70 still runs the kitchen at the farm.

"Finally, when the holidays arrived we invited our relatives and friends to come and eat a good meal. Sometimes there was such a big crowd extra tables were needed.

"Today, it's not the same thing. Family reunions are rather rare. Because the young folk find the older people old fashioned, they would prefer to go to the movies or play sports, watch television, or dance." She added:

"I think the people today find Midnight Mass is long, and their presents. The youngest ones think more of Santa Claus than Jesus."

What grandmother regrets most is the slow disappearance of old traditions such as the New Year's morning paternal benediction. There was dignity.

The children would kneel and grandfather would raise his hands and implore God's blessing.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council only re-listens, major and minor, encountered by gentle counsellors and social workers

Hilda F. — He married me because I was different and now he bawls me out for not being like other wives.

Herbert F. — How "different" can you be and still live in a civilized neighborhood?

Hilda F. — We have been married four years and have a daughter. When Herb proposed to me he told me I was like a breath of fresh air in his life. He comes from a family that lives strictly by the book, and I mean every book you can name from the Bible down! I'd thrown most of the books out the window and was enjoying every day of my life as a precious adventure.

Herb was fascinated and said, "Me too. I want to live like you and with you." We were married and set up a relaxed form of housekeeping.

Life was idyllic until two things happened: we moved East and had a child. Now suddenly I'm nutty, sloppy, irresponsible. Back on the West coast, I was refreshing, original, artistic.

The truth is Herb is having a hard time "explaining" me to his family and friends, which he feels obliged to do. I wonder why.

Herbert F. — It's O.K. for a girl to be "different" if she's really sincere about it and stays within civilized bounds. But Hilda seems to have made a career out of being nonconformist, mainly to get people mad!

When I met her the things she did had rhyme and reason, even though she was the only one who did them. She'd set her alarm for 3 a.m. to get down at dawn to the fishing haul come in. Or she'd drop her fork in the middle of dinner and go to the beach to follow the sunset and watch the moon come up. No harm done. She could always catch up.

But now there's our baby and she leaves Zoe cooing at us from her playpen at 1 a.m. while we listen to recordings. Why put her to bed, Hilda asks, as long as she's so pleasant? Even though my wife is now a mother and homemaker, she still wants to follow her impulses.

She's 22 and it's not cute any more. It's embarrassing to me, and I'm fed up. I'm an example to set a daughter.

The Council — There are two types of nonconformity, the responsible and the irresponsible. The first is creative and constructive, the other is destructive and antisocial. In her battle to hold on to her individual expressions of "joie de vivre," to resist the assembly-line mold awaiting her, Hilda may be ignoring the fine line between the two forms of rebellion.

Now that Herbert is over the novelty of drawing a gut with a whim of iron and a trunkful of whimsy, he will have to "veil" her on importance of establishing a family code of "minimum standards of conformity."

But this must be accomplished with the same sensitivity and appreciation with which he wooed Hilda. She is right in resenting his about-face attitude toward the very quality he was attracted to — her originality. It is not fair for him now to tell her to turn brown in a face full of blushes!

Starting with a loving determination to make life as easy and pleasant for each other as possible, Hilda and Herbert ought to be able to agree on how far she can go doing what comes naturally and how much weight to place on what the neighbors think.

If Hilda stands on her head to improve her circulation, not to shock her mother-in-law, more power to her — and more guts to Herbert.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Question — In a recent column a question arose whether or not it was proper for the names of the bridegroom's parents to appear on a wedding invitation. Your answer was that this was wrong, that only the names of the bride's parents should appear. I don't agree with you, Miss Post, and all the other etiquette experts should read your newspaper! At the wedding announcements use both parents' names, and we think you ought to know this. You should a't give out wrong information like this! Mrs. J. B., Chicago, Ill.

Answer — I am afraid you are a little mixed up. I did say that it was not proper to place the names of the parents of the bridegroom on a wedding invitation. I did not say that it was incorrect to mention their names when announcing the engagement of the bride, or the bride herself, in the newspapers. As I have said many times, the family background on both sides is given when the formal announcement is made in the society columns of the newspapers, but on the wedding invitation itself it is an entirely different matter. Only the names of the parents of the bride should be used in this case.

The Day After

- By Mary Moore

On Thursday I am going to give you a synopsis of a trip I made to Washington to attend a food symposium, with a 24-hour stopover in New York which was fabulous and which I will tell you about later.

But on my return to wee Sue, whom my sisters had been keeping, as usual, I was caused some time. So Doris brought dinner over to this house and it was wonderful. She mad chop suey (whatever fowl, I said you have given me a splendid idea for 'the day after'."

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY

Mixed Grill of Sausages, Veal' Kidneys and Bacon; Cauliflower au gratin; Buttered Green Peas; Reheated Left-over Plum Pudding; Hot Lemon-Spice Sauce; Coffee.

DORIS' TURKEY CHOP SUEY

(Allow 1 seed at least ½ cup per person (preferably ½ cup) turkey (or chicken or duck' or pheasant) cut into 1½ inch strips, about ¼" thick and well-packed. I will give you amounts for four people and you can adapt to your needs.

Two or three well-packed cups fine strips turkey (or other fowl per se), ½ cup blanched Spanish onion, 1 green pepper cut into thin 1½" strips, 2 outer celery stalks cut diagonally very thin, one clove garlic (or less) bean sprouts (17c), 1 teaspoon salt, Soy sauce, 1 cup diluted turkey gravy or gravy from other fowl, about 3 tablespoons fat skimmed from cooking pan or rendered from skin, or butter or oil; 1 cup raw rice, 1½ cups boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt.

(Note: ½ to 1 cup sliced mushrooms may be used with the greens if desired.)

Gently saute the thinly sliced onion, green pepper and celery in the fat until it is hot but it must be still crisp. Five minutes before serving time, add the strips of turkey and drained bean sprouts and just enough garlic and celery—about 1 cup—to make this palatably moist. Add salt, (cautiously, about ½ teaspoon amount, and Soy sauce to taste, about 2 or 3 tablespoons. Bring just to boiling. Do not overcook. Meanwhile cook rice quickly by adding 1½ cups boiling water to 1 cup raw long grain rice and 1 teaspoon salt (second amount). Boil hard, covered, for 1 minute. Turn off heat for 5 minutes. Turn on heat as low as possible and cook, covered, until all water is absorbed, without peeking, for about 30 minutes. Serve mound of rice in center of hot platter (or dinner plates) and surround with generous border of chop suey. Pass more Soy sauce at table.

A recipe for Turkey Bone soup I gave you in January '57 was popular with our readers so I am repeating it with a few changes.

TURKEY BONE SOUP

There should be at least half of the bones from the turkey carcass. To them add 2 cups water, the dinner 2 hours. Strain. Pick out any pieces of meat from among the bones and return to broth. Add ½ cup each finely chopped, cooked, carrot, celery, parsley, tomatoes, macaroni alphabets or fine spaghetti, 2 tablespoons each rice and small barley, about 2 teaspoons salt, 1 chicken bouillon cube, and simmer until rice is tender. Taste to see if you would like more salt.

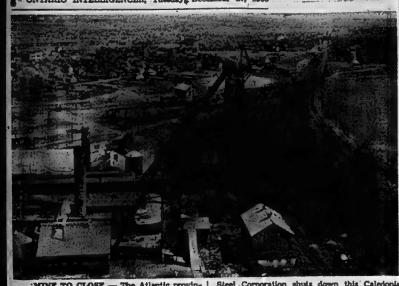
Hawaii Remains Lighthearted, Unspoiled and Unsophisticated

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE



Honolulu, Hawaii — In an incense-filled Buddhist temple where golden ornaments jingle faintly in the tropic zephyrs, a sad-eyed Englishman named Hunt reminds little groups of visitors off the Mackenzie Tours that the basic law of life is the law of change. His every moment is gone as soon as it is here.

It is a good lesson for Hawaiian tourists. Since we first laid eyes on this American soil half-way to the Orient some 14 years ago, we have been hearing about it. It has all changed, this Hawaii simply isn't what it used to be.

In fact, it never was. As the French say the more things change, the more they are the same.

What matters in Hawaii hasn't changed at all. The girls of the almond eyes, starched aloha and great white smiles still undulate their way through the hula with a delicacy and grace to melt the most jaded hearts: on the radio the familiar Hawaiian guitars and chants with the oo-oo's and aa-a's tumbling all over each other still lead the hit parade: the flower vendors still do a thriving business and the spirit of aloha is still the keynote of this easy, unhurried way of life.

It is a good thing that these things haven

MINE TO CLOSE — The Atlantic province, with the highest unemployment ratio in Canada, face gloomy economic prospects in 1961. It two other Cape Breton pits are closed another 1,700 men will be unemployed. (CP Photo).

U.S. Building Costly Highway Across Country

By BEN PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is engaged on the colossal task of building 41,000 miles of superhighways at $1,000,000 a mile.

Once this superhighways are completed—in 1975 if all goes well—a driver will be able to zip from coast to coast at 60 or 70 miles an hour without encountering a stop light.

Actually two road-building programs are involved.

The first began in 1916 and under this program the U.S. federal government matches state road funds on a 50-50 basis. Currently, the federal government is contributing $625,000,000 a year to this program.

The special superhighway program began in mid-1956. Under this program, the federal government reimburses the states at the rate of 90 cents for each dollar spent.

These superhighways are designed to standards believed necessary to handle traffic in 1975. Fifteen years from now there will be an estimated 111,000,000 vehicles on U.S. roads, compared with 72,000,000 now.

Upon completion, the superhighways are expected to carry about 20 per-cent of the nation's traffic and will connect 90 per cent of all cities with more than 50,000 population.

MOST ON FREEWAYS

Since July 1, 1956, about $3,500,000,000, including $2,000,000,000 in federal funds, has been spent on the superhighway program.

In that same period $6,500,000,000, including $2,400,000,000 in federal monies, has been spent by the states and federal government on the primary, secondary and urban road program.

At present, the expenditure of another $5,000,000,000 for superhighways has been authorized, while $3,000,000,000 has been earmarked for primary, secondary and urban roads.

The federal contribution for this future construction will be $3,916,773,500 of the $8,065,900,000 total.

To date, 2,592 miles of superhighways have been built with federal financial participation to 1972 High-speed standards and an additional 3,138 miles of existing primary roads have been improved to meet needs of the 1980s.

Additionally, work is under way on 4,600 miles and rights-of-way are being acquired for 10,092 miles.

These figures do not include the several thousand miles of toll expressways incorporated into the interstate system but financed by the states alone without federal participation.

As for the primary, secondary and urban road program, approximately 150,000 miles have been built or improved in the last four years. Contracts have been signed for work on an additional 26,000 miles.

Dr. W. B. Lane Dies on Sunday

HICTON, Ont. (CP) — Dr. Wilmot B. Lane, 90, who retired in 1939 as professor of philosophy at Victoria College in the University of Toronto, died Sunday.

Atlantic Provinces End 1960 With Gloomy 1961 Outlook

By DAL WARRINGTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP) — How are things in the Atlantic provinces as 1960 ends? "Terrible!" says a Cape Breton coal miner. "Booming!" says a technician at K. C. Irving's new oil refinery in Saint John, N.B.

For the 1,900,000 Canadians in the four easternmost provinces the economic picture is a blend of darkness and light.

Bright spots are represented by such projects as new pulp mills, refineries, hydro developments and food - processing plants.

"Chronic unemployment persists in our region. Growth of output is indicated in many of the resource-based industries but their ability to absorb labor is low. . . . The expansion of secondary manufacturing has been slow. . . . The outlook: Lack of job opportunities for our people — a waste of our nation's manpower resource."

Revenue Minister Nowlan, a Maritimer, says more people in Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island are working this year than ever before. By mid-October 546,000 had jobs, 18,000 more than in 1959.

MANY WITHOUT JOBS

At the same time more people were out of work—46,000 compared with 37,000 a year earlier. With almost eight of every 100 persons in the working population jobless, the ratio of unemployment—7.8-per cent—was the highest in Canada.

Oddly, the wholesale layoff of coal miners contributed to the rise of unemployment. The Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, which controls most of the mines, employed 1,47 more men in 1960 than in 1959.

And the provincial mines department reports that, despite marketing problems Nova Scotia collieries produced 3,407,000 tons of coal to the end of September —356,000 a b o v e the previous year.

But the general outlook in the coal towns is gloomy. In Glace Bay almost 800 men who work in Caledonia colliery found little joy in Christmas. They knew their mine was to close Jan. 14. Another 1,700 miners in nearby New Waterford and Florence face similar fate if Dosco goes through with plans to close two more pits.

The miners found no sunshine in Mr. Justice Rand's royal commission recommendations for the coal industry. Despite suggestions for a new system of subsidies, they interpreted his report as saying there's no future for Maritime coal-mining.

INDUSTRIES EXPAND

Although the spotlight has been on coal, manufacturing is by far the largest employer in the Atlantic provinces except Prince Edward Island. Factories, including food-processing plants, employ more people than fishing, farming, mining and lumbering. And the value of their output is more than double all other production combined.

Maritimers could pay these items on the credit side:

A new $50,000,000 oil refinery started operation in Saint John last summer; another, the third in the Atlantic region, is being built at St. John's, Nfld.

A new $40,000,000 pulpmill at Port Hawkesbury, N.S., will start test production next October; full operation three months later.

Seven-days-a-week operation of the big paper mill in Grand Falls, Nfld., will give workers an extra $1,000,000 a year.

The Sydney steel plant, working nearer capacity than other North American mills, has a larger payroll—4,250 men—than in recent years despite December layoffs.

Fishermen got $3,000,000 more for their catch to the end of October than in 1959. Total for 10 months was $33,000,000.

A new farm-operated meat-packing plant began operating in Halifax in August and will need 1,500 hogs a month after Jan. 1.

A $10,000,000 e x p a n s i o n is under way at the world sulphur station as part of North American air defence plans.

Work has started on a 120,000-horsepower hydro development on the Hamilton River at Twin Falls, Labrador.

Iron Ore Company of Canada forecasts it will take 6,000,000 tons of ore from Carol Lake, Labrador, in 1961.

Poland Exploits Europe's Biggest Sulphur Deposit

TARNOBRZEG, Poland (AP)—Poland is about to shoulder its way into the world sulphur market with a sprawling multi-million-dollar mining and industrial complex built on top of Europe's largest sulphur deposit—discovered by the Nazis in World War.

A crash program has transformed this backward peasant centre in little more than two years into the bustling nerve centre of Poland's most technologically advanced industry.

A new asphalt road—laid to the 210-acre site of the Machow Region where foreign engineers German, F r e n c h and Italian equipment scheduled to go into full production next month.

Amahl Christmas Feature, Now It's Auld Lang Syne

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Santa Claus and Jingle Bells disappeared from the airways Sunday night as if a magic eraser had wiped the screens clean. And now for a few days we're in for an overdose of Auld Lang Syne, but at least it's a short treatment.

Television highlights of the Christmas holiday were two repeats: NBC's Amahl and the Night Visitors, the annual opera-tic treatment, and a CBS rerun of Christmas Stanzinos with the New York Symphony playing Bach and Marian Anderson singing, all very pleasant.

NBC's New Year's Day Omnibus will be an hour-long plug for Manhattan's Lincoln Centre for the Performing Arts, now building . . . Rod Taylor's new Hong Kong base of operations is a fancy supper club with a floor show, and already one misses the friendly bar-and-grill.

Thriller, NBC, 9-10 EST—The Cheaters, with Mildred Dunnock (Mother) and Harry Twoosey; After Hours, NBC, 10-11—rerun of an amusing spoof in geriatry, with the former Mo a frealer Christopher Plummer and Sally Ann Howes.

Says Pentagon Will Help Plan Disarmament

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times says it appears likely the Pentagon will assume a more creative, direct role in disarmament negotiations with the Soviet Union.

Herald Tribune, the Pentagon, although it has been consulted on such negotiations, has been more of a critic of plans worked out by the state department and the White House.

"The Pentagon is now expected to become actively engaged in disarmament planning", says the paper in a dispatch from Washington. "It will make direct use of its military experts and civilian specialists in the office of International Security Affairs."

The Times says it has been suggested that the experience of getting men in weapons combat is just what is needed to develop disarmament plans.

Fishing Not a Competitive Sport

You who read this column probably are familiar with my conception of fishing or angling competitions. They are known by various names — derbies, rodeos, tournaments, and now, Lord help us, the Interollegiate Game Fish Seminar which was held this year at Wentworth, Nova Scotia. Seminars, yet! Leave it to the eruditi to come up with one like that. Under any name, however, they all boil down to competitions, pure and simple. Simple, maybe, but now always so pure.

Two things have appeared recently in the public press which throw a rather bright light on fishing competitions. Ed Zern, in the November 7th issue of Sports Illustrated, lays it right on the line. "I loathe and detest all fish tournaments," says Ed, with one exception, I agree with him. More of that later. The other piece appeared in the November, 1960, issue of the S. F. I. Bulletin, published by the Sport Fishing Institue in Washington, D.C. This is a nation-wide study of fishing derbies as seen by the conservation departments of the various states.

Ed Zern is a friend of mine. He is a forthright, clear-thinking man who lacks not the courage of his convictions. He says this and he means it. "Most fishing tournaments, by their very nature, encourage the more venal, larcenous and week-willed contestants (and this is the type most attracted by big-prize contests) to lie, steal, bribe, embezzle, perjure and otherwise cheat to whatever extent is necessary to win." That, you will agree, is lamentably, bears out Ed's contention.

Here and there about the country I know men who have functioned as judges in fishing contests. Their stories qualify Ed's opinion. Some of these contests, after only a few years of experience, already have inspired five "black lists" which show the names of fishermen whose fraudulent enteries have barred them from further competition.

DISHONEST ENTRIES

The International Game Fish Association is the organization which, among many other functions, lists the holder of amateur world records. Talks with members of the executive committee of this organization have shown a distressing tendency on the part of all too many anglers to have their names listed as champions through dishonest entries.

On the wall of my office hang the mounts of two game fish which I am morally certain would qualify as world's records if their proper classifications. These fish are not boxed entered with I. G. F. A. and they won't be. The reason is not the fact that they were caught fairly, on orthodox tackle, and with the glowing memories of the fights which these two scrappers put up before their demise.

For some years, there has been an intercollegiate angling contest in which teams from various universities compete for honors, such as they may be. Originally, the competition was limited to trout. Now it has widened its scope to include salt water, mainly tuna and the Atlantic salmon. And they call it a Seminar.

It may be that I, in all innocence, may have had something to do with intercollegiate interest in fishing. Back in the summer of 1933 the idea come to me that collegiate instruction, insofar as the outdoors was concerned, was definitely lopsided. Then instruction was limited to the contact sports — football, basketball, etc. No thought was given to the intelligent use of leisure hours after the man passes the age bottleneck of indulgence in contact sports.

The result was a lecture course at Columbia University, dealing with the then contemplative sport of angling. This course had, purposely, a dignified if somewhat pretentious title: Theory and Technique of Fresh Water Angling. The lectures encompassed all scientific and modern techniques of angling but also discussions of worthwhile angling literature.

During the two years during which the course was conducted there were many letters from colleges universities asking for detailed information. This was furnished, as requested. It could be that this was the beginning of collegiate interest in angling, which eventually resulted in intercollegiate competition. I hope not.

LIMITATIONS, RACISM

Sport Fishing Institute evidently does not like fishing derbies any better than I do. Ed Zern does or than I do. A survey of state game and fish agencies shows that derbies rest not in the best interests of angling or fishing as a whole. Three states already have placed limitations on the monetary value of prizes given in such contests. Four states refuse to supply fish for adult fishing derbies and 21 for juvenile fishing derbies. The day of mink coats, convertibles and station wagons as angling prizes is evidently at an end.

The one exception in the matter of contests referred to above, is the Metropolitan Fishing Derby Tournament. This one is now in its fifth year. Then was when they gave valuable prizes in this tournament — automobiles and such. Not any more. Fraudulent enteries and all manner of shenanigans put an end to that. Now, if you happen to land a winner, you get a walnut and bronze wall plaque worth, maybe, five bucks.

You don't make formal entry into this tournament. You merely go fishing in the prescribed area which, at last report, is south Florida, Bimini Islands, and all the Keys. Should Lady Luck send you a good fish, you enter it at weighmaster's station. Maybe you win a prize, maybe not. There are several of those plaques on my wall. One has been the only monetary value is about equal to one day's guide fee.

Gradually, I suppose, fishing derbies will wear themselves out. Let us hope so. In their passing form they detract from the sport rather than adding to it. Is that not fact it? Fishing, after all, is a contemplative sport, not a competitive one. Let's keep it that way.

Pearl Buck Turns Producer Her 'The Big Wave' Success

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Having done virtually every kind of writing she'll ever attempt, Pearl Buck at 68 has now tried her hand at producing a movie.

The distinguished author was here to show the product to Allied Artists executives. Happily, they liked it, too.

"I wrote it during the war when there was so much fear of death among children," she said. "I remembered villages in Japan where the people lived between earthquakes and tidal waves, where death was a constant companion yet the people remained light-hearted and even gay."

ASKED EXPANSION

The inception of the movie project came when she asked that The Big Wave for a TV show. The director was Tad Danielewski, who thought the tale could be expanded and shot as a film in the Japanese locale. Miss Buck agreed.

"I had sold three of my books to movies — The Good Earth, Dragon Seed and China Sky, she said. "They have a peculiar system in Hollywood; they won't let the author have anything to do with the film. I didn't like some of the things that were done, and so I decided to sell no more of my books until I could have some control over the filming."

She went to Japan and co-produced with Danielewski, who directed. She assisted in all aspects of the film, which was financed by Allied Artists and Japan's Toho Company. Her project was a touchy one: The filming of women pearl divers, who customarily swim only in G-strings.

"We solved the problem by shooting them two ways: Covered for the American market and uncovered for the rest of the world," Miss Buck said.

At the Belle

Jerry Lewis Provides Fabulous Fun in Film of Famed Tale,

A pleasing fun-film opened yesterday at the Belle Theatre. It is "CinderFella" with Jerry Lewis as the title role and as the title implies — he is the main counterpart of little old Cinderella. Only there have been several changes made all of them contributing to the hilarity and originality of the character's present gift to folks who like to laugh.

"CinderFella," is told in terms of language, manners, customs, costumes, and people of our times in Technicolor, attractively with some great tunes and enhanced by a mighty fine talent (in addition to Jerry's). Ed Wynn plays the fairy God-father who helps CinderFella woo and win the beautiful Princess (played by Judith Anderson). The role gives Wynn an opportunity to return to the type of comedy to which he was devoted for a few years of his life. And as the Princess, petite Anna Maria Alberghetti has her own, for it is the kind of sophisticated part that has been out of the run of leading singing heroine she was in for long.

As the wicked stepmother, the first lady of classic tragic drama, Judith Anderson gives a marvelous performance. She is cold, cruel and as mean as Medusa as she plots to get on CinderFella's hidden side. Hand in glove with her against poor Fella are her two equally mean sons, portrayed by Henry Silva and Robert Hutton.

CinderFella really has the short end of the stick until Fairy Godfather takes his wand and comes to the rescue.

Then Fella, his self, his own bewilderment and the side-splitting joy of the beholder. When he strides into the Ball being given for the Princess, he is a Prince from head to toe. Musical entertainment at the Ball includes Count Basie and his Band with Joe Williams featured as singer. And what goes on when Fella cuts loose is a far cry from the original fairy tale.

There are songs by Jerry, too but the element of the film is fun and laughter of which there is more than enough to make "CinderFella" one of the star's most entertaining films. And Jerry, Fella and the Princess live happily ever after.

Over 100,000 Hear Message From Pope John

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—Pope John, in his Christmas Day blessing from the balcony of Saint Peter's Basilica, called on world leaders to work toward human and Christian progress.

About 100,000 persons greeted the white-robed head of the Roman Catholic Church from the basilica's square when he appeared on the balcony after celebrating mass in the world's largest church.

The Pope said he was giving a apostolic benediction urbi et orbi (to the city of Rome and to the world) with a five-fold special intention:

1. For all children, who are particularly close to the Infant Jesus.

2. To workers, who on Christmas Day with their families, have better enjoy the serenity which the difficulties and sacrifices of life sometimes make ti hard to discover and enjoy.

3. To suffering people of all ages and all walks of life who are afflicted with ills of body and spirit, with special reference to those whose religious freedom is strongly restricted.

4. To peaceful men and people for civic affairs, that they work for human and Christian progress, with eyes for truth and freedom, may be sustained.

5. To the whole family of the universal church.

The Pope, who spoke in Italian, wished peace to all people and a "good Christmas and happy New Year."

He repeated the greeting in English, French, Spanish, German, Portuguese, Greek and ancient Slav, amid applause from various national groups in the crowd.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

It was the second day of the noble bird and the second of gorging oneself with the white meat and dressing and one of those rare old English Christmas puddings that are made in no other country.

And so wound up the wonderful world of sport for another year with the exception of those bowl games scheduled for the New Year Weekends—and our own National Hockey League and other seasonal pastimes.

There was the heart-breaking Olympics games, both in Rome and Squaw Valley. Keenest disappointment was the heart-breaker of Olympics hockey when the Kitchener Dutchmen bowed to an inspired American team.

There was the heart-aching loss of Harry Jerome in the summer games, a plucky youngster who carried high the hopes of Canada for a gold medal. But this was offset to some extent by the brilliant successful efforts of Canada's athlete of the year, ski star Anne Heggvegt.

There was the brilliant victory of the Ottawa Rough Riders over the tough Edmonton Eskimos for the Grey Cup and the Montreal Canadien victory in another Stanley Cup. The Chatham Maroons won the Allan Cup beating the Trail Smoke Eaters. Closer at home the Belleville Juniors won a hotly-contested championship but this will be dealt with in another column.

The New York Yankees gave Ole Casey Stengel his tenth pennant in twelve years, a heart-breaking loss in the first game of the world series—and the brave-bo. Bill Mazeroski became the King of the Pittsburgh Pirates with that series-winning tenth-inning homer into the stands.

The Minnesota Gophers became the toast of American college football with a won nine, lost one record and will meet Washington in the Rose Bowl classic next weekend. Joe Bellino, Navy's dashing back was named football's greatest player in U.S. college ranks. Johnny Unitas and Norm Van Brocklyn received honors in the pro ranks.

Arnold Palmer was the monarch of the golden trail of golf, winning over $80,000 in tournament play, besides the Masters' title and a dozen other lush links awards.

A big disappointment was John Thomas, the American high jump sensation who cleared the bar at seven feet two inches at home but failed miserably in the Olympics, finishing a bad third. This comeback, colored American girl star, was the U.S. heroine, winning no less than three gold medals for her country.

Death rode the roaring engines at the famous Indianapolis speedway but brought honor, money and victory to winner Jim Rathman. Several died or were hurt when a stand collapsed.

Tragedy hit the racetracks, too. Bally Ache, who lost the Kentucky Derby by a nose to Venetian Way, turned second, third to Belmont, later broke a leg and was put down and a quarter. A few weeks after the sale the horse died.

And there was death and injury on the Salt Lake flats with fate defying at least three attempts, to lower the world land speed record for the mile. Driver Graham was killed, Mickey Thomson was injured in the wreck of his car while the famous British driver Don Campbell, was severely injured and his four and a half million dollar car ruined. But he will be back to try again, said Campbell.

Then there was the dynamic heavyweight bouts between Floyd Patterson and Ingomar Johansson. Patterson knocked Ingo in the first but staged a sensational comeback, the first by a defeated heavyweight champion, to thoroughly defeat the Swede and regain his crown. The pair will fight again in March in Miami.

There was Ted Williams' farewell to baseball after clouting home run No. 521, and Ole Casey's goodbye to his beloved Yankees.

All these and many others which might have been omitted were to make a thrilling roster of a year for sport in 1960.

Senior Hockey

WINDSOR (CP)—Windsor Bulldogs had little trouble with an undermanned Galt Terriers squad Monday, rolling to an easy 10-2 victory before a crowd of 2,450. The win increased Windsor's OHA Senior Series lead to three points over Chatham Maroons.

Bulldogs amassed a total of 58 scoring points as Terriers showed up with only nine men in uniform. But for John Elnhardt in the Galt nets, the tally would have been much higher.

Bob Brown led the assault with three goals, Joe Klukay and Lou Bendo added two apiece and Bill Mitchell, Ed Switzer and Jerry Servais picked up singles. Bendo also had three assists for a five-point day, Gary Sly and Butch Martin scored for Galt.

There were only three penalties, two to Windsor, as the Bulldogs outshot Galt 37-32.

Australians Win Davis Cup In 3 Matches

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Associated Press Staff Writer

SYDNEY (AP) — Australia shattered will by an overwhelming today and won the Davis Cup when Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson teamed with Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola in the challenge round doubles, 10-8, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4.

The victory sent the Aussies into a 3-0 lead and means Wednesday's final two singles matches will be meaningless.

This marked the fifth time in the last six years Australia has won the cup. The Aussies have been involved in every challenge round since 1939 and have run up 16 victories.

In fact, this year was the first time since 1953 that Australia and the United States haven't slugged it out for the top prize in amateur tennis.

The Italians, after being down 2-0, rebounded and defeated the United States in the interzone finals two weeks ago.

DROP FIRST TWO

This time, though, there was no miracle in store for them. They dropped the first two singles matches to Rod Laver and Neil Fraser Monday. Still, they thought they would at least put off the decision until the final two singles. Pietrangeli and Sirola, after all, had taken Fraser and Emerson in a local tournament last month.

But Fraser and Emerson, playing steady if not spectacular tennis, grabbed the upper hand at the start and appeared to get stronger and more accurate as the match progressed.

Pietrangeli and Sirola did have their opportunities and the crowd of 15,000 that ventured through the 90-plus degree heat in White City Stadium gave them plenty of moral support.

The Italians—this marked the first time ever Italy made the challenge round—had a chance to win the "first set but couldn't quite pull it off.

SENSE VICTORY

Pietrangeli dropped his service in the third game of the second set and the crowd began to sense an straight-set victory for the Aussies.

Fraser and Emerson were within one point of breaking Pietrangeli's serve in the sixth game but the umpire ruled it out. The crowd booted. The referee ordered a replay of the point and Fraser sportingly hit long to give Italy a couple of bonus points.

Pietrangeli finally held his service. The Italians went on to break Fraser in the next game for the set.

But that finished their offense. Fraser and Emerson pulled themselves together and ran the Italians off their feet thereafter. They broke Sirola in the first game and that set the pattern. The Italians never did get organized again.

Score Was 2-0

Spurs Dump West Ham

LONDON (Reuters)—The high-flying Tottenham Hotspurs continued their domination of England's professional soccer Saturday with a 2-0 victory over West Ham United.

The win preserved the Spurs' 10-point lead in the First Division and moved the club another step closer to the league title. Wolverhampton Wanderers, the cup holders, remained the second-spot when they became the second club to defeat Everton to win at Villa Park by breaking Aston Villa's unusually stout defence for a 2-0 victory.

The position at the top of the First Division is: Tottenham 42 points in 23 games; Wolves 32 in 23; Everton 32 in 22; Sheffield Wednesday, who drew 1-1 with Arsenal Friday, 30 in 22; Burnley 29 in 21.

LEAVE CELLAR

At the other end of the table Blackpool moved out of the cellar by defeating Blackburn Rovers 5-0. Preston North End, whipped 2-0 by Nottingham Forest, slipped to last place.

The restricted program in the other divisions produced no changes among the leaders. Sheffield United still head the Second Division with 36 points.

The highlight of the Fourth Division was Peterborough's 3-2 home win over Darlington in which centre-forward Terry Bly hit four goals to become the club's highest individual scorer in one game.

Will Change Name to Tiger Stadium

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers need a pair—someone who'll buy 4,500 scorecard pencils, 2,700 assorted pennants and 4,675 souvenir buttons, all stamped "Briggs Stadium.

The pencils, pennants and buttons will be useless after next Sunday, when Briggs Stadium officially becomes Tiger Stadium.

The name change is going to cost the Tigers about $20,000, says executive vice-president Harry M. Stanco. The pencils, pennants, and buttons "can't be sold and are a total loss," Stanco said.

SET CAGE RECORD

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Syracuse Nationals set a team scoring record Sunday night as they turned in a sensational display of shooting for a 163-100 National Basketball Association victory over New York Knickerbockers. The Nats smashed their previous high of 150 points scored against Philadelphia last year.

Hull Defeats Kingston 6-1, Up Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hull - Ottawa Canadiens continued to make a runaway of the Eastern Professional Hockey League Monday, beating Kingston Frontenacs 6-1 and increasing their points total to 40.

Second-place Sault Ste Marie Greyhounds moved up Monday Wolves 6-1, but were still 8 points behind Frontenacs. Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen held third place by handing last-place Montreal Royals 4-0.

In Sunday games Hull-Ottawa beat Sudbury Wolves 5-2, Sault Ste Marie defeated Cornwall Royals 6-3, to Kitchener-Waterloo, while the lowly Royals edged Timmins Timberbrds 3-2.

Bobby Rousseau, who showed well in five games this season with the National League Montreal Canadiens, led Hull-Ottawa's attack with four goals. Playing coach Glen Sonmor and Rousseau's linemate, Ken McReary, added five goals.

Kingston's only goal was by Bob Atterley.

The Tracks

NEW YORK (AP) — Ole Peltola won by a neck Monday at the Santa Anita Track in Arcadia, Calif., as Eurasia suffered its Verdes Handicap before 72,000 fans—largest crowd in the U.S. this year.

Willie Shoemaker brought the English-bred colt over the stiffening distance in 1:09 2-5 to pay $10.60, $6.20 and $7. Eurasian was second, paying $12.20 and $13.80, and Flingan ran third to pay $7.

With Sam Boulmetis up, Eurasia ran the 1 1-16-mile distance in 1:43 and returned $27.60, $14.90 and $8.60. Second-place Hervebegale paid $4.20 and $3.70 and Money paid $7.50.

Bears Blank Indians 4-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After scoring in all 34 games this season, Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League finally ran up against some light-hitting and were shut out 4-0 by Hershey Bears.

Goaltender Al Miller applied the whitewash Monday night at Hershey, where the Bears moved into a tie for third place with Buffalo Bisons and Quebec Aces, each with 21 points.

Miller made 32 saves in halting the league-leading Indians, who had been averaging five goals a game.

Mike Nykoluk scored at 1:01 of the opening period. Ray Kellaswerich and Claude Laforge added in 3-0 within 30 seconds in the second period and Jack McCartan got the final goal at 11:45 of the third session.

HAD NIGHT OFF

The teams had the night off Christmas Eve but went into action Christmas night. Goals by Ron Stewart and Fleming Mackell in the final period gave the Leafs a 4-3 triumph over Providence Reds.

In Boston whipped Cleveland Barons 7-4 and Rochester Americans beat the Quebec 5-3.

The Aces picked up their first win in four games against the Reds this season. Norm Corcoran and Michel Harvey scored the other Quebec goals. Bill Sweeney of Paul Larivee scored for Providence.

At Rochester, the Americans held a 7-6 lead early in the third period and were leading 4-3 after a bold on for the win. Hank Ciesla and Dick Edmundson led Rochester's way with two goals each. Singles went to Bob Van Impe, Gene Ubriaco and Dave Creighton.

Russ Spoof British Over Race

LONDON (Reuters) — Moscow Radio Monday spoofed British preparations with which may prevent three Russian horses from competing in British-sponsored international classic, the March 25 Grand National.

It was announced Dec. 22 that the Russian horses had been entered in the race, but then it became clear that the Russians had not realized the race would run afoul of British regulations which bar animals from some countries.

The horses have been introduced to prevent spreading of livestock diseases.

Commentator Alexander Baymonesky in commenting on the messages from Moscow radio, ended a poem this way:

"In countries where laws like this do pass
The wisest man himself is but an ass.

And furthermore, it should be said,
These legal asses were homebred."

Eagles Shade Packers For Crow

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia Eagles captured the 1960 National Football League crown Monday with a brilliant display of clutch passing and defensive work, leaving Green Bay Packers and title dreams buried in the goalpost shadows nine agonizing yards from victory.

The Eagles, a Cinderella team which rose from last place in 1958 to second last year and the eastern conference championship this season, beat the Packers 17-13 before 67,325 delirious fans and an American-Canadian television audience. But it was not easy.

The final few seconds were ticking away when Green Bay quarterback Bart Starr fired a short pass up the middle to Jim Taylor and the great fullback lateraled them past Philadelphia's 10 yard line.

Taylor seemed destined to go all the way to provide one of the biggest shockers of the season. But out of a group of desperate Eagles came Chuck Bednarik, one of the game's last players who plays the entire game on offensive and defensive platoons. Bednarik lunged at Taylor, brought him down and the nine-yard line. The drama was finished. There was only jubilation and dejection.

BIGGEST MOMENT

For Eagle coach Buck Shaw and quarterback Norm Van Brocklin, both of whom repeated they are having the greatest moment in long and colorful careers.

Shaw, 61, who installed the Eagles' split T offense for winning touchdown in the fourth quarter, said: "You can't go any further than this! I was in the first title in 12 years of coaching professional football.

The Packers, western conference champions, twice held the lead. But the Eagles stormed back both times.

There were 54 60 on field goals radio and television fights.

U.S. College Draft

Vikings Get First Pick

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National Football League in its 1960 college player ranks today with the new Minnesota Vikings picking first while Baltimore Colts, San Francisco 49ers and Cleveland Browns each getting the first-round choices.

The Vikings will pick a total of 200 players in 20 rounds, then hurry out to compete with the established National League in the players' market. The AFL drafted earlier this month. Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the NFL at that time appealed to Commissioner Joe Foss of the NFL draft before signing any contracts.

All college players whose original graduation class will be this year — are eligible for the draft. A player's college affiliation is according to his athletic record. Thus, a player who registered at a college but dropped out before finishing can be eligible.

The Vikings staff league play next year. A passing quarterback would seem to be their logical first choice but there is no word they may get New York's George Shaw in a trade.

Soccer Star Has Leg Amputated

He was one of eight Sheffield Wednesday team players injured when their coach crashed into a lamp-post and skidded into a ditch on a return trip from London.

Firemen and ambulance attendants supported McMillan while Dr. A. K. Sear, surgeon from the Huntingdon County Hospital, amputated the leg.

McMillan's leg was trapped between jagged pieces of metal. Efforts to free him were unsuccessful and the doctor decided to give him an anaesthetic and operate on the spot.

Peter Swan, centre half, T. Kay, left half, and Colin Partridge, other 1 injured players in hospital, were said to be progressing satisfactorily.

Briton Meets Paul Pender On June 14.

LONDON (AP)—Terry Downes of England returns to the United States Wednesday with the difficult one version of the world middleweight boxing title from Paul Pender of Brookline, Mass. Everybody is angling for the disputed crown in London on Saturday, June 14.

Downes, who scoffed at the level of British boxing fought in the U.S. as an amateur for five years. He returned here in 1957, but didn't win the British amateur title, then go back to the U.S. to become a pro. But he changed his mind after looking around the pro rings of Britain.

He backed his talk up by taking on the best middleweights in Britain and winning the British title after a bout 31 fights as a pro.

At 23, Downes is scarred, battled and bruised proof that he's more of a fighter than a boxer and expects to cash in on the chance for the title recognized by Massachusetts, New York and Europe.

"If it—what I've been waiting for since I first laced on a pair of gloves," he said, "I don't mean to fail now."

Billy Reay Has Trouble With Referee

OTTAWA (CP) — Edvard J. Houston, president of the Eastern Professional Hockey League, said Monday night no action will be taken on a dressing room scuffle between a coach and referee of the league until he has received written reports.

Houston said he is awaiting reports from referee Red Storey, Ross Sims and coach Billy Reay of Sault Ste. Marie.

A scuffle between the two in the referees' dressing room at Montreal Christmas Day after a game between Thunderbirds and Montreal Royals was broken up by a risk policeman and several bystanders.

Reay reportedly walked into the dressing room to protest that a Montreal player should have been given a penalty on a third-period play.

Houston also said he is fining Sudbury Wolves coach Murph Chamberlain $50 for stepping on to the ice in a Dec. 16 game in Sudbury which pitted Royals against Wolves. Referee Vern Buffey over penalties.

North Wins Over South

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Burly Bill Brown scored three touchdowns and set a ball-carrying record Monday night in leading the Northern All-Stars to a 41-14 triumph over the Southern All-Stars in the annual Shrine football college football game.

The All-pound workhorse from Illinois rushed 27 times, more than any other back in the history of the game, and gained 129 yards, also a record pickup for either team. His three touchdowns brought the North from behind to its fifth victory in the 13-game series.

While Brown was grabbing the payoff spotlight, Pat Fischer, a slick little runner from Nebraska, was the passing combination of the North's two backs to win Most Valuable Player honors. Penn State's Henry Opperman produced some of the game's most spectacular moments.

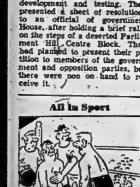
Those fathers, combined with a rugged defence, proved the difference.

The crowd of 38,146—smallest in the series' history—saw a football game for the first half. South led at the intermission 14-13 thanks to a pass from Bobby Skelton of Alabama which connected with a goalpost into the arms of Schroeder of North Carolina, and to a 36-yard touchdown run by the same Skelton with six minutes to go in Shanda pass.

May Form New League

KITCHENER (CP)—A new international senior football league may be formed out of last season's three-club Ontario Rugby Football Union Senior series, it has been learned here.

Senior club officials here indicated the ORFU executive will not operate the senior series in 1961. The present ORFU lineup from London, Sarnia and Detroit-Port Huron is expected to seek additional entries from Flint and Saginaw, Mich., and operate under the name of the International Football League.



The new loop would retain nominal ties with the ORFU and would play Canadian rules, it was said.

Meanwhile, officials said Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen might re-enter the ORFU under the sponsorship of Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Football Union.

STUDENTS MARCH

OTTAWA (CP)—Students from 17 Canadian universities, in a group 450 - strong, marched through Ottawa Saturday, calling for complete Canadian withdrawal from all nuclear-weapons development and testing. They presented a sheet of resolutions to an official of government House, after holding a brief rally on the steps of a deserted Parliament Hill Centre Block. They had planned to present their petition to members of the government and opposition parties, but there were none on hand to receive it.

Sweeney Tops American Loop

NEW YORK (AP) — B111 Sweeney of Springfield Indians continues to lead the American Hockey League's individual scoring race. Eight of the league-leading Indians hold spots in the top ten.

Only Buffalo Bisons' high-scoring duo of Phil Maloney and Larry Wilson has been able to crack Springfield's domination of the scoring race led by Sweeney with 51 points.

Maloney is second with 46 points on 21 goals and 25 assists, two points in front of Wilson, who has 18 goals and 30 assists. Sweeney has scored 19 times while picking up 32 assists, league statistics showed today.

Springfield's Marcel Pelle remains the top goalie. He has shut out the opposition five times and has allowed only 88 goals for a low average of 2.67 a game.

Montreal Canadiens' Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, having his best season since he joined the team 11 years ago, Saturday ended a nine-game scoring streak that tied the record held by former teammate Maurice (Rocket) Richard.

The hard-shooting right winger scored a goal Saturday as Montreal defeated Chicago Black Hawks 3-1 but was held to an assist Sunday as the defending world champions bowed 4-1 to the Rangers in New York.

The record had not been seriously threatened since the retired Richard established it in 1944-45.

Meanwhile, Toronto's Frank Mahovlich extended his streak in scoring his 31st goal of the season Sunday night. The flashy Maple Leafs left winger scored one goal as Toronto fed the wilting Detroit Red Wings Saturday and another Sunday as the Leafs skated over the Bruins at Boston.

In Sunday's other game, goaltender Glenn Hall posted his fourth shutout of the season as Detroit blanked Toronto Red Wings 3-0. It was Chicago's first victory in 10 games.

HITS EMPTY NET

Geoffrion's goal against Chicago came with only 1:11 left in the game after Hall had been lifted for a sixth attacker, then Beliveau and Marcel Bonin scored Montreal's other goals and Reggie Fleming averted the shutout for Chicago.

Sunday, Canadiens failed to land a 1-0 lead in the third period as New York came back with four unanswered goals. Defenceman Jean-Guy Talbot was the Habs' lone scorer.

Rookie Danny Belisle scored his first NHL goal while teammate Andy Hebenton, Earl Ingarfield, Phil Maloney and Andy Bathgate added the others for Rangers.

It was the second loss in 13 starts for the Habs, who played without all - star defenceman Doug Harvey. He suffered a shoulder separation Saturday.

GET HOT IN SECOND

Toronto and Detroit concentrated most of their scoring in the second period — Toronto notching four goals, Detroit three.

Gerry Melnyk scored a goal in the third period and combined with Ron Stewart, Bob Baun and Ole Howe for Detroit's other markers.

Hall kicked aside 30 Detroit shots to register his fourth shutout of the season —tips in the NHL.

Mahovlich Gets No. 31

Boomer Has Big Lead

MONTREAL (CP) — Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, Montreal Canadiens' flashy right winger, has opened up the biggest lead any player has had this season at the top of the National Hockey League's scoring race.

Geoffrion, who tied a league record by scoring in his ninth consecutive game last week, now has 32 points — five more than teammate Dickie Moore.

He also picked up two assists in two games last week while Moore added to his single assist. Each have 25 goals.

Jean Beliveau, the third member of Montreal's triumvirate which has held a monopoly on the scoring race's leadership since the start of the season, has one goal and one assist last week and holds third spot with 46 points.

LEADS GOAL-SCORERS

Frank Mahovlich of Toronto Maple Leafs continued his smashing goal-scoring pace, getting two goals and one assist in two games and stayed in fourth place with 43 points. He leads the league in goals with 31 and has scored at least once in his last seven games.

Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard of Montreal had only one assist but held on to fifth place with 37 points.

Royals Whip Irish 9-2, Flyers Win

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guelph Royals fattened their Ontario Hockey Association lead for A lead to eight points Monday as they swamped Toronto St. Michael's 9-2 in a hustling contest that saw 12 major penalties for fighting.

At St. Catharines, Niagara Falls Flyers downed Teepees 5-3 to move into a second-place tie with St. Michael's.

In Sunday's games Guelph topped Toronto Marlboros 4-3 and St. Michael's defeated the Flyers 5-3.

Monday's victory stretched Guelph's unbeaten skein to 11 games. Ted Gilbert scored Royal with three goals and three assists. His teammate Jean Ratelle counted a goal and helped on two others.

HAD BUST SECOND PERIOD

A crowd of 2,500 watched a fight-filled match which neither team could find the range. The second frame opened with Guelph Jim Harrison and Toronto Gil St. Michael's one—and it also saw Ratelle, Gilbert and Joe Ferguson in the penalty box for fighting.

Guelph outscored Toronto 5-1 in the middle between donnybrooks for which referee Bobby Haggert passed out eight majors and Thumbed Bob Player off the ice with a misconduct after he got his second five-minute sentence.

The loss for Teepees kept them in a sixth-place tie with Marlboros. The largest crowd of the year at St. Catharines, 2,080 watched the fastest and best-played games of the season.

Flyers' Wayne Rutledge was brilliant in the nets, kicking out 39 of 32 shots. At least six Teepees broke in alone.

Roger Crozier, Teepees' regular goaltender, suffered a bruised jaw while playing for the American League Buffalo Bisons Sunday night. He was up at the end of the first period complaining of pain and was replaced by Art Regan, netminder for the St. Catharines Junior B team.

TICATS SIGN QUARTER

SHERBROOKE, Que. (AP)—Glen Wood, 24, former all-state basketball star from Smallboro, has signed a contract for $10,000 with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football League, it was learned Monday.

The six-foot, 190-pounder will begin his professional career after the close of the U.S. Navy next year. For the last three years Wood has quarterbacked the Norfolk, Va., Navy Tars.

Wood attended the University of Arkansas, but quit after his sophomore year to join the navy.

Maroons Beat Czechs 6-1

CSOMUTOV (CP) — Winnipeg Maroons, growing stronger as the game progressed, Monday night downed the VTJ Czechoslovak hockey team 6-1 for the third win in their exhibition hockey tour of Czechoslovakia.

Checking was sharp throughout by several players from other Czech teams, were unable to control the Maroons' attack. Only a rookie now have a 3-1 won-lost record for the single-game tour.

A full - house crowd of 13,000 watched the game.

Christmas Day, Maroons turned in a solid performance as they generally Prague Sokolove 5-1 before some 14,000 fans.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

When coach Hal Laycoe promised fans of the Portland Buckaroos that he would make the team in the Western Hockey League's first division by Christmas, it is just as well he didn't say how long he would keep them there.

The Buckaroos made a remarkable turn from the basement into third place by winning eight straight games. However, they were dumped into fifth place by Seattle Totems Christmas night and kept there by Victoria Cougars Boxing Day.

Totems beat Buckaroos 2-1 before 3,981 fans — the largest crowd to see a game in Portland this year — and then Cougars dumped Laycoe's squad 6-4 Monday.

Spokane Comets gave Seattle no chance for a complete holiday sweep Monday night when they won their third straight road game and moved into third place. They whipped Totems 4-1 to keep Seattle in fourth and behind second - place Vancouver Canucks and Portland.

UPSET CALGARY

Last-place Winnipeg Warriors upset league - leading Calgary Stampeders 4-2 in Winnipeg and Edmonton Flyers trimmed New Westminster Royals 4-3 in a game that was moved into a first-place tie if it beat Edmonton Flyers Tuesday night.

Arnie Schmautz gave Portland a 1-0 lead Sunday but Bill MacFarland wasted no time tying the score and Ron Attwell pulled out the winner in the third period.

Monday night, Cougars overcame a six - second - period deficit to go on and defeat Buckaroos 6-4.

The first-string forward line of Gerry Goyer, Gary Aldcorn and George Ford led the attack with Goyer and Ford getting two goals each and Saunders picking up with four assists.

Long defence and defenceman Jim Hay got the other Victoria goals. Dennis Riggin, Bob Rolfe, Gordon Haworth and Barry Cook scored for Buckaroos.

At Seattle, Spokane's goals were divided among Ron Ingram, Steve Witiuk, Sandy Mucul and Bill Hicke, all of whom helped set Seattle's only tally.

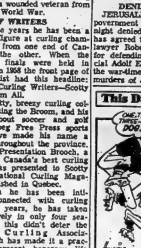
WINNIPEG (CP)—In a province where every town has an amateur hockey, curling and golf league, it's especially interested in high school rinks, of which there are 264 in Manitoba this year.

He has missed only two of Manitoba's high school hospitals since they were inaugurated in 1949.

The age of players has decreased by about 15 years because of the schoolboys' interest in the sport. Another big change in what had for many years been considered an old man's game.

However, he's not so happy with what he regards as a tendency toward professionalism. "Soon the Dominion Curling Association will have to take action against participants playing for money."



He is delighted that the bonspiels where automobiles are rewarded as prizes are apparently declining in favor of cash. Portage la Prairie, Man., had the only one last season.

Wednesday, December 24

General tendencies: The early morning is fine for thinking out a budget that will suit your own particular needs and for putting into motion at once. Then the afternoon and evening requires you use great care to avoid committing yourself beyond your ability to pay. Do nothing that is taking chances with fundamental security. Do your job well.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Taking steps that will insure you a greater income is excellent, but be sure you do not get taken in by unscrupulous people or gamble your life's savings. Take the treatment tonight that will improve your voice.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — You rightfully feel that you should take your place in the sun today, but be sure you are not so forceful that you drive others away from you. Be firm but infinitely ethical. Spend evening in a leisurely fashion.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — If you are overly economical or protective in any way now and also try to bring others to your way of thinking, this would only spoil your chances for advancement. Raise your level of consciousness and assist others, too.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Be co-operative instead of quarrelsome with partners today. Constructive criticism is fine, but taking out your ire on those you should support is most unwise. Go out of your way to do something nice, instead.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Important you guard your good name today. Be sure you perform your labors in a most efficient and careful manner. Also, if you take time to study how to please higher-ups more, you can be in line for advancement.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — This is one of those peculiar days when you want to take your ire out on everyone, especially those who look to you for stability in time of need. So, be sure you work out that problem wisely early. Then all is OK.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — If that higher-up is to help you, as he, or she, wants to do, it is important you give the true facts. Then you become successful. P. M. be most kind to loved one.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — If you work right along with a determined associate today and this evening, you have a far better chance to reach your goals. Stop relishing God be co-operative instead. P. M. don't jeopardize present prestige by overacts.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Be careful you do not lose your patient, calm manner today in doing your work, or you use that finer energy destructively. Also, be most kind with co-workers who are very helpful. Ignore the other kind. Grow spiritually.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — The right day to have a wonderful time, but it does not require that you are extravagant, in fact, the simple pleasures and loyal comrades are your best bet. Be sure you are at your attractive best. Wear a charming smile.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — There seems to be tension within the home that you are unable to cope with, but if you remain silent, all is adjusted naturally. Don't be harsh with kin, but show kindness and good nature. Smile and go about your business.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Particular care is necessary in motion today, as well as in dealing with others, or there can be much damage and loss. Be sure you go over any statements or financial papers and be ethical with everyone or you lose vital alliances.

If your child is born today ... there will be a tremendous amount of practical sense in his, or her, nature, and it behooves you to give the finest courses in business and the sciences. However, there is also a flair for art, so be sure you give good training in the social sciences, as well. Also, curb that little temper early so that the greatest success can be achieved throughout the life-time.

Expect Vast Development Of British Columbia's Many Natural Resources in '60s

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—The current decade is referred to by some as "British Columbia's '60s," a slogan adopted by provincial authorities who expect vast development of the province's natural resources during the next several years.

As the decade began, the slogan was appropriate at least for one segment of the resources field—petroleum.

Natural gas and oil discoveries in the northeastern Peace River area sparked widespread interest, prompted the spending of millions of dollars and gave promise of even greater things to come.

Value of crude oil output was no less than $250,000 from 1959 at $1,730,000. But value of natural gas production jumped by nearly $10,000,000 to $7,500,000.

The rate of development in petroleum and natural gas has been quite satisfactory, said Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan. "We have come virtually from a handful of gas wells—and no oil wells—in 1952 to a point now where we have 720 gas wells with potential production of one billion cubic feet a day. And now we have 190 oil wells with productive capacity of 68,000,000 barrels."

DOUBLE INVESTMENT

Looking to the future, Frank McMahon, president of Westcoast Transmission Company Ltd., and a key figure in the development of B.C. petroleum resources, said: "It now appears likely that the $630,000,000 investment of 1959 will be at least doubled in 1961."

He added that the 1961 programs of the various companies call for drilling of some 200 new gas wells. And where last year $42,000,000 was spent on pipeline construction and plant expansion, the figure next year would be more than $100,000,000.

Among projects envisioned for the new year is an oil pipeline to carry crude from the northeastern areas to Vancouver, similar to the natural gas line of Westcoast which now is delivering Peace River gas to the Pacific Northwestern states.

During 1960 much more publicity was given to plans to harness the hydro-electric power potential in the province than to the petroleum industry, but while there was progress in power negotiations, there was little of the physical development that took place in gas and oil.

Agreement in principle was reached on a Canada-United States treaty to open the way for harnessing the Columbia River in B.C., raising hopes that the 8,000,000 projects on the Canadian side might get under way in 1961 in spite of name-calling outbursts between Victoria and Ottawa over financing.

The agreement provides that Canada will receive power at comparatively low cost from present U.S. generating plants which would benefit from regulated river flow created by construction of three dams in B.C.

Plans to develop the Peace River's power potential also went forward. Peace River Power Development Company has announced it will continue with full plans for the $330,000,000 scheme, aiming at a start on construction by late spring and first production in 1963.

The 4,000,000-horsepower project grows out of the exploration and development program undertaken three years ago by the interests of Swedish industrialist Axel Wenner-Gren.

RAIL WORK HALTED

Another Wenner-Gren project is a proposed 700-mile railway through Northern B.C. to the Yukon border. North of Prince George a small area has been cleared for the head of the $300,000,000 line. But there remains a question whether the Public Utilities Commission has jurisdiction over the railway and there has been no recent indication when work on the right-of-way will resume.

Other resources are having their ups and downs. Iron ore production was a bright spot with increasing demand from Japan and changes in provincial legislation that meant tax burdens.

Forestry held its own as decreased domestic and U.S. demand was offset by increased overseas exports, especially to the United Kingdom.

In fishing, the herring fleet went out in December to end an 11-month layoff brought by depressed export prices and labor disputes. And 1961 will be the top year in the four-year salmon cycle after the poorest salmon run in nearly 50 years during 1960.

Princess May Be Governor Of Bahamas

LONDON (CP) — The Associated Press reported today that a close friend of the Royal Family said the Queen is considering appointing Princess Margaret as governor of the Bahamas.

"Friends of the Royal Family say the Queen has been feeling out governments and political individuals on the Bahamas appointment," the AP said. "No opposition has been reported and some highly placed persons are said to be enthusiastically in favor of the appointment."

STILL HAVE ENOUGH

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Amid all the chaos that confronts The Congo, most of its people still have enough to eat. Officials of the Food and Agriculture Organization report that, although food shortages persist in many parts of The Congo, few areas are faced with famine. The big exception is the Kasai territory the United Nations has reported that starvation is killing about 200 a day.

Oil Likely Is Background Of Upset in Saudi Arabia

By CARMAN CUMMING
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Few details are known in the western world about the struggle that has culminated in this week's cabinet upset in Saudi Arabia. But, "as with most problems in the Middle East" kingdom, oil is in the background.

Central figures in the rift are King Saud, strapping, six-foot-two ruler since 1953, and his half-brother, Crown Prince Faisal, deposed Tuesday as defence, finance and foreign affairs minister as well as premier.

The two are the oldest survivors of the 40 or so sons of the legendary desert king, Ibn Saud, who before his death designated Saud as his successor and made the two sons swear on the Koran to support each other.

Ibn Saud, who spent his youth in exile in the neighboring sultanate of Kuwait, founded his clim.b to power on the night the present king was born—Jan. 12, 1902. With a small army of some 40 tribesmen he stormed Riyadh the present capital, and ousted the rival house of Ibn Rashid.

CONSOLIDATES POWER

The next quarter-century saw Ibn Saud consolidate and expand his power among the wandering tribes of the Arabian Peninsula until in 1932 Saudi Arabia officially came into being, constituting an area covering the size of Alberta and British Columbia.

Saud succeeded to the throne —one of the world's last absolute monarchies — on his father's death in 1953.

A few decades before, Ibn Saud had carried the royal treasury in the saddlebags of a camel. But Saud took power with the rising crest of dollars flowing in with American oil exploitation.

Royal opulence increased with the flood of dollars and extended it. Despite an oil income that has been to an estimated $300,000,000 a year, Saud's debt increased with his fondness for cadillacs, plush aircraft and air-conditioned palaces.

The king's personal retinue has been variously estimated at from 5,000 to 10,000 persons, including a number of slaves. His nearly 100 wives and concubines have born him an estimated 50 sons and an unknown number of daughters.

Finally in 1958, with the royal treasury in bad shape, the king delegated full legislative and executive powers to Faisal, two years his junior.

AUSTERITY MOVES

The crown prince embarked on a series of austerity moves and the budget has been balanced in the last two years.

But, according to press reports from Beirut, Lebanon, Saud has been increasingly restive in his subservient role. The prince of the royal family, numbering more than 300, also have been reported unhappy over cuts in royal allowances. There has been criticism that Faisal, while tightening the purse strings, has not been quick enough to develop new sources of income.

The troubles were climaxed Tuesday with Saud's surprise announcement that Faisal had resigned as premier and the king would fill the post himself. The other ministers, the announcement said, were to be regarded as having resigned.

The quality of the new cabinet is largely unknown in the west. But known among the new ministers it Abdullah Tariki, who was given petroleum and mineral affairs portfolio. He sits on the board of the Arabian-American Oil Company—which operates exclusively in Saud'

Montreal Taxi Driver Slain, Thrown in Ditch

MONTREAL (CP)—Taxi driver Andre Goudreau, 36, of Montreal died in a snow bank early today minutes after a passing motorist frightened away his assailants.

Police said the motorist reported that Goudreau's attackers jumped into the taxi and drove away when they saw him slow up.

Goudreau was thrown from the cab into a snow-filled ditch on Highway 8 near suburban St. Martin.

Commonwealth of Nations Bonds Will Be Severely Tested in the Months Ahead

By DAVE OANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The bonds that link the 11 independent countries making up the Commonwealth of Nations will be severely tested during the months ahead.

As 1960 ended, the members of the family were giving increased attention to the blunt that divided them and the complex problems that lay behind it.

These problems and issues will be the subject of the annual Commonwealth prime ministers conference, one of the most important in the group's history.

There were differences over white rule in South Africa, over the forces a policy of racial segregation, should be allowed to retain membership.

Some leaders were becoming worried about the adverse effect the new European trading blocs may have on their export markets.

There was a growing realization of the need to strengthen the economies of less - developed members by mobilizing family resources in the Commonwealth. This developed not only from a desire to resist Communist penetration but also from a genuine urge to raise living standards of all Commonwealth citizens.

CONGO CAUSES CONCERN

Viewed far more seriously by many Commonwealthers of the country administration and economy and the ensuing spectacle of chaotic violence. It was against this backdrop that attempts are being made to find a formula to unite African colonies towards independence.

Tribal loyalties were hampering constitutional progress in the East African states, it was argued. A search still was being made for an acceptable formula by which European, Asian and African minorities could live comfortably with overwhelming black African majorities.

The pattern being developed by Britain is one under which the African people would be left to run all political power, but which would try to guarantee the fundamental rights and freedoms of minorities.

A broader side of the year ended was Nigeria's smooth movement to independence within the Commonwealth.

Sierra Leone is to gain self-government next April and Tanganyika is moving toward the same goal with undisturbed stability.

UNREST IN AFRICA

There were signs in recent months of moves towards a Casablanca-type federation in East Africa. Soft-spoken Julius Nyerere, the moderate chief minister of Tanganyika, is pushing for a federation, that would include the even hirsiter Uganda and Zanzibar.

It is understood that the plan is receiving sizable support from political leaders in the territories concerned. Britain, now trying to ride the tiger loosed by imposed creation of the Central African Federation, has not yet indicated her feelings towards the plan.

But it is believed Colonial Secretary Iain Macleod and Prime Minister Macmillan would openly back the Nyerere idea if African political leaders developed strongly in favor of it.

Nyerere has embraced the idea with such conviction that he is prepared to postpone Tanganyika's attainment of independence to build a federation.

He fears that once the colonial territories achieve nationhood and acquire all the trappings of a modern state they will have little desire to subordinate any of their interests to a central authority.

COUNTRY IS ANXIOUS

The Africa experts say that Tanganyika, now practically ready for full independence, can wait at most about 18 months. If Nyerere fails in this period, the pressure of African nationalism will be so great that he will have to accept independent nationhood.

The birth of the new nations within the Commonwealth and the effect they will have on Commonwealth prime ministers' meetings will likely be one of the issues the 11 family leaders will meet in March.

There are some who believe a two-tier system of membership should be established, with the full - fledged having a preferred entity.

Some authorities feel, however, that such an idea would be unworkable. Some of the new nations—such as Sierra Leone and possibly Cyprus—will find it difficult to accept a second-rate membership when they will enjoy the full status in organizations such as the United Nations.

A MAJOR PROBLEM

Perhaps the hottest topic that will face the prime ministers is the question of South Africa's membership. South Africa's white leaders have already had a republican form of government.

Prime Minister Verwoerd is to make his first appearance at a prime ministers' meeting to try to win support for continued membership.

African leaders, notably Tunku Abdul Rahman of Malaya and Prime Minister Nkrumah of Ghana,—have fiercely denounced Verwoerd's racial policies and demanded that South Africa's republic be withheld.

Other issues have noted, however, that their denunciations have been directed at Verwoerd and their demands, less forceful.

Some conclude from this that they will not take the decisive step next March to vote for South Africa's expulsion.

The feeling—in London, at any rate—is that the decision of optimism that the differences would not develop into a major crisis that will cost the Commonwealth would be snapped.

Five to be Executed in Ethiopia

ADDIS ABABA (AP) — Emperor Haile Selassie's government indicated Monday that five persons arrested as leaders of the brief revolt against him will be executed following trial.

The government said a joint session of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies that rebels had been "hunted like wild animals and their blood shed in many places."

"God has taken revenge on these traitors in this manner," and He will take yet more revenge," the statement added.

The government claims its forces have killed the other five rebels listed as leaders of the coup.

BOBSLEDDER DIES

LEWISTON, N.-Y. (AP)—Charles Holland, 67, millionaire and is the oldest of a bobsled racer, was fatally injured Christmas Eve when his automobile skidded off an icy road near here and crashed into a tree. Holland was the son of Charles Holland-Merritt, co-founder of the Aluminum Company of America. He was also a real estate and investment firm.

2ND SIDNEY — The annual school meeting is to be held at Harder's school house on Wednesday morning at 10 p.m. All are invited to attend.

Mr. Harry Acker was a visitor at the Acker farm on Sunday.

Harder's School held its Christmas concert on Wednesday evening with a nice attendance.

Mr. Alva Dunn was chairman. The children put on a fine performance, with a program consisting of carols, recitations, dialogues and, at the end, the Nativity scene in a pageant of three or four scenes, which was sensational.

Mary Sine deserves mention for her fine reading of the Bible in the Nativity scene and the two girls, Betty Wagar, deserves a lot of credit for their work. Santa appeared at the close to distribute the presents from the Christmas tree.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Dunn and Mrs. Robert Hart, of R.R. 1, Belleville, spent Sunday dinner and afternoon with Mrs. Arnold Dunn's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Alva Mercy, in Arnold.

and Mrs. Percy Meyers, in honor of the latter, who is leaving for her home in Mount Forest, on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Curtis had a turkey dinner and supper with their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Trice, of Bellleville, on Sunday.

Mrs. Wilmott Scott of Frankford visited with her mother, Mrs. Sarah Acker, on the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. George Clement were Sunday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lounsbury, of Picton.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank White were guests of her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bailey, and Marlene, of Bethany. Mrs. White stayed on for a few days visit with her daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bedell of Belleville spent Sunday afternoon and the supper hour visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Alva Meyers, Arnold and Mrs. Percy Meyers, of Mount Forest.

Says Commies Will Aid His Country

PNHOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—Cambodian Norodom Sihanouk, neutralist Cambodia's chief of state, returned from a three-month round-the-world trip Monday with promises of aid from Communist countries.

Johnstown
WHITE GIFT SERVICE

JOHNSTOWN — On Dec. 18, Johnstown Sunday school held its White Gift Service and the church service together at 9.45 a.m. with a fine attendance.

Quiet music was played by Miss Thelma Siddle. Mrs. Thresher opened with the assembly service. The Sunday school superintendent, Mrs. Alva Meyers, took charge of the rest of the program. "The First Noel" was sung and then prayer in unison. At the close of the Scripture reading found in St. Luke 2: 8-14, the children's choir sang "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night."

While the congregation sang "O Little Town of Bethlehem" the kindergarten class with their teachers, Mrs. Alex Vandervoort and Beverly Clapp, walked up to the front of the church, putting their envelopes in the little white boxes, and on the last verse of this carol the children in white walked down to the front seats in the church and as they passed the white basket laid their gifts in it. This offering is to be used for needy overseas relief. An offertory prayer was read by all.

The story was read by Miss Marion Bush. Mr. Brian Thresher announced that the Sunday school entertainment to be held at Johnstown school on Thursday evening, Dec. 22nd, at 8 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harry, Ian and Dianne of Brockville, spent a couple of days with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Harry this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Trimmings and Junior spent a recent visit with her father, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Vanhorne, of Bloomfield.

BINGHAM, Utah (AP) — This battered mining town, perched on the lip of the world's biggest man-made pit is dying—of prosperity.

While the edge of Kennecott Copper's awesome open-cut mine has ebbed toward the centre since 1903, Bingham has faded faster for other reasons.

Once a town of 15,000 population, Bingham scarcely has 1,500 now. And the census takers can skip the place completely next time out.

The miners who once jammed the narrow canyon have moved down to the broad expanses of the Salt Lake Valley where their wages will buy them ranch-style homes and a—Shock of show room.

Bingham, tightly squeezed between the walls of a crooked canyon, suffers a dearth of elbow room.

OBITUARY DIFFERENT

Bingham's obituary will differ from the rest of mankind's. Her copper town which tied on to too short a vein of ore. Kennecott's first mine, started in 1903, threatens to go on indefinitely while scientific figure new ways to recover a bigger percentage of copper from the low-grade ore.

The Utah copper pit is a 1,062-acre colleseum stair-stepping down into the host of what was once was a mountain.

Nearly 2,200 - foot distance from the top terrace to the bottom of the pit is ruled off with some 30 levels, lined on each by a series of railway tracks. Huge electric shovels — a dozen levels load 90,000 tons of ore a day.

MOST MOVED OUT

More miners than ever are working in the pit, but the city officials estimate that less than 10 per cent of them live in Bingham.

Generally, the remaining 309 property-owners voted to try to sell the town to Kennecott in 1958, a rather bleak prospect.

Kennecott says it does not need the town for mining purposes. But there would be a certain public relations value in buying the dilapidated remains to bear it down. Bingham has been mistaken for a ghost town because of a company town.

Police Chief Boyd Nordin illustrates the type of problem he is having the old town. The ex-miner went to work in the pit on a railroad track gang in 1929. He made $5.15 a day. Now a one job today starts at $17.90.

WOMAN FREEZES

SION, Switzerland (Reuter)—A mother who went out into a forest near Sion Christmas Eve to get a tree for her seven children has been found frozen to death. She was identified as Victorine Wolken who lived in the mountain village of Gils, apparently slipped and fell into a ravine, breaking her leg.

Oldest in U.S., Former Slave Dies at Age 121

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — William Edward Lee, said the oldest man in the United States drawing social security benefits, is dead. By his own calculations, he would have been 122 years old Sunday. He died in his rocking chair at his home Saturday night with 13 minutes before Christmas and his birthday.

Although there apparently is no official record of the birth, Uncle Dave, a Negro, said he was born a slave on Christmas, 1838.

He used to tell about his parents, who were slaves on a tobacco plantation at Winston-Salem, N.C. Lee said he has been named for the owner of the plantation. He said he had been sold in a slave auction at the age of 12 to a railroad man named William P. Mefford," and that after the Civil War, he came here as a free man.

TOW IN WRECK

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP)—The stern section of the ocean liner Shattered tanker Pine Ridge is due to arrive today with the last of the 29 crew members who survived last week's breakup. He is chief engineer John Richard of Wilmington, Del., who remained aboard what's left of the 10,000 ton tanker to protect the salvage rights of the ship's owners, the Keystone Shipping Company of Philadelphia.

Bissell's Proposal to End High School in Grade 12 Receives Mixed Reaction

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A recommendation to recognize Ontario's Grade 12 as the end of high school and make Grade 13 an advanced year designed for university entrance preparation has received a mixed reaction from education officials across Canada.

The recommendation was made by Dr. Claude T. Bissell, University of Toronto president, in his annual report.

At present, Ontario students enter university from Grade 13, after writing department of education examinations. Dr. Bissell wants departmental examinations at the end of Grade 12 and a set of tests designed to test powers of analysis, rather than absorption in Grade 13.

The Grade 13 examinations would also serve as university entrance examinations, Dr. Bissell said.

Some provinces, including Quebec and British Columbia, have systems similar to that proposed by Dr. Bissell.

QUEBEC HAS 11 GRADES

In Quebec, students complete 11 grades, which correspond roughly to Ontario's Grade 12, before entering university. But in some cases the university course is longer.

Some Quebec high schools offer a Grade 12, (Ontario's Grade 13) which is equal to first-year university.

J. W. Perkes, director of curriculum for the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal, said the present system is unlikely to change.

In Newfoundland, where Grade 11 is equivalent to Ontario's Grade 12, students enter first year after Grade 11.

Dr. Raymond Gushue, president of Memorial University of Newfoundland in St. John's, said all universities in the Atlantic provinces are at present considering having students enter from Grade 12 into first year. Grade 12 is now the equivalent of first year university.

SUGGESTED CHANGES

Dr. Gushue said he believes a strengthened Grade 11 or an appropriate Grade 12 is desirable for university entrance.

New Brunswick students enter university after 12 grades. Some high schools offer a Grade 13, which equals first-year university.

The University of New Brunswick president, Dr. Colin B. Mackay, declined comment because of "vast differences" in matriculation systems of Ontario and New Brunswick.

Dr. A. E. Kerr, president of Dalhousie University in Halifax, said Dr. Bissell's proposal is what "Dalhousie has been asking for a quarter of a century." He said a number of practical difficulties in the Maritime provinces will have to be straightened out before such a system is started.

Dr. H. H. Saunderson, president of the University of Manitoba, said Dr. Bissell's suggestion is to an extent "what we have been thinking about." Students in Manitoba now enter first-year university after Grade 11.

SAYS 12 ENOUGH

Dr. Walter Johns, University of Alberta president, said he has always felt that 12 years in school are sufficient. Students who plan to go to university should be ready at that time.

Alberta has never had a Grade 13. Dr. John Dodd. He hopes Dr. Bissell's proposal will be tried in Ontario to see how it works.

Dr. W. J. Collett, principal of Mount Royal, a junior college in Calgary, said Mount Royal has been developing a similar program.

In British Columbia, students enter first-year university after varsity.

Your Car

Complex System Keeps Your Car On the Move

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

A bicycle is powered by the force applied to the pedals, which is transmitted via sprocket and chain to the drive (rear) wheel. To achieve this in a car — to transmit the power generated by that six or eight-cylinder engine to the drive wheels — a much more complicated mechanical arrangement is involved.

In today's cars, it includes the transmission, drive shaft, universal joints and the rear axle system. Obviously, then, there are many trouble possibilities to watch for.

Lubricant-starved universal joints, prop shaft and rear axle are often at fault. And, of course, worn joints or gears may eventually become the problem. One of the more common conditions is low transmission fluid. Usually, this can be avoided by keeping a regular check on the fluid level. If there is leakage, however repairs may be needed if your serviceman finds a sealer is ineffective.

Y. P. asks: "Can any real damage be done if the radiator pressure cap doesn't work properly?"

(A) Only if the cap does not open as soon as it should. Should it fail to release in time, excessive engine temperatures plus possible radiator seam bursts will occur.

W. T. writes: "When the cooling system thermostat acts up, does it generally cause overheating?"

(A) A thermostat may bind in the open position causing slow engine warmup or in the closed position, promoting overheating. If there is reason to doubt its operating efficiency, your service station can quickly test the thermostat.

R. R. writes: "My car is a '31 model which obviously needs new shock absorbers. Outside of the discomfort, is it bad to ride on them for any long period?"

(A) First, faulty shock absorbers hurt safety because they affect easy handling and maneuvering. Secondly, they will cause excessive tire wear.

H. L. asks: "What should the approximate price difference be between a two-door and four-door sedan — 1960 model?"

(A) It depends on the car you select. On the average, a four-door sedan costs approximately $60 more than a two-door, although it is much more than this on a few cars.

Grade 12 and second year after Grade 13.

Ontario university officials made the following comments:

Dr. A. D. Dunton, president of Carleton University in Ottawa, said he was in full agreement with the idea behind Dr. Bissell's proposal. He said he isn't sure Grade 13 should be "confined to students planning to enter university and proposed two levels of senior matriculation as an alternative.

Very Rev. Henri Legare, rector of the University of Ottawa, said Dr. Bissell's ideas are similar to those followed at his university.

Sixty Injured In Bold Daylight Cuban Bombings

Counter-Revolutionaries Blamed for Incidents

HAVANA (AP)—More than 60 persons were injured Tuesday in bold daylight bombings and a train wreck blamed on saboteurs trying to undermine the regime of Premier Fidel Castro.

Bombs exploded in two stores and a main power station in Havana. Fourteen persons were injured, mostly by flying glass, in one of the stores.

A Camaguey-Havana passenger train collided with another train at a crossing in Camaguey province, injuring more than 50 persons. Gunfire - revolutionaries were blamed.

A collection was taken to aid the injured, who included five children.

All the injured were victims of a bomb that exploded in a woman's rest room adjoining a crowded cafeteria in a store chain said to have been already recently expropriated from private Cuban interests.

BOMBS EXPLODE

A second bomb exploded in a small market in the same area of shopping district but no injuries were reported.

Public sources said the power station was evacuated and that two more bombs were found after the explosions.

Night bombings by anti-Castro guerrillas have been frequent in recent weeks, but the daylight attacks were a new development in the mounting strike between th revolutionary regime and its opponents.

Serious Rift In Ben-Gurion's Cabinet Seen

JERUSALEM (AP)—The exoneration of former defence minister Pinhas Lavon has caused a possibly serious rift in Premier David Ben-Gurion's cabinet and his Socialist Mapai party, authoritative sources said today.

Ben-Gurion precipitated the split by refusing to join in approving the findings of an investigating committee that on Sunday cleared Lavon of blame for the censorship-shrouded security mishap of 1954," the sources said.

Foreign Minister Golda Meir walked out of the cabinet meeting in protest against Ben-Gurion's stand, the sources said, and crew up a letter of resignation. She was reported dissuaded from quitting by Finance Minister Levi Eshkol.

Details of the "Lavon affair" have been suppressed heavily by a strict military censorship. It is believed to have concerned an Israeli attack on the Gaza strip which some diplomats said provoked President Nasser of the United Arab Republic into seeking another weapons deal with Soviet Union. Lavon was reported accused of ordering the attack.

Lavon, a leading member of Ben-Gurion's party and now secretary-general of Histadrut, the Israeli federation of labor, was forced out of the government in 1955 on the charge that he had made a serious error in judgment. He denied responsibility for the "security mishap."

An official announcement Sunday said the cabinet approved the investigating committee's report that Lavon was not responsible for the incident.

But the approval was not unanimous, according to the newspaper Lamerhav, official organ of the leftist Labor party. Ashduth Avodah, which is represented in the cabinet.

The leading Labor paper, Davar of Tel Aviv, said Ben-Gurion had asked the cabinet for and extended views. But it added that the premier goes on leave every winter and implied that the cabinet request was not connected with the Lavon issue.

Kennedy Plans To Put His Press Parleys on TV

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — John Kennedy will do some of his televised press conferences as president.

He said Tuesday that during evening hours on television and radio in the U.S.

Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, announced this Tuesday night after a meeting with representatives of the major television and radio networks in Washington that network officials were receptive to the plan.

The decision recalls the Kennedy-Nixon television debates, most effective campaigning for the presidency was in his TV-Christmas holiday since 1949 when 413 traffic deaths were reported. Last year the total was 493 fatalities.

In other violent deaths this Christmas, 77 persons died in fires and 82 others lost their lives in various forms of accidents. The over-all total of 647 compared to last year's 624, which included 42 killed in fires and 73 in miscellaneous accidents.

In Canada, a traffic death toll of 43, was also lower than the 52 recorded last year. Canadian Survey Safety Council and 95 fires and 24 drownings during last year's three-day holiday. The Canadian total of 68 compared with last year's 81.)

Traffic Mishaps Kill 488 Persons In 78 Hours

CHICAGO (AP)—Traffic accidents in the United States during the Christmas weekend increased killed 488 persons—an average of one about every 10 minutes.

The final toll was below the safety-conscious estimate of 500 made by the National Safety Council. It was the lowest for a three-day Christmas holiday since 1949 when 413 traffic deaths were reported. Last year the total was 493 fatalities.

Officers Aid In Birth Of Twin Girls

MONTREAL (CP)—Two police constables answered a midnight call on their radio Tuesday night and ended up presiding at the birth of twins.

Maurice Leveille, 30, and Jean Paul Grenier, 24, were driving their radio car when an urgent call for assistance was received. Dante Sireet where they found Mrs. Horacio Poucela, 30, about to give birth.

Deciding that an ambulance would not arrive in time, the two constables, with the aid of Mrs. Poucela's eight-year-old daughter, delivered two baby girls.

The mother and children were taken to hospital where all were reported to be "doing fine."

Mother Killed Two Children

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Mrs. Joan Gronseth, 26, of Granby, who shot and killed her two children, was to be examined by psychiatrists today.

State police said they were awaiting the results of the examination before placing a charge against the young mother, described as "an attractive, quiet and reserved housewife."

Mrs. Gronseth shot the children, Susan, 3, and Stephen, 1, with a .22-calibre revolver Tuesday in the family's suburban home 16 miles northwest of here.

LONDON TAKES 34,000-ACRE ANNEXATION BITE

Second Largest In Area in Ont.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—After 120 years of restrained nibbling at its neighbors, land-starved London on New Year's day will take a 34,000-acre bite into adjoining townships to become the second largest city in area in Ontario.

In those 120 years London took in less than 7,000 acres. On Jan. 1, when an Ontario Municipal Board annexation order comes into effect, the city will expand over more than five times its present area.

By taking over parts of Westminster, and London township, the fifth largest city in area in total area to 62,550 acres, smaller only than Metropolitan Toronto's 137,000-acre sprawl.

The population will increase by about 35,000 to 225,000, giving London a total of 162,184 persons. The assessment will rise from $195,000,000 to $250,000,000.

COULDN'T STRETCH

Attempts by the city to stretch have invariably been opposed by neighboring townships. With the creation of Ontario's decision-making spilling over city boundaries and the township population increasing faster than that of the city, the amalgamation was urged by the mid-'50s London Chamber of Commerce.

Annexation London will compare with Canada's large 50 Canadian cities that have recently taken in suburban populations in brackets): Hamilton, 52,929 acres (255,833); Ottawa 39,482 acres (259,275); Sudbury 25,600 (117,712); Kitchener 11,369 (69,622); Sudbury 25,600 (80,808); Kingston 16,691 (47,611); Sarnia 11,672 (47,484).

Next Jan. 1 the new, enlarged city of St. Catharines will come into being when an Ontario Municipal Board ruling amalgamating Grantham Township, Port Dalhousie and Merritton with St. Catharines comes into effect. The amalgamation will increase St. Catharines population to 84,000 from 44,000 and total acreage to 24,491.

Girl, Four, Fails To Carry Baby Through Flames

Suzanne led her brother, Michael, 3, and sister Louise, 2, to safety, while Louise's hair and clothing ablaze.

A neighbor, Cloby Dustie, 6, probably saved Louise's life by dousing the flames with snow. Louise suffered extensive burns and doctors said her condition is fair.

The children's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Hebert, were absent shopping when the home broke out. Their 24-storey home, heated with an oil burner, was destroyed.

Los Angeles Writer-Says He Rigged Forty NBC Television Quiz Shows

NEW YORK (AP)—A 73-year-old Los Angeles free lance writer claimed Tuesday that he rigged more than 40 If Could Be You television shows from 1936 and 1938 writing "scripts," and supplying "the people to play the parts" on shows.

The Ralph Edwards' Organization, which produced the show, and the National Broadcasting Company issued denials of knowledge that the show was ever rigged.

The claims of rigging are contained in an article in the current issue of the magazine, Confidential, signed by Al Blake. If Could Be You is a daytime audience participating game which has been a fixture on the NBC network since 1952.

Blake does not say that Edwards himself knew what was being done on his show and he specifically exempts host Bill Leyden and announcer Wendell Niles from participation in the rigging.

NBC issued a statement asserting that the program "has been subject to continuing scrutiny by its department of standards and practices since the department was established in the fall of 1959 (in the wake of the quiz show scandal).

"As part of this continuing scrutiny, it has issued the following statement, "It Could Be You has been checked periodically since last 1959 and this checking has revealed no instances of irregularities or improper procedures."

NBC added, however, that it is now "making a specific investigation of allegations, concerning It Could Be You for the period 1936 to 1938 to obtain any new information that might be pertinent to supervision of the show."

Montreal Taximan's Murder Said 'Professional Rub-Out'

MONTREAL (CP) — Baffled provincial police searched grimly for clues today, to the gangland-style killing of cab-driver Andre Goudreau, whose body was found in a snowfilled ditch near St. Martin Tuesday.

He had been shot twice by .38-calibre bullets, and his taxi stolen. The car was later recovered in Montreal Montreal.

It was the second time within a year that Goudreau had been taken for a ride in his own cab.

But last year he managed to escape after two 15-year-olds, a boy and a girl, had held him at gunpoint and forced him to drive them around for more than an hour.

His killers were no children, police said. The shooting bore all the earmarks of a professional revolt.

Goudreau, an autopsy showed, had been shot twice. One bullet entered his left temple, killing him either, fired at point-blank range, came up from a low angle and smashed his lungs.

Daniel Beauvais, of Ste. Dorothee, just north of Montreal, told police he saw Goudreau's body during lunch hour of a fast-moving car into the snow-filled ditch. The car has not been found.

Goudreau had $67 in his pocket, and a number of illegal lottery tickets.

Rev. Paul Aquin, Montreal's famed priest who drives around in a trailer-church to minister to taxi-drivers, said Goudreau was one of the best men he knew.

"He was a quiet boy, who was taking care of his mother," Father Aquin said. "He never had any argument with anyone."

RCAF Helping To Patrol Vital Gap

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCAF now is helping to patrol the vital North Atlantic gap, the route which Soviet submarines would have to take to reach the open Atlantic.

Informed sources say the RCAF is beefing up its anti-submarine flying out of Greenwood, N.S., and Summerside, P.E.I., are assisting personnel to Canada-type regime in Venezuela Jan. 2.

In a published account, Rev. Jesus Hernandez Perez said guerrilla lines these steps as part of a plot against the government here.

ATOM WAR SURE WITHIN DECADE AT PRESENT PACE

C.P. Snow Says 12 Lands to Have Bombs

NEW YORK (AP) — In six years or less a dozen nations including Communist China will have A-bomb and H-bombs, a noted British scientist-writer said Tuesday.

"Within, at the most, 10 years some of those bombs are going off, I am saying this as responsibly as I can. That is the certainty," said Sir Charles Percy Snow.

"We know, with the certainty of statistical truth, that if enough of these weapons are made—by enough different states—some of them are going to blow up," he declared.

"Through accident, or folly, or madness—but the motives don't matter."

"We are faced with an either-or and we haven't much time." Snow told a meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Either the United States must accept a restriction of nuclear armaments, beginning, as a whole, with the halting of nuclear tests, or risk nuclear catastrophe, he said. He added:

"On the one side, therefore, we have a definite risk. On the other side we have a certainty of disaster. Between a risk and a certainty, a sane man does not hesitate."

CARACAS (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest says he has reliable information about what he terms a "monstrous plan" to establish a Cuban-type regime in Venezuela Jan. 2.

British Scientists Work on Device To Perfect TV or Bring Death Ray

LONDON (Reuters)—The Daily Mail reported today that British radar scientists are perfecting a device which would revolutionize the world-wide television reception, possibly even develop a death ray.

The newspaper said the device is called Laser—light amplification by stimulated emission of radiation.

Beams of light brighter than the glare from a million suns can be transmitted and received in the Laser system by ray as radio waves."

The Daily Mail said.

The invention is being developed at the royal radar establishment at Malvern in the west Midlands, the Mail said.

It promises razor-sharp pictures on television sets all over the world and thousands of programs bounced simultaneously from earth satellites and beamed to all continents, The Mail said.

On its potential use as a "death ray," the Mail said that if enough power were fed into the Laser machine its intense light could be focused through lenses and turn it into a gigantic burning glass.

Socialist-Led Strikers Smashed By Soldiers, Guns

Catholic Unions Reject Joining the Walkout

BRUSSELS (CP) — Mounted riot police charged about 6,000 workers today as anti-government demonstrations flared here at the fourth day of a crippling Socialist-led strike.

The angry strikers smashed streetcars and beat up a driver before police dispersed them with the backing of soldiers armed with machine guns.

The strikers, led by three Socialist legislators, broke through a cordon of riot police to attack the street cars after massing in front of the Socialist party headquarters.

Meanwhile, the government announced that "acts of sabotage" against three railroads overnight and roadblocks were set up by strikers to disrupt bus schedules in the south.

DEMAND PREMIER QUIT

The mounting aggressiveness and hardening attitude on both sides wrapped Belgium in a tighter crisis as the Socialists demanded the ouster of Premier Gaston Eyskens.

About two-thirds of the buses and street cars in the capital ground to a halt Tuesday when half of the transport staff failed to report for work.

Riot police surrounded Socialist party headquarters for the second day running as workers heard a strike official describe the "success" of the walkout.

Catholic Socialist Christian unions — still overwhelmingly Tuesday against joining the Socialist unions' violence-saddled national strike against the proposed austerity program of Eyskens' government.

Meanwhile, a Belgian Air Force plane was sent to Southern Rhodesia Tuesday to pick Rear Admiral Baudouin if the king chooses' to return. He is flying accompanied there with his Spanish bride, Doña Fabiola.

The 700,000-member Socialist unions went on strike in protest against Eyskens' plans for tax increases and social welfare cuts because they feared financial setback suffered when it gave the Congo its independence.

CONDEMN STRIKE

But Catholic union leaders told their 800,000 members to remain at work. They condemned the strike as political and economic anarchy, aimed at overthrowing the democratic processes.

Despite the support of the Liberal-Catholic coalition government, Eyskens' austerity program is a north-south split that brought the country to the brink of civil war last week.

Back-Benchers Will Be Seen On Television

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's Conservative government party announced Tuesday that party back-benchers in the legislature will be seen more frequently on television.

The new party's policy has been to restrict television appearances to cabinet ministers, usually in connection with discussions of their own departments.

Picked to lead off the new policy were Allan Lawrence, member for Toronto-High Park, and William Davis, member for Peel. They were to appear tonight with Education Minister Robarts on the CBC series Political Affairs.

Tom Dooley Back In Great Pain

Dr. Dooley, 33, the American jungle doctor of Laos, was stricken with cancer in 1959, and had been described as cured after surgery.

But recent tests in Hong Kong showed that he was suffering from a degeneration of the bone structure of the spine.

Catholics Thank Other Groups For Defence

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church reported Tuesday it enjoyed "a prosperous, if stormy", 1960 in the United States. It also thanked Protestant and Jewish leaders who defended it during the presidential election campaign.

These were the highlights of a report by the National Catholic Welfare Conference which said the Catholic church in this country underwent the greatest public scrutiny in its history.

The 1960 summary said the U.S. Catholic population rose to over 40,000,000 — an increase of over 1,000,000, or 3.4 per cent.

CHURCH UNDER FIRE

The conference said that in addition to issues raised by the candidacy of John Kennedy, a Catholic for the presidency, the church was under fire for its views on birth control.

The annual statement of the Bishops Nov. 25, 1959 touched on the birth control controversy. It described the "pill" as "practice" assertions that artificial birth control was gradually becoming acceptable to the Catholic Church.

But the most intense attack on the church came, the conference statement noted, during Kennedy's presidential campaign.

"Church officials, faced with the question whether they were in open controversy to answer the attacks, for the most part, remained silent.

"The silence proved beneficial when Protestant and Jewish leaders moved forward to repudiate the bigotry and prejudice evidenced after the Democratic party's policy rather than his religion would be the deciding factor in determining the vote".

Kiwanis Club Members Hear Talk on 'Time'

Is time unfriendly?

Rev. C. W. Coleman of Holloway Street United Church doesn't think so, but he told Kiwanians yesterday he could see where some people found it unfriendly. Those were the people who were content to let life pass them by without attempting to find any purpose in it. They were the people who went through life looking on the darker side and they were the people who never outgrew emotional infantilism.

"Time is a relative quantity," he said. Time is something that leaves nothing unchanged. It affects everything, but man is, perhaps, the first to realize its impact. 'Over the years mankind has looked upon the passage of time as an ugly, necessary thing, wherers looked at in a mature fashion, it is a friendly, friendly.

"When time first began—when God created the heavens and the earth and put man on it—time was friendly. In life and death, since, man only lives once, it is up to him to take full advantage of time and use it wisely and meaningfully during his comparatively short life span.

With the birth of a new year only a few days away, Rev. Coleman suggested it was time people paused and examined themselves in the light of their spiritual and physical lives. Are they making full use of the time God has given them? Are they using it to the advantage of their fellowmen? Or are they contented to live a humdrum existence, neglecting the fact that each person has an important part to play in life? No man is an island, entire.

Introduced by Hal Floyd, Mr. Coleman, who has been a member of the Belleville Kiwanis Club since he came to this city four years ago, was thanked by Bob Freestone.

Junior Spiel At Curling Club Much Enjoyed

The first junior bonspiel in the history of the Quinte Curling Club was held on Thursday and Friday week and it was a pronounced success. Fourteen rinks were in play with nine of the rinks drawn from the RCAF Curling Club at Trenton Station, and at Belleville and district. Twenty-one Boys and girls, chaperoned by Mrs. Greta Peverly and Mrs. Kay Pierce, enjoyed the two days of curling.

Corinne Peverly, Jim Bateman, Bruce Alexander with Gordon Hall as skip, had the highest total on the points system for the spiel, while a rink of Marilyn Hollingsworth, Linda Jaffray, Jim Houston with David Livingston as skip was second, followed by Pat Haughin, Susan Ellis, Bob Sheffield with Wayne Wilkinson as skip. Jim McMorrow had a lot of fun with a rink of Alexander Adams, David Dale, Patricia Sheffield, and one boy broke the ice to the lowest score on the spiel rock.

Judy Wellman, Ted Maguire, Fern Gonneau with Wayne Mole as skip was the winner of all the rinks from the RCAF. Another rink of John Rogerson, Dennis Gorman, Angela Benley with Wayne McCauley as skip, was second and Georgia Molr, Erik McLaughlin, Joe Dale with Lewis as skip was third, while Bernie Finkleistein won the booby prize.

The prizes, club pins were presented by Bob Burford in charge of junior curling at the Station, while additional prizes in week presented and donated by Mr. Connie Wilkinson. Dan Cowley was in charge of the spiel and did a tremendous job in arranging the details and conducting the draws throughout the day. The boys and girls had a wonderful time and hope the same can be repeated at a later date.

CANNIFTON-CORBYVILLE

Allen Curtotte, secretary of the Canniflon-Corbyville group informs us that their Christmas party was quite a success. The Canniflon church hall was filled to capacity with Cubs, Scouts, parents and friends.

Group members and the boys made up a very fine evening of entertainment, which was enjoyed by everybody. Cubs Johnson Pound, Larry Adams, Eric Emerson and Bobby Laffoon put on a skit, "The Great Surgeon," for which they can claim a great deal of credit. Akela Pulmsen led the Cubs in a rousing songfest of carols. Scoutmaster Stan Kerr showed some fine films and slides of the Scout camp and Cub camp, a recitation, "Just a Little Bit of Christmas," by Mrs. A. Ballstead, proved to be one of the highlights and, of course, no Canniflon affair is complete without a singsong under the direction of Mrs. and Pattenden with her harp.

The event was the grand entrance of Father Christmas. The children were in a trance from then on in. He left the hall and, since, man only lives once, it is up to us to take full advantage of time and use it wisely and meaningfully during his comparatively short life span.

Coffee and doughnuts were served by Mrs. Partridge and the ladies of the auxiliary, which brought the evening to a most enjoyable conclusion.

The group committee wishes to thank all those who helped to provide this very enjoyable party for the boys.

JACK HODGSON HONORED

Dave Dimond, secretary-treasurer, Mr. Jack Hodgson, this week on behalf of the ranks of a 25-year service pin. The small, select group in the Dominion. He received from the Provincial Priory of Canada the Most Venerable Order, of St. John of Jerusalem a gold certificate in recognition of his passing the twentieth examination in First Aid to the injured. Dr. J. G. Stock, president of the local St. John Ambulance Association made the presentation.

Mr. Hodgson took his first course in 1932 at Galt and his medallion at Queen's University in 1938, subsequently serving in the R.C.A.M.C. He is well known locally, not only in Scouting but as a First Aid lecturer.

SWIMMING

Mr. Lew Andrews reports that the inter-district meet on December 301 boys attended from seven districts. Twenty-one Cubs and seven Scouts qualified for badges. Cubs Brian Locke, Larry Rutherford and Norman Grant of 6th Tabernacle passed their tests at the last meeting.

First Election For Tyendinaga Reeve in Years

For the first time in approximately 12 years the township of Tyendinaga is to have an election for reeve.

Next Monday ratepayers of the municipality will go to the polls to choose between Tweedsmuir Charles Long, and Michael Horrigan who for the past three years has served as deputy reeve.

Russell Glass, member of this year's council has received acclamation as deputy-reeve for the third consecutive time.

The last election for reeve in Tyendinaga was during the term of Bartley Walsh who fought an election about 12 years ago. Since that time, Percy Moore, Leslie McLaren and Charles Long have been returned as reeve without a contest. Mr. Moore served for three years, Mr. McLaren for four, and Mr. Long is completing his third year in office.

Mr. Long last year at county council was appointed for a five-year term to the county roads and bridges committee and he has been under consideration preserve to again seek the reeveship of the township.

Obituaries

RICHARD WILLIAM BURKE

Resident of this city for the past 30 years Richard William Burke, 127 Charlotte Street, died suddenly at his home on Tuesday. He was in his 78th year.

Born in Belleville, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Burke he lived for many years in Oshawa before returning to this city. He had been a mill hand at the Wm. Rennie Lumber Company for 16 years and was a member of the Salvation Army.

He is survived by his wife, the former Emma Parker; two sons, Harold of Trenton and Ralph of Perth, and one daughter, Mrs. Alma (Irene) Steidl of Belleville.

A sister, Mrs. Florence Dunn of Boston, Mass.; seven grandchildren, and two great grandchildren also survive.

SAMUEL EARL TESSEL (Picton)

PICTON — The sudden passing of Samuel Earl Tessel, prominent Picton druggist, in his home, 57 King St., late Friday night, December 23rd, became as a shock to relatives, friends and citizens of the town generally. Though he had not been in the best of health for a few years, he had been at the store for the past few weeks and was looking forward to the holiday season with every appearance of health.

Mr. Tessel had been a resident of Picton since February 1924 when he purchased the Allison drug store which was founded in 1839 by Dr. A. J. Chamberlain who was later in partnership by his brother-in-law Dr. Dimond. In 1879 or 1873, the store was purchased by Dr. Allison and was owned until his death in 1937 when his brother James succeeded him, and from then he bought and sold to Mr. Tessel.

BORN IN 1897

S. E. Tessel graduated from the School of Pharmacy in 1919 and was employed by the Loyal City drug store in Guelph for a time. He was then the assistant manager of the Parkview Pharmacy on Bloor St. in Toronto for a time. He graduated from the Simmons drug store where he finished his term of apprenticeship.

He always enjoyed the esteem of a large circle of friends. He was a member of the Anglican Church and of the Masonic Order, including Rameses Temple. He was a member of the Picton Golf and Country Club and one of the oldest active members of the Officers' Mess at Camp Picton.

Mr. Tessel was the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Tessel. His father was many years on the Central Ontario and C.P.R. Steamers between Trenton and Picton and Trenton and Metropolitan.

He is survived by his wife, the former Lucille A'Bar.

Mr. Tessel resided at the Funeral Home of G. M. Hicks and Sons where funeral service was held afternoon in the Church of St. Mary Magdalene where a large number of relatives and friends gathered to pay a last tribute. Rev. Canon Wm. Bedford-Jones read the rites of the Anglican Church, while "Abide With Me" and "The Lord's Prayer" were sung by Mrs. Ralph Kingsley. Interment in Glenwood cemetery.

A Masonic service was held at the funeral home on Saturday night. Many beautiful floral tributes expressed the esteem in which Mr. Tessel was held and the sympathy felt for those bereaved.

MRS. JOHN STILES

STIRLING — The funeral of Mrs. John Stiles, the former Mary Tanner, was held Monday, December 26th, from her residence, Front Street, Stirling, to St. Andrew's Anglican Church. The service was conducted by a former pastor, Rev. Canon A. S. McConnell, rector of St. Thomas' Church, Belleville.

The bearers were: Messrs. Kenneth Morrow, Chas. Vance, Hubert Gibbard, Robert Preston, Clare Tanner and Butler Ellenbaw.

Interment was made in Stirling cemetery, and was under the direction of the Duffin Funeral Home.

MRS. ALBERTA MacFARLANE

The funeral of Mrs. Alberta MacFarlane was held Tuesday afternoon from the chapel of the John R. Bush Funeral Home with Rev. H. M. Davis officiating. Interment was in Belleville Cemetery.

Relatives were George Sills, Blurton Badgley, James Lazier, Will McMechan, Grant McLaren and Leslie McFarlane.

HOLD CORRESPONDENT

HAVANA (AP)—Cuban intelligence agents Tuesday held NBC correspondent Wilson Hall, 39, incommunicado without charges despite a protest from the U.S. Embassy. He was detained at Havana airport Monday as he was preparing to leave for New York.

DR. W. B. LANE (Picton)

PICTON — A noted educationist for forty-five years, Dr. Wilmot B. Lane passed away in Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital, Picton, on Friday, December 23th, 1960, in his 81st year. He had suffered a heart attack on Thursday.

Dr. Lane is survived by his wife, the former Minnie Jamieson; a son, His Honor Judge Wilfred B. Lane, and a grandson, William Lane, all of Picton.

BORN IN PRESCOTT

Dr. Lane was born in Prescott and was educated at Napanee. He graduated from the University of Toronto in 1893 and went to the University of Wisconsin as a teaching fellowship. He earned his Ph.D degree there, then taught at Mount Union College in Ohio for several years before moving to Rutgers College University in Virginia in 1904. In 1912 he came to Trenton where for 27 years was a member of the staff of Victoria College, University of Toronto, where he was a professor of philosophy. He retired in 1939.

Dr. Lane was a man of many interests, among those his career enriched the lives of hundreds with whom he came in close contact during his teaching career.

Police and Fire Departments Have Quiet Day

City and provincial police today reported a continued period of quiet on the crime front, with no breaking and entering or accidents coming to their attention.

The same was true of the city fire department which only run one call, a false alarm, the morning reported in the last 24 hours.

Police this morning had a fair of snow added to already slippery streets and numerous minor motor vehicle accidents were reported. Damage in all instances was slight and there were no injuries.

Provincial police had a similar story with no reportable accidents coming to their attention. This morning a highway transport slid off the pavement on a curve on No. 2 Highway east of Shannonville and had to be hauled back onto the roadway.

Police, Firemen, Salvation Army Bring Cheer

TRENTON — Several homes in Trenton were made happier Christmas Day through the efforts of members of the police department. Two night before Santa was scheduled to make his annual trip, members of the department set out with a station wagon loaded with toys and food parcels. The needy families which benefited by this goodwill gesture had been "discovered" by the department in the course of its duties.

Members of the fire department also devoted long hours to mending and re-painting toys for distribution to the town's underprivileged children. The Salvation Army Corps took on the task of distributing toys in this case.

Snow Conditions Good for Skiing Near Batawa

BATAWA — One group of residents who didn't complain about the recent 12.7-inch snowfall in the Trenton area was the members of the Batawa Ski Club. Many of the members took advantage of perfect skiing conditions over the weekend to indulge in their favorite winter sport.

Last summer, club members worked at runs and cleared excess tree growth and underbrush. Most all runs considered one of the finest between Toronto and Montreal. The Batawa Ski Club and the RCAF Base have been generous in helping to provide facilities for the club. RCAF personnel have devoted hours to instructing beginners and the more seasoned skiers.

Slippery Roads Cause Accidents

TRENTON — Minor accidents due to slippery streets, continue to be reported to police.

Yesterday one hit-and-run accident involving slight damage was reported. In another incident, a car driven by Ernest Lee, Rd. 2, Trenton, was in collision with a car driven by Mrs. Margaret Mary Sinclair, Trenton, at the corner of Dixon Drive and Sidney Street. Damage was estimated at $175. A stop sign at Dixon Drive had been knocked down and was covered with snow. Neither car was able to stop at the intersection.

Court Meets

TRENTON — The 1960 Court of Revision met last night to consider localized applications of the local improvement tax. Representing the court were the chairman, Councillor D. R. Fraser and members Harold Bulmer and Harold Turney.

Applications of the tax on Elizabeth, Queen, Leopold and George streets were discussed.

TORONTO STOCKS

On index, industrials jumped 1.30 at 519.81, golds 2.4 at 86.76 and western oils .06 at 40.90. Base metals took the only drop, down .14 at 138.92.

Ford of Canada led industrials with a gain of 1⅛ at 155. Crown Zellerbach advanced 1⅝. Dominion Breweries, Abitibi and Dominion Foundries and Steel each gained ½.

Anglo - Canadian Pulp and Paper went down 1¼ at 41. Algoma Steel and Mailing declined a point and Canada Packers ⅞.

Hudson Bay Mining dragged base metals down, off ½ at 45¼. Among senior uranisms, Denison dropped 20 cents at $9.30 and Gunnar lost 13 cents. Noranda was ahead ⅛.

Golds were quiet with only junior issues trading.

A strong rally near the close of moderate trade Tuesday enabled industrials to extend their pre-Christmas drive.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Bidding was dull on a comparatively heavy offering of slaughter steers at the Ontario public stockyards today.

Heifers and yearling prices were steady and cow prices were strong to the week's advance. Veal calves sold actively at firm prices, top choice vealers selling per hundredweight higher and lambs fully steady.

Slaughter cattle 1,796: Choice steers 25-25.50; good 23.50-24.50; medium 20-23; common 16-20; good heifers 21.50-22.50 with choice to 23; medium 20-21; common 18-19; choice fed yearlings 24.50-25.50; good 22-24; good cows 16-16.50; high odd lots to 17; medium 14.50-15.50; canner and cutter cows 10-11; good heavy bulls 18-19; medium 16; common and medium light bulls 13-15.

Replacement cattle 300: Good light stockers 22-23.50; common and medium 20-22 with best on off colored dairy stockers 16-19.

Calves 686: Choice vealers 23-27; good 30-33; medium 26-31; common 20-25; boners 12-19.

Hogs 1,400: Grade A 28.50; heavy sows 19-75; lights 21.75; slags 15 on a dressed weight basis.

Sheep and lambs 49: Good handyweight lambs 21.50; odd lambs 13-14; sheep 3-10 according to quality.

PRODUCE MARKET

Country dealers are quoted by the federal department of agriculture on Canada grade eggs, delivered Toronto, in fiber cases, A large 40-41; A medium 30-31; A small 29-30; B 30; C 24.

Butter prices: Canada, first grade: Ontario tenderable 64; non-tenderable 64, in light trading; western 64 (nominal).

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 9-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds in the Montreal over-the-counter market today.

Foreign currencies in terms of Canadian funds: Pound sterling $2.79 11-16, down ¼.

Canadian Dollar At New Low With U.S. Money

NEW YORK (CP)—The value of the Canadian dollar in terms of U.S. currency reached a low for 1960 at noon today at 91.00¼.

This figure, the opening quotation by foreign exchange dealers, was unchanged from Monday's nearly ½ of a cent from Tuesday's close of 91.00 39-64.

The last time the U.S. and Canadian dollars were at par was Oct. 20, 1955.

Traders ascribe the decline in the premium value of the U.S. dollar to imposition of additional taxes on foreign investment in Canada and to the prospect of a budget deficit.

BIRDS CAUSE ILLNESS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Sparrows were blamed for carbon monoxide fumes that floored six women employees of a trading stamp store. Vent pipes to heaters of the suburban store were found clogged with birds' nests after Tuesday's incident. The employees had been bothered by headaches for about two weeks.

Traffic accidents over the holiday weekends could push Canada's fatality and injury totals to the highest point in history, according to figures released by All Canada Insurance Federation. Figures released by the Federation, which represents 200 Canadian insurance companies, shows that 1960 injury totals will approach the 100,000 mark for the first time—equivalent to the combined populations of Amherst, Nova Scotia; Granby, Quebec; Niagara Falls, Ontario; Brandon, Manitoba and Nanaimo, B.C.

Unarmed U.S. Plane Struck Observing Drop

VIENTIANE (AP) — An unarmed United States plane was hit by machine-gun fire while observing Soviet air drops to Pathet Lao rebels in Laos Tuesday, the U.S. military attache's office said today.

The gunfire may have come from a Soviet transport plane. No one was injured aboard the twin-engined Dakota, belonging to the U.S. Air Force Liaison Group at Saigon, South Viet Nam. The plane's aerial was hit, Armand Rizer, assistant military attache, said a crew of four.

The plane made it back to Vientiane.

The plane was making a reconnaissance flight of Soviet airdrops to the pro-Communist rebels at Vangvieng, 65 miles north of Vientiane, at the request of the Laotian government, the attache's office said.

Meanwhile reports from people returned from Vangvieng claimed about 100 troops from Communist North Viet Nam have been landed there by Soviet transports.

They claimed there men were Thirmith uniforms and spoke Vietnamese and French but not Lao.

U.S. military sources say they could be Vietminh or could be Pathet Lao trained in North Viet Nam.

These sources feel certain there is a detachment of North Vietnamese artillerists with Capt. Hong Le and the Pathet Lao at Vangvieng to handle howitzers delivered by Soviet planes which they still hold Vientiane.

BANGKOK, Thailand (Reuters)—Laotian rebel leftist leader Prince Souvanna Phouma has told premier Pote Sarasin's pro-American government in Bangkok he is willing to form a coalition government with Premier Phoumi Nosavan.

Earlier Kong was reported to have joined forces with Souvanna Phouma and Pathet Lao forces at Phonsheng, a Pathet Lao stronghold for the last two years.

Meanwhile, unconfirmed reports reaching here said former Laotian neutralist premier Souvanna Phouma had left Cambodia for the Pathet Lao-held province of Sam Neua in North Laos.

Prince Souvanna left Vientiane for the neighboring country of Cambodia earlier this month after failing to bring about a compromise between right- and left-wing factions. The right-wing government of Premier (Prince) Boun Oum now is installed at Vientiane.

In Taipei, the Formosa newspaper China Post claimed today that Chinese Communist troops disguised as Communist Vietnamese soldiers have been entering North Laos to bolster Kong's retreating forces. At least 1,000 of them were already in Laos, the paper said.

annexation scheme its members listened and read their way for 35 days through an estimated 21,000,000 words of testimony and argument on the city's application.

HELD LONG HEARING

This hearing which started August 15, 1959 and ended Dec. 6, 1960 is the longest since the delimitations that preceded the establishment of Metro Toronto.

The final order to the BOM gave the city, against the expressed wishes of its representatives, its first board of control, its first board of collectors, its first library board which functioned during the First World War.

The order ended London's unique exemption from the stipulation in the Ontario Municipal Act that all cities with population exceeding 100,000 should have a system of administration.

It also provided for a council of 16 aldermen, to be elected from seven wards, with the mayor elected at large.

Since the OMB gave the scheme its final nod, city officials have been engaged in formulating and implementing a large-scale program to provide police, fire, public works, engineering and other essential services to the new suburbs.

WILL ABSORB FORCE

Most of the London Township police force will be absorbed into the city leaving the remaining areas of the two townships to be covered by the provincial police.

The police force alone has been expanded to handle the increased burden of services and administration. City council has already approved expenditure of nearly $1,000,000 for some of the extra services and equipment.

Arrangements have been made to handle emergencies, such as New Year's Eve celebrations, which might otherwise find the assigned areas caught in the middle.

With attention concentrated on the unprecedented growth of the city, the remnants of the township municipalities have been forgotten. Stripped of their urban responsibilities, they have reverted to the status of a country that has lost more than half its assessment.

Two Peronistas Set New Mark For Embassy Life

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Two of ex-dictator Juan Peron's proteges set a record this week for time spent in political asylum in a Latin-American Embassy.

Luis Amadeo Cardoso and his brother Juan Carlos have been living for five years, seven months and one week in the basement of the Paraguayan Embassy.

That is a week longer than the famous stay of Victor Raul Haya De La Torre, leader of the left-wing Apra party of Peru, who finally was allowed to go into exile six years ago from the Colombian Embassy in Lima.

Haya De La Torre was accused of having taken part in a bloody revolt in 1958, and Colombia and Peru twice fought his case through the World Court and The Hague but Torre kept finally reached agreement.

The laws and traditions of political asylum in Latin America are born of uncertain times, are meticulously observed on a consistent where the political pendulum often swings swiftly. But in recent years there has been a rising public clamor for trial of those accused of brutality and atrocities.

The Cardoso brothers Cardoso were attached to the Peron dictatorship's special section of the general police. Their job was to extract confessions from political prisoners who ran afoul of the Peron regime.

First Rambler Comes off Line

BRAMPTON (CP) — American Motors (Canada) Ltd. has produced its first Canadian-built car, a Rambler, at its Brampton plant here.

The first unit, a 1961 Rambler classic six, came off the auto assembly production line Tuesday, seven months and 13 days after construction started on the $2,500,000 plant, situated on a 250,000-square-foot site.

DEADLY GAME

CARROLLTON, Ky. (AP)—Philing fis cap gun against a playmate's 22-calibre rifle in a game of cowboys and Indians, an 11-year-old boy was shot and killed Tuesday. The coroner's office said Curtis West fired his cap gun at another boy who pointed his rifle and fired. The bullet went through West's body and lodged in his arm.

Minor Hockey

Belleville Bantams scored a 13-4 victory over their Wellington counterparts in exhibition hockey yesterday, while Belleville Midgets also won over Wellington Midgets by a 13-2 score.

R. Eves led the Belleville Bantams with three goals, while B. Hallam and A. Mott fired two goals apiece. Other goals went to P. Soule, B. Derry, J. Smith, C. Dougherty, S. Keary and B. Smith.

T. Lavender scored twice for Trenton, while B. Burley and A. Channel had a goal each.

Carl Boomhower led the Belleville Midget squad with four goals and one assist while Dwight Rathwell fired three times and had one assisted on two. Bob Boyle also scored twice and assisted on one goal while Jim Woodcock was one and one. Gary McMillan, Pete Emerson and Jim McGuire bagged one goal each. Bob Ridley earned three assists. Bob Brown, two, Pete Carver, Don Holiway, John Onderdonk and Art Lucas one apiece.

Don Mcleval fired both Wellington goals, unassisted.

Bringing Body For Examination

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—The body of a man who died of gunshot wounds at Horneyapyne, on the CNR trans-continental line, is being brought to the Soo for examination.

Coroner Dr. R. N. Killingbeck of Heart ordered that the body be sent here for postmortem investigation because he was "not satisfied" with what he found in his examination.

The coroner said by long distance telephone that the victim was Peter Janiski, a married man. Janiski had he did not know the man's first name or family background.

Janiski was found dead in his home.

UN Diplomats From Canada Will Be Kept Busy in 1961 Pressing for Disarmament

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The legs of Canadian diplomats will be kept agile in the pursuit of disarmament in 1961.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green's dream of the future is disarmament and he has made it clear that the dream—if it is a dream—will not be forgotten regardless of rude awakenings.

Disarmament is the main bailiwick of Canada in the 15th UN General Assembly—now in recess until March 7—and it received a shattering setback just before adjournment when a delegate turned down a plea to vote on a Canadian resolution urging a resumption of East-West talks.

Green promptly announced that Canada would press again for the resolution after March 7 and he predicted that it might receive unanimous approval — although on the other hand, it might be defeated.

CONVINCING SPEECHES

It is this "we'll-be-at-it-anyhow" approach that has endeared the white-haired, lanky Canadian foreign minister to the press corps at the UN.

In the midst of making speech-making by great-power representatives and others at the UN, Green has succeeded in maintaining the ring of truth and dedication to disarmament that he brought to the UN

World Refugee Year a Success

We are now nearing the end of the World Refugee r.

Surely there can have been few Canadians who, on the objectives of this year were proclaimed, did feel that here was a great humanitarian effort, ch deserved to succeed.

Yet, almost as certainly, most Canadians must e feared that once again we should have unfolded tory of too little, much too late—that the end of year would see the refugee problem not merely olved but only slightly improved.

This pessimism, according to the Canadian Comee for the World Refugee Year, has not proven fied. "Our country's participation in the World gee Year, though perhaps somewhat slow in gainmomentum, did contribute substantially to the r's world-wide success," it declares. "In reviewing national picture, everything points to major achievement."

With 97 countries and territories taking part, a of $65,000,000 in extra funds was realized, with nada's contribution being almost $4,250,000. Canans gave an estimated million in excess of normal tributions to Canadian voluntary agencies with gee programs. The Canadian Government's extra tributions included $600 for the United Nations h Commissioner for Refugees, $1,000,000 for wheat r for UNWRA and $600,000 for 211 refugees with and their 342 dependents brought to Canada during year under Federal Government sponsorship. In dition to these 553 refugees, Canada communities agencies privately sponsored the entry of another refugees at an estimated cost of $300,000. Since s report was drafted the Federal Government has nounced more refugees suffering from TB will be mitted.

This is a story which is in the true spirit of the ristmas season.

A Canadian Mendes-France

We do not presume that Mr. Douglas Clayton has y ambitions to become known as the Mendes-France Canada. Despite Monsieur Mendes-France's past hievements and honors, his present eclipse by Charand Charles makes emulation of his feats unlikely be popular and one of Mr. Clayton's duties, as secary-manager of the Associated Milk Foundations of nada, is to be popular and to please people. Nevertheless, he has flipped a lead coin of the book of Monsieur and is advocating the drinking of milk—he wants to make Canada's national beverage which, if memory serves aright, was precisely the Mendes-France plan when e plumped for the merits of pasteurization compared th fermentation.

Mr. Clayton, however, has approached the problem uch more warily, evidently determined to profit from he experiences of his predecessor. Where Monsieur roceted substituting milk for wine—surely a horrible nought to all those who have looked upon the grape fruit as it is—Mr. Clayton—mildly praises the nutrional values of milk, urging that it "should be a lifeme source of important vitamins and nutritional ements." In spite of this cautious approach, we fear hat many Canadians may have been about to scorn ilk and bury their noses in whatever is Canada's ational beverage—could it be anything with a distinct uch of chlorine flavoring?—until the Hamilton Spectator came to the rescue. "There is a wide and eglected field in drink-more-milk publicity," observes he Spectator sagely. "That is its value as an ingredient." Obviously the writer has never had, or two, or the woman a martini, isn't going to drink ilk instead just because it is loaded with important itamins. But for many people—excluding babies and hildren who drink the stuff because it's good for them —milk is an ideal stomach settler."

The only kind of sales talk which appeals to us, specially because the last person whom we heard olding forth in similar vein preached the virtues of aw eggs. Even watching a raw egg being swallowed whole, in one gulp, can be quite unsettling on the tomach. If the performance is glimpsed through the um-fumes at a wayside inn at three o'clock in the orning.

Make ours milk—and may the Canadian Mendes-rance never have the misfortune to run afoul of a oultry-owning Canadian de Gaulle.

Potent African Medicine

Paris Realities

It is not very often that you hear European doctors who have worked in Africa for a long time make fun of African remedies. On the contrary, since the end of the 19th century, missionaries and colonists have observed that certain treatments obviously work and they have attempted to gather African medicinal plants, shipping their harvest to the sackload to pharmaceutical laboratories back home for analysis.

However, Western doctors and African medicine men operate on completely different viewpoints, so that it was not until recently that an attempt was made to merge the two.

To the African, illness and death were considered unnatural events arising from the guilt of the patient — an offence which he consciously committed or which some witch had cast on him. was the victim.

Etiology — the study of causes — therefore, mainly spiritual. The European doctors were interested mainly in material causes.

They sought a tangible physical cause for each illness and tried to destroy it. Nevertheless, they often admit that a patient's "morale" should not be overlooked.

Slowly and without enthusiasm, Western doctors began to learn, each came to admit the existence of the facts. As early as the 19th century, certain herbs were recognized as febrifuge or purgative, solids, colds, fever and coughs.

* * *

A certain number of other herbs are now recognized and are in current use, but we have yet to find out how they act. The most extraordinary of these plants is undoubtedly the ones used to stimulate the flow of menstruation.

* * *

In his doctorial thesis, The Medicine of the Negro Medicine Men in West Africa, Dr. Rouadjo-Tiacoh explains that it's young mother dies in childbirth if the relations call upon the maternal grandmother to undertake the nursing. She, as a rule, she goes on a very rich diet: honey cornrige, and a great deal of meat, especially liver, udders and kidneys. Within a few days she also eats raw manioc, fresh groundnuts, the seeds of the cotton plant or the papaya, subbing her chest with these same products.

Within a few days the grandmother is capable of nursing her grandchild. However, adds Dr. Rouadjo-Tiacoh, "the child is sometimes born as possible, not because the milk dries up but because of the cost of feeding the old woman.

* * *

Western doctors do not question the effectiveness of these milky concoctions but the use of aphrodiact, abortive and anticonceptive substances, or certain make-bile remedies. They simply have not yet determined their composition or their properties.

It is natural that western medicine should have been reserved at about African "magic" remedies and "witch doctors." Today this scepticism has been replaced by a well-and-se attitude. Thus, the Musee de l'Homme, in Paris:

"In the past we used to appeal to the witch doctor when Africans were unable to find any medicine. Their knowledge of the manioc showed it to be very poor in food value. Their knowledge of the fact that Africans used it widely because it was easy to grow. But only when we decided to analyze it once more after steeping it in water according to the same temperature as the branch channels of the rivers, that steeping brought out food properties which had not even been hinted at by the witch doctor.

"Analysis can be effective only when it considers living conditions in Africa. And as our methods of analysis are improved, so are those of the peasant in the plants we had hitherto scorned."

* * *

Still, while Western doctors are willing to study the results of these analyses, they refuse to admit that sacrifices or magic passes can cure a patient.

* * *

It is obvious that neither sorcery nor sleeping sickness has been conquered by spells. All too often, doctors are called too late on the bedside of a child dying of a contagious disease or a man in agony, the victim of a strangulated hernia which has been burst by a medicine man.

* * *

But Africans, to an even greater extent, are admitting that classical medicine is good for them in their native and Western treatment. Medicine men and doctors approve this attitude and it is rare to see them reach gentlemen's agreements.

* * *

Western doctors often do not have the time to look after their patients' souls, whereas an important part of the medicine man's therapy lies in straightening out his patient's conscience.

Dr. Rouadjo-Tiacoh has noted that childbirth often begins with a complete confession by the expectant mother and her husband, with everyone admitting faults that can set evil spell over the young mother.

Sexual contact is cut out, the supernatural agent causing a disease, the breaking of evil spirits and the practice of touching the patient and allowing visitors to pass to him only through the intermediary of the old woman who is the nurse are all ways of making him feel that he is under powerful spiritual protection.

There is no doubt that the absence of fear, the feeling of the presence of faith are of considerable value in encouraging the patient and in stimulating his reactions — in other words, in preparing the ground.

As one English psychiatrists has noted, certain powers of the mind, such as intuition, hypnosis and telepathy, are little understood except by those who have been raised in societies that believe in them.

Here, he says, is an unexplored subject for research in Africa.

New Method In Teaching

New York Times

Current debates over modern education almost invariably involve the question of the use of the latest addition to the arsenal of learning: the teaching machine. It remains to be seen how mild and reasonable educators into violent opponents. That is unfortunate. It opens up the danger that, like so many previous innovations in education, this one will be rendered less effective by being over-sold and over-bought by enthusiasts and underestimated and misunderstood by unbelievers of the status quo.

The first handicap the teaching machine must overcome is its name. Educators have a peculiar fear making that word. Many of their children more difficult by putting on them labels which confound and confuse. Many of the best lectures first started to come to life when the professor ready existing to children was called an audio-visual aid. conturing or correcting faulty hearing or vision.

* * *

In an appraisal of teaching machines by David Boroff in The New York Times Magazine documented, it is clear that a machine need not be a machine at all. It is a way of using many of existing an orderly progression of self-teaching, with the child being the determining factor whether he has mastered the question and is ready to go on to the next point. The content of the lesson may be fed to the child within the framework of the machine, through a simple container with devices to control the sequence, even through a special book which sends the learner to different pages, depending on his speed of comprehension. The point of the process is that it is self-teaching.

There are many ways in which the teaching machinery can be used, not only to student but to teacher as well. Boroff points out that fears from acute insecurity could seriously fear the Orwellian overseeing of the machine in the development of the teacher. Those with confidence in their own ability will be ready to test the teaching machine technique, while the less confident will question with which good teachers accepted textbooks, films, lectures and other "old reliables."

* * *

At this stage it appears important to keep minds at once open and devoid of fanaticism and to make certain that whatever the shape of the "machines," their function is to serve teachers who covers cannot make a good book, and the teaching machine must stand or fall by the same judgment.

Ripe Olives For Children

Christian Science Monitor

For people who still look upon olives as an "acquired taste," the consumer habit first throes of acquisition, reports that American school children are to confront olives — or vice versa — fiercely during lunches in mixed responses. They are the more mixed as there is no doubt the olives are to be of the ripe variety that best suits a sophisticated palate.

* * *

But youth must be served and nourished lustily if the growing industry must be established so the agriculture department is buying up olives to serve to school children.

Now that the program has been garnished, one wonders who will pay the bill, the children by going without something they like better or the parents by doing without something they would like better than olives.

* * *

One wonders, too, if the consumptions of nuts is more apt to extend to the cold war and we shall hear Mr. K chanting to the rhythm of a waving shoe that little capitalists can have olives but little Communists shall have caviar.

* * *

The point of the mystery is that the more olives Americans can substitute for nuts, the more branches they can wave — and long may they.

A Growing Language Must Change

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The new French ambassador to Canada remarked in a speech recently that French was being polluted by the world language. Despite its clarity, conciseness and logic, it has spoken by relatively fewer persons than a single province or two.

* * *

Every large country has at one time hoped that its own language would be the "world language." None has yet succeeded — although English has come closer than any other.

* * *

One reason for the decline of French is the defensive, protective attitude of Frenchmen toward their language. They have codified it in the Academy, guarded it as a national heirloom, and in general treated it with fatal fidelity in grammar and meaning.

* * *

It is easier to be understood by the French, and to learn their language; it is also a subtle and witty tongue. But it will never be widely accepted because it is inhospitable to words strangers use.

* * *

For instance, the first time I went to Paris, I had a charming acquaintance with both French and Italian. If anything my French was slightly better than my Italian.

* * *

Yet, everywhere I went in France my efforts to speak the language — however haltingly — were rebuffed. My gauche accent and meager vocabulary often made it impossible, but I would quickly shift to their own tongue, English, and invite them to hear French spoken badly.

* * *

In Italy it was quite the reverse. The people delighted in my halting talk and helped me out wherever they could. I left Italy elated and pleased that a foreigner had taken the time and interest to learn Italian, however badly.

* * *

Anyone who has travelled in Mexico or South America has had the same experience — the Latin Americans ardently embrace any Northamericano who tries to speak Spanish, for reason, indeed, for the general dislike of the Yankee south of the U.S. border is his reluctance to learn the language.

* * *

French has barely changed in 300 years, Cornelle and Racine, the great French playwrights, can be understood perfectly by the Shakespeare, their English contemporary, almost a strange language to modern ears.

* * *

This is a loss to literature, but a gain to English for only a language that is vital and changing, that happens to have a voice like a bazoo, a billy goat or a portable riveter, can learn hinge, cheer up. There is room for you, but only just room for you in singing commercials.

Passports Best Dirty

Vancouver Sun

The United States is issuing a new model passport, the result of a model contest. Judges described as more colorful, easier to clean, impervious to liquids, fade-proof and by no objection to getting dog-eared.

This is bound to set travellers jumping with joy. But will it?

People who travel are subject to a snobbery all their own. They are always looking down their noses at the folks who stay behind.

* * *

Once upon a time this could be settled with a thick ikrye of hotel and steamship company stickers on their baggage. But nowadays, when the stickers can be bought at any dime store, it is too easy to counterfeit. In travel snobbery, it is out.

* * *

The passport, though, however, cannot be counterfeited. It therefore remains in.

* * *

The more faded, dog-eared and generally travel-weary the passport, the greater the prestige it brings to its owner. The ultimate is two passports, one full but containing still valid visas, bound together with elastical rep tape and a wax seal. Let the Americans have their shiny impressive new passports if they want. But Canadians will go for the Imperial Affairs to leave the age-worn, faintly blue books stolen, dog-ears and all.

COLOSTOMY PATIENT MUST FOLLOW DIET RULES

Yesterday we discussed some of the more general requirements of a person with a colostomy. Today we will consider diet.

After a colostomy, it is true that before the patient gets into the habit of eating regularly, the colon, or bowel, requires some regulation.

For one thing, the colon normally absorbs considerable water. After a colostomy, a substantial part of the colon no longer remains in the digestive tract, hence less water will be absorbed.

The answer? The patient must carefully watch the water intake. He no longer needs as much as he did before. Drinking too much water causes a loose stool. In fact, any fluid which contains much water will be required, because it is high in water, such as fruit juices, soups, tomatoes, jello, vegetables, cereals, soft drinks, ice cream, etc.

* * *

Another factor is bulk in the diet. At first, bulk should be held to a minimum. The principal sources of bulk are fresh fruits and vegetables, such as whole apples or oranges, dried fruits such as figs and raisins, celery, rhubarb, and some cooked vegetables, corn being a notable exception.

* * *

The patient should get most of his nourishment from foods containing low bulk, that is, relatively little material which is not absorbed by the digestive system. Such low-bulk foods are eggs, meat, fish, beef, milk, dairy products such as cheese, potatoes, rice, spaghetti and macaroni.

As the bowel gradually becomes retrained, it is safe gradually to increase the scope of the diet with things as — citrus fruit juices, pureed fruits and vegetables.

While one is on the low-bulk diet, calories are likely to scar, because most of the low-bulk foods are rich in food value. The way to avoid taking on weight is to watch the amount of fat in one's meals, such as milk, and, or course, from meat. You can use skim milk.

* * *

There's another thing to watch: it is very easy to be short of vitamins in a low-bulk diet, particularly Vitamins, A, C, and D. This is an ideal example of a time to use a vitamin supplement. However, this can be obtained in good quantity from the meat in your diet, and from cooked, strained cereal.

* * *

Finally, if a patient has excessive trouble from loose stool while learning to regulate the diet, his physician probably will be able to control it through medication.

* * *

The gist is this: If you have a colostomy, remember that you have every reason to expect to overcome the problems which it involves. You can and should look forward to resuming your former activities.

* * *

Then you must expect to follow the rules for getting regulated again in the opposite of

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FILLING IN THE GAPS

It is right that each one of us should try to be as well informed as possible.

We are creatures of habit. Because we are often careless about our conduct there are gaps here and there in our lives which we ought to be filled with useful ideas.

I sometimes think of these gaps as Character gaps. What is done is influenced by them and when they are not filled, and put to a useful purpose, they become stumbling blocks that often trip us up in some tragic manner.

Watch these tricky gaps. It is often said, "Watch your step" but don't let someone else watch your steps. Watch your own, and keep them solidly on the ground. Be sure that each one is safe to make.

Thinking in life is unusually as difficult as it is pictured to be! Many a thinker will with to further his strength and to fill his vacant Character gaps. He will find that as he notes his growth of mind and his many interests, that "doth not live by bread only."

Grandma Moses returned to painting after many years away from it, and then accomplished greater work than ever. She even thought that living to the age of this pioneer artist was Hon inspiring for the lesser lights in life!

British Columbia Man Wins Silver Medal Posthumously For Saving Tot From River

HAMILTON (CP)—A man who died in British Columbia's icy Fraser River while saving a little girl from drowning has been posthumously awarded the Royal Canadian Humane Association silver medal.

The silver medal for the courage of Terence Hughes of New Westminster, B.C., was the only one in awards announced today. Three persons received bronze medals and 34 got parchment certificates.

While fishing with two friends near New Westminster Nov. 8, 1939, Mr. Hughes heard cries of children playing on a log and noticed a little girl had slipped into the water. He dived in and held Carol St. Pierre with one arm while trying to swim with the other.

A friend went to his aid and the little girl grasped him around the neck. All three disappeared beneath the surface. Another rescuer pulled the girl and the other man ashore but Hughes did not come up. His friends failed to recover the body.

Kenneth James Herron of New Westminster and Robert Arthur Thomas of Coquitlam, B.C., were awarded certificates for their part in the rescue.

BRONZE RECOGNIZED

Bronze medals went to Mrs Phyllis DeWolf of Montreal, Lawrence Selsker of Surrey, B.C., and Duncan Neil of Gisborne, B.C.

Mrs. DeWolf saved a man from drowning in Lake Memphremagog, near Magog, Que., last June 21, although she didn't think she was strong enough to help him out of the water.

Carroll Durkin had fallen off a wharf and was trapped under a wooden apron. Mrs. DeWolf dived over the apron, brought the man to shore with the aid of his brother and applied artificial respiration. Mr. Durkin was revived shortly before the doctor arrived.

Mr. Selsker was honored for rescuing neighbor Melvin Rouse from a burning house at great personal risk. He broke a window in the house until he spotted Rouse, then entered the building. He said a fire captain brought the man out.

Mr. Neil rescued Edmund and Philip Karbowski, 5 and 2, Feb. 27 from a flaming Smithtown in Gisborne. Responding to cries from their mother, he ran into the bunkhouse and nearly overcame by smoke before bringing the boys out.

AWARD TO ENGLISHMAN

Parchment certificates were awarded to:

T. M. B. Phillips, Framlingham, Suffolk, England, for rescuing a small boy from drowning at Bancroft, Ont., in the summer of 1867. Mr. Phillips was visiting Canada.

Mrs. Phillis Marks and John William Brenks, both of Squamish, B.C., and James Gordon Gibson, West Vancouver, for their part in the rescue of LAC Lawrence Trevor Ellis from drowning in Alice Lake, near Squamish, in September, 1938.

Mrs. Muriel Harding, Hamilton, B.C., and Mrs. Mary Blackburn, Armadale, B.C., who assisted in rescue of Tony Sorkobic from Cheakamus Lake May 15.

Mrs. Kay Spencer, Duncan, B.C., for the attempted rescue of Dickie Hyzendoorn from the Cowichan River July 5, and Richard Hanson of Cowichan Bay who saved Mrs. Spencer and Dickie.

TWO BY ALGONQUIN

A. C. MacKay, Hanna, Alta., who rescued Wayne Fox from injury by a train at the Bow River July 16.

Robert Tyler, Cardston, Alta., and Robert Lebel, Ochre River, Man., who assisted in rescue of Charles R. Thompson from drowning at Bow Island, Alta.

John Senkochuk, RCAF Station, Winnipeg, who rescued Douglas E. Render from Falcon Lake near Winnipeg June 4.

John Copeland, Kenora, Ont., who pulled Mrs. Margaret McGuire from Lake Malachi at Malachi, Ont., Aug. 20, 1939.

Thomas Homerstone, Hamilton, who saved Julius Berezh from serious injuries by a train at Hamilton May 6.

Frederick Bassil, 15, Kitchener, Ont., who saved Douglas MacNeil from drowning at Fenelon Falls, Ont., Aug. 25, 1939.

THREE TOOK PART

Iain Baines, Ted de Grey and Bob Brainbridge, all of Deep Cove, B.C., were assisted in rescue of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney McEwan and others from the Ottawa River July 23.

Const. Jean Guy Beauvais, Montreal, for saving Robert Simard from the St. Lawrence River near St. Helen's Island Aug. 22.

Garnet William Hoyt, Fredericton, who saved Richard Perry and Robert Tait from the St. John River at Fredericton May 13, 1937.

Brenda Joyce Ogden, Cape Spear, N.B., who saved Stephen Trenholm from his burning home at Tignish River, N.B., July 10.

Mrs. Joyce Johnston and Jessie M. McMullen, North Sydney, N.S., who assisted in rescue of Anne Marie and Abraham Miles from Smith Brook at North Sydney Feb. 22.

Robert MacGregor, Brookville, N.S., who rescued Alan MacHardy from Sutherland's River at Pictou, N.S., June 29.

Richard Moore, Halifax, who saved Ralph Goulden at Eisenson's Pond, Spryfield, N.S., March 4. This was a second rescue for Richard, 11.

1906 Booklet Interesting

Bruce Joss, of Stuart, Fla., former resident of Belleville who has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Florence Joss, 403 Dundas Street, discovered amongst the family possessions a little booklet which would prove of interest to many of the older residents of the city. Published in the month of 1906, it contains two dozen views of the city and the immediately surrounding district. There is at least one street scene, but residential area, which could have been taken this past summer, but most of the pictures provide a sharp contrast with today's surroundings. Newcomers would gaze with envy at a photograph of two men hoking five big muskies, with the accompanying caption reading "The Muskinonge Fishing Is Good." There are several pictures of beautiful yachts on the bay.

"Average taxation of cities in Ontario per head—$12.29," says one little item, adding: "In Belleville it is $9.65." Oh, happy days! Cheery statistics are given. In 1905, 19,000 boxes were sold on the board here, valued at $850,000. The average price on the Belleville board was 10% cents. There were 100 cheese factories in Hastings County at that time.

The booklet is approximately 7 inches by 5½ inches.

Soviets Win Propaganda Mileage on Colonial Issue

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Soviet Premier Khrushchev has once again invited colonial peoples to look to Russia rather than to the United Nations for help in achieving independence and freedom.

That appears to be the meaning of his statement issued in Moscow Tuesday assuring "subjugated" peoples that they will not be alone on the road to freedom.

There's no doubt that the Soviets won much propaganda mileage on the colonial question in the 15th United Nations General Assembly—now in recess—as Khrushchev's proposals were by no means the unqualified success he now makes them out to be.

The assembly accepted Dec. 14 by a vote of 89 to 9 with nine abstentions an Afro - Asian compromise resolution calling for a "speedy and unconditional end to colonialism" but leaving out any reference to the one-year deadline demanded by Khrushchev.

BURY COLONIES

The vote ended a debate that started Sept. 23 when Khrushchev, in New York for the start of the assembly session, set forth a demand that all colonial territories be granted complete independence "forthwith" and that troops, including military bases on the territory of other countries, be eliminated.

The Soviet Union ended up by supporting the Afro - Asian plan, which was co - sponsored by 43 countries. Russian diplomats were obviously elated when the United States abstained, joining Britain, Belgium, France, Portugal and Spain—all imperial countries—along with Australia, the Dominican Republic and South Africa.

Russia took further satisfaction from a member of the U.S. delegation, Mrs. Zelma Watson George, a noted Negro sociologist, openly displayed her opposition to her country's abstention.

She stood with Afro-Asian delegates and applauded adoption of the measure. Later reports indicated that the U.S. delegation had advised support of the Afro-Asians but was overruled by President Eisenhower.

K VS. DIEF

While still in New York, Khrushchev served notice that he was planning a long-term campaign when he said that although such countries as Britain and the U.S. gave lip service to the independence movement, they would try to "squirm out" of any agreement reached.

Canada supported the Afro-Asian resolution after Prime Minister Diefenbaker made it clear as early as Sept. 26—he was the first Western leader to reply to Khrushchev — that Russia itself was considered the harshest imperial power in the world today.

Condemning the concept of a "double standard" in dealing with colonial affairs, Diefenbaker challenged Khrushchev to name the nations under his domination the right of free elections.

He said some 600,000,000 people in more than 30 countries have obtained freedom since the guidance of Britain and France and added:

"Might I ask how many human beings have been liberated by the U.S.S.R. since the First World War?"

Catholics in the Flemish north but Socialist-led strikes and ensuing riots resulted in his abdication in 1951 in favor of Baudouin.

Leopold's failure to form an exile government during the Nazi occupation cost him Catholic widespread popular resentment.

Belgium's Christians dimmed by the strike, faced a cheerless New Year's with few ruins running, many power stations shut down or nearly so, mines and industries at a standstill.

Twenty thousand workers at La Louviere, 20 miles south of Brussels, bowled Tuesday at the name of Josef Ernest Cornu. Van Roey, Belgium's leading Roman Catholic, who has condemned the strike as unlawful. Other marxist demonstrations were staged in southern and eastern Belgium, where the Socialists are strongest.

The provincial governor at Antwerp ordered police to refuse all demonstrations arms along.

All police and the army were on the alert, and reinforcements had been sent to sensitive spots. Army reserve units were being called back to duty.

Board Approves Million Dollar Bowling Alley

Barring possible objection which would have to be registered within a week, construction of a 32-lane bowling alley in the east end of the city north of Dundas Street, was approved last night by the Belleville Board of Adjustment.

The Board, headed by chairman Arthur Briggs, met at city hall to consider the application of Cruise Craft of Canada Ltd., of Toronto, for permission to build the bowling alley in an RM-2 zone. Under permissable uses, construction of a bowling alley would not normally be allowed in an RM-2 zone.

The original request from Cruise Craft was for permission to build a 34-lane alley but this has now been increased to 32 lanes. Cost of construction, plus equipment would be close to $1,000,000 from whilch the city could expect to receive approximately $17,000 in taxes.

Plans are to commence construction early in the spring, completion at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, had a fully-loaded bomb. Another bomb needed only ignition."

Navy Accused of "Messy, Deplorable and Sloppy" Housekeeping on Carrier

NEW YORK (AP)—City Fire Commissioner Edward Cavanagh Tuesday accused the United States Navy of "messy, deplorable and sloppy" housekeeping before the fire that took 42 lives aboard the aircraft carrier Constellation.

Cavanagh, delivering a 2½-hour tirade before a navy court of inquiry against conditions found aboard the vessel, said that if a factory or other building in New York city had been found in such condition "we would have ordered work stopped and the premises cleaned up."

The commissioner said there is no support for the statement that the $75,000,000 fire Dec. 19 was a million-to-one chance.

On the contrary, he said, the huge carrier at the completion at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, had a fully-loaded bomb. Another bomb needed only ignition."

Cavanagh told the navy court it would have cost the navy $12,000 to impregnate its wooden staging with a fire retardant.

WOULD REDUCE FIRE

This, he said, would have reduced the extent of the fire considerably. The original oil fire from a tank of diesel fuel was put out in a half-hour, the commissioner said, but fire men fought a wood fire for nine hours.

Introducing photographs taken by the fire department to back up his charges, Cavanagh said:

Large numbers of cigaret butts and matches in many compartments of the ship showed there was no enforcement of no-smoking rules. Navy personnel were even smoking on board the vessel during the fire.

The oil tank should have been kept on the dock, but if it was necessary to keep it on the ship it should have had a solid steel wall around it and a well to receive any leaks.

FUEL OF WASTE

Many large cardboard cartons were full of waste which should have been kept in metal containers, and there was an "extraordinary amount" of empty wooden cartons on the ship.

"All inflammable stores," Cavanagh said, "should have been stored on the dock pending the installation."

Cavanagh also said that 42 carbon fires reported aboard the vessel since the big one attested to "very, very bad, housekeeping" on the vessel.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

So it is over again. How many people say that every year after Christmas, half in sadness, half in gladness? The New Year seems a different kind of holiday, a following on to the big one. Here we are in between the two, the children already turning from the new toys and just playing again. We heard one small urchin the age say: "Come on, let's play hard, 'cause our holidays are shorter this year."

That line of thought seems to be followed by some adults. One often hears someone say, "It is so frustrating, there are so many things I would like to do and I haven't got the time. I'll have to hurry or crowd them in somehow." Do you ever get the feeling that by working everything in, the important things, or better things we really enjoy are given short shrift? Surely is a good New Year's resolution to put important matters in their proper place.

We were enlightened the other day by having it pointed out that the winter solstice is a certain time in the relation of the sun and the earth and that we should not really say it is the beginning of winter. Winter, it was affirmed, was weather and there was no set time for it. Winter is, as Gladys Taber says, "the wild dark days when the house seems like a lively warm little island with winter billowing outside." The feeling of Christmas, the home and family festival, brings that close warm spirit to a peak.

Until a few weeks ago it seemed that the saying "a green winter makes a fat churchyard" might apply, but now, for those moving about on foot or by car, the old English proverb holds again this year. "Every mile is two for winter."

We will hope though that John Burroughs is right when he says, "the tendinous part of the mind, so to speak, is more developed in winter; the fleshy, lymphatic, or dough say winter has given the bone and sinew to literature, summer the tissue and the blood".

To go back to Christmas, now comes the job of disassembling all those elaborate decorations, which, indeed, are getting more elaborate every year — inside and outside. How barren the livingroom looks with the tree gone and the lights put away, and how colorless and dark the streets will look at night, especially when the outside decorations are taken down. But they serve their purpose. Gone with the old days of candlelight, crude candles were lit by early peoples to offset the long darkness of the afore-mentioned winter solstice. Now the lights and decorations were devised for expressing the joy of the Christmas season. Let us hope that our streets look lovelier and that we feel better as we go home in the gathering dusk? We will all miss the lights when they go out.

Women's Institute

MOUNTAIN VIEW W.I.

MOUNTAIN VIEW — Mrs. R. Barber opened her home for the December evening meeting of Mountain View Women's Institute. There was a large attendance of members and also many visitors. The meeting was opened with Mrs. Frank Roblin, 1st vice-president, presiding.

The business details were discussed and taken care of.

Mrs. Hilet Barber and Mrs. Harold Motley were appointed leaders for the adult training course. A baby spoon was presented by Mrs. Ronald Lough for her baby daughter.

Mrs. Willet Barber gave an interesting demonstration on making Christmas decorations, both for the table and home. Tickets were sold for one of the articles made and it was won by Mrs. Motley.

Mrs. W. Nightingale presented Mrs. Barber with a small gift from the Institute.

A sing-song of Christmas carols was enjoyed with Mrs. Ben Anderson at the piano. An inspiring Christmas reading was given by Mrs. E. Hall.

Mrs. Clark Sprung thanked the hostess for her hospitality. After the meeting closed, lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by the lunch committee, and a social time was enjoyed.

The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Clifford Barber in the evening.

Christmas Concert

FRANKFORD UNITED S.S.

FRANKFORD — On December 23, at 7 p.m., the annual Christmas concert of Frankford United Church was held, with a capacity crowd.

The program was as follows: welcome, Janice Waanbaker; Christmas chorus by primary department under the leadership of Mrs. J. Beach; Christmas in Scripture, song and story by Mrs. Mervin Dafoe and Mrs. Karl Austin; a play, "All These Things the Saviour's Praise," by Mr. J. Beenen; a play, "The Prodigal Son," by Mrs. Edna Hall and Mr. H. J. Madill's class; a Christmas drill by Mrs. H. Rowe and Miss Mary John's class; the play, "Round the World Christmas," under the direction of Mrs. M. Grills and Mr. H. Vosbourgh.

Intermission followed and the remainder of the program was: a three-act play, "It's Beginning to Look A Lot Like Christmas," by the senior boys and girls and a farewell recitation by Allan Keller.

The Christmas tree was gaily decorated for the occasion, and bags of candy were distributed to all at the close of an enjoyable evening.

Club Activities

C.A.'S

FRANKFORD — Frankford Full Gospel C.A's held its Christmas party, December 23rd at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Watson.

President of the C.A's, Miss Gail Walker opened the meeting with the singing of Christmas carols.

PROGRAM

The soda cracker game winners were: Miss Helen Patrick and Mr. Charlie Wright. The play, "The Shepherds Live Again," a three-act play, was enacted by Mrs. Fred Miller, Robert Grant, Kenneth Reichert, Richard Price, Carol Watson and Gary Carson. The blindfolded feeding game winners were: Miss Rooda Payne and Mr. Ken Helm. The needle and plate game winners were Mrs. Ed. Strome and Miss Pat Wood. Unfolding Christmas package stunt was won by Mr. Roy Miller. A poem was read by Mr. James Curry.

Gifts were exchanged from the gaily decorated tree.

Refreshments were served in buffet style and everyone enjoyed a good time of fellowship.

Tailored To Taste

By TRACY ADRIAN

Mink is beautiful and flattering whether it appears, as a stole, jacket or full-length coat.

This coat was especially designed to suit the taste of women who want their minks to be tailored and hem-length.

The lure is manipulated like fabric, with a versatile sculptured collar which can be worn open or top-fastened to produce a V-patterned five-button front. Minutely indented at the waist, the coat is slightly flared and half-belted in back.

The Experts Say

Codfish Skins in Coffee Pot No Longer Held Necessary

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Nowadays people don't throw dried codfish skins in the coffee pot. But they used to. Some people used egg shells or butter.

They weren't to add taste to the brew but the albumen they contain acted as a coagulant in separating the grounds from the liquid.

E. Gene Laughery, president of the Coffee Brewing Institute, New York, explained during a Toronto visit that today's coffee pots have filters that perform the task.

"Making good coffee," he said, "is simply putting the given amount of water with the given amount of coffee for a given amount of time—then separating the liquid and grounds."

Sipping a cup of restaurant coffee which he pronounced "very good," he advised coffee makers to stick to a formula once they find one that suits them.

A PRIME RULE

Use hodgepodge methods and you get hodgepodge results, he says. The first rule of good coffee is to make sure the pot is clean. A pipe cleaner does a handy job of cleaning the stem. If you don't own a percolator brush.

It's important, too, to buy the right type of grind for the type of pot to be used.

Although some coffee lovers pride themselves on their home-ground coffee beans, Mr. Laughery says coffee ground at the factory or store is usually better because it is ground more uniformly.

The institute recommends starting with a clean coffee maker, fresh coffee and fresh cold water. Coffee should not be stored for more than one week.

Never make less than three-quarters of the capacity of the pot and allow two level tablespoons of ground coffee for each six ounces of water.

The majority of Canadians use percolators. When perking starts, reduce the heat and perk gently for six to eight minutes. Never boil. If the coffee is to be left on the stove to keep warm, remove from the heat and reduce the heat.

The steeping method is not only used by sportsmen out in the open but is still used in many Canadian homes. Heat water in a covered container. When it boils, remove from heat, add measured coffee and stir. Allow to steep to desired strength.

If the drip method is used, preheat the pot then proceed in the correct amount of boiling water. Brewing should be completed in the time the kettle's bitter before serving.

When the water boils in a vacuum pot, reduce the heat and insert the filter. Measure coffee and water and remove from heat. The coffee should remain in the upper bowl no longer than three minutes.

If coffee is bitter, it has been brewed too long.

Jackie Kennedy Look Will Sweep Country Prediction Of Chief Dress Designer

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Oleg Cassini may not have achieved cabinet status with his appointment as chief dress designer for the wife of U.S. President-elect John Kennedy but in his way he may be just as influential—especially among American women.

"The Jackie Kennedy look will sweep the country," he predicts. "It will develop in France and Italy. She will be the most seen, the most talked about, the most photographed woman in the world.

"For the first time in history all the elements are present to make a tremendous fashion story: The looks, age, style sense of the next first lady. Measure that against what we've had in the past. They've been very fine ladies, but minus zero to the fashion world."

Cassini, 47, dapper, slim and mustached, is feeling modest about his new eminence, elated about the chance to "glorify the American look that has never been defended by anyone except me." And he's not talking about the sketches.

There's no doubt that Mrs. Kennedy, long a loyal customer of the Paris couture and especially of the avant garde designer Givenchy, threw the fashion world into a tizzy recently with her selection of Cassini clothes. Cassini delights in revealing the secret: "I look at fashion with the eyes of a man," he declares stoutly.

COMPLETE OUTFITS

He says his Kennedy assignment includes doing "the majority of all the clothes she'll need, ordinating hats, shoes, bags, jewelry."

The first Cassini gown will be worn at a gala ball Jan. 19 in Washington.

"Mrs. Kennedy is the best prototype of the American girl," insists Cassini, Paris-born of an Italian mother and titled Russian father.

"She can go no more to the French Riviera—her wonderful sense of style and my designs—we will jet something fabulous. It transferred from Capri."

"I will study all the things good on her and bad, although," he adds quickly, "she can wear almost everything. But she has preferences. Out of this will evolve a real Jacqueline Kennedy look."

He defines the look: "I imagine a royal princess with a touch of Grand Duchess. She is elegantly dignified. There will be none of the downlines that goes with great austerity. There's room for pepper there. But it will be in extreme good taste—and very much herself."

WMS Names 1961 Officers

WALLBRIDGE — Wallbridge W. M. S. meeting for December was held in the Church Hall with a good attendance. Mrs. Morley Phillips, president, presided.

Mrs. Lawrence Ketcheson, treasurer, gave her report and one allocation for 1961 will be $180 plus 60 cents per member. The W.A. donated to the W.M.S. to help them out with its work.

Mrs. Harold Garrison gave a splendid reading on "Christian Stewardship".

1961 OFFICERS

The election of officers for the year of 1961 was read by Mrs. McMullen as follows: president Mrs. Allan Spencer; 1st vice-president — Mrs. Morley Phillips; recording secretary, Mrs. Sam Nicholson; secretary and Missionary Auxiliary secretary — Mrs. A. Spencer; treasurer — Mrs. Lawrence Ketcheson; corresponding secretary — Mrs. Arthur Carleton; supply secretary — Mrs. Barton Hinchliffe; pianist — Mrs. Chirlie Fair; assistant — Mrs. Vera Evans; press reporter and cards — Mrs. Frank Harris; Mission Band — Mrs. Ted Evans; Christian citizenship — Mrs. J. McNaught; Christian stewardship Mrs. Harold Garrison; auditors — Mrs. Frank Harris and Mrs. Ted Evans.

Friends Enjoy Dinner Party

MT. VIEW — Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Barber entertained at seven o'clock dinner recently for a number of their friends. The guests included: Mr. and Mrs. E. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Redner, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Sprung, Mrs. M. Oak, Mr. and Mrs. Norris Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. W. Burkitt, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Barber, Miss Lillian Anderson, Miss Mary Huff, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Poste.

Progressive euchre was played during the evening with the favors going to Mrs. E. Hall and Clifford Barber.

Mr. and Mrs. Barber also conducted a contest, with the prizes going to Mrs. C. Barber and N. Gibson.

Leopard Ahead

By ALICE ALDEN

Leopard is really on top this year. Its jungle beauty appears as exquisite coats and jackets as well as fine fur accessories. And in its fake coat it does all right, too.

Pretend-leopard is used for a high-crowned cloche with a small side bow of black grosgrain.

A wonderful, uncrushable hat for travelling or packing and one that goes with almost anything.

Focus on Health

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Growing up for marriage, the best climate for your heart, and holiday teeth problems are subjects this week with a focus on health.

LOVE AND MARRIAGE

Do most marriages fail for lack of love, or understanding or understanding of mutual needs?

Perhaps some do. But, for the most part, marriages fail because one or both partners still rely on the attitudes and needs of childhood. Their personalities never really grew up, suggests Dr. R. G. Smith of the University of California medical school.

Divorce is often an escape, not a solution. When the divorcee remarries, he or she merely exchanges one set of peculiarities for another. Dr. Brill adds:

"It is obvious that the flimsy excuses that are given publicly for divorces are not the real reasons or the whole story."

HEART WEATHER

Southern California — especially the coast between Los Angeles and San Diego — is sparsly ideal for the heart patient all year around, two New York researchers report.

Since weather and the working of the heart are related, it is sometimes advisable to shift the heart patient to a better climate, say Drs. Louis A. Kapp and James K. McGuire. Coastal Florida is also good in the winter, but too hot in summer. And Los Angeles itself should be avoided because of smog, they add.

HOLIDAY CHEWING

Advice from the American Dental Assn.:

Don't use your teeth to open hard shell nuts such as walnuts or pecans. If you eat holiday sweets and candy, brush your teeth soon afterwards to prevent decay. Don't try to show off in front of guests by opening bottle caps with your teeth.

LEAN, HUNGRY LOOK

The fat baby is often cute, but not likely to be as healthy as the lean baby, a doctor says.

Obesity is as serious a problem of malnutrition for children as it is for adults, reports Dr. C. C. King of the Nutrition Foundation.

One report indicates that American children are on the average 10 per cent too heavy.

Mayor-Elect C. Whitton Of Ottawa Is Canada's Woman of the Year for 1960

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Charlotte Whitton, who returns as Ottawa's mayor Jan. 1, is Canada's woman of the year for 1960.

The fiery Miss Whitton was chosen by women's editors of Canadian daily newspapers in a poll by The Canadian Press.

It was the fourth time editors had picked the 64-year-old Miss Whitton as woman of the year. She previously topped the voting in 1950, 1951 and 1953 while serving as the capital's first woman mayor.

Always a lively political personality with the knack of stirring up controversy by her outspoken statements on just about anything that catches her interest, Miss Whitton was Ottawa's mayor from 1951 to 1956 when she left municipal politics.

She then became a columnist for the Ottawa Citizen and in 1958 made an unsuccessful bid to capture the federal riding of Ottawa West for the Progressive Conservatives.

In her latest mayoralty campaign she won over three male contestants.

In voting for the newsiest Canadian woman in other categories, editors chose the same personalities as in 1959. They are:

Sport—Anne Heggtveit, Ottawa skier.

Literature and Art — Marie-Claire Blais, Quebec author.

Music—Lois Marshall, Toronto soprano.

Stage, Screen, Radio and Television—Joyce Davidson, Toronto TV freelancer.

Public Affairs — Ellen Fairclough, minister of immigration.

EDGED MISS WHITTON

Mrs. Fairclough, three times winner of the woman-of-the-year title, edged Miss Whitton in the public affairs voting. Third was Jean Newman, Toronto controller who lost out this year in an attempt to become the city's first woman mayor.

Mrs. Fairclough, 55, Canada's first woman federal cabinet minister, was named secretary of state in 1957 and later became minister of immigration and citizenship.

Miss Marshall topped the music poll for the third straight year. Last year she shared the honor with another Toronto soprano, Teresa Stratas, the Metropolitan Opera singer, who was second this year. "A great voice and a remarkable intelligence have captivated audiences in many countries during triumphant tours by Miss Marshall in recent years, including three concerts in Moscow described by the Soviet news agency Tass as a "great success."

Marie-Claire Blais is the 20-year-old author of La Belle Bete, published in French in 1959 and described by one critic as "the most sensational book produced by French Canada in a decade." It was translated into English as Mad Shadows in 1960. Miss Blais was chosen over Toronto author, Phyllis Brett Young, whose second book, The Torontonians, appeared in 1959.

TV INTERVIEWER

Miss Davidson, a CBC television interviewer whose remarks have managed to raise several controversies in the last two years, was one of 13 personalities named in voting in the stage, screen, radio and TV category.

Others included former winner Frances Hyland, who has acted on television as well as at the Stratford Shakespearean Festival, and Toby Robins, TV actress and member of the CBC television panel show, Front Page Challenge.

One vote went to Toronto model Miss Johnson Ableoti for her one-shot appearance on a CBC television program during which she was interviewed on what she said was her role as a professional divorce co-respondent. She later told investigators her story had been a hoax. The incident caused a stir during a year when divorce was a big story in Canada.

HUNGARIAN VEAL GOULASH:

To serve six you will need 2 pounds veal. If it is good quality you can use stewing veal, but if you are fussy about the cutlet. Cut into 1" cubes and sauté two 2 cups thinly sliced onions in 1-4 cup butter for 5 minutes. Add 1 tablespoon paprika (use the Hungarian not that much), 1-2 teaspoon each thyme and salt, 2 beef bouillon cubes, 1 1-2 cups boiling water, and simmer until veal is tender — about 3-4 hour, covered. Mix 3 tablespoons flour with 1-2 cup cold water until smooth and add into stew until thick. Taste to see if it needs more salt. Serve on generous bed of hot buttered noodles.

ENGLISH TRIFLE:

You will need about 1-2 pound sponge cake cut into strips or halves; lady fingers to serve 6. Make a layer of sponge cake strips or lady fingers in bottom of your best cut glass serving bowl. Spread thinly with strawberry or black currant jam and cover with whipped cream. (Whip 1-2 pint cream and use half of it for this bottom layer.) Pour over 2 tablespoons sherry or pineapple juice. Add a second layer of sponge cake strips or lady fingers. Pour over all 2 cups soft custard made by heating 2 cups milk. Mix together well 4 egg yolks or 2 whole eggs with 1-4 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt. Slowly stir into hot milk and cook over low hot (not boiling) water until thick and custard coats silver spoon. Remove from heat and add 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Cool.

The Sour Cream Sauce for 2 packages fresh frozen limas is made by adding 2 teaspoons each chopped chives or green onion tops, dill seed and sugar and 1-2 teaspoon salt to 1 cup commercial sour cream. Pour over drained cooked limas and heat through. Serve at once.

and daughter-in-law. The two-family setup was just as hard on them, and she may be appearing particularly ungrateful to her daughter-in-law, who took over as unpaid housekeeper for her.

Time and sober second thoughts may remedy this rift. Its cause, after all, isn't malice but plain human not-very-smart behavior.

Women's Activities

FRANKFORD W.A.

FRANKFORD — The December meeting of the Frankford United Church W.A. was held recently in the Perkins' Room of Rose Lowery Hall.

The meeting opened with a singsong of Christmas carols. Mrs. A. Sickle gave the thought for the day, "Be Sure That Jesus Shows in Your Christmas." Mrs. Ross sang "Come Thou Long Expected Jesus," was accompanied by Mrs. A. Sickle. The devotional was taken by Mrs. C. Chase and Mrs. J. Goodwill. The Scripture lesson, taken from Isaiah 2: 3 and Psalm 8: 23, was read by Mrs. P. Chase. The theme talk "The Promised Light" was given by Mrs. E. Bonisteel.

Mrs. W. Morrow and Mrs. C. Morse sang a duet accompanied by Mrs. F. Charlton. Mrs. D. McKay presented Mrs. C. Judd with a Christmas gift. Mrs. C. Judd responded, thanking the W.A. for the gift. Mrs. Grills presented Mrs. A. Sickle, retiring president, with a small token of appreciation and Mrs. Sickle thanked the W.A. ladies for their co-operation in the past two years.

The following program was presented: a reading, "Grandma Goes Christmas Shopping" by Mrs. A. Chase; a reading, "Christmas Toys" by Mrs. M. Mallory; piano duet by Mrs. F. Charlton and Mrs. W. Morrow; piano duet by Susan Anne and Janice Charlton, and a violin solo by Ann Beach concluded the program.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and group, Mrs. W. Pollard, Mrs. G. McKay, Mrs. M. Mallory and Mrs. L. Badgley.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hagner Shaw

CORRECT BEHAVIOR IN THE THEATRE

It is amazing how often one meets people for the first time in or when attending a movie. Correct behavior calls for only a rudimentary knowledge of manners, but the application of them seems to be completely ignored by most of those attending.

Don't be one of the guilty ones! who:

Is an aisle hugger or who won't budge an inch to let others get by him to reach an empty seat further down the line. To this category, too, is the person who walks all over you when entering or leaving his seat. You should face the stage and walk sideways, being careful not to drag your coat, or purse across the heads of those in front of you. Try not to trod on the feet of those you are passing in front of you as you are seated and someone wishes to leave, push your seat up, and stand, if you have a chance to get by. Get a firm grip on purse, coat, gloves and hat while you're at it! Don't be that annoying person who creeps around the floor searching for things that have been dropped.

Other infringements of which it comes to showing consideration for your fellow beings are: eating crackling candy or popcorn wrapper, wriggling around in your seat and talking with your partner. Any of these bad habits may bring thoughts of mayhem into the hearts of the unfortunates seated near you.

Many of the above faults apply when one is not a part of the performance in a legitimate theatre. Of course, in this case the audience has a right to criticize the play successful, by its attention, responsiveness and applause. There was a time when it was considered proper that a man clap his hand lightly together, and a lady showed her approval by gently patting her gloved hands. Today, while one's enthusiasm may be shown discreetly, politely — it is the responsibility of the performers to clap smartly to show enjoyment. This is only fair to the performers.

Don't be late in attending a play, arrive on time! It is definitely not "the smart thing" to arrive after the curtain goes up. It is an insult to the actors, and certainly unfair to those seated about you who are disturbed by your clumsiness in finding your seat.

Perhaps I am harsh in my criticisms, but it may well be on the basis of all good manners — just consideration for the feelings, and right, of your fellowman.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Question: I am going to my first New Year's Eve dance on Saturday night. I am seventeen and my parents say I must be home by one o'clock. The dance doesn't break up until two. Of course the big excitement won't really begin until twelve o'clock. As we have a half hour drive from where the dance is to be held, this means I would have to get my escort to leave with me at twelve which I feel is very unfair to me. What do you think? — Miss O. K. H., Detroit, Mich.

Answer: I understand your parents wishes and can see why they would wish you to be home by one o'clock, but it is not because of lack of faith in you. However, not only are you rather young to be out so late, but the hazards of driving on New Year's Eve are many and dangerous. However, if your parents know the young man who is to take you, and trust him to keep order, you might get them to give you a half hour leeway, as it is such a special occasion. Regarding your last final decision, you should accept it in good grace and obey them.

Children in White House For First Time in 28 Years

By MARGARET KERNODLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — After next Jan. 20 it will be story-telling time again in a White House nursery each night.

For the first time in 28 years, small children will be regular residents at the White House. Caroline Kennedy, 5, an infant brother, John F. Kennedy Jr., will be moving into the executive mansion after Sen. John F. Kennedy becomes president.

They'll find the White House south lawn a wonderful safe place to play as Bunzie and Sister Dall did back in 1933 when their mother went to the White House to live with her father, President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Bunzie was three then and his big sister was six.

Four grandchildren of President Dwight D. Eisenhower have been frequent visitors at the many-columned house to enjoy a third floor playroom, a swimming pool and a motion picture theatre.

David Eisenhower, 12, Barbara, 11, Susan, 8, and Mary Jean, 4, like the solarium on the third floor too. Also the special kitchen where hot dogs and hamburgers for children can be produced quickly. Outside the diplomatic reception room on the ground floor they had a garage to park bikes, trucks, wagons and other toys on one side of a corridor.

TOYS BACK

Caroline Kennedy will bring her nylon bag of favorite books, dolls and roller skates to the beautiful mansion where her mother, Jacquelin Bouvier Kennedy, 31, will make an effort to give her and her brother a normal, happy childhood while their father occupies the most important office in the Western world.

The Kennedy's son is the first baby born to a president-elect but two daughters were born in the White House to President Grover Cleveland during his second administration. And Julia Dent Grant was born there while her grandfather, Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, was president.

The six children of President Theodore Roosevelt perhaps were the gayest, most madcap children of all the White House years. Their pocket pony rod White House elevators with them. They took ducks and dogs, cat and rabbits to bed with them. A least once a meeting of senator broke up when Quentin Roosevelt came in with a bag full of snakes and a five-foot king snak on his arm.

Ted Lincoln, son of President Abraham Lincoln, at seven impressed important visitors whe he bowed low to make polite lit tle speeches. But he lived also to amuse desks with ink.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council settles problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counsellors and social workers

Mrs. Anna J. — My son and daughter-in-law forced me out of my home.

Mrs. Helen J. — She insisted we move in with her.

Mrs. Anna J. — What happened to me should be a lesson to other parents.

I'm 71 and while I haven't been turned out into the street, I'm not much better off. I've just moved into a cold, frightening home for the aged. Five years ago my youngest son, upon his discharge from the army, told me he and his girl friend were getting married. They planned to live in a furnished room, but of course I couldn't see that. So I said they should share my apartment temporarily until something suitable turned up.

But once they were in, they never budged to seek a home of their own. Now that Helen is expecting her second baby and the home will be more uncomfortable for me than ever, I had no choice but to seek admission to an institution.

I'm still hoping they'll see they took unfair advantage of me and give me back my apartment.

Mrs. Helen J. — At the time Mother J. invited us we would have been perfectly satisfied with a furnished room but she insisted we move in with her. She didn't think it would "look good" otherwise.

Well, she couldn't expect to have her cake and eat it too. Living together, she had company and extra income. We took over the rent and food expenses, helped with the housework and tried to add to her comfort. Never once did she mention our moving. When we spoke of bringing out her old furniture and fixing the place up, she not only approved but encouraged us.

With our second baby on the way, we cut down on our contribution and asked Mother J. to chip in toward her own support.

This in addition to her annoyance at the crowding and discomforts, made her angry and she moved out.

We didn't force her out. She'd be unable, financially and physically to maintain the apartment herself. But she goes around with her tale of woe which is completely false.

The Council: From the beginning it was a mistake for Anna J. to make the grand gesture of giving up the couple in. As the old Arab found out when he let the camel's nose into his tent, that did it! That's the time to move out altogether and set up residence elsewhere. The mother should have foreseen that displacement and dispossession were in the works.

The shoe, in turn, ought not, to have invested heavily in redecoration without first having an open and courageous talk with the mother about the future. Her apartment will be assumed to mean: The fort is yours. I surrender! Assured, evidently, that they'd never be asked to leave, the junior J.'s conveniently ignored the word "temporarily" in their mother's original offer.

There may be some solace for Anna J. in the thought that her initial response to her son and his bride was a motherly humane one. It enabled her to enjoy, at closer range than many grandparents, the launching of a new branch of her family. And in view of her age, debilities and finances, it may have postponed the day she would have entered the home anyway.

We advise the mother how-ever, to stop slandering her son

Ontario Intelligencer SPORTS

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By CGO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Perhaps Time ran out on Santa Claus. In any event the old gent did a fine job, but perhaps the New Year can make up for what he forgot to do.

Here could be some appropriate gifts that Master 1960 can toss into various sports laps.

Jack Carson—A top flight Central Ontario Baseball League.

H. J. McFarland—Another championship hockey club, junior "A" or sumpin'.

Casey Stengel—Election to the Hall of Fame and a happy retirement.

Al Kelleher—A sufficient supply of shoe polish for his troupe of trained arbiters.

Point, Anne—A good softball club.

Bob Temple—That elusive OASA championship, and a couple of "Judds."

Eddie Arcaro—A new Derby. His last Kentucky edition is nine years old.

Bobby Hull—A season as good as last year.

Floyd Patterson and Ingomar Johannson—Knockout drops that pulverized each other last year, and may the first to get there win.

Vince Lombardi—Wing clippers to use on the Philly Eagles should they meet again next year for the NFL championship.

Pearce—A return to Brooklyn of his beloved "Bums" which ain't gonna be because nobody knows nuthin about what to do.

Bill Bigney—A harp. Angels play harps and isn't Rigney the new manager of the Los Angeles Angels?

Glenda Tice—An eight-ender.

The City of Belleville—A brand new hockey arena and a season in the good old days. Okay, okay, I'll go quietly.

Bill Veeck—A White Sox team that will erupt explosively as his trick scoreboard in Comiskey Park.

Arnold Palmer—A self operating cash register and a new cure for his golf troubles.

Casey Alexander—Blessings on thee, little man, when you're in that two-yoke span.

Ted Williams—Happy days as a fisherman without baseball talks to bore or baseball writers to criticize.

Ottawa Rough Riders—Another Grey Cup and another great year for Ron Stewart and Gary Schreiber.

Danny Murtaugh—A chaw of eating terbacco, life membership on the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick and a four-leaf shamrock to assure a repeat victory for his Pittsburgh Pirates.

Canada—With all fingers crossed, victory in the world hockey tournament in Switzerland.

Jimmy Dykes—A copy of "Custer's Last Stand" thereby proving to his Cleveland ball club that Indians sometimes win.

Muzz Patrick and Alfie Pike—New York Rangers whose range is not limited to the lower echelons of the National Hockey League.

Mickey Mantle—Yankee lovers wish for him a return to the $50,000 salary and a season that will show him carrying every penny of it.

Harry Morgan—Another highly successful season for the Belleville District Softball League.

Charlie Dressen—More flexible muscles that will ease his efforts in patting himself on the back.

Frank Mahovlich—Now he has gone this far, the hope he can bust the Rocket's 50-goal mark.

Yogi Berra—An outfielder's glove and the start of a long distinguished career as a flyrobber.

Alvin Dark—A bright light so he can see to lead his Giants out of the Dark.

Sam Snead—That hitherto terribly elusive United States Open Golf championship.

Paul Richards—Kiddie karts for his Orioles. A little more speed up front and they might have taken it all last season.

Van Brocklin Tops

Packers Dominate Stars

NEW YORK (AP)—Green Bay Packers dominated the annual all - star team of the National Football League selected by The Associated Press by United States sports writers and sportscasters.

Four Packers made the offensive team and two the defensive unit.

Norm Van Brocklin, quarterback star for the champion Philadelphia Eagles, was an overwhelming choice. Johnny Unitas, ace passer for Baltimore Colts who was first-string quarterback a year ago, didn't make either the first or second teams. Milt Plum of Cleveland Browns was the second choice.

End Ray Berry and tackle Jim Parker of Baltimore, guard Jim Ringo of Green Bay, halfback Lenny Moore of Baltimore and fullback Jimmy Brown of Cleveland were the repeaters on the offensive team. They were joined by end Sonny Randle of St. Louis Cardinals, tackle Forest Gregg, guard Jerry Kramer and halfback Paul Hornung of Green Bay and Van Brocklin.

Ends Gino Marchetti of Baltimore, Andy Robustelli of New York Giants, safety Jimmy Patton of New York, linebacker Bill George of Chicago Bears and halfback Abe Woodson of San Francisco 49ers again made the all-star defensive unit.

Ron Stewart 1960 Top Male Athlete

Bobby Hull Is Second

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Ron Stewart, a little man in a big man's game, is Canada's outstanding male athlete for 1960.

The five-foot-six 170-pound Ottawa Rough Rider halfback won the honor in the 26th annual Canadian Press year-end poll announced today. It topped off a brilliant year for the 26-year-old ex-student who has confounded the experts since the first put the pads on his high school shoulders.

They said then that little guys won't make it in the bruising bodily-contact game. They repeated it as he whizzed through a tremendous career with Queen's Golden Gaels at the eastern Senior Intercollegiate Union and graduated to the pro ranks with the Ottawa Riders of the Big Four three years ago.

They gagged on their words in the first two years with Riders and he silenced them this season with possibly the best performance a Canadian player has shown since the heyday of Joe Krol, the triple-threat Toronto Argonaut in the late 1940s.

CP poll panels—sports editors and broadcasters—put the finishing touches on Stewart as far above other candidates in the country. Fifty-six of the 114 voters marked him as their first choice, 24 put him in the second slot and 10 made him their third-place choice.

Votes were computed on a 10-1 point basis and Stewart's total was swept to the top with a 228 point-total.

FAR AHEAD OF HULL

This was more than double the points received by Bobby Hull, 21-year-old record ice skater with Chicago Black Hawks who won the National Hockey League scoring title last spring. He was second choice in the balloting with 109 points.

Third place went to 19-year-old Harry Jerome, the temperamental Vancouver track star who raced to a world-shattering 10-second 100-metre dash in the Olympic trials at Saskatoon last July 15. A month later Jerome pulled up lame in an Olympic semi-final at Rome, dashing any hopes of a Canadian sprint finalist since Percy Williams of Vancouver astounded the track world with victories in the 100 and 200 metres at the 1928 Games.

The selectors jotted down a total of 31 names, but the field lagged far behind the Stewart-Hull - Jerome combination.

Jackie Parker, Edmonton Eskimo halfback-quarterback who was chosen the country's outstanding football player in November, was a distant fourth with only 40 points.

Gordie Howe, the indestructible 32-year-old right-winger with Detroit Red Wings, was fifth with 28 points. This was six more than the total received by Bob Paul of Toronto who teamed with Barbara Wagner to give Canada its first Olympic pairs figure-skating title in the Winter Games at Squaw Valley, Calif., last February.

FAST FARMER SEVENTH

Bob Hayward, the chicken farmer from Ernbro, Ont., who drives hydroplane boats at break-neck speeds and winner of the world-famed Harmsworth Trophy races for the second straight year, was seventh with 24 points. Russ Jackson, Ottawa quarterback and poll winner in 1959, was far off the pace with only nine points on four second-place choice and one third.

Stewart had given the nominators lots of ammunition during the regular Big Four schedule and in the Nov. 26 Grey Cup when the Rough Riders whipped Edmonton 16-6.

On Oct. 16 Stewart put on a one-man blitzkreig in a game with Montreal Alouettes. Statistician figured his rushing total as they was 267 yards, an all-Canadian gridiron record.

It was 76 yards more than the previous mark of 213 established by Gerry McDougall of Hamilton Tiger-Cats in 1956.

TAKES RUSSELL TROPHY

Stewart reeled off four touchdowns with runs of 37, 52, 31 and 59 yards. A month later he won the Russel Memorial Trophy as the outstanding player in the Big Four. But this was just the start.

Football writers in the Big Four cities voted him a backfield spot on the CP Big Four all-star team and a couple of days before the Grey Cup final selectors from the East and West met him the outstanding Canadian player in the country, in the cup final the press-box experts voted him the outstanding player on the field.

Not bad for a little man who hopes to pursue a law practice after his football days are over.

Track and field athletes, golfers, football and hockey players, boxers, curlers, figure - skaters and tennis players made up the remainder of the long list of names in the poll.

STRONG HOCKEY ENTRY

The Pro hockey quota included Jacques Plante, Doug Harvey, Dickie Moore, Jean Beliveau, Henri Richard, Boom Boom Geoffrion and the now-retired Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens; Red Kelly and Frank Mahovlich of Toronto Maple Leafs.

From football there were quarter Sam Etcheverry, traded by Montreal Alouettes to Hamilton in an eye-raising deal in November; Gerry James of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Cookie Gilchrist of Toronto.

Heading the list of golfers was veteran Stan Leonard of Vancouver, a second-place choice in the 1958 CP poll. Other divot-diggers were Canadian Open champion Gene Knudson, a native of Winnipeg now on golf's money trail.

George Chuvalo, solid Georgian Canadian heavyweight champion, Orville Greaves and Ken Shaman, former British Empire middleweight titleholder, represented boxing.

Others mentioned included Don Jackson of Oshawa, who won a first-place choice in the men's figure-skating at Squaw Valley, and Ernie Richardson, ace of the Regina rink that won the Canadian curling championship.

Hockey Hints

By Lloyd Percival

"TAKING THE TOUGH PASS"

"Inches make the champion." This is a sign hanging on the wall of the famous Army football team which emphasizes a fact that every athlete should take to heart—especially if he is a hockey player. Time after time in most hockey games you will see plays that could have won the game fail by inches. Often you will notice that if a certain player had just managed to handle a pass at his feet or had reached a little farther for a pass-out the winning goal could have been scored.

There are many good athletes but few great athletes who can make the tough play, who can move that extra inch, reach that traction of a second farther. There are some who believe that such athletes are born not made, but when you analyze the career of a great athlete you usually find he has developed his special skills through extra hard work.

A hockey player who can make the tough play is Bronco Horvath of the Boston Bruins. Horvath is particularly adept at taking passes the average player cannot handle. Many is the time he developed the mechanical skill necessary to receive a pass at his feet Bronco moves his stick on his stick down low to bring the blade of the stick into position to take the puck; to handle a pass from behind he turns the blade of his stick so that it is facing the approaching puck. Horvath doesn't slap the puck, he keeps his hands relaxed and "gives" with it. If you want to use the same tricks — If you will only practice — and more hints send stamped, self addressed envelope to Ice Hockey Hints, 80 King St. W., Toronto for bulletin "Horvath Has The Touch".

SIGNS WITH BEARS

CHICAGO (AP) — Baseball great Ted Williams Tuesday signed a contract — "for more than five years"—with the mail order firm Sears, Roebuck and Co. Williams said he will serve as an adviser in the promotion and marketing of baseball, fishing, hunting, camping, and other family recreational equipment. Financial terms were not disclosed.

Habs Guard Rocket's Records

Will Watch Mr. Mahovlich Tonight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Frank Mahovlich says he isn't interested in setting personal records but the Montreal Canadiens' Flying Frenchman is doing it.

Mahovlich, coming into his own at 22, now has scored in seven straight games, getting one in each of the Leafs' weekend games to produce his string. But he will find his work cut out for him in the eighth game.

The Leafs face the Canadiens in Toronto tonight, and it is a safe bet that the Canadiens will try to cover him so he won't have room to move his sticks.

CANADIENS GET JEALOUS

The Canadiens are intensely jealous of records set by their great Richard, and they don't like to think of them passing on to another team.

The other mark that Mahovlich can smash is the 50-goal target. Although various experts are already saying why he won't do it, he can let his furious goal-scoring pace down by 50 per cent and still make it.

With 21 goals in 34 games, he is in one of the best positions that any player has been in for several seasons to launch an attack on the 50-goal summit.

While Toronto and Montreal meet, Detroit will be at New York and Boston at Chicago.

Vikings Grab Top Choice

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National Football League committee on player personnel has decided the slowest moving draft meeting in the league's modern history into even low gear.

He finally cut a 10 - minute limit on selections and tossed it two-minute warning.

The session took 13 hours to pick 126 players in nine rounds. The balance of the 20-round draft of 280 players was adjourned to 10 a.m. EST today.

TAKE BIG MEN

It took five hours to complete the first round. Teams took as long as two hours to decide on one choice.

The American Football League draft, a new one for the tender ously slow procedure, NFL clubs had their turn on each talk in the drafting room. They didn't like what they saw. Big men had been talked to and assurance given the player had not signed with the AFL or Canadian teams.

In Toronto, meanwhile, managing director Lew Hayman of the Big Four League's Argonauts was pleased Tuesday night's choice that saw Ohio State quarterback Tom Matte and Michigan State halfback Herb Adderley picked respectively by Baltimore and Green Bay Packers.

Argos had hopes of landing the pair, both first-round choices, in addition to Elbret Kimbrough, chosen by Los Angeles Rams in the second round.

GET ALL-AMERICANS

Six of the 1960 all-Americans were labbed for pro warfare. Detroit Lions took Missouri's Dan Larose, Chicago Bears latched on to Pitt end Mike Ditka, St. Louis Cardinals got Auburn tackle Ken Rice, Philadelphia Eagles, NFL champions, signed end Pete Retzlaff, Dallas picked Lilly, and Cleveland got Michigan State quarterback Jake Gibbs, who probably will play baseball, wasn't selected until the ninth round.

Of the other all-Americans, Two were taken last year — Minnesota's Tony Sarpa and Prentice Atkins of New Mexico State. Another, Ohio State's Bo Ferguson, isn't eligible for this year's draft. Two other all - Americans, Barry Hart back from Army and Washington's Roy McKasson, still have to fulfill military hitch but service commitments and Mc Kasson is considered too light for the NFL.

Los Angeles Tuesday took Marlin McKeever, Southern California linebacker; San Francisco, Clemson's Matt Hazeltine and Green Back.

Cleveland, using a pick acquired from Detroit, chose Bob Crespino Mississippi end; San Francisco, making a third pick—this one on a trade from Baltimore—took Dick Nolan, quarterback Jake Gibbs, who probably will play baseball, wasn't selected until the ninth round.

Aces Defeat Amerks 5-1

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Aces took over sole possession of third place in the American Hockey League Tuesday defeating Rochester Americans 5-1 at the Coliseum.

Michel Labadie led the Quebec attack with two goals and one assist, with Jackie Leclair, Michel Savery and Danny Lewicki netting the others.

Rookie Alex Faulkner scored the lone goal for the Americans on his first of the season.

The teams ended the first period tied at 1-1 and Aces wrapped up the game with three unanswered goals in the second, then scored another with less than two minutes remaining in the game.

Eight penalties were called, four to each side.

Leclair's goal was scored with Roger Cote in the penalty box.

Injured Fraser Beaten

Italians Take One From Aussies

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

SYDNEY (AP) — Neale Fraser's game knee went bad on him today and Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli pulled out a last match slaughter victory which foiled an Australian sweep of the Davis Cup challenge round.

Playing in top form and fighting for every point, the baby-faced Romans defeated Australia's limping Wimbledon champion, 11-9 6-3 1-6 6-2 after Rod Laver had given Australia its fourth straight point by cutting down the giant Orlando Sirola, 9-7, 6-2, 6-3.

This made the final score of the series 4-1 in favor of the Australians. There were 5,000 empty seats in the 17,000-capacity White City stands for the final two matches which had no way of reversing the result.

The cup was clinched by the Aussies Tuesday, giving them their trophy for, the ninth time in the last 11 years.

MAY GET OPERATION

Shortly before taking the court against Pietrangeli, Fraser disclosed that doctors had suggested an operation on his knee which buckled on him in the practice week before the challenge round.

Australia's top ace, recognized as the world's top amateur, took heat and orthopedic treatments and slipped through the first two matches with what he called

However, in the second set "only a couple of twinges," against Pietrangeli, Fraser began limping noticeably. He fell behind 4-0 in the second service and failed to make a try for many shots which would normally reach.

Even though hobbled, Fraser mustered enough fight to take the third set with the loss of only one point, 6-4, before Pietrangeli lassed the pressure.

Fraser's injury — which consists of a pulled muscle back of the knee cap—probably will force him to miss the Australian championships next month at Melbourne. This is one of the few major titles the 23-year-old Melbourne star never has won.

AWAY FOR MONTH

Doctors say if operated upon, Fraser will be off the courts for at least a month—the operation would require two weeks in hospital while another two weeks' needed for recuperation.

Fraser probably will undergo the knife—if he submits to operation—in the next couple of weeks. He is intent on making a world's tour next year defending his title at Wimbledon and in the U.S. championships at Forest Hills.

Fraser's injury should detract little from Pietrangeli's victory, the Roman star played some of the finest tennis of his career.

Hull Players Dominate EPL Points Race

OTTAWA (CP) — Hull-Ottawa Canadiens now have four players among the top 10 individual scorers in the Eastern Professional Hockey League. The statistics, released here Tuesday, include games played Monday.

Cliff Pennington is still the leader with 11 points more than Tom McCarthy of Sudbury Wolves, in second place. Pennington picked up three assists to boost his total to 52 points while McCarthy went scoreless.

Three other Canadiens among the first 10 are Bobby Rousseau, Terry Gray and Jean - Claude Tremblay.

Rousseau jumped from ninth to third spot and is tied with Buddy Boone of Kingston Frontenacs at 39 points. Rousseau made the leap with five goals and one assist.

Gray is in sixth spot with 37 points and Tremblay follows with 36. Tremblay, a defenseman, has 31 assists to tie his all-season record in that department established last year.

Eddie Johnston of Canadiens allowed seven goals in two games to boost his average to 2.19 from 2.52 last week. He leads in shutouts with seven.

Meet Chargers Sunday

Houston Oilers Favored

HOUSTON (AP) — Season statistics leave little choice between Los Angeles Chargers and Houston Oilers who meet Sunday in the American Football League's first championship game.

Local odds-makers admit the narrow points spread currently favoring Houston results primarily from the fact the Oilers will be playing at home.

The teams broke even in league play against each other while winning division titles with identical 10-4 records. Houston holds a 59-52 point advantage for the two league games but Los Angeles moves ahead, 74-72, when an early season exhibition is added.

Final statistics for the 14-game campaigns find the Sunday challenge widely separated only in pass defense and punting.

Houston had the greatest pass defense in the league, Los Angeles had the second best. Paul Maguire of Los Angeles led all AFL punters with a 45.5-yard average, Charlie Milstead of Houston ranked No. 8 at 38.8.

PASS DEFENCE LEADER

Houston's leaky pass defence gave up 38 touchdowns and a 276.7-yard per game average. Los Angeles gave up 21 touchdowns and a 205.6-yard average.

Jack Kemp of Los Angeles led all AFL passers but the Houston air attack produced 31 touchdowns, 10 more than the Chargers. And, like the league with a 239.4-yard average, Los Angeles ranked No. 4 with a 229.4-yard average. Los Angeles ranked No. 4 with a 226.9-yard average.

Paul Lowe, Los Angeles rookie, was runner-up to Abner Haynes in individual rushing with 855 yards. Houston's Billy Cannon, with 644 yards, and Dave Smith, with 643, ranked Nos. 3 and 4.

Other team averages fig 14 games:

Rushing offence—Houston 11.8 yards, Los Angeles 109.7.

Total offence — Houston 351.2, Los Angeles 336.6.

Rushing defence—Houston 73.4,

Petes Whip Marlies 8-1

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Peterborough Petes dumped Toronto Marlboros 8-2 Tuesday night in Ontario Hockey Association Junior A action before 1,889 fans. Petes had 2-0 for Petes in the first period and 4-2 going into the third.

Marlboros drew 15 of 24 penalties, a fight breaking out in the third period resulting in four major penalties, a minor and a misconduct.

Petes remain in fifth place. Marlboros and St. Catharines are tied in the cellar spot.

Camera Says So

Was There a Foul?

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The camera raised question Tuesday in the wake of Philadelphia Eagles' 17-13 victory over Green Bay Packers for the National Football League championship.

Was there a foul on the winning touchdown run by the Eagles' Ted Dean?

A photo by S. Nells Lauritzen of the Milwaukee Journal indicates that Dean managed his five-yard scamper around left end Monday in Philadelphia with the help of a little holding.

The picture of fourth period action makes it appear that Billy Barnes, a Philadelphia halfback blocked out Green Bay's Bill Quinlan with a right-arm grab around the legs.

WINS GRAD HONORS

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Ted Williams, famed Boston Red Sox slugger, was named Tuesday as the American Legion baseball graduate of the year for 1960. Williams retired at the end of the 1960 season. The award will be presented at a dinner honoring Williams and former New York Yankees manager Casey Stengel Jan. 18 in Manchester, N.H.

Horton Smith Winner of Hogan Trophy

CHICAGO (AP)—Horton Smith, the only golfer to have competed in all 24 masters tournaments, Tuesday was named winner of the 1960 Ben Hogan Trophy.

The selection has been made since 1954 in a poll conducted by the Golf Writers Association of America. The award goes to the golfer who overcomes a physical handicap and continues active participation in the sport.

Smith, 52, survivor of two major operations since September, 1957, and currently recovering from Hodgkin's disease, was named by 11 of the 17 electors. Chick Evans received two votes and Jerry Nichols, one-armed New York pro, one.

Other candidates included Bob Jones, Porky Oliver, Bob Hope, Johnny Goodman, Bob Cochran and Bobby Locke.

Smith, a past president of the PGA and 1936 member of the hall of fame, won the inaugural Masters championship in 1934 and repeated two years later.

He will receive the Hogan Trophy at the Metropolitan golf writers' annual dinner in New York Jan. 24. He will be launching his 16th season as head pro at the Detroit Golf Club.

Peg Maroons Win Again

PROSTEJOV (CP) — Winnipeg Maroons, giving up a day of rest, posted an extra victory in their exhibition hockey tour of Czechoslovakia Tuesday by walloping Zeleznarny Prostejov 9-3.

Maroons added the game to their original nine-game schedule when enthusiastic fans in this steel-making centre pleaded for a chance to see them in action. Before a crowd of 4,000 the home town team, Maroons were given a standing ovation by the 4,000 fans who watched the game in appreciation of the gesture.

The Canadians led 3-1 at the end of the first period, 7-3 at the close of the second and scored two goals to the Czechs' one in the final.

HAD A HAT TRICK

Larry Winder, a centre but playing right wing Tuesday turned in a hat trick for the Maroons scorers. Murray Couch scored a pair and Jack Hay was scored by Tom Rendell, Reggie Abott, Murray Balagus and Mark Joyal.

Assists went to Lloyd Orrin, Jim McKenzie, John Shaddock, Bloomer and Dave Balagus.

The Czech goals were scored by Turke, Marek and Sochora.

Maroons' record becomes a 4-1 won-lost record so far in the tour. They dropped their first game to Pilsen Spartaks. Since then, they have concentrated on fore-checking to break up their opponents' passing plays — and have won their other matches handily.

Royals Tie Beavers 1-1

MONTREAL (CP) — The last-place Montreal Royals missing eight regular starts Tuesday night held fourth-place Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers to a 1-1 tie in a Eastern Professional Hockey League game.

Centre Walter Bradley put the Royals ahead at 1:17 of the second period, using a 15-foot backhander and Wayne Hall tied the game at 2:11 of the third. Goalie Jack McCartan to make 26 stops. Royals goalie Claude Cyr saved 21 shots.

Only two minor penalties, all to the Beavers, were called by referee Matt Pavelich and none figured in the scoring.

Pays Government Fine

Durelle Says He's Broke

BALE STE. ANNE, N.B. (CP)—Former British Empire and Canadian light heavyweight boxing champion Yvon Durelle said Tuesday he has had to sell $25 for failing to file an income tax return for 1959.

The former fighting fisherman from Bale Ste. Anne said the total due was $35 including court costs "and I'm left with exactly one cent. If they want that they can have it."

The fine was levied in a Dec. 2 court appearance in Newcastle, N.B. and Durelle was given until Dec. 27 to pay up when he failed to produce it at the time. Durelle said he had no money when the fine was levied as he had given up both boxing and fishing, which he always considered his main vocation. Once the owner of four fishing boats, he has sold all but one.

He has since begun work for the provincial lands and mines department surveying crown lands for which he is paid $6 for each day worked. He says he often works only two or three days a week.

Senior Hockey

GALT (CP)—Stratford Indians fired three goals in a five-minute flurry midway through the third period to earn a 7-4 senior hockey victory over Galt Terriers here Tuesday night.

The Indians' win boosted them within one point of second-place Chatham Maroons in the six-team western division. Terriers still languish in the cellar.

The Tribe's flurry broke a 3-3 tie and the back of a Galt comeback which had seen them trail 3-1 after the first period. The Indians' final goal was a long shot into an empty net by Dickie Bird at 15:40 of the six-minute final minute.

Wray had two goals and set up three more. Jack McEwan also scored twice for the wingers with Billy Flick, Ken Doig and Neil Cockburn picking off singles.

Ron Salter in the Stratford goal was the difference-maker with 46 saves against 33 for Terriers' John Reinhart.

Galt plays Chatham Wednesday night in a four-point game, their final for the season.

Burnley Whip Everton

LONDON (AP)—Burnley, England's big boss in the European Soccer Cup of Champions, grabbed a 3-0 victory from star-studded Everton Tuesday.

It was the second time the two squads had clashed in 24 hours. Everton won 3-2 at Burnley Monday in one of the big upsets of the English League Christmas program.

A sell-out crowd of 70,000 at Everton's Goodison Park Stadium saw winger John Connelly score a big part in Burnley's victory. The first goal was scored by Jim Robson in the 33rd minute after a great drive from Connelly had been charged down. Connelly himself rammed home the second goal after 67 minutes and Robson made it 3-0 in the 73rd minute.

Burnley is scheduled to meet Arsenal of West Germany next in the European competition.

TOTTENHAM LEADS

Tottenham leads the standings with 46 points, Wolverhampton Wanderers are second with 34 and Everton third with 32. Burnley's win Tuesday gave it 31 points, level with Sheffield United, who collected a 1-0 home defeat by Sunderland. Liverpool, defeated 1-0 by Rotherham, has 31 points and is third.

Plymouth Argyle and Charlton Athletic finished even after a Christmas double header that produced 20 goals. Charlton was at home Monday and won 6-4. Tuesday at Plymouth Argyle reversed the score and won 6-4.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Calgary Stampeders continued to hold a slim edge over second-place Vancouver Canucks in the Western hockey league Wednesday night after both teams bounced second division clubs.

Stampeders trailed Winnipeg Warriors 1-0 after the first period in the game in Calgary but came back strong to whip the Manitoba entry Warriors 3-1.

Overtime was needed to settle the issue in Vancouver but Canucks snapped it up after only 18 seconds, with Dave Duke pulling the winner.

Gerry Brisson put the Warriors ahead 1-0 late in the first period but Gene Achtemeier tied it early in the second and Fred Hucul got the winner.

Hergesheimer, Gord Vegreva and George McAvoy all got third-period goals for the Stampeders.

At Vancouver, Jim Powers scored twice to pace Canucks' attack, with Frank Boggveen, Murray Wilkie and Duke scoring the others.

Don Pelle got two for Edmonton —th Lou Marron and Bruce MacGregor adding single goals.

Gershwin Years Will Be Spectacular on January 15

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Television, providing massive doses of Gershwin, is going to bed off the old, established star system which flowered in the living theatre and through the great days of motion pictures.

At least, that is the opinion of producer Leland Hayward, whose definition of a star is "a performer who is so strong or so beloved that people will go to see him regardless of what he is doing."

"There are very, very few stars today," says Hayward. "There's Mary Martin and Ethel Merman, of course. And, whether you like him or not, there's Frank Sinatra. And Elizabeth Taylor, who is getting $1,000,000 for one motion picture and who hasn't made a movie that hasn't been a financial success, who is at close to a real film star value you can get."

Hayward's producing successes are spread around the theatre (currently "The Sound of Music and Gypsy), motion pictures (Mr. Roberts and The Old Man and the Sea) and television (the memorable Ford 50th anniversary show in 1953 and last year's Fabulous Fifties).

DUE TO FAST PACE

He believes that the current shortage of stars is due partly to the "acceleration of pace of the whole world," and partly because in television, "all newsbreaks and sponsors don't really give a performer a chance to show his stuff.

"When you've got to keep trying for gigantic ratings," he says, "the sponsors' and network's great comfort with a star: They want 30 stars. But when they buy their stars, they overpay them and then, because been a financial success, who is all to work, they don't get their money's worth."

Jerry slows down to double action as star of "Cinderfella"

Jerry Lewis thinks he is slowing down, which he has been advised to do, because he is the only producer and star of his own new Technicolor comedy, "Cinderfella", now playing an extended engagement at the Belle Theatre.

That dual role is rugged enough to flour an average man but, according to Jerry, after doing, so I never really feel tired in brain and spirit. Sure, the bones may ache a little then but I'm happy with what I'm doing. I love making people laugh and I wish my friends would stop worrying about me.

Her certainly makes them laugh with his appearance as "Cinderfella", in which he has his bond, featuring Joe Williams, Count Basie and Marie-Ia Alberghetti who plays "The Fairy Godmother". There is also a number of changes made in this modernized version of Cinderella in which Jerry plays the female counterpart. There is a Fairy Godmother instead of the Fairy Godmother, portrayed by Ed Wynn in his unique comedy style with which he won fame originally. There are mean stepbrothers instead of Cinderella's ugly stepsisters, with Henry Silva and Robert Hutton doing the honors. But there is still the wicked Godmother, and claiming the services of Judith Anderson first lady of classic drama, for this modern role was a feather in the cap of Producer Jerry Lewis. The Everlon Hopkins Holiday Dancers are appearing an extended engagement at the Belle Theatre in Belleville, performances daily at 2.00, 7.00 and 9.00.

AT THE PARK — Tony Curtis stars in the adventure thriller in Technicolor, "The Purple Mask", opening tonight and Thursday for a four-day engagement only at the Park Theatre. On the same program are more action and thrills with James Stewart, Rock Hudson, Arthur Kennedy and Julia Adams in "Bend of the River", also in Technicolor.

BOUT DATE CHANGED

NEW YORK (AP) — Humbert Fugasy said Tuesday the third heavyweight title fight between champion Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson will be held at Miami Beach on March 13 instead of March 30.

The promoter said the earlier date would mean a larger crown because it would be closer to the end of the British racing meeting and that racing still would be going on at Gulfstream Park.

He also said he planned to fly to San Diego, Calif., to talk about a title bout between Archie Moore, light heavyweight champion, and Erich Schoeppner of Germany, it was proposed for New York March 25.

15 Consecutive Yearly Boosts In Road Program

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal, provincial and municipal governments are spending a record total of $1,268,697,000 on roads and streets this year, the Canadian Good Roads Association estimates in a year-end statement. It says 15 consecutive yearly increases.

"With growing stability, road budget increases will be gradual, not sharp, and the outlook for the future is good," the association says.

The figures are for the fiscal year ending next March 31 in the cases of the federal and provincial governments, and for the calendar year in the cases of the municipalities.

The 1960 outlay is an increase of $36,000,000, or three per cent, over 1959, the smallest annual percentage gain since the war. With the increase due entirely to growth in expenditures by municipal governments.

Federal outlays will total $23,238,000, a drop of more than $3,000,000; provincial outlays will be $717,171,000, including grants to municipalities of $82,706,000, a drop of more than $1,000,000, while that of municipalities is $429,000,000 an increase of $30,000,000.

The statement attributes the levelling off to completion of large road projects during the last two years, notably the completion of toll projects and the general progress made in reconstruction of secondary and farm roads. It adds:

"The notable exception to general progress is the reconstruction of city streets to alleviate traffic congestion."

Provincial road budget for Ontario will total $261,000,000.

DAILY 2.00; 7.00; 9.00

work on hand so that the evening will be free and your weekend free from worry. Get financial affairs attended to wisely. P. M. dine out and begin to live more graciously.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — There is nothing wrong with planning to have a most enjoyable time, but for real pleasure, see that you also invite those toward whom you have a duty and true love. Be neither extravagant nor miserly. Get views of closest ties.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — It would be well to get home life organized ideally over this weekend, so get a good start tonight to make any needed changes or adjustments. Place the welfare and comfort of closest ties above all else. Increase harmony appreciably.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Carry through with that enthusiastic idea for needed changes, adjustments, travel, etc. that will improve conditions about you and make life more interesting and happy. Garner the information you require at this time. Keep busy!

If your child is born today ... he, or she, will be one of those fascinating individuals who is bubbling over with all kinds of ideas that are very practical and can produce results in a material way, but not always absolutely ethical. So, it is imperative that you early give the fine spiritual training that will correct any errors in the otherwise marvelous thinking process. The big business man or woman is in this chart. Educate well.

CUT OFF NEWS

LIMA, Peru (AP)—The government has withdrawn permission for Prensa Latina, the Cuban news agency, to operate a radio station to receive news reports from abroad. The government charged that the agency violated regulations by transmitting from Lima.

10,000 Inceliary Bombs Dropped in three Hours

By STRET MacLEOD
Canadian-wide Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Twenty-seven days have passed since the last big Sunday evening when 150 R-boilers swept over London and came perilou close to destroying the c of Londers.

In three hellish hours, 500 incendiary bombs crashed down on the square-mile city the commercial heart of London and 2,500 canisters filled it into an inferno.

The bombers spys the gre old buildings crackled and crabled amid the greatest concentration of flaming buildings ever seen in the city, it seemed for time, was finished.

Now, 20 years later, itstands as proudly as ever—all pock-marked by craters but mark-ably rebuilt. Great pieces of it, and even entire stech spa wards; the old ornate Guildhall, and Church of St. Bride are completely rebuilt to p ecial form after being rouced to a blackened shell. Since on behalf of the 18,000,000 square feet of space demolished by the raid has been restored; the eight churches designed by Sir Christopher Wren have all been restored. Now there is only one church remaining in the city in ruins—the bombed-out shell of St. Mary-le-Bow, in Cheapside.

Of the 13 livery halls of the ancient city companies only four were destroyed by the fires that swept the city. Rebuilding has started on all of them.

Of the 26 underground railway stations in the city, only one was damaged by the raid. It has been made good as new and services have been restored.

So far this rebuilding has cost more than $75,000,000, and city officials estimate that double that amount will be required before all the old craters are covered.

Economic Moves Contain Many Serious Implications

By DAVE McINTOSH
Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Recent economic moves by Canada and the United States contain serious implications for the two countries in the field of defence, informed sources in Ottawa say.

Specifically, some authorities here fear that Canada will lose the $1,500 annual grant the U.S. Defence Command unites it to help finance its defence effort and money into the air defence system.

In sequence, these are some of the economic factors in the situation:

1. The U.S. agreed to allow Canadian firms to bid on all defence work in the United States on parities for U.S. defence contracts. Up until this Buy-American policy in this respect, thus removing a 25-per-cent duty against Canadian goods on defence contracts.

2. Canada did not give the U.S. the same privilege benefit. Canadian firms still get a preference from the defence production department in awarding contracts to private company selling defence equipment to the government. The result is that this country defence material to the value of U.S.

3. This month, the U.S. exempted Canada from a directive forbidding sending gasoline to also exempted dependents of U.S. servicemen in Canada. For this order recalling dependents from abroad.

4. Finance Minister Fleming's pre - Christmas budget raised taxes on American firms doing business in Canada.

U.S. SPENDS MORE

The U.S. how is spending about $44,000,000,000 a year on North American air defence compared with about $200,000,000 by Canada.

Officially, the U.S. government declares it has no sign that it is aggrieved by this situation. But some Canadian officials believe the U.S. Congress will not continue to admit a country that is not giving during consideration of the American defence budget each year.

It is known that some segments of the U.S. Congress feel the equal status of the RCAF with the U.S. Air Force in the command of NORAD. The U.S. Air Force has about 75 antiaircraft guided missile battalions in the North American air defence system compared with nine RCAF squadrons of subsonic CF-100 jet interceptors.

A worry in the defence department here is that Mr. Fleming's latest budget will bring the attention of U.S. congressmen to benefits granted to Canada by the U.S. under the defence production - sharing arrangements —though Canada still buys most in the U.S.—and hence in Canada's authority in NORAD.

Badly Beaten

TORONTO (CP) — Alexander Robinson, 42, was convicted Tuesday of assault causing bodily harm after an 11-year-old boy told the court he was kicked and beaten during a three-month period by his father.

Magistrate W. F. R. Rogers remanded Robinson in custody until January 4 for sentence.

The boy tears streaming down his face, identified that his father beat him with a leather belt because he had difficulty riding his bicycle.

Dr. F. Deegan of the Hospital for Sick Children identified the boy's entire body and head were covered with extensive injuries.

Once Potential Black Giant Of Africa, Congo's Future Now in Hands of Mobutu

Bernard Dufresne, Canadian Press reporter in The Congo since mid - August, has just returned to Canada. In three stories written on the eve of departure from Leopoldville he sets out the confused political and social outlook in the troubled country and reviews the Canadian contribution to the UN Force there.

In this first of three stories he sees Joseph Mobutu as the key figure in whether the Congo's future is to be one of peace or civil war.

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP) — The Congo, the country that could have been the giant of black Africa, may be headed for further weakening through civil war.

Whether it can squeak through the next few months without more bloodshed will depend largely on the success of Col. Joseph Mobutu's anti - Communist campaign.

The next moves is up to Mobutu and the figurehead Congo president, Joseph Kasavubu, now that they have Communist-leaning Patrice Lumumba behind bars.

Soon highly - placed United Nations sources say Mobutu may make a quick armed march into Oriental Province and its capital, Stanleyville, last remaining stronghold of Lumumba's supporters.

Stanleyville is said to be divided, with the anti - Lumumba element of the army making time until Mobutu moves in.

MUST TAKE RISK

The same sources realize that if Mobutu sends his army into Oriental he hard-core of Lumumba's followers may bear for the jungles and wage guerrilla warfare. But they consider it a calculated risk that must be taken to re-establish some sense of peaceful unity, to enable The Congo to return to free parliamentary government and set the stage for effective long - term UN assistance.

Since Lumumba's arrest early in December there has been a border clashes between his forces in Oriental and troops loyal to Mobutu in Equator province. There is fear that such clashes may erupt into civil war unless Mobutu cracks down quickly.

It will take years, however, to bring about the recovery of The Congo, tragically crippled in its first six months of independence by power - hungry lumumbists and anti-while policies.

Much of Mobutu's success will depend on the support — or, at least, non-interference—from the UN. Many Afro-Asian countries, whose representatives run the UN setup here, lean towards anti-colonialist Lumumbe, rather than toward pro-western middle-of-the roader Mobutu.

UN VOTE HELPED

Among them are India, Ghana, Guinea, Soudan, Ethiopia, Morocco and the United Arab Republic. They have given opposition to the seating in the UN General Assembly of Kasavubu's delegation instead of Lumumba's.

This decision of the Assembly strengthened the hold of Kasavubu and Mobutu on a large part of The Congo and weakened the opposition inside and outside the country.

And now that UN secretary-general Dag Hammarskjold has ruled that Lumumba's arrest was legal, thus reversing a stand taken earlier by his personal representative, India Rajeshwar Dayal, Kasavubu and Mobutu appear stronger than ever.

After seizing power in a bloodless coup last September, Mobutu named a Board College of Commissioners General, often called "student princess," to run the civil administration. Then he set out to oust the Soviet and Czechoslovak embassies and later, after some bloodshed, the Ghanaian embassy.

Mobutu, 30 - year - old former school teacher and newspaper man who became army chief of staff at Independence last June 30, is regarded as a religious man whose Roman Catholic convictions make him shy from violence.

CONTROLS ARMY

A man who knows Mobutu well told me:

"Mobutu is not a politically strong man. If he were he would have arrested and eliminated many of his enemies before now. He hates violence and prefers compromise. His control of the army—and control of the loosely unorganized cases of indiscipline by some troops—is good."

When Mobutu "neutralized" both parties, dismissing Kasavubu and rubbish, fast - moving Lumumba last September, he said he would disband the college of commissioners Dec. 31 and turn the country back to the politicians.

Now, however, he plans a provisional government of the best commissioners and some ministers named by Kasavubu's prime minister-designate, Joseph Ileo. The top figures likely would include Ileo's proposed foreign minister, Justin Bomboko, now a member of the college, and commissioners Albert Ndele, for finance, and Jose Nussbaumer, for the interior.

UN FILLED BREACH

After the bloody and chaotic collapse of The Congo, with weeks of attaining independence, the situation in this country of 14,000,000 Africans became essentially an East-West struggle. Only the UN's quick intervention kept out both major forces as Hammarskjold called on the so-called uncommitted Afro - Asian countries to run this operation.

From the start, UN policy has been to prohibit unilateral assistance to The Congo from member countries. The untested reason for this impersonal channeling of all assistance through the UN is to prevent, as much as possible, an open war, and possible clash, between East and West.

A look at the map of Africa shows quickly the strategic importance of The Congo, probably the most materially advanced new state south of the Sahara.

The Congo covers a large area about a third the size of Canada, right in the middle of Africa, with borders on many new republics. It has the best west African port at Matadi, 90 miles up the Congo River from the Atlantic. It is rich in copper, industrial diamonds and other mineral and agricultural resources, many still untapped.

RUSSIA HELPED LUMUMBA

Russia already has demonstrated it has covetous eyes on The Congo, as a possible base of operations in Africa. It has shipped arms, supplies, money and personnel to help Lumumba's cause.

The U.S.; with sizable investments in such resources as diamond mines, palm oil and coffee plantations, is obviously prepared to do the same. There is a strong possibility that Belgium will put money to pay his army, and thus keep it in line, from U.S. and Belgian sources.

While Russia refused to share in the UN's operating costs here, the U.S. touts a large part of the bill. It is best able to maintain a strong—if unobtrusive—say in The Congo.

How did this all start?

Basically, The Congo, divided internally by some 70 tribes which fought one another for centuries, didn't want the Belgians to go. Many resented the almost 80 years, but only since the Second World War did Belgium begin to show in large modern cities, big industries, a workable communications complex and a broad, if not high, level of literacy.

KASAVUBU'S DREAM

The independence movement started shortly after the war. The prime mover was Kasavubu, a member of the Bakongo tribe who dreamed of a renewal of his people's former greatness. The Bakongos centuries ago formed a large kingdom along the Congo River's delta but it was crushed by the slave trade.

At first Belgium rebuffed the independence-seekers, but following riots of 1959 the almost unanimous Congolese cry of "complete and immediate independence" it backed "down early in 1960—or the surprise of many, including the Congolese.

Belgians find it hard to explain the sudden about - face of view, but believe fear of critical world opinion dissuaded their country from hanging on by force. Another possible reason is that, just prior to Independence, The Congo's economy, based largely on exports of raw materials, and treasury were slipping into the red.

A UN report shows that in the four years to 1959 the supply of money in the colony's treasury dropped from $200,000,000 to $100,000,000. Treasury's position with the central bank of the Belgian Congo and Ruanda Urundi fell from a surplus of $28,000,000 to a deficit of $40,000,000 last June.

LUMUMBA MADE THREAT

Kennedy Names Eugene Zuckert Air Force Secty.

PALM BEACH (AP) —Eugene Zuckert, a former assistant secretary of the air force, was named by President-elect Kennedy today to be air force secretary in the new Democratic administration.

Zuckert, 47, served from 1947 to 1952 as assistant secretary during the administration of former Democratic president Harry Truman. Zuckert served as a member of the Atomic Energy Commission from 1952 to 1959.

The announcement of his selection came after Kennedy picked John B. Connally, 43, a lawyer and long - time political associate of Vice-President-elect Lyndon Johnson, to be secretary of the navy.

In the outgoing Eisenhower administration James H. Douglas is secretary of the air force and William R. Franke is secretary of the navy. The jobs pay $22,500 a year.

AFTER CONSULTING

The two appointments were announced by Kennedy after lengthy consultation with Robert McNamara recently named secretary of defense. Since McNamara is resigning as president of the Ford Motor Company.

Since his retirement from the AEC in 1954, Zuckert has engaged in private law practice in Washington.

Kennedy's selection of Connally, a Fort Worth, Tex., lawyer, was announced Tuesday night.

The new secretary of the navy was campaign manager this year for Lyndon Johnson in his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination. Johnson lost but was picked by Kennedy as his vice-presidential running mate.

Connally joined the navy in 1941 as an ensign. He was assigned first to the office of Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal and later to combat duty in the Pacific. He was discharged as a lieutenant-commander in 1946.

SECURITY MEASURE—Congolese soldiers check the press pass of Bernard Dufresne, Canadian Press staff writer, in front of the Leopoldville station. Railway Fans in Britain Hope to Revive Old Engines

By WALTER DAVIS

LONDON (Reuters) — British railroad fans are running a nation-wide campaign to revive, by private means, a number of disused branch lines to Edwardian days — together with the locomotive pulling old-fashioned coaches through stations restored to look as they did 50 years ago.

If their plans succeed, the result will be re-preservation of the different private railroad companies before they were all amalgamated and nationalized.

The campaigners already have had some success.

A voluntary body called the Railway Preservation Society has been formed on a national scale to coordinate the efforts of individual and local voluntary societies.

One of these, the Bluebell Railway Preservation Society, has already reopened the so-called "Bluebell Railway," named after the Bluebell dells through which it runs between the remote little Sussex villages of Sheffield Park

The line, opened 78 years ago, was closed in 1956 by the British transport commission on the grounds that it was not economical. Local enthusiasts raised money to start it up again with an old-fashioned steam locomotive.

Societies are being formed to buy, restore and maintain working condition relics of all kinds. They will try to lay down lines threatened with closure as well as those already out of use.

The Middleton Railway Preservation Society in Yorkshire, for example, has negotiated a lease of the Middleton line, the oldest surviving railroad in the world and the first on which steam locomotives were used commercially.

Most of this line became disused in 1958, and the destruction of the rest appeared inevitable. Members of the society nonetheless have started to restore the track. The usable part already has been taken over and is in service. The line runs from the centre of Leeds to Middleton Wood

Blaze May Have Been Sparked By Electricity

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Fragments salvaged from a fatal oxygen tent fire in a hospital here are to be subjected to laboratory tests to check whether the blaze could have been sparked by static electricity generated in the victim's bed.

Thomas Rooney, assistant coroner for the Ontario fire marshal's office in London said Tuesday this is one of the theories being considered in an investigation into the blaze which killed Mrs. Stella Elgin General Hospital. The man, killed was 49-year-old C. H. Nichols of St. Thomas.

If the theory is proved correct, Mr. Kaufman said, it would indicate a need for ensuring that the bed and equipment used with oxygen tents are grounded to prevent generation of static electricity.

The second theory being investigated, Mr. Kaufman said, is that the fire was caused by smoking in bed. An inquest will be held.

dropped sharply in spite of heavy borrowings abroad and Belgian grants.

For months before independence Lumumba received weekly funds from Communist sources who supplied his Mouvement National Congolais with campaign funds and tactical political advice.

He won power with pie-in-the-sky promises that played on the Congolese's inbred superstitions and with threats: "If I'm not prime minister, blood will flow."

Less than two per cent of the population turned out at the polls last spring to elect, by such methods as dropping pebbles in colored jars, a new parliament. The MNC had the largest number of seats and Lumumba, good and proud 36-year-old former beer salesman, bulled his way to power.

OUSTED BELGIANS

Little more than a week after independence Lumumba, who had surrounded himself with Moscow-trained advisers, began his violent campaign to oust the Belgians out of the country.

One of his mistakes was to try to concentrate all power in a strong central government, with himself as boss. There are too many tribal splits and regional differences to make this possible without bloodshed.

His anti-white and dictatorial policies led to secessionist movements in Katanga-which Katanga, where Belgian influence and finance is still considerable, and in the so-called three States of South Kasai, which produces 60 per cent of the world's industrial diamonds.

Without a share of the income from these sources, the rest of The Congo could carry on only with difficulty. The plantations and light industries could not support the country.

Tomorrow: Superstition rules minds of many Congolese.

20,000 Strikers Smash Windows In Brussels Riot

Protest Police Action Against Demonstrators

BRUSSELS (Reuter) — A crowd of 20,000 militant strikers marched through Brussels today smashing windows in another day of mass demonstrations against government austerity plans.

The new demonstrations were launched as King Baudouin and Queen Fabiola cut short their Spanish honeymoon after two weeks and headed back to this Belgian capital.

The strikers, joined by thousands of supporters from the provinces, were whipped up by Socialist labor leaders outside the party headquarters in a massrally before their march.

A manifesto was handed out at the rally to be presented to Premier Gaston Eyskens protesting "police measures" taken against the strikers during recent demonstrations.

Strident violence also erupted in the downtown area. A hail of stones smashed shop windows in the main offices of a bank, the Belgian Congo Company, considered by Socialists as the "stronghold of capitalism."

Similar outbreaks and demonstrations erupted today in other Belgian cities.

TRIED TO STOP TRAIN

Police dispersed scores of strikers in Charleroi who were attempting to stop the departure of a train. The city is a main strike centre in the country's south "Red belt."

The Brussels strikers, shoulder to shoulder across the whole width of the city's main boule vards, were turned away from the parliament buildings and the royal palace by riot police.

They smashed the windows of banks and the offices of the Flemish Catholic newspaper Het Laatste Nieuws.

All roads leading to the "neutral zone" around parliament traditionally out of bounds for political demonstrations — were manned by armed riot police mounted and on foot.

POLICE ATTACKED

Police anti-riot squads mobilized in the capital, armed with tear gas, truncheons, pistols and automatic weapons to meet the threat they said has divided the country and deepened the split in the labor movement between the 700,000-member Socialist-led General Workers-Federation and the 500,000-member Social Christian (Catholic) trade unions.

Socialist leaders, including general secretary of the Socialist federation, Wednesday denied a Catholic charge that the strikers were trying to overthrow the government. They said the strikers' only aim was to force Eyskens to drop his plans for higher taxes and cuts in social benefits to offset Belgium's loss of revenue from the Congo.

Eyskens rejected a demand from Socialist deputies that the parliament immediately to deal with the crisis.

Youth Drives Car Five Miles In Front of Train

DECATUR, Ga. (AP)—A darting young man who drove his car five miles down a railroad track, over trestles and a bridge right in front of a fast freight train, will spend the next six months safely in jail.

"I'll be swan if I know why we didn't run over him or why he didn't run off a trestle or something," said train engineer J. B. Broom.

Police who rushed to the scene and arrested 18-year-old Theron Luther George Jr., also had words of praise for the young daredevil's skill in negotiating the track and trestles in the two miles he drove there without a mishap, with Broom's train whistling impatiently behind.

But Judge Oscar Mitchell was not so impressed. "Well, I asked him what was his excuse he just said he was guilty and didn't have an excuse," he judge commented in passing sentence Wednesday.

Immigrant Made Boat at N.Y., Not Missing

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A search for a missing immigrant from Germany ended suddenly Wednesday when it was learned he was not missing and never had been.

The search started when a shipping company reported in the London travel agency that Ernhard Kuhlman, a 30-year-old laborer from Dashwood, missed the boat which was to have taken him from New York on a trip to Germany.

Friends who saw him off on the train Dec. 21 at Dashwood, a miles west of Stratford, asked police to launch a search.

Wednesday the shipping company notified the travel agency that Mr. Kuhlman had board the S. S. Bremen. He was late at the dockside and was missed in the confusion, the company explained.

Detroit Police Ordered on Six-Day Week

DETROIT (CP)—Detroit police were ordered on a six-day week Wednesday to prevent the kind of victory party that killed Mrs. Betty James, and to trap her slayer.

The 26-year-old nurses' aide and mother of three was brutally beaten early Tuesday as she walked to her job at Children's Hospital.

Her skull was fractured and her face gashed by repeated blows with a metal bar. She died in hospital Wednesday.

MAKE PROGRESS IN CIVIL DEFENCE SAYS PREMIER

Frost and Cabinet Join in Exercise

CAMP BORDEN, Ont. (CP)— The Ontario cabinet and key officials from Ottawa and the Canadian Army joined Wednesday in an exercise to find out how government would function in the event of a nuclear attack.

Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario said he was impressed with the day-long test.

"For the first time we are making progress in civil defence," he said.

In the exercise, called Operation Triangle, the Ontario cabinet held a half-hour meeting in a room at the army camp here normally occupied by four infantry officers. The first time the cabinet had met outside Toronto.

The cabinet table consisted of four trestle tables in U formation. Ministers sat on folding metal chairs.

BRUSH CLOTHING

As government officials arrived they were given a brush to activity test and their clothing was brushed with whisks and brooms. This was to rid them of radioactive dust following an imaginary nuclear attack on Toronto.

Army officers conducted family initiation tests.

There were special containers for clothing, clothing and footwear. Showers and fresh clothing were available for those contaminated.

A men's washroom was converted into a kitchen.

One of the key points was labelled Army Warning Centre. Telephones and teletypes were installed there to receive and transmit attack signals.

FLOOR LOCATIONS

A Co-operations Room showed on the floor with the location of troops plotted. There were detailed maps of Metropolitan Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, London, Windsor and Niagara Falls. Another map plotted fall - out areas.

"I hope we never have to operate the government out of here, but ordinary prudence demands that we do all we can," Mr. Frost said.

Lectures were given by federal and provincial officials and army officers.

The press was barred from the exercise.

The cabinet considered nearly 100 documents. It also discussed emergency organization.

Officers Bail Out Before Jet Crashes

METZ, France (CP) — Two RCAF officers bailed out of their CF-100 jet fighter Wednesday before the plane crashed in a field 10 miles southeast of here at Marville base.

Air division headquarters here said today that Flt. Lt. Robert Henry of Saskatoon was slightly injured when he landed. FO T. W. Petri, whose home was listed as Perth, Peel County, Ont., escaped unhurt.

The T-Bird, which carries two pilots, was on a routine training flight when its engine failed.

Toronto and Vancouver Loom As Liveliest Towns for Party

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Revelry will be more or less confined in Canada this New Year's Eve, the more or the less depending on your location, but hopscotch is where you happen to be.

You can dance for $5 a couple and up most anywhere, take in a floor show for $10 a couple and find various types of entertainment all the way in between those prices around the country.

Because of their combinations of show business and liquor facilities, Toronto and Vancouver loom as the liveliest towns for a night of radioactive dust following an imaginary nuclear attack on Toronto.

U.S. Curious About Loopholes In Embargo on Goods to Cuba

WASHINGTON (CP)—United States authorities said they have a report that a charter Cubana airliner recently flew a shipment of U.S.-made medical apparatus from Montreal to Havana.

They are not sure whether this specified shipment—reported by what they say is a highly reliable source—is a breach of the American embargo on exports to Cuba. The U.S. has banned all exports with the exception of medicine, and only Wednesday in an exercise to find out how government would function in the event of a nuclear attack.

Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario said he was impressed with the day-long test.

Kennedy Meets With Senator To Review Foreign Policies

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy takes part today in a global review of America's foreign policy with Senator Fulbright, a New York banker, Robert Roosa, to be undersecretary of the treasury for monetary affairs.

Fulbright already has chosen Archibald Cox, Harvard law professor and a campaign aide, to be solicitor general of the United States — the government's chief lawyer.

For a far-ranging look at the foreign problems that will face the president-elect arranged a luncheon meeting and afternoon session with Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem. Ark.), chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee.

Kennedy announced appointment of Fulbright as secretary of state, but earlier this week he passed the name in favor of Dean Rusk, head of the Rockefeller Foundation.

Federation Asserts Boards Hiring Incompetent Teachers

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation Wednesday accused some school boards of hiring incompetent teachers. At the same time the federation said the secondary teachers should be paid more.

Fred Enright, member of the federation's board of regents said four teachers disqualified for the profession had been hired by boards on recommendations of principals. Two had to be fired.

He said some boards were so anxious to have a body in the classroom "they couldn't care less" about qualifications.

The federation's salary session was closed to the press after a report from Enright and the OSSTF suggested a starting salary of $5,600 to a maximum of $11,500 for teachers after 18 years.

Field secretary J. M. Robb said 744 of the federation's 12,000 members were paid more than $10,000 annually. Metropolitan Toronto was in one of the "most unfavorable" categories," he said. He accused Metro officials of being short-sighted in relinquishing the feed they held in the mill rate.

Teachers who once flocked to Toronto were now "leaving in droves," he said.

The federation and the University of Waterloo jointly announced plans for Canada's first degree course for teachers wishing to improve qualifications.

PREMIUM RATE ON CANADIAN DOLLAR SHRINKS

Status Attributed To Fleming Budget

OTTAWA (CP) — The foreign exchange premium on the Canadian dollar—for years a pesky problem for Canada's economy—has shrunk almost out of sight in the wake of Finance Minister Fleming's budget.

The yellow-set the dollar to near parity with the U.S. dollar, after five years of premium status, is generally attributed to the Dec. 12 budget, with its tax moves aimed at limiting the inflow of American capital.

Just before the budget, the dollar was at a two-cent premium over its U.S. counterpart. Wednesday the premium was at a record quarter-cent, the lowest since April, 1955. The two dollars haven't been at par since the 1930's depression and in 1951 the premium reached a high of almost six cents.

It's a situation that brings pleasure both to the government and opposition. It didn't like the premium, and to export industries it meant higher costs. It's been, in effect, depressed by the discount on the U.S. dollar.

HAVE FINGERS CROSSED

Officials now are keeping their fingers crossed on the main question: Will the dollar's exchange value stay down?

One government official said Wednesday that reduction of the exchange premium was one of the budget's main objectives. This was not stated in so many words in Mr. Fleming's budget speech. But it was explained by him speaking to reporters afterwards.

One qualified informant, however, indicated that the present premium on the dollar in the New York market may be due to temporary factors.

He said there is no precise measure available here of what is depressing the Canadian dollar's value. But there had been a large volume of commercial transactions, including year-end transfers of Canadian securities by U.S. investment and pay-ments for Canadian imports.

There has been a certain amount of national pride in the fact that the Canadian dollar was at all on almost continuous premium over the U.S. dollar since the 1930's, when exchange regulations set the dollar at par.

EXPORTS HAMPERED

But this has hampered Canada's exports, made it more competition and also made imports more attractive.

In his speech Mr. Fleming frequently expressed regret over this situation. He put thumbs down on any direct government intervention to force down the premium.

His Dec. 30 budget, however, took a indirect approach. It increased taxes on transfers of securities to non-residents, controlled subsidiaries in Canada, and increased the tax barrier against future bond borrowings in the U.S. by the provinces and municipalities.

This kind of inflow of foreign capital has been a major factor in keeping up the dollar's exchange value. It has been a contributing effect of Canada's big deficits in international trade in goods and services.

Home Is Rocked By Explosion In Oil Stove

Father Escapes and Four Children Away at Time

NOYAN, Que. (CP)—Mrs. Max-ed Vosburgh, 43, and 11 of her 13 children were burned to death today in one of the worst single family tragedies in Quebec province history.

The grief-stricken mother died when she rushed back into the flaming small, wooden house near this village 35 miles south of Montreal.

She had escaped with her husband when an explosion, believed to have been caused by an oil stove, rocked the little house about 3 a.m.

She died before reaching the children and her body was one of the first found by firemen probing the ruins.

First reports said the father had managed to save one of the children, but later it was established that the only children to survive were four away from home at the time.

SHANDS BURNED

Mr. Vosburgh suffered burns to his hands and was taken to the nearby home of a brother-in-law for treatment.

The dead were: Doris, 19, Ray, 17, Richard, 15, Phyllis, 12, Katherine, 10, Audrey, 9, Beverly, 7, Lorraine, 5, Dennis, 3, Leo, 1, and Dwayne, six months.

Gladys, 21, is married to William Maydee of Grande Ligne, Que., and Gertrude, 22, is married to Walter Lockerby of Isle Motte, Vt., Irvin, 18, works in Noyan, and Allan, 31, was visiting an aunt in Noyan.

Mr. Vosburgh, 43, had moved his family to Noyan, 10 miles north of the Quebec-Vermont border, about two years ago. The town has a population of 300.

FIRE WORST AGONY

A sister-in-law summoned firemen from nearby Clarenceville. Mrs. Ernest Allan, 31, said: "I had just looked over the ruins and said to myself that I had fought 25 years as a fireman in this area and it is the worst thing I have ever seen."

The children slept in four beds. Two were found in the charred frames of the beds; in one of them were seven bodies.

Records indicated that one of the worst previous single family tragedies was a 1957 fire which took the lives of eight of the nine children of Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Desault of Sherbrooke, Que. Last month, Mr. and Mrs. Desault's son Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Vezina died in a fire at Iles aux Grues, Que.

Fire Destroys Furniture Plant, $1,000,000 Loss

FARNHAM, Que. (CP) The Rouleau Furniture Company plant was destroyed by fire Wednesday night and damage is estimated at $1,000,000.

The fire occurred in the one-storey building in this community 30 miles southeast of Montreal.

About 125 persons were employed at the plant.

Find Only One Policeman Slain In Reported 'Massacre' in Katanga

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) Investigators have found only one body of a man in the area of an alleged attack on a train in the Baluba-controlled Kasai area of the province which first reports said killed at least 20 persons, it was officially denied.

A British consulate official here said: "The reports of a "massacre" appeared to be "wildly exaggerated."

A United Nations spokesman said a UN team is investigating the incident.

The train, reported to have been carrying 120 passengers including about 30 Katanga-bound school children, was said to have been attacked three times by Baluba tribesmen at Bukama, between Elisabethville and Albertville. Only one body was found.

The passengers were said to have arrived safely at Kamina about 250 miles south of Elisabethville. But a UN spokesman said Tuesday he believed most of the passengers got off at Bukama.

Other reports said most of the Negroes on the train fled into the bush when the attack occurred.

Clashes involving Baluba tribesmen were also reported in the city of Jadotville to the Rhodesian British territory of Northern Rhodesia.

Police said they have arrested five men following a tribal clash Tuesday in which two Balubas and one Lulua tribesmen were killed. About 200 Balubas and Luluas live and work in Lusaka.

TTC Rejects Japanese Bid on Subway Wheels

TORONTO (CP)—Officials of the Toronto Transit Commission decided Wednesday to "buy Canadian" and rejected a bid by a Japanese company for the order of subway wheels that was $1,43 less for each wheel than the lowest tender.

However, the bid by the firm for a contract for street car wheels and low the TTC accepted it. The Kurt Orban Company bid $12 for each of the 1,670 steel wheels, compared with a bid of $100 a wheel by the next competitor, and won the $71,4 50 order.

The TTC awarded the contract for 300 subway car wheels to Canadian Steel Wheel Limited of Montreal for $31,350 instead of Orban's total price of $30,000.

Three Canadian Firms to Form Research Centre

MONTREAL (CP)—Three Canadian manufacturers Wednesday announced the formation for a new company aimed at financing of a new multi-million dollar research and development laboratory to direct their research activities.

The three companies—Dominion Tar and Chemical Co. Ltd., Canada Cement Company Ltd. and Howard Smith Paper Mills Ltd.—will have equal participation in the new company.

All three use chemical processes in their manufacturing operations, and have wide common research interests.

Present plans call for the new institute to be completed in 1963. They did not say where the laboratory would be located.

Research projects said the project should encourage Canadian university graduates to remain in Canada instead of migrating to other countries with better career opportunities.

Officials now are keeping their fingers crossed on the main question: Will the dollar's exchange value stay down?

One government official said Wednesday that reduction of the exchange premium was one of the budget's main objectives. This was not stated in so many words in Mr. Fleming's budget speech. But it was explained by him speaking to reporters afterwards.

One qualified informant, however, indicated that the present premium on the dollar in the New York market may be due to temporary factors.

He said there is no precise measure available here of what is depressing the Canadian dollar's value. But there had been a large volume of commercial transactions, including year-end transfers of Canadian securities by U.S. investment and pay-ments for Canadian imports.

There has been a certain amount of national pride in the fact that the Canadian dollar was at all on almost continuous premium over the U.S. dollar since the 1930's, when exchange regulations set the dollar at par.

EXPORTS HAMPERED

But this has hampered Canada's exports, made it more competition and also made imports more attractive.

In his speeches Mr. Fleming frequently expressed regret over this situation. He put thumbs down on any direct government intervention to force down the premium.

His Dec. 30 budget, however, took a indirect approach. It increased taxes on transfers of securities to non-residents, controlled subsidiaries in Canada, and increased the tax barrier against future bond borrowings in the U.S. by the provinces and municipalities.

This kind of inflow of foreign capital has been a major factor in keeping up the dollar's exchange value. It has been a contributing effect of Canada's big deficits in international trade in goods and services.

Find Only One Policeman Slain In Reported 'Massacre' in Katanga

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) Investigators have found only one body of a man in the area of an alleged attack on a train in the Baluba-controlled Kasai area of the province which first reports said killed at least 20 persons, it was officially denied.

A British consulate official here said: "The reports of a "massacre" appeared to be "wildly exaggerated."

A United Nations spokesman said a UN team is investigating the incident.

The train, reported to have been carrying 120 passengers including about 30 Katanga-bound school children, was said to have been attacked three times by Baluba tribesmen at Bukama, between Elisabethville and Albertville. Only one body was found.

The passengers were said to have arrived safely at Kamina about 250 miles south of Elisabethville. But a UN spokesman said Tuesday he believed most of the passengers got off at Bukama.

Other reports said most of the Negroes on the train fled into the bush when the attack occurred.

Clashes involving Baluba tribesmen were also reported in the city of Jadotville to the Rhodesian British territory of Northern Rhodesia.

Police said they have arrested five men following a tribal clash Tuesday in which two Balubas and one Lulua tribesmen were killed. About 200 Balubas and Luluas live and work in Lusaka.

Home Is Rocked By Explosion In Oil Stove

Father Escapes and Four Children Away at Time

NOYAN, Que. (CP)—Mrs. Max-ed Vosburgh, 43, and 11 of her 13 children were burned to death today in one of the worst single family tragedies in Quebec province history.

The grief-stricken mother died when she rushed back into the flaming small, wooden house near this village 35 miles south of Montreal.

She had escaped with her husband when an explosion, believed to have been caused by an oil stove, rocked the little house about 3 a.m.

She died before reaching the children and her body was one of the first found by firemen probing the ruins.

First reports said the father had managed to save one of the children, but later it was established that the only children to survive were four away from home at the time.

SHANDS BURNED

Mr. Vosburgh suffered burns to his hands and was taken to the nearby home of a brother-in-law for treatment.

The dead were: Doris, 19, Ray, 17, Richard, 15, Phyllis, 12, Katherine, 10, Audrey, 9, Beverly, 7, Lorraine, 5, Dennis, 3, Leo, 1, and Dwayne, six months.

Gladys, 21, is married to William Maydee of Grande Ligne, Que., and Gertrude, 22, is married to Walter Lockerby of Isle Motte, Vt., Irvin, 18, works in Noyan, and Allan, 31, was visiting an aunt in Noyan.

Mr. Vosburgh, 43, had moved his family to Noyan, 10 miles north of the Quebec-Vermont border, about two years ago. The town has a population of 300.

FIRE WORST AGONY

A sister-in-law summoned firemen from nearby Clarenceville. Mrs. Ernest Allan, 31, said: "I had just looked over the ruins and said to myself that I had fought 25 years as a fireman in this area and it is the worst thing I have ever seen."

The children slept in four beds. Two were found in the charred frames of the beds; in one of them were seven bodies.

Records indicated that one of the worst previous single family tragedies was a 1957 fire which took the lives of eight of the nine children of Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Desault of Sherbrooke, Que. Last month, Mr. and Mrs. Desault's son Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Vezina died in a fire at Iles aux Grues, Que.

Fire Destroys Furniture Plant, $1,000,000 Loss

FARNHAM, Que. (CP) The Rouleau Furniture Company plant was destroyed by fire Wednesday night and damage is estimated at $1,000,000.

The fire occurred in the one-storey building in this community 30 miles southeast of Montreal.

About 125 persons were employed at the plant.

TTC Rejects Japanese Bid on Subway Wheels

TORONTO (CP)—Officials of the Toronto Transit Commission decided Wednesday to "buy Canadian" and rejected a bid by a Japanese company for the order of subway wheels that was $1,43 less for each wheel than the lowest tender.

However, the bid by the firm for a contract for street car wheels and low the TTC accepted it. The Kurt Orban Company bid $12 for each of the 1,670 steel wheels, compared with a bid of $100 a wheel by the next competitor, and won the $71,4 50 order.

The TTC awarded the contract for 300 subway car wheels to Canadian Steel Wheel Limited of Montreal for $31,350 instead of Orban's total price of $30,000.

Three Canadian Firms to Form Research Centre

MONTREAL (CP)—Three Canadian manufacturers Wednesday announced the formation for a new company aimed at financing of a new multi-million dollar research and development laboratory to direct their research activities.

The three companies—Dominion Tar and Chemical Co. Ltd., Canada Cement Company Ltd. and Howard Smith Paper Mills Ltd.—will have equal participation in the new company.

All three use chemical processes in their manufacturing operations, and have wide common research interests.

Present plans call for the new institute to be completed in 1963. They did not say where the laboratory would be located.

Research projects said the project should encourage Canadian university graduates to remain in Canada instead of migrating to other countries with better career opportunities.

CHIMNEY BLAZE

IRON FRONT STREET NOT DANGEROUS

A blazing chimney which sent columns of black smoke rolling down onto the Street brought firemen to the Iron Front Street shortly before five o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

From the amount of smoke which apparently had shot a metre of fire might be threatening and firemen were preparing to connect their first traffic when it was discovered the trouble was only a chimney blaze.

A midnight last night fire then were again called out, this time to the second floor over the Sunshine Cleaners. The call turned out to be merely an investigation.

Building Value During Year Is $2,646,347

With but two more days to go, construction value in Belleville during 1960 is $2,646,347, it was noted today by city building inspector Grant Sinkle.

Construction for the month of December was valued at $142,000 with four dwellings permits issued. Service of the month's permits were for the construction of new bowling alleys and for the permits for new houses were taken out by Mrs. Walters Lamont and Rollins.

Biggest building year in recent history of the city and possibly the biggest on record was in 1959 when $3,000,000 was announced at over six million dollars. Last year new residential construction in the annexed area helped to swell the total.

Construction this year was at about the same level as in 1954 and in 1957, while in 1958, the last-year before annexation, the total was considerably below this year's level.

Man Lived For 38 Years As Woman

TORONTO (CP)—Lillian Owens, who for 38 years lived as a woman, was declared in court Wednesday to be a man.

When arrested two months ago on a charge of malicious damage to clothing and sent to hospital for a mental examination.

The man, who worked as a domestic, was returned to court today and Judge Thomas Chlstrist saying there was "nothing wrong with Lillian except that he thinks he's a woman."

"I've a man's body, but a woman's mind," Owens said. "All my life I've considered myself a woman. It's quite a problem."

He said when he was born his parents had wanted a girl. They christened him Lillian and dressed him in girl's clothing. He was sent to a girl's school.

Wednesday in a man's prison garb, Owens was taken to court to face the charge of smashing a window in a jail cell.

The court had a change of heart and transferred the man to a woman's court where he pleaded guilty and was fined $7 or two days.

Magazine Sees Sizeable Boom Within Year

NEW YORK — The annual publication forecast of Fortune magazine's widely-quoted Business Roundup says that the U.S. economy is already heading into a broad advance that will produce sizeable business within a year's time. Fortune's economists expect that in the next eighteen months the gross national product will rise by $50 billion to a record rate of $505 billion to $555 billion.

Fortune's forecast has good news for all sectors of business. The advance of the economy should begin to reduce unemployment by this spring. Thereafter, strange as it may seem now, there may be a question of whether the U.S. economy and power capacity will grow enough to keep up with the vast big advance in capital formation.

The coming 1961 upturn, says Fortune, traces basically back to the success of the nation's experiment in economic stabilization during the past year. Moreover, the economy has demonstrated that the 1960 readjustment, which was largely confined to inventories.

Here are the major factors on which Fortune based its forecast:

Defence spending will rise at a rate of $12 billion a year.

The budget will be unbalanced, with total federal spending rising by a total of $6 billion in or more a year.

Capital spending will start to increase by midyear; by spring of 1962 a new capital goods spending rate of $31 billion a year is likely.

Inventory liquidation is slowing, and soon business will be over building up its stocks.

Construction of housing will turn up from its present low, now at an annual rate of more than 1,- 500,000, will by the spring of 1962, be approaching 2,000,000.

Prices and wages will both go up, but slowly—by 2 per cent a year for the general price level, perhaps 3 per cent a year for factory wages.

Income and savings will increase. Income in current dollars will rise 9 per cent over the next eighteen months, and savings will resume their normal rate of about 7.4 per cent of spendable income by late '61.

Consumer spending will increase by a fair margin.

Credit, considerably eased during the past year, will continue so, with interest rates remaining fairly steady.

Exports, presently high, may decline as Europe's boom flattens, but other factors will improve the U.S. balance of payments.

AVONDALE CUBS

The annual Christmas party was a very special occasion this year. Not only were the children were invited to share in the fun but most of the adult members were also present. It is sometimes wonder how busy people find time to arrange their affairs but so many other things have to be attended to at this time of the season. Cubs are amply rewarded, however, by seeing the happy faces of their little Cubs.

Business was restricted to the "Grand Howl" and the swarming of stars.

Stars were given to Cubs David Holcroft, Tommy Sills, Fred Hazelton, Michael McKinnon and Justin Woonacott. 2nd Stars were awarded to Cubs Keith Wilson and Billy Patterson.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

Instead of the usual extravagance of gifts the Cubs brought presents for needy local families. Wednesday's meeting was a forerunning with canned goods, cookies, candy, books and toys. Cubs Peter Hall and Ricky Bryant stood guard turns of this Willson and Billy Patterson.

Motorists Must Give Statement Of Insurance

Ontario motorists renewing their motor vehicle licence this year will have to complete a statement of insurance coverage as well as surrender liability insurance certificates before they get their new number.

Mr George Olsen, Belleville registrar of motor vehicles, said today that the 1961 licences would go on sale locally on January 2. Motorists may obtain a package with 1960 licences or driving permits. Enforcement procedure will be March 15.

The Canadian Association of Transport states there will be positively no extension beyond the March 15th date.

In the past motorists have been required only to surrender their liability insurance certificates, but next year they will also be required to complete a statement of insurance coverage, and affirm their signature.

For the convenience of those who might find it awkward to the March 15th date, motor licence office business hours, motorists should plan to call to leave their licence cards in the drop-box and pick up their licences on their way home from work.

Accused Pleads Guilty to 22 Varied Charges

Fred Donald Scott, 30, of 237 Coleman St., today was remanded one week for mental examination after pleading guilty before county magistrate's court to a total of 22 charges of cashing false instruments, fraud and theft.

The charges arose from incidents which occurred in Napanee, Sidney and Sidney townships, Belleville, Thurlow, Tyendinaga, Hallowell and Dunnville, between March 14 and November 22. Most of the incidents involved the acceptance from either persons of businesses by means of false pretences or uttering forged cheques.

Most of the 11 Toronto cases, however, involved Scott in defrauding various hotels of money and accommodation after passing two credit cards from an accommodation and returning them after piling up a number of bills and touring the U.S. Middlewest in a 1955 Ford car worth $881.30.

O.P.P. at Belleville had laid charges against Scott on 11 counts of false pretences and one of uttering for offences which Scott committed in Belleville between about July 8 and Aug. 23.

Belleville police had charged him with two counts of uttering and held three charges of false pretences for the Belleville police. The local charges arose from incidents occurring between July 8 city March 14 and Sept. 26. The offences were alleged to have occurred to Nov. 15, 16 and 26.

USED FORGED CHEQUE

A charge of uttering laid by Dunnville police said Scott had offered a forged cheque in payment for a 1957 Ford Fairlane. Another charge from the same incident charged Scott with false pretences $50 cash by false pretences the same day.

Provincial police John Pringle told Magistrate F. Y. Wills that Scott had operated through a number of aliases. City police charged that on Sept. 26 Donald Scott piled up a total of $237 on credit while touring the U.S. Middlewest in a car between Oct. 15 and Nov. 1.

Donald Scott was charged with 23 counts but one was withdrawn today at the request of the Crown Attorney said all charges had been properly received.

Police told the magistrate he had been employed as a beverage room waiter during much of the past nine years.

He had his first brush with the law in 1950 at Port Hope when he was placed on one, year's suspended sentence for false pretences and made $88 restitution. His second experience in court came in Peterborough in Jan. 23, 1959, when he was given a two-year suspended sentence on conviction of eight charges of false pretences and due of forgery and uttering. Court costs and make $337 restitution.

Scott was not represented by counsel when he appeared in court today.

Sarnia Chief Will Investigate

SARNIA (CP)—A letter from Judge J. C. Anderson of Belleville alleging he was overcharged and threatened by a Sarnia taxi driver was referred to Sarnia Police Commission Wednesday by Judge R. A. Carscallen of Sarnia. The commission instructed Police Chief James Torrance to investigate.

Jury Decides Dennis Crosby Child's Father

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A jury Wednesday decided that Bing Crosby's son, Dennis, is the father of a Hollywood divorcee's illegitimate daughter.

Dennis, 26, had admitted intimacies with Mrs. Marilyn Minter Scott but denied fathering her 3-year-old daughter, Denise Michele.

The jury deliberated one hour and 20 minutes before voting nine to three that Dennis is the father. After the verdict by the nine mothers and three fathers on the jury, Crosby sat disconsolately in the courtroom.

Asked to comment he said:

"What can I say? They are the jury. They made the decision."

Outside the courtroom, Mrs. Scott waited with her blonde daughter and posed for pictures.

The decision by the jury did not have to be unanimous because the trial was a civil, not a criminal, action.

Crosby is one of Bing Crosby's four sons by his first wife, actress Dixie Lee. Dennis is married to former showgirl Pat Sheenan. They have a 4-year-old son and are expecting another child.

Summing up the case for Mrs. Scott Wednesday, lawyer Milton Golden said: "This is a case for divorcees and young Crosby both have blue eyes while her mother's are hazel. How can you say 'And don't miss the ears and eyebrows, and nails down the cross but good."

TOLD TO RETURN

Crosby and Mrs. Scott, 28, were instructed to return to court Tuesday. At that time the court will decide whether or not young Crosby will have to pay for the child's support. But this could be delayed by an appeal.

Crosby testified he was introduced to Mrs. Scott but could not remember details because he was "strongly urged to attend a 16 to 20 drinks on the night of Feb. 20." Dennis said expert called by Crosby's lawyers at the child's birth. But this could be as he said.

Two other witnesses called by the defence said two other men had been intimate with Mrs. Scott during February, 1957, but Mrs. Scott denied knowing either of them.

Dennis never admitted paternity but said he gave Mrs. Scott $500 when she approached him about her condition. He testified he said he later agreed to a private arrangement under which he would pay $200 a month. When she brought suit, he was ordered to pay $350 monthly pending trial.

British Shops Halve Cigarets To Catch Young

LONDON (Reuters) — Unscrupulous shopkeepers and easygoing parents were the real villains for making it easy for British children to start smoking cigarets or even younger.

This is Britain's health education officer for Middlesex County, reported in the weekly Family Doctor today. He said the way to discourage youngsters between nine and 17.

Although it is illegal to sell cigarets to children under 16, the law is rarely enforced and Britain has had no difficulty in getting them, he said.

He said some retailers seemed "determined to make a living by any trade" by selling cigarets singly. He had even heard of one shop where it was possible to buy half a cigaret.

Many parents seemed to have no objection to their children smoking.

"One boy of nine told me that mummy gave him two cigarets a day—one in the morning and one at night."

Boy smokers seemed to start the habit when they were about nine while most girls began at about 13. Boys set the pace and tend to show off in front of girls or to show they cannot afford it. Girls smoked to avoid looking silly when offered a cigaret.

Penn surprised that an anti-smoking film should be made and shown at every boat in Britain at least once a year.

Court Hears Of Work Of Colombo Plan

Guest speaker at the Y's Men's meeting last week was Royden Davis of Bay Hill at Prince Edward. Mr. Davis had his early education in Belleville, then went on to the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph graduating in 1950. Soon after he offered his services in the interests of the Colombo Plan. He was the first operative of which was the helping hand to underdeveloped countries.

During the next three years he visited most of the countries in the Far East, Burma, Indonesia, India, Pakistan, Hong Kong, Thailand and several British colonies.

The speaker told of the work of training and helping natives in all fields of agriculture especially methods of land cultivation, farm and home maintenance, use of tractors and other mechanical implements. He told briefly of the life and customs of the people of the lands he visited and illustrated many remarks by showing a series of coloured slides. Finally he told of Karbo project Afghanistan were also shown. This project was established at an estimated cost of $50 million.

The meeting was introduced by Bill Prentice and thanked by Ken Haynes. President Ken Luscombe acted his own personal thanks and presented the speaker with a small token of the club's appreciation for a very interesting and informative address.

St. Laurent Says He Voted For Conscription

QUEBEC (CP)—Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent said Wednesday he voted for conscription during the last conscription crisis because he preferred his duty to "passing political unpopularity" in Quebec.

Mr. St. Laurent was justice minister in the Mackenzie King cabinet during the crisis, brought on when heavy reserves in Europe fell to dangerous levels and traditional replacements were volunteering.

The government was badly shaken when it decided on a script. 16,000 men for overseas reinforcements, the origin of Quebec.

Mr. St. Laurent said he knew his support of conscription would be politically embarrassing in Quebec.

"But I also knew I had the moral right to do my duty and to ten the end of the war in Europe and I was convinced that in voting for it I would be doing something that would hasten the final end of the great slaughter.

"I had to choose between passing political unpopularity and the feeling that would have haunted me so much had I lived to have failed to do my duty and to have which did not need to be sacrificed."

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market today took a breather after the recent strong sections and moved lower on a broad front.

On index, industrials were off .6 at 322.06, golds .23 at 88.30 and western oils .56 at 93.85. Base metals improved .12 at 139.80.

The 21 a.m. volume was 554,000 shares compared with 405,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Gatineau Power led industrials down, off ¼ at 35¾. BA, Bell Telephone and Calgary Power all eased ¼.

Montreal Trust jumped 6¾ at 264½ and Bank of Commerce and Minnesota and Ontario Paper went ahead ¼.

In golds, Dome was off ¼ at 23¼, while McIntyre Porcupine gained ½ and Kerr Addison improved ¼.

Falconbridge and Ventures led base metals, both ahead ½ at 39¼ and 21¼. Hudson Bay dropped ¼ at 46.

Industrials climbed higher Wednesday in moderate trading. Industrials gained 4.18 on index at 322.60 — their highest point since last January. They now stand less than seven points behind the lows last Dec. 21 with still two trading days left in 1960.

The market appears to have turned into a bull market with the industrial index moving ahead 38 points in the last two months—23 in December alone.

Base metals were up .51 at 137.67, while golds moved ahead .61 at 89.35. Western oils fell .1- at 90.71.

Goodyear tire had the best day on the industrial board with a five-point gain at 125. Dominion Stores advanced 3¼ at 67¾ for a new high for the year. Consolidated Paper reached a new high with a gain of 6¼ at 42½, as did McLaren Pulp and Paper A, up ¾ at 21.

Power Corp. advanced 1¼ at 45¾ and Ford of Canada was ahead 1½ at 138. Dominion Foundries and Steel also gained 1½ at 45½ and Crown Zellerbach climbed 1¾ at 53.

International Nickel gained ¼ and moved to 56¾—the highest in the history of the company. Noranda Copper gained one point at 59 for a new high. Other winners: Noranda, up ¾ at 40¾ and Dome Mines, up ¾ at 23¼.

Athletes Posing for Liquor Ads Dishonest Says Swimmer

TORONTO (CP)—Athletes and sportsmen who pose for liquor advertising are being dishonest, a Canadian champion Olympic swimmer said Wednesday.

Sara Bartier, 19, of Brantford told the fourth annual Provincial Youth Conference on Alcohol "a true athlete does not drink while in training."

"Almost and athletes are really competitors," she said. "Professional sportsmen are being offered great sums of money to advertise various kinds of liquor. If they accept the offer, I say they are dishonest athletes because they are connecting their name with a product which is detrimental to their activity."

Earlier, Dr. R. Gordon Bell, executive director of the Bell Clinic told the 200 conference delegates that over-production, over-pampering, over-discipline and rejection characterize four childhood situations which turn persons to alcohol.

He said the situations create a tendency in an individual to turn from selfreliance and mutually beneficial interdependence with others to a dependence on alcohol.

Dr. Bell also suggested home and school associations consider programs of child education in the use of alcoholic beverages.

The conference is sponsored by the youth section of the Ontario Temperance Federation.

Kidney Transfer Operation Said To Be Success

BOSTON (AP)—The success of a number of kidney transfers between identical twins gave encouragement today to a Canadian mother whose 12-year-old daughter underwent the operation Wednesday.

Doctors at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital said several days or even longer will be needed to determine whether the transplanted organ is functioning. The hospital's next bulletin is scheduled to be issued Friday.

Peter Bent Brigham pioneered the operation and has a record of a number of successful kidney transfers between identical twins and one successful transplant between fraternal (non-identical) twins.

In Wednesday's operation, a kidney was removed from the body of Lana Nitzgadde to that of her identical twin, Johanna. A hospital report said the girls from Steinbach, Man., withstood the operation satisfactorily.

The belated Christmas gift could save Johanna's life, surgeons said. The girl has had kidney trouble since she was seven.

The girls came here with their mother Dec. 7. Because they are minors, court permission had to be obtained to perform the operation.

If the transplanted kidney functions properly, Johanna will undergo another operation to have removal of her own diseased kidneys.

Israeli Premier May Resign Over Security Mishap

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion has hinted he might resign in an effort to force still another investigation into the mysterious disappearance of former defence minister Pinhas Lavon. Informed sources told today.

Lavon was forced out of the government of former prime minister Moshe Sharett in 1955 and blamed for a security mishap." Military censorship has prevented a further description of the incident, but it is believed Lavon was accused of ordering an attack that some diplomats told caused Egyptian President Nasser to get arms from the Soviet Union.

The cabinet approved a report by an investigating committee of ministers Sunday clearing Lavon and finding that a high army officer, whose name has not been disclosed, probably forged a document to pin the blame on the former defence minister.

The investigating committee, appointed by Ben-Gurion in September, represented all parties in the government.

Political sources said Ben-Gurion refused to join in approval if the committee report and hinted that he may resign, at least temporarily. At any rate he customarily takes a mid-winter vacation.

Ben-Gurion in a two hour speech at the Zionist Congress Wednesday called for greater Jewish migration from Western countries and for intensive Jewish education for those who stay away from Israel.

The premier contended that Jews who lived outside Israel were godless and violated the precepts of Judaism every day they remained away from the country.

Two Men Killed In Mine Blast

KINGWOOD, W. Va. (AP)—A mine explosion that sounded like distant thunder was the tragedy Wednesday upon the hearby community of Newburg.

Thurman Lantz and Lawrence Tarleton, both about 24 and residents of Newburg, were trapped deep within the Sagbrod Phillips Coal Co. mine when a gas explosion brought down tons of slate to block their route to freedom.

Rescuers, as soon as possible, brought down tons of slate to block their route to freedom.

Identification was made known loose coal.

Passerby Saves Five From Gas

TORONTO (CP)—An unidentified passerby was credited by police with saving five lives early today.

The man smelled coal gas and found Stanley Mullins, 31, unconscious at the foot of a second-floor apartment stairway in a west-end rooming house.

He called police, who found Mullins' wife Elizabeth, 32; their three-week-old baby, Veronica; his mother, Mrs. Annie Mullins, 57, and Mrs. Eileen Nichand, 28, all overcome.

All are reported in good condition in hospital.

Firemen said the furnace chimney was plugged with debris which caused flames to seep through the apartment above a garage.

FIRST TRIP TO THE TROPICS was made recently by Ross Post (left) and Carmen Séguin, crew members aboard the tanker BA Peerless and natives of Ivanhoe, Ont. Ross is Fourth Mate and a veteran of six years' service on the ship while Carmen has spent two years on the Peerless as a seaman. The 550-foot converted lake tanker, also on her first trip into tropical waters, picked up a cargo in the Netherlands West Indies and then in 4 days' first visit to St. John's, Newfoundland, where she is docked for the winter. Grand Dragon Of Ku Kluxers Leaving Lodge

OLDSMAR, Fla. (AP) — Bill Hendrix, grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan's fourthers-Northern Knights for several years, is quitting the Klan because "I see no way to stop racial integration and it looks to me like the best thing to do is disband it."

He told The Associated Press Wednesday night: "I cannot agree to go outside the law to maintain segregation."

Liquid Propane Blast Injures Four at Bayonne

BAYONNE, N.J. (AP)—A storage tank containing potent liquid propane exploded Wednesday night. Four men were injured, one critically, and hundreds fled their homes.

Scene of the explosion was the Sun Gas Products Corporation, located in Bayonne's "Constable Hook" section, near New York Bay.

Flames climbed 1,000 feet into the sky and windows blocks around were shattered by the impact.

Police evacuated every body from within a five-block radius of the explosion area and cordoned it off.

Firemen sprayed the flames and wet down a huge tank containing oil, just 200 yards away. At one point, flames were within 50 yards of the oil tank.

But shortly before 2 a.m. today, firemen announced the fire was under control.

SUFFERS MAJOR BURNS

Critically injured was truck driver Stanley Bielski, 46, of Chester, N.Y. He was taken to the hospital suffering third-degree burns over 40 per cent of his body.

Also injured were Billy Rowan, 27, of Bayonne, a volunteer fireman; Sgt. Joseph Lewis, Jervis, N.Y., a truck driver; and Robert Kaiser, 39, also of Bayonne. These men were not badly hurt. Rowan suffered an earlier report indicating one arm had died, when a missing man was identified.

Police gave this account of events leading up to the explosion:

Three men, including Buchalski and Lewis, were engaged in loading gas into a small tank. Somehow, a spark ignited the gas.

A small drum of gas exploded, then another and another.

Buchalski and those with him tried to move their truck away from the exploding drums. It was then Buchalski suffered his burns.

Nobody is sure how many drums exploded; one report indicated there were 18.

Police said no employees were enough to touch off the big storage tank, which went up with ear-splitting force.

Education Board Honors Three Ex-Members at Dinner

TRENTON — Retiring members of the Board of Education, F. J. Aziz, Frank Fillon and Robert Barlow, were guests of honor at a dinner last night at which members of the 1960 board were hosts.

Certificates, outlining each member's service on the board, were presented to the three ex-members who did not seek office this year after the 1960 board resigned en masse to comply with the request from the Minister of Education.

One of the terms of an agreement reached by the Trenton board and the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, following weeks of discussions between the two bodies, which culminated in the public hearing of the board, was that all 1960 board members resign before the December elections, and seek re-election if they wanted to. The 1960 chairman of the board, T. S. Ketcheson, and board members Paul Tripp, George Greer and Lew Phinney, also re-elected in November but were re-elected to the 1961 board.

Mr. Barlow, Mr. Fillon and Mr. Aziz were presented with engraved silver tankards and Mr. Ketcheson received an engraved silver tray.

Mr. Ketcheson thanked Mr. Phinney for the efforts he had put into arranging the dinner. He also thanked the retiring members for the excellent job they had done on last year's board. He said that in spite of some differences of opinion between board members Trenton had put the year, he felt that it was apparent that each member had done his do what he thought best. He said that in his opinion, the present high school teaching staff was the best the school had had in the past 10 or 15 years. Mr. Ketcheson commended the supervisor of public schools, Mr. Hall Cooke, for his liaison efforts between the board and public school teachers. He said that the excellent relations between the board and the teachers was due entirely to Mr. Carswell's diplomacy.

PRAISES CHAIRMAN

In reply to the chairman's address, Mr. Aziz said that he and other board members had been remiss in failing to state, publicly the high regard in which they held the chairman, and failing also to point out his leadership qualities. He said that while some people might not have approved of the attitude adopted by some of the board members in the spring's strike, he personally knew that each member had sincerely believed the dictates of his own conscience.

Mr. Fillon also praised the chairman for his leadership in last year's difficulties. He said that he had enjoyed working on the board.

Mr. Barlow said that he could only agree with what other members had said and he wished the board best wishes.

Mr. Carswell thanked the board members for their expressions of confidence. He said he felt that each member of last year's board had felt that he was doing the best thing to make the high school second to none in the province.

He urged the members who are serving on next year's board to forget all differences and hold to that which was good in last year's administration.

Mr. Ketcheson commended Basil Brooks, representative to the board from Hastings County for the past six years, and Dr. J. A. McNally, Trenton separate school board representative for the past three years, for their co-operation with the board.

Senior Citizens Are Entertained

TRENTON — Members of the Trenton Oddfellows Lodge, assisted by members of the Quinte Queen Rebekah Lodge, entertained the Senior Citizens Club last night. The club members were taken on a tour of the Trenton-Batawa district to see the outdoor Christmas displays. Following the tour the group adjourned to the IOOF hall on Elgin St. where they joined in the singing of Christmas carols and old favorites. Mrs. Dorothy Todd led the singing. Cliff Gunter accompanied the singers on his accordion. Sandra Ireland, Jennifer Empey and Wayne Phillips sang several selections.

H. J. Whitley showed several travel films. Mr. and Mrs. Whitley visited Hawaii some time ago and were in Europe last year. District Deputy Grand Master Carl Fox spoke briefly.

Lunch was served by members of the Rebekah Lodge.

The annual outing was under the direction of Del Topping and Cliff Gunter.

Remove Cars

TRENTON — Town engineer Ken Hall announced yesterday that the work of the men in the public works department would be held up if citizens would remove their cars from streets at night. He said the grime removal crew found that some people park day and night in front of their homes, making cleaning removal impossible. Mr. Murray has told his men to ignore streets where cars are parked.

Salesman's Ship

One of the best ideas we have heard towards promoting the sale of Canadian goods abroad was presented recently in Dennis Smith's column in The Telegram. It appears that a retired salesman and shipping man, one Henry Campbell Cain, has proposed that the Canadian government have a ship prepared which could travel around the world with all sorts of Canadian products on display.

This ship, so the proposal goes, would have product display rooms, conference rooms and accommodation for visitors. The ship would dock at ports to receive prospective buyers who the Canadian trade commissioner in the area had previously arranged to view our products. Even those prospective customers from inland centres the accommodation would be available to assure their comfort during their inspection of the goods displayed.

In this fashion Canadian goods could be shown around the world to thousands of prospective buyers and customers on their own doorsteps. Such a project is certainly worthy of the government's consideration and of wide support.

There are merchandise and goods from our own area which should certainly find a place on such a ship. Local products as is already proven in their sales appeal but could stand more markets and increased volume. They should have little difficulty in finding themselves once new buyers were made aware of their existence.

Our own community is perhaps unique in that it has a distinct advantage of getting some of these people either coming or going. If they feel that cheese and spirits might be too fattening we could always supply them with mettwurst.

Let us hope that the government gets a Canada salesman's ship underway at the earliest possible moment.

New Thoughts from a Clear Thinker

In view of urging by the federal government, together with various other voices about the dominion, for Canadians to invest more in Canadian firms and for foreign firms to allow Canadians to buy more stock in Canadian subsidiaries, some comments from George Romney, president of American Motors, are interesting.

There was a time when Mr. Romney's voice was heard preaching the need for smaller cars from the wilderness outside of the asphalt jungle of the American motor capital of Detroit. The moguls of the "Big Three" laughed and chortled over the idea of any red-blooded North American being attracted by any type of automobile other than the larger products of their own assembly lines.

Mr. Romney has offered to sell Canadians the new American Motors plant at Brampton which is scheduled to open next month. Mr. Romney, "I will tell the Canadian people then that as soon as they want to invest in American Motors operations in Canada we'll let them do it . . . and if they want to buy control of the operation we'll let them do that, too."

An interesting statement from the man who said that the compact car was what the North American public would like to buy some half dozen years before the motor industry giants were forced to agree. Would it be, perchance, that Mr. Romney is predicting a new trend for American industries, that of voluntarily allowing the control of their foreign subsidiaries to pass completely out of the hands of the parent firms?

Tapestries Return

Who are some of the best paid workers in France today? Chances are you would never guess that they are weavers. In their own region, at Aubusson in the heart of France, they are the highest paid and busiest in no unemployment. What created that healthy situation? It is a revived demand for the famous tapestries woven on the Aubusson looms. And, strangely enough, it is contemporary art that is creating the vast expanse of whose bare wall space demands covering, which is responsible. (Houston, Texas, Post).

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

LEST WE BE MISLED

Beware of the glib person. That chap with a well balanced tongue which wags at both ends is very likely to overimpress his generation. He appears to know all the answers. By his analyzed he makes all problems appear simple. With the confidence he fills us with the assurance that he could do plenty to help the world to a solution of its problems if we only gave him a chance.

But think back over your experience. Have the glib persons proved wise — or otherwise? Has not wisdom more often been the portion of some person who pondered much and talked little? Sometimes we meet a person who seems to find it almost impossible to express what he deeply feels, yet in a few halting words gets across to us wisdom and insight which may astonish us indeed.

The world's greatest utterances have been brief utterances. The Sermon on the Mount is a case in point. The thirteenth chapter of 1st Corinthians contains only a few hundred words. The immortal Gettysburg speech was so brief that most of the newspapers of that day dismissed it as inconsequential. But it impresses us. The slow speaking, wise man may appear to us to be a bit on the dull side.

Information and wisdom are not the same thing. Facility of speech and soundness of judgment do not always belong together — in fact seldom so. Beware of glibness — in yourself and in others.

Many Strange Cheques

New York Times

The story of the Arizona rancher who made out a $200 cheque on a strips-three shot rawhide saddle is the many curious surfaces on which cheques are typically been written through the years: in lipstick on bandages, chiefs, on cigaret paper, on ceiling cards, fly-spit valentines, on whiskey labels, Christmas cards, envelopes, newspaper, cigar boxes and even on the laundry bills. A cheque written on a hard-boiled egg was cashed without question at the Victoria branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. A Midwestern lumberjack once made so many cheques his bank had to construct a special type of file cabinet for them. A contractor in Memphis once settled his weekly payroll by drawing on the bank with slabs of wood. A bookkeeper was sent to jail for a newly arrived television set specially made on the side of the packing case and wrote his cheque on it. • • •

The odd ways in which cheques have been written are a reflection of the foibles of those who make them. But the ways symbolized a few years ago when a cheque for $1,000, painted on the side of a Brooklyn Manhattan bus, was drawn against the account of Cecil B. DeMille, president of the Motion Pictures Association to pay a contestant on a television show with the winning title, "Pictures Are Funny." Then there was the fellow in Philadelphia in Negro who was plagued with requests for money from home. In desperation he sent his mother a cheque in the form of a $1,000 bill, with a personal endorsement on the back — and was made with a time bomb. And recently a Connecticut perfume company drenched its cheque in the scents of its products, printed the word 'scent' instead of 'cent' and the words 'pay to the order of' the customer.

For most of us, though, cheques are written on paper approximately 6½ by 3½ inches in size. Yet even among cheques of conventional size a wide surface there are variations. Left-handed persons, for example, can find cheques printed that have the stub to the right of the cheque rather than to the left, to facilitate writing. Several banks provide cheque forms for the use of blind customers. These cheques are embossed with raised lines that guide the blind customer in writing in his name, cheque number, name of payee and signature. To simplify mailing of cheques we have pocket cheques and we have envo-cheques, where the cheque forms its own envelope. And to discourage forgery, several different kinds of safety papers have been experimented with for half a century. Probably the greatest developments in safety paper has been a cheque form called the "void" when tampered with ink eradicator it reveals the word "Void" hundreds of times.

For the most part, cheques are fairly conventional. Like money, the cheque was devised by man to give him flexibility in trade. Cheques do for us today just what they have been doing for centuries. They let us do business without carrying us to handle currency every time we make a move. The earliest recorded use of cheques is from Babylonia in the 17th century B.C., the Greek orator Demosthenes referred to cheques and a complete history of banking in Florence includes dialogue about "sending money to Rome" drawn out funds by cheque. But the cheque as we know it today had its origin among the goldsmiths of London in the seventeenth century; they began to issue to travellers for safekeeping and receipts which were transferable by endorsement. Bankers therefore think of a cheque as a way of checking or controlling a bank account. But the United States where the cheque has attained far and away its greatest use, nine-tenths of all money transactions are carried on through this wonderful pieces of paper — of which about ten million each year.

Phalarope's Wings Cut

Vancouver Sun

Imagine the reaction in Canada — and other countries — if the government of John Diefenbaker were to lift the passport of Lester Pearson, or any of the Liberals Hugh McLennan.

People would say that Canada was becoming just like Soviet Russia. Totalitarian, in any case.

They could as justly say that Canada was becoming like nationalist South Africa. For that last week the Union Parliament ousted South African Liberal leader Jan Hofmeyr, a Cabinet Minister and elder statesman of the Nationalist Party, had his passport lifted by the authorities as he stepped off a plane at Johannesburg.

Mr. Paton seems to be justified in his charge that this withdrawal was a right to leave South Africa is the first step to the penalty for telling the truth. He has just returned from a tour of Canada and the United States during which he tirelessly continued to write and speak against the apartheid policies of South Africa.

South Africa can claim a precedent for its action. The United States government has done the same to one of its citizens — Paul Robeson for one-sided, one-man playing footsie with the Communists.

But one foolish action does not justify another, even if the cases are parallel.

Maybe Mr. Paton should stay home and do his speaking and writing for home consumption. But he is a South African who can free speech and a free press cannot exist in a South. Which denies its people the right to know and go and to speak the truth in any part of the world.

People Eat Less Wheat

Lethbridge Herald)

Highly developed countries are eating less wheat. The International Wheat Council does not know why this is so but the changes. The swing away from wheat-based diets started in the Second World War and has become accentuated in the years since. Professor Frederick Zeuner of the Institute for Archaeology, University of London, has suggested that the change is due to the urge for "gracious living" and the increasing affluence of the world. Several factors are at work here and France as outstanding examples of two countries with wheat rather than large importation of wheat are not large eaters. The day when wheat was king in the days of North America seems to be fading, temporarily.

If the population of the world continues to increase at he present rate it appears that there will be a necessity to grow more wheat. An acre of wheat will produce a great deal more food than any other form of meat or other crop, and as agricultural ground becomes scarcer wheat consumption will be bound to increase.

Prairie agriculture will continue on a diversified pattern, but wheat is not out of the picture by any probably regain some of its importance.

In one of the earliest break-ups in hockey, the ice in the lower stretches of the Moira River moved downstream to the open waters of the bay over the weekend. With the exception of occasional patches that are adhering to the banks, the river is entirely free from ice as far as the city upper bridge. Sleighing on the past week are said to be responsible for the ice movement.

The holiday spirit buzzed across the lines of the Bell Telephone system last week as over the wires of the local telegraph and radio companies as Christmas greetings were extended to relatives and friends out of town. Bell Telephone officials report that on December 24th there were 36,000 local calls and 921 outside calls over the Belleville office. On Christmas Day there were 20,000 local calls and 917 toll calls.

The Canadian Red Cross Society announced that for 2,000 blood donors weekly to build up a store of human blood for transfusion to war casualties. Premiers Hepburn Mackenzie announced that his department has arranged a program for building up a "blood bank" with sufficient supplies to provide for 20,000 casualties. Treatment and storage would be carried out at Connaught Laboratories of the University of Toronto.

Under the auspices of the Officers of the Argyll Light Infantry a smoker was held in the Officers' Quarters at the Armories and the evening was most enjoyable. Lieutenant-Colonel Cowan, Commanding Officer, was present and with his fellow officers left nothing undone for the entertainment of their guests. Card playing was enjoyed and a quartet composed of Messrs. Bert Bowen, Mouzik, H. Moorman and M. Lavois rendered several selections which were appreciated.

Learns Talk In Japanese

Financial Post

Going after export business in his home territory, he must learn to make a seven-minute speech in foreign language, given a difficult one at that, or perhaps, without knowing 10 words of it.

This is precisely what W. E. Williams, president of Proctor and Gamble of Canada, did recently, when, as president of the Toronto Board of Trade, he headed a party of 100 members on a business trip to the Far East.

Here's how Williams did it. He wrote out his speech phonetically. A bilingual Japanese translated. Williams listened repeatedly while it phonetically, practised the difficult phrases and practised until he "had them".

Then he delighted his audience of Osaka businessmen.

His thoughtful preparation, so go unnoticed, by any means. Japan will pours, if you take the trouble to learn a few of the "how are things" in your customer's tongue before you set out.

Politeness is incredibly the international language of business and diplomacy.

Consideration for the feelings of others, is something in which North Americans too often rate very low marks.

Canadian PLACE NAMES

A peak and a creek in Jasper National Park, Alberta, also an island in the Ottawa river. It is an Indian word meaning pipestone. In Alberta this name has reference to the fine quality of pipestone found nearby from which Indians fashioned their pipes.

Two-Storey House Back

Hamilton Spectator

We were interested to read some days ago that Toronto house builders are giving a second look at the "old-fashioned" two-storey home — even the "old-ers" back to the days when a man's home was considered if he didn't have to climb with an attic and a cellar to store junk — and a bathroom to slide down.

Today, with split-level homes and one-storey plan in the suburbs and apartment buildings the elevators a problem, there must be thousands of young families who know nothing of the joys of sliding down the banister, climbing a tree and playing in recreation rooms where the coal bin used to be.

Things Look Really Black

According to a contemporary, when the economy is inflated like a balloon and swinging back and forth like a pendulum, we have to find a way to stop the pendulum so as not to upset the apple cart.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

YOUR LIFE

I read a very thought-provoking sentence recently. I give it to you. "Life," said this writer, "is very precious — we must give it back to God some day. So let us get the most possible out of it."

It is interesting to note, however, that few have quoted from the letter of a Mother to her son. And if there is anyone who looks life in the face, it is a Mother.

Of course, compared to all Time in its eternal running, Life is like a single flash of light streaking it over its three-score and ten, or more, there is a great deal of time in that flash of light.

And when you think of the lasting effects of men and women whose work has come down through the years and made such an impress upon the world, we are able to appreciate how important is the life we have wasted and that you learn to give and to get.

Deep disappointments, sorrows, heart-breaks are part of the burdens of character. A person who has never suffered, through, or stood up to them, is rarely considered to come the storms.

If we have free or dear lives to live, we could experiment a little, but not different kind of living. Unfortunately, we have only one life to live, so far as we know now. So let us be the most of all that we have!

Less as much as you are able according to your individuality, ideas as to what constitutes a worthwhile life and remember, in so doing to consider the rights of others and not always second to your own.

Learn to bury much of the past and to forget imagined wrongs. Live ahead!

Above all, help people want to have you around.

THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARK

Centuries before medicine and psychiatry gave the matter professional attention, it was well known to mankind that laughter is good medicine.

Scophy there were substantial numbers of people who were not happy. They had a habit of getting themselves in some kind of a jam in which their glands worked improperly, their blood tingled pleasantly in their veins and they felt really fine.

In part this accounts for the adventurers, the explorers, the soldiers of fortune and conquerors who have contributed enormously to the progression of humanity. But it also accounts for the gamblers, speculators as the mischief makers and, indeed, the criminals.

To be at rest, at ease, irks them. In order to satisfy their nature, cries out for what they call excitement. Some of us are all familiar with the type of woman who is literally in pain until she has created a crisis among her family, friends or neighbors. In order to feel pleasantly all over, she has to start a row. Sometimes she starts it in most plants and offices, there is a man who appears to come alive for minutes a day. Everybody around him angry and of excited — even if he's not.

Royal Commission Report Proves Educating Every Child No Simple Business

FIGURET

A.A.H. HUNTER

"I drive you to a show," declared their father, when he saw the children checking their money. "But I'm not promising to pay. How much have you all got?"

"I've got as much as Lea," Ann told him, "plus a third of what Paul has."

"I've got two dimes more than a third of what Ann has," explained Lea.

Paul was no more helpful. "I've got as much as Ann, and also I've got a third of what Lea has," he said.

But their father figured it all out. Can you do so?

(Answer tomorrow)

Yesterday's Answer: LILAC is 51578.

VICTORIA (CP)—A royal commission today handed down 153 recommendations to improve British Columbia's public school system, including proposals for extensive re-organization of courses, teaching methods and achievement standards.

The province's elementary and secondary schools are not badly failing, the commission said in a 345-page report, but if Canada is to be strong, its education system must be second to none and "far-reaching proposals must not be rejected because they cost money or are difficult to put into effect".

The commission chairman was Dean S. N. F. Chant of the University of B.C.'s faculty of arts and sciences. Other members were John E. Liersch of Powell River Company and Ripp P. Walrod of B.C. Tree Fruits Limited.

ASKS EMPHASIS

Some recommendations arising from the two-year study:

Greater emphasis on "hard core" subjects such as science, mathematics and English and less time spent on "frills"—art, drama and music;

Increasing the school year by a minimum of 10 days and the secondary school day by one hour, more homework, and a crackdown on teachers who "waste time";

Junior and senior vocational schools be established for students who cannot make the grade academically, a collegiate academy above high school level and an institute of advanced technology as an alternative to university undergraduate;

Elimination of junior high school as such, with Grade 7 reverting to elementary school and high school starting at Grade 8;

REGARD AS PARTNER

The school should be regarded as a partner with the home, church and community the development of a child and should not take over the functions of other agencies;

Teachers' salaries be negotiated on a province-wide basis through a "master agreement" rather than through separate contracts with local school boards.

The report said school boards should be given "every assistance with building programs to provide the 6,000 additional classrooms and 700 schools which will be needed in B.C. by 1975. There are currently 300,000 students attending 1,300 schools in the province.

Royal commissions into the school systems of Alberta and Manitoba made similar recommendations a year ago—the need for a core of academic subjects, longer school days and terms, more occupational, vocational and fine arts programs and higher professional standards for teachers.

Two Cars End Up on Patio of Chatham Home

CHATHAM (CP) — Two cars ended up, one on its roof, on the patio of a Chatham district home early Wednesday following a spectacular crash that sent one man to hospital.

Joseph O'Connor, 25, of Ridgetown, is in serious condition in hospital with concussion, facial lacerations and internal injuries.

Police said his car leaped across a 20-foot-wide ditch flanking a bend on the third concession of Harwich Township. The car ran about 100 feet through the back yard of Charles Young's home, glanced off a cabin cruiser, knocked Mr. Young's car onto the patio and overturned.

Earth Gets Charged Solar Wind From Sun

OTTAWA (CP) — The earth gets not only light and heat from the sun but also an electrically-charged solar wind, a Defence Research Board scientist said Wednesday.

In other words, the earth exists not only in the sun's atmosphere but in an encompassing atmosphere of the sun.

This fairly new concept of the makeup of outer space was explained in an interview by James W. Cox, director of physical research at Defence Research Board headquarters here.

Mr. Cox said that space in the solar system is apparently several hundred times more dense than originally believed.

The sun gives off a constant stream of ionized particles — the solar wind—which are in eternal collision with the earth's own atmosphere.

NOT FELT DIRECTLY

The solar wind which is never felt directly on earth because it is deflected and bent by the earth's magnetic field. The sun is approximately 90,000,000 miles from the earth.

Mr. Cox said the solar wind will exert enough pressure on a communications satellite scheduled to be launched by the United States in four or five years so that allowance will have to be made for it.

Mr. Cox said allowance will also have to be made for the pressure of light, too small to measure until man began to put satellites into orbit.

Paul Tardif Continues Feud With Charlotte

OTTAWA (CP)— Controller Paul Tardif continued a feud with Mayor-elect Charlotte Whitton Wednesday by asserting that "controllers are elected to administer city business on all levels", and that he doesn't have to accept a particular job.

Mr. Tardif, who is also Liberal member of parliament for Russell, asserted Tuesday he wouldn't bow to Miss Whitton's wishes that he take on responsibility for the fire department, the public works, and help her with the Ottawa Transportation Commission.

"She's trying to destroy us politically," he said.

Miss Whitton said Mr. Tardif's case will be decided by council and that he will have to take the majority ruling.

But Mr. Tardif, who has reported for the waterworks department since 1949 insisted "there is nothing in the Ontario Municipal Act that makes portfolios to controllers. They are elected to handle the affairs of the city at large."

Thornhill Man Found Dead In His Car

PICTON — William Garrett Bryce, 62, of Thornhill Drive, Thornhill, was found dead in his car here yesterday afternoon, a Picton coroner's jury decided, of a rifle wound in his head.

Police had been scheduled to appear in magistrate's court here yesterday on a charge of impaired driving following a car collision last Friday.

Constable Ferguson discovered the body when he went to look at a car which had a damaged side and which had been parked at the rear of the liquor store on Main street west.

Coroner Dr. C. R. Richmond was called and Town Constable Ronald Roblin investigated. No one reported hearing a shot being fired.

Though a note was left by Oyer for his wife, no reason for the act was given.

Oyer leaves a wife and two children living at Thornhill.

"Lines on Life"

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Three there are who would fill well my understanding their overdone, frenetic need. The first of the three may be conveniently dubbed as Mr. Over — Aggressive. We find him everywhere we go. He's forever funding, feuding and fuming. His shirts are never laundered right; his coffee's never hot enough. He vows vengeance on the whole dry-cleaning industry and upon all of the world's poor and unsuspecting waiters. He makes the mistake of assuming that he has always made the single, supreme target of all assorted inadequacies. For, after all, the earth is his and the fullness thereof. His life is eloquent testimony to aggression which makes no attempt to control, subdue or sublimate. It has never learned to be still and contemplate, to think rather than grasp. He might live longer himself if he were willing to let others live longer.

Mr. Over-Competitive is our next victim of excess. Competition, of itself not bad, destroys our values or our hearts. If it is the total measure of our life's work, competition can spur us without injury. Success comes to those who learn how to work with people and not against them. But when we are consumed with a passion to win all the time, we must slowly go down the road to self-destruction. Jealousy and hate are the twin products of the resentment of others harbored by the over-competitive man. He believes that he can achieve victory only when the other fellow loses. But life is filled with victories and defeats, and defeats, and losses which may become gains. To return to cooperate with life's inexorable logic and not necessarily insist upon competing all the time, we have lost the race long before it begins.

The third victim of immaturity is Mr. Never-Grow-Up. He thinks that the only way to remain active is to be over-active. And so he is constantly running, proving himself, and impressing others with his strength and prowess. But to grow old is not a sin; it is an art. There comes a time in life when we need no longer behave like children in order to prove how youthful we are. One of the signs of immature youth is its consistent insistence upon action for action's sake. Maturity knows what not to do; it has already outgrown the stage of frantic doing and is quite prepared to let the more foolish burn out their physical machines in exciting but empty whirligigging.

Wise men remain active; they avoid being over-active, and thus frantic.

To those who would grow: Stop being over - aggressive, over-competitive, over-active. Overdoing makes you grow down, not up!

Device to Ease Woman's Labor Pains Developed

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadair Limited, which specializes in designing and building airplanes, said today it will continue its efforts to make it easier for women to have babies.

The Montreal company said it will continue development work on a device to ease a woman's labor pains and is considering putting the device into quantity production.

The first prototype of the device was put into use at St. Mary's Hospital here a few months ago. A second one, incorporating some changes recommended by doctors, now is being tried at the hospital.

The mechanism itself is a small decompression chamber which fits over the woman's abdomen and reduces the atmospheric pressure on the abdominal wall.

This makes it easier for the woman's muscles to relax and distend during the first stages of labor.

A doctors' report in this month's Canadian Medical Association Journal says the device can be evaluated only after a series of trials with proper controls and in statistically significant numbers.

The report says six of 16 first-time mothers who used the device at St. Mary's reported excellent relief from pain. Nine reported good relief and one none.

Of 15 mothers who had had children previously, seven said they got excellent relief, five good and three fair.

The weight of the mechanism is born on a backboard, so there is no weight on the mother. It can be put into place or removed quickly, Canadair said, with no inconvenience to the mother.

The woman can control the amount of vacuum within the chamber by a push button device.

The device is based on a principle first used in South Africa.

Lower Heels on Shoes Now in Highest Fashion

By PEGGY MASSEY

PARIS (Reuters)—Paris stiletto heels for winter have influenced the style and shape of new accessories. Handbags and shoes, designed with harmonious, rounded lines, are in tune with the fluid dress lines.

The latest handbags are supple, oversize models, with curved contours and rounded corners replacing stark, angular shapes.

The prettiest new flower-shaped purse is the idea that it is smart to be portable. Oval lines take priority over the pinched and pointed arrowhead court shoes of recent seasons. Low heels now are in highest fashion—enabling women to rediscover the long lost pleasure of walking with a graceful glide.

Feraud, a leading Paris handbag specialist, insists that his clientele relate the shape of their handbag to the particular style of a dress.

"The handbag completes the picture of a woman dressed with good taste," he declares, explaining that a dress with a marked waistline and wide skirt calls for a handbag with modified horse-shoe shape, reiterating the line of stylish heels. On the other hand, horizontally - curved or cradle-shaped bags are needed to strike the contrast in tall, unbroken sheath silhouettes.

SQUARE IS OUT

Whatever the basic shape a handbag may have this season, the new trend is towards rounded lines, outmoding the envelope and square bags styles recently in favor. Pierre Cardin features a special collection of large bags in supple pouch and satchel shapes.

Footwear suddenly re-emerges for the first time in more than five years as something comfortable to walk in, rather than a physically painful but mandatory fashion style. Designers have raised the curtain on a new shoe look which is pretty as well as practical.

Over - all, shoe lines remain long; slender and patrician. News is in the low heels, instead of needle-like spikes which are reserved only for the most formal occasions. The simultaneous revival of the gracefully-rounded toe likewise spells comfort.

RETIRES AFTER LONG SERVICE — Ellen (Ellie) McLoughlin, retiring from the staff of Canada House in London, looks over some of the hundreds of Christmas cards she receives each year from friends. A native of Scotland, she has worked for Canada House continuously for 43 years. She became social secretary after the Second World War. (CP Photo).

'Miss Mac of Canada House' Has Retired After 43 Years

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—After 43 years, "Miss Mac of Canada House" has retired. Many Canadians will miss her.

Miss Mac — real name Ellen (Ellie) McLoughlin—has served Canada in London continuously since 1917, a record nobody still at Canada House can match.

Slender, attractive, this capable, straightforward woman signed her last letter as social secretary without looking for a quiet retreat on the Sussex coast. "Sometimes I can really relax."

Born a "farmer's daughter" in Ireland's County Sligo around the beginning of the century, she arrived in London one Sunday afternoon in 1917, heard there was a job going with the Canadian government and started work on Tuesday.

From that beginning as a shy girl of 17, she watched Canada's growth from government offices first in Victoria and then in the big building on Trafalgar Square. Present site of Canada House. She served as secretary to such eminent Canadians as Sir George Perley, Peter Larkin, Howard Ferguson, Vincent Massey, Norman Robertson, Dana Wilgress and the present high commissioner, George Drew.

FITTED NEW POST

When the post of social secretary was created after the Second World War to cope with the increasing number of Canadian visitors, Miss Mac fitted naturally into the new groove.

Over the years, handling countless requests for admission to more Canadian friends than most Canadians have. She receives in December, 1956, hundreds of Christmas cards every year and many people write to her personally.

What is her toughest assignment? That's easy — Trooping The Color. Few tickets are available, no matter how much fuss you have, and Canada House usually has to resort to a ballot system to decide who will be privileged to attend the annual event on the Horse Guards parade ground in Whitehall.

"Things have changed a lot since my young days," she recalled. "Visitors used to ring up and you knew where to get in touch with them. Now they hop around so much."

CORONATION BUSY

Sometimes she got letters from people saying they were going to be in London for "so many hours" and what could Miss Mac do for them?

Probably her busiest time was before the 1953 Coronation when 6,000 people passed through the office.

"I'll miss the job and the people, of course. After 43 years, that's only natural. But it will be nice to have a private life of one's own for a change. I'll have a lot more leisure, and I'll be able to do some gardening."

That will be a change from the Whitehall scene where an aged beard was "bang-bang-bang," matched a couple of hours sleep and then hurried back to work.

"There were only two lines to my job—the writing and the all-clear."

Miss Mac is handing over to Mrs. Jean Hatton, widow of Matthew Hatton, Canadian newspaperman and radio commentator who died in 1956.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counsellors and social workers

Mrs. T. C. — My child is a nervous wreck from the way Queenie teases her at school.

Queenie H. — Hazel is just a cry-baby and a rotten sport. She can't take a joke.

Mrs. T. C. — My daughter, Hazel, is 12 years old and in the seventh grade. She's high-strung by nature, but in addition she's been terribly upset by the death of her grandfather who lived with us since she was a baby. So what Queenie and the other girls do to her at school is the last straw. She's at home now with a fever, and tell me she can't bear to return to school.

I discussed this with the guidance teacher. I'd like to know why Queenie picks on Hazel. For example, yesterday Hazel brought a new red-leather pocketbook to school. It had been a birthday gift from her grandfather. While she was showing it to somebody Queenie and her gang grabbed it and began to play ball with it.

Queenie H. — Hazel asks for it. She either snubs the rest of us, or she's a cry-baby and won't even say hello, or else she runs off.

Ask the other kids. I'm not the only one who tries to get a rise out of her. Why pick on me? She's not friendly to anyone unless you try to talk about the present her clothes or her hair. Once we asked her to turn one end of a jump rope and she said no, she wanted to read. So we never ask her now.

About her pocketbook, it was just dirty. We weren't going to hurt it. But she screamed and got hysterical. She has no sense of humor. She takes everything so seriously. She's just a wet blanket.

The Council — Teasing is one way fun and, as such, is salutary. Real fun is two-way. As it is, teasing is a byproduct of unsupervised play, which this case exposes Hazel's hypersensitivity pass.

Mrs. C. is right in bringing this uneven battle to the fore. Both are nearly teased and both are revealed as having personality problems which may be dealt with in the protective environment of school and home. Hazel's withdrawal tendencies and social awkwardness makes her a "sitting duck" for Queenie who must bully away her own hurts on others. Each can surely be helped in the guidance classes.

But the cruelty of teasing can stand special emphasis. Queenie might be sobered by the tale of Kurt, a 13-year-old refugee from Germany, attending a public school in New York. Victim of considerable suffering, the boy developed enuresis (bed-wetting) and was extremely self-conscious about it. Above all, he didn't want the classmates or friends to know of this.

One day the teacher left the class in charge of two monitors, a boy and a girl. Kurt overheard them checking off each pupil with the words: "He does it. . . he doesn't." When he asked one of them what they meant, the answer was: "Listen for us to know and you to find out," a mysterious challenge.

Kurt was sure they referred to his weakness and, at home that night, he hung him-self. He was rescued in time. Afterwards, he asked her if children were merely checking the wet pyjamas.

Much damage can result from piling torment on one who may misbehave. He can be goaded by slings and arrow which don't even hurt.

Queenie and Hazel are assuredly still normal kids. Mrs. C. has called attention to each girl's trends. In so doing she is helping to nip behavior which, if carried to excess, would lead to warped adulthood.

Baptismal Rite Observed At Centenary

A baptismal rite was observed on Christmas Sunday at Centenary United Church, when the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Tomalty of Belleville, R.R. 2, was christened by the Rev. T. F. Townsend, assistant pastor of Holloway Street United Church when she received the name of "Marlene Pearl."

The godparents were Mr. and Mrs. (Clarence (Pearl) Holmes, close friends of the parents.

Following the service, a dinner party for the immediate family was held at the home of the baby's parents. The highlight of the dinner was the cutting of the christening cake by the baby's godmother, Mrs. Holmes.

WEDDING GIFT

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Margaret Johnson thought of an unusual wedding present for a girl in England she had been writing to for 10 years. The 20-year-old put in a transatlantic telephone call to her 19-year-old pen pal, Margaret Weston and the two heard each others voices for the first time.

VALUABLE GOWN

MONTREAL (CP)—A 300-year-old gown that belonged to Princess Isabella of Hungary was shown, in a fashion evening organized by the Hungarian Student Association at the University of Montreal. Valued at $30,000, the gown is embroidered in pearls and diamonds.

Flight To Washington For Food Symposium

By Mary Moore

The TCA flight leaving Toronto for New York at 8:35 a.m. seemed more like a commuters' trip than a 500-mile flight. There were two women and seven gengers aboard. All the rest were sharply dressed and presented Canadian (I think) businessmen — and everybody was reading a fresh copy of "Canada's morning newspaper".

A cup of delicious coffee with biscuit was ever so welcome. Then the pretty blonde stewardess brought me a little white pillow and I let my seat drop back and promptly went to sleep. I awakened to hear the speaker telling me to fasten my seat belt as we were coming into Idlewyld Airport.

I was on my way to Washington to attend a symposium entitled: Food: Today and Tomorrow at the Statler-Hilton Hotel. The Food Protection Committee of the National Academy of Sciences — National Research Council arranged the symposium. The major purpose was to make available to the public useful information on the conditions of processing, including those of chemistry, to the protection and maintenance of the world's food supply.

Dr. D. W. Brook, President of National Academy of Sciences — National Research Council was the chairman.

I will give you an idea of the calibre of some of the nine speakers and their subjects in the near future.

Washington was beginning to be en fete for the Inaugural in January . . . of President-Elect Kennedy. Huge stands were being erected in front of the White House. Believe it or not beds of victory plants were set out in the parks. I am worried about them for four days later Washington had a phenomenal foot of snow and traffic and business was at a standstill. They have no snow removal equipment. Washington was compared by a radio commentator to a quiet Toronto on a Sunday.

So now I have to digest what I heard at the symposium and will get it on to you in fast instalments soon.

Dinner Menus

THURSDAY

Turkey Bona Soup (see Tuesday); Macaroni and Cheese; Cabbage and Pineapple Slaw; Baked Apples with Pouring Cream; Coffee.

SUNDAY (New Years)

Shrimp or Lobster Cocktail; Pimento Cheese Canapes; Fresh Frozen Limas in Sour Cream Sauce (see Wednesday); Spiced-Sirloin Beets with Fresh Frozen Orange Juice Concentrate; Vanilla Ice Cream; Finely Chopped Endive, Finely Chopped Cauliflower-ette, Sliced Olives, Sliced Italian Onion Rings, Pink French Dressing with suggestion of garlic; Hot Mince Pie with Hard Sauce and Whipped Cream; Coffee.

When we were aloft the stewardesses asked us if we would like a beverage. I said I would like tea — in a pot! She laughed and said so did all of the passengers within earshot — for I got a tea bag in a cup full of hot water. Whatever would Queen Victoria have thought of that for expediency!

Well, TCA is the service that knows that Canadians want tea from a tea pot — and from a tea pot we got it — steeped just right and boiling hot.

MODERN MANNERS

QUESTION BOX

Question: Let's make it two! I receive them from ladies who can't decide what to do in these circumstances. The questions are: "When should a hat be worn?" and "When should gloves be taken off and when kept on?" Suppose we review these problems.

Answer: Recently I received a very nice letter from an official of the Millinery Institute of America, in which he thanked me for my comments relative to the wearing of hats. He admitted that naturally he was prejudice, but he does have a very good ideas. He made one remark that interested me. He said:

"The women who balk at wearing hats would have a fit if they made it a habit or not wearing a hat!" This hasn't occurred to me as being for many years. A woman's ensemble is really is never complete during the daylight hours unless she compliments it with a hat — and more than a man is well dressed unless he wears a tie (except for sportswear). I am certainly not prejudiced either way, but I believe that in order to have that chic, well dressed look, a hat should be worn. But you hate to wear them, you say? Frankly, so do I! However, I wear them because I want to look my best. What about you?

There is quite a controversy going on about the wearing of gloves. Until recent years, a lady ever removed them when greeting someone on the street, or when going through a receiving line. Today, some say take them off, other, leave them on! Personally, I feel that whether or not you remove your gloves is really not a matter of essential courtesy today. I think it is up to the individual to do as she wishes.

What do I do about wearing gloves? When meeting an acquaintance on the street, I usually take off my right glove, but to do so would be a rather silly affectation! When going through a receiving line at a party, I always take off my right-hand glove, simply because I feel that it is more gracious to offer an ungloved hand in greeting. However, in the case of two bare gloves on, it is perfectly proper. Both are in order, and there is no definite ideas on the subject. So as your hostess does. For example, at a recent White House reception that I attended, Mrs. Eisenhower was not wearing gloves, and many of the Texas women were also bare. I noticed this. Actually, a hostess is very sensible if she doesn't encase her hands in gloves when she expects to shake perhaps two or three hundred hands in an afternoon! I have known of many cases where bad-blisters were the result of rubbing gloved hands together in our normal expression of greeting.

One thing I am adamant about! Regardless of whether you keep your gloves on, or take them off, at a party, always take both of them off when eating or drinking. Nothing is more unsightly, to my way of thinking, than a wet glass, or gooey sandwich, being held between gloves!

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

- By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Records or no records, statistics or otherwise, the question upon which the greatest hockey players of them all will never be settled satisfactorily.

Around the cracker-barrels, the living room TV sets, in conference and convention, and wherever sportsmen gather, the question usually comes up.

Down in this neck of the woods, opinions in the main, are divided between Rocket Richard and Gordie Howe. Other names have honorable mention.

Some of the patriarchs of sport will wrinkle brows momentarily and come up with the name "Howie Morenz." The boardless "scapers" will likewise wrinkle brows and ask "Who is Morenz?"

That venerable old gossoon, Chick Apsit of Stratford, the sports editor of the Beacon-Herald of the festival city, has written a splendid article on the subject and comes out flatfooted with the statement that Morenz was the greatest of them all.

As one of that era, we saw the "Stratford Flash" as he was called, play on not a few occasions. He was a comet on skates. He was at full speed after two or three strides. He could wheel and streak back while you were holding your breath. Truly he was the fastest, most colorful player of his day.

He was a deadly shot and could get it away in a flash. As Appel writes: —"Were Morenz playing at his peak today, the forward pass was introduced he would have filled the net with goals."

But let Appel tell it:

"Morenz was the leading points scorer of the NHL for the 1927-28 and 1928-29 seasons, sticking 31 points each season. He was chosen the most valuable player in 1924, 1925 and 1927, and named to the all-star team in 30-31 and 31-32.

"He played in his home town of Mitchell and Stratford before he signed a pro contract with the Montreal Canadiens.

"Never did he hold back," writes Appel, "and it was his dashing breakneck speed, his reckless end-to-end rushes and his ability to wheel and overtake rival puckcarriers that made him the darling of Montreal. Morenz was of German descent, but those wild French-Canadian fans chose to ignore that fact as they did in the case of another great Canadien, Aurel Joliat, who was of Swiss extraction.

"Many men held places of their own, places gained in the fire of greatness but it is Morenz that the French Canadiens of those days remember best of all.

"For eleven glorious nights he made brilliant history with the Flying Frenchmen. Then World War One plunged into darkness. Morenz was traded to Chicago. After a season there he went to the Rangers, but when the Canadiens came under new management, Morenz was back. He was his old self, in the midst of a great comeback when on the night of January 28, 1937, his own relentless force caught up with him.

"Playing against the Black Hawks, he was crashed into the boards and as Montreal fans held bated breaths, was carried off the ice. He suffered a broken leg and ankle—four clean breaks in the leg bone.

"More than five weeks later, Morenz got out of bed late at night and fell to the floor. An embolism had stopped his heart and he died instantly. This was March 8, 1937.

"There are stories of Morenz' great speed, stickhandling, courage and defensive ability," writes Appel. "He earned the respect of his foes, the admiration of his team-mates, and the praise of thousands of listeners and supporters. He wrote his name in blazing letters through the years and he earned the supreme tribute, he never quit.

"Whether you agree with the writer or not," says Chick, "you must admit if Howie Morenz was not the greatest hockey player of all time, he'll stand any comparison. He was by far greater than Ty Cobb was to baseball, Big Bill Tilden to tennis, Jim Thorpe to football and Jack Dempsey to boxing. He was probably the reason why Montreal Canadiens came to be known as the Fabulous Frenchmen, and why he was rated as the greatest of them all."

Western Hockey

VICTORIA (CP) — Calgary linemates Lou Jankowski and Ron Leopold are steadily pulling away from the field in what for weeks has been their private fight for the Western Hockey League scoring championship.

As the seasonmeters the halfway mark they still are tied for the lead with 49 points, 11 ahead of Seattle's Rudy Pilous. Jankowski leads the league in goals with 27 and Leopold, with 25, is the only other player with more than 20 goals.

Seattle's Marc Boileau is third with 36 points, one ahead of linemate Gayle Fleisher who has 35 points and leads the league with 27.

Vancouver's Claude Evans, who has the league high of three shutouts, leads in goalling averages.

Canada's first transcontinental train left Montreal June 28, 1886, and reached the Pacific coast 5½ days later.

Habs Clobber Toronto 4-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Detroit Red Wings are winning National Hockey League games the hard way.

The Wings are in third place in the league standings and if there is an outstanding reason for them being that high, it must be those stirring third - period comebacks.

They trailed 3-1 with less than seven minutes left in New York Wednesday night when Murray Oliver, Howie Glover, and Norm Ullman scored goals within 41 seconds to turn what appeared to be a sure defeat into a 4-3 victory.

The triumph duplicated a similar effort Nov. 30, also against the Rangers in New York.

Montreal Canadiens turned back the Maple Leafs 4-1 at Toronto to increase their lead over the Leafs to eight of the league standings to seven points.

GAVE HABS A WIN

At Chicago, Ken Wharram scored the tying goal in the second period and then netted another in the third to give the Black Hawks a 4-3 victory over the cellar - dwelling Boston Bruins.

Canadiens, who have won 12 of their last 14 games with Charlie Hodge in the nets, have collected 41 points while Toronto, losing its first game in eight starts, has 41.

Detroit has 35 points, Chicago 34, New York 25 and Boston 22.

The Rangers scored a goal in each of the two periods Wednesday night before Detroit exploded in the 11th and 16th minutes of the final frame.

Oliver got his goal at 13:46 on a pass from Gordie Howe and Parker Macdonald. Glover scored 12 seconds later and Ullman got the winning goal at 14:21 after stealing the puck from Rangers' Andy Bathgate.

TALLIED FOR N.Y.

Earl Ingarfield, Bathgate and rookie Danny Belisle tallied for New York while Gerry Melnyk got Detroit's other goal.

The Canadiens stopped Frank Mahovolich's consecutive scoring streak at seven in winning in Toronto. Mahovolich, who leads the league with 31 goals, had scored 19 times in his last seven games.

He was kept in check throughout most of the game, getting only four or five shots on goal. Only one of the shots were dangerous.

Billy Hicke, Jean-Guy Gendron, Bernie Geoffrion and Ralph Backstrom scored for Canadiens while Eddie Shack counted for the Leafs, Geoffrion's goal was his 20th of the season.

The Boomer also had one assist to increase his lead over teammate Dickie Moore to nine points at the top of the league scoring race. Moore had one assist during the game.

Hodge, who has played well since replacing Jacques Plante in the nets Nov. 24, made 28 saves before the game, four more than Johnny Bower of the Leafs.

Wharram's first goal came at 9:31 of the first period when he lifted a shot over goalie Bruce Gamble, in the Boston nets, to the game at 3-3.

He lipped in a long pass from defenceman Pollard St. Laurent for the winner after only 18 seconds of the third period.

Elmer Vasko and Stan Mikita put the Hawks in front 2-1 in the first period but goals by Andre Pronovost and Orval Tessier gave the Hawks a 3-2 margin early in the second period.

Don McKenney scored the Bruins' other goal, his 14th of the season.

Only one game is scheduled tonight with the Red Wings playing the Canadiens at Montreal.

Hockey Hints

By Lloyd Percival

"THE COACHES' DREAM"

When a hockey coach goes to bed rarely dreams of the same things most coaches dream.

While the average person dreams of making a million dollars or being made president of the firm, the coach usually dreams of the perfect player who does everything right mechanically and has an attitude. Though such athletes are rare, they can be seen playing in Toronto Maple Leafs comes as close to this standard as any player in the N.H.L.

Because "Red" Kelly is a dream player he is one of the few young player should watch carefully. He's careful with the puck, carefully and was always ready to take instructions. Now, he has helped make the team into a unit and in his smooth efficient way has become one of the best centres in the league.

One of the chief lessons you can learn from "Red" is the importance of having the right attitude toward your job. It is a lack of good attitude that makes the average player so lax in defensive play — the base of every coach's life. Most players find it easier to do an offensive job because this is glamorous and fans notice it. But few give as hard a "try" to their defensive chores because this is where the game rarely makes headlines. It is tough to be perfect, to dig and dig some more, to miss a check back to another try. But this is how to become a coach's dream, a player welcome on any team. For more hints send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10c, to Lloyd Percival, St. W., Toronto for my bulletin, "Kelly The Coaches' Dream".

Mr. Moore Doesn't Like Mr. Johanson

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Archie Moore, the unfrocked light-heavyweight champion, says Ingemar Johansson can't spell fight a lick and probably will be striking out every time he gets into the ring again with heavyweight champ Floyd Patterson.

Nevertheless, Moore says, Johansson is about at least start talking a good fight for him to step up the gate for his third title fight with Patterson in Miami in March.

"After getting this individual," Moore said, "I have come to fear no one in the ring. Ordinarily, I only fear for gates in which I am participating. But, from just a cursory look at Johansson, he reminds me because he reminds me because he is a most unsatisfactory."

Heralded that Johansson that was knocked cold by Patterson their last time out, Archie said: "All I can say about him is he should come back talking."

Moore explained:

"It doesn't matter, Archie Moore's ears can say he slipped on a banana peel just before the bell he says something."

Moore's stripped of his title by the National Boxing Association for failure to defend, says he'd like to meet Gullo Marciano in Italy in a title match. Rinaldi is currently under a decision over Archie in Rome.

"I didn't call my boss," Moore said, "it only appeared that way to the judges. I didn't protest the decision because I was a guest in their country. And, besides, I hadn't been paid yet."

Says Team Can Win

Trail Coach Irked But Confident

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Playing coach Bobby Kromm of the Western International Hockey League Trail Smoke Eaters is irked.

The source of his irritation: Gloom pronouncements from Eastern Canada on the prospects of his Smoke Eaters in the 1961 world hockey championship in Switzerland.

In a telephone interview from Trail, B.C., the pepper-pot Smoke Eaters' coach refuted eastern hockey officials for "pressing the panic button" because Chatham Maroons could win but one game and tie another in a seven-game exhibition series.

Starting November and December, the Maroons defeated Trail in the 1960 Allan Cup final last year. The addition of seven to five good ex-pros or amateurs will give the best possible amateur club Canada could send."

'WE'RE HUNGRY'...

"We're a hungry club. We have a lot of desire. We know that speed and conditioning are key factors in international competition and we have both.

"We would like to catch Chatham before we leave Jan. 28. The Chatham team that went to Russia last year was strong but was the one that beat us last year.

"We have a defence corps [who did a lot to cause our downfall], (goalie) Cesare Maniago (defenceman) Conner Leyte and (forward) Gary Sharp.

"And in that series we weren't at our best form. Still all the games could have gone either way. I feel we are 40-per-cent better this year.

"We still understand we have to strengthen and are doing so. But it irks me to have Chatham and eastern scribes telling western clubs what they should do. They must remember the West has never lost in world competition other countries? Do we always have to win."

The Smoke Eaters' style of play is better suited to European competition than that of Chatham, says Kromm.

"Bodychecking is a small part of our game. We depend upon speed, passing, conditioning and desire. We have a lot of youth and we'll be ready to play 60 minutes in every game."

Kromm will select his touring team from 20 players with the club in early January. He will carry two goalies, five defencemen and 10 forwards.

So far, three outside players have accepted invitations to join Trail. They are speedy Walt Peacosh of the Kimberley Junior Combines, who is second in the Okanagan Leagues individual scoring race; veteran Jackie Wood, 6 - foot - 4 Western League star re - instated this week and Darryl Sly-from Galt of the Ontario Hockey Association senior series, a player Kromm says stood out for Kitchener-Waterloo in the 1960 Olympic championships at Squaw Valley, Calif.

Trail has won 21 of the 33 WIHL starts this year and has scored its opposition 156-74. Both losses came when Trail was shorthanded because of a string of injuries early this month.

Macs Shade Kingston 5-4

By GARRY ALEXANDER

By virtue of a one-goal margin in Kingston Community Centre, last night to pull into a tie with Belleville for second place in the OHA Eastern Junior "B" circuit.

The clubs fought to a 1-1 deadlock in the second period. Macs was still tied 2-2 at the end of the second period. The Macs scored a couple of quickies early in the third but had to fight hard to pull out the win.

Belleville was behind only once in the game, 1-0 in the first few minutes, as they found the Frontenacs by a wide margin but tired badly with only degree of regularity around the end. Macs leaped the slipping Frontenacs 35-28.

Mike Hunter was the only two point man for the Macs, getting a pair of goals. The other markers went to Jim Gordon, Roger Smith and Gary Hull, the latter's on a penalty shot. Gordon, Don Forsythe, Pug Kellar, Don Nelson, Larry Mavety and Billy McGuire had assist apiece.

Bud Aylesworth had a goal and assists apiece for Kingston Corbet Ball, Roger Shea and Fred Lamon each scoring. Bob Howland, Dennis O'Donnell and Jack Jarvis had single assists.

Referees "Whitey" Walton and Art Casterton handed out 12 minor penalties during the tilt with both teams scoring two apiece enjoying a manpower advantage. Belleville drew seven of the 12 sentences.

Hunter opened the scoring at 4.20 when he put a rebound of a puck in front and beat goalie Wes Cain with a shot. The Macs had a wide edge in the play during the remainder of the period, Hunter, Gordy and Smith all hitting the posts, but Ball tied it at 19.40 with a drive over Monroe's shoulder.

Aylesworth circled the net and scored on the inside for Kingston's only lead, at 3.33 of the second. Assistant were scored through 4 defenders only to be beaten by Cain while Shea was off, but missed with the open net. Cain made a lucky box. Either got in close and Hunter scored on a backhander.

Belleville held without trouble until the two men shoot loose in the frame and posted goals by Hunter, while Howland and Jim Donaldson of Smith set 1.10 and 2.15 of the third. Kingston scored 3-3 at 5.40 with both Assetaine and Mavety to the sin-bin.

Gary Hull tipped home Mavety's blueline shot at 11.46 and Gordon headed the scoring at 13.14 with Assetaine off. The Frontenacs missed two other great chances on Mavety's breakaway when he missed the open net and then when Cain made right in only to be beaten by Monroe's key save.

Cain was lifted for an extra attacker after Howland's penalty in the final minute but Hunter missed an open net as the clock ran out.

Warren Richardson suffered a shoulder injury when checked into the boards by Gary Hull in the first period. He did not return to action.

Steve Owen Named Coach Sasky Riders

REGINA (CP) — Steve Owen, 62, who formed a one-man rescue squad for Toronto Argonauts and Calgary Stampeders, today was named head coach of Saskatchewan Roughriders for the 1961 Western Interprovincial Football Union season.

Owen, who spent 29 years as a coach and coach-at-with the New York Giants of the National League, came to Canada in 1957 as defensive co-ordinator for Calgary. The Big Four club released head coach Hampton Pool in the middle of the 1958 season, Owen took over for the rest of the season.

In 1960, he was retained by Argos as a scout, when Lou Rymkus took over as head coach. Midway through last season, Calgary Stampeders head coach Otis Douglas resigned and Stampeders brought in Owen to finish out the season.

Czech Juniors Play Tie With Maroons

VIENNA (AP)—Winnipeg Maroons had to settle for a tie Wednesday—the first in their current exhibition hockey tour of Czechoslovakia—as they battled to a 4-4 draw with Czech national junior team at Ostrava.

The clubs were neck-and-neck throughout the game. They ended each period deadlocked—1-1 at the close of the first, 3-3 after the second and 4-4 at the end of regulation time.

The split game gave Winnipeg a record of five wins, one tie and one loss so far in the tour.

Prague Radio singled out Fred Commerford, six-foot, one-inch Maroons centre and high man for the Canadians with two goals, for special mention. Reggie Abbott and Doug Munro scored the other Canadian goals.

Prague Radio praised the play of the Canadian team as a whole and also gave special mention to Murray Balfour, Lloyd Orris and playing-coach Jack Bionda.

The home team, the agesky said, lacked good teamwork.

The radio agency said the clubs played rough hockey in the opening period—the referee handing seven penalties, four to the Canadians—but settled down after that to good hockey.

Lions Will Bid High For Players

VANCOUVER (CP)— British Columbia Lions served notice Wednesday that they will spend the fattest wallet in Canadian football to compete with players against the United States football leagues.

Club president Ralph Henderson said some players drafted by National Football League clubs in Philadelphia Tuesday were high in Lions' plans for the 1961 Western Interprovincial Football Union season.

"It hurts us a little bit to see some of the boys we wanted claimed in the early rounds by the NFL," Henderson said.

"But what it really means is that we'll have to bid higher. The fact that the NFL had drafted them doesn't mean they are lost to us, or that we'll give up trying to get them."

PRICE GOES UP

Two years ago Lions snapped up Randy Duncan, first draft choice of Green Bay Packers. The higher the player is on a draft the higher price tag on him.

Henderson said the Lions "really want" Bill Brown, Illinois fullback - linebacker picked in the second round by Chicago Bears.

Other players B.C. covets are Illinois tackle Joe Rutgens and Wake Forest's Norm Snead. A Lions coach Wayne Robinson was to scout Rutgens this week during the last end-of-season game in San Francisco.

Better news for B.C. was the fact that Bob Schloredt, All-American quarterback at the University of Washington, was not picked up in the first nine rounds.

Lions also want Big Tom Brown, everybody's All - American guard from Minnesota, who was claimed by Baltimore Colts last year when he was a junior.

Darrel Sly Joins Smokies

GALT (CP) — Darryl Sly of all-Terriers leaves for Trail, B.C., Thursday to join the world tournament-bound Smokies.

Sly picked up 13 points, including five goals, in 11 games for the Terriers at the OHA senior hockey series. He'll be available to Galt for playoff action should the club qualify. But Galt will not be permitted a replacement in the meantime.

Smoke Eaters are strengthening with members of the other senior clubs and ex-pros for the world tournament in Switzerland March 2-12.

Will Jump Contract If Offered More

VANCOUVER (CP) — Willie Fleming said Wednesday he would consider jumping his three-year contract with British Columbia Lions for three years' Interprovincial Football Union for a United States club offered him more money.

Fleming's comment came after Philadelphia Eagles listed him as their 14th round choice in the National Football League player draft.

"The fact that I have signed a three-year contract with the Lions does not necessarily mean I will be here for the next three years," Fleming said.

"I understand the agreement between the American Football League and the NFL is only a spoken agreement."

Fleming signed his big contract with Lions Nov. 29. It came after the halfback had finished the most sensational season any Lions player ever had. He was the league's outstanding player but still scored 100 points, second best in the West.

Says Italians Disappointed Tennis Fans

SYDNEY (AP)—Drift the Italian Davis Cup players give their all in bowing 4-1 to Australia during the challenge round for the international tennis trophy?

The matches ended Wednesday with Australia's Rod Laver cutting down the towering Orlando Sirola, straight sets 6-4, 6-3 and 6-3 and Nicola Pietrangeli gaining the lone Italian triumph over Roy Emerson, 6-4, 6-4.

Many experts say the Italians, who reached a dramatic comeback to eliminate the United States in the challenge round, didn't exert themselves against the Australians. But their captain Mario Belardinelli, Nanie Concepelle, said the Italians' seemingly lackluster approach to the Australians was only temperamental temperament.

Ted Schroeder, former U.S. Davis Cup player, writing in the Sydney Sun, Wednesday said:

"The Italians Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola have shown such marked disinterest in the outcome of these contests that I feel the sporting public has been short-changed."

ITALY'S VIEW

Bill Talbert, former U.S. Davis Cup captain, writing in The Daily Telegraph, said:

"Their lack of effort, and emphasize the word effort, has gone on unabated throughout this tie.

"The only time they showed any spirit is the second set of the doubles when they came back from trailing four-five to take the set."

Panco Gonzales, the pro tennis king, said he felt the hot weather may have affected the Italians.

Scores 1,000 Points In U.S. Hockey

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)— Every time captain Don Hall scores a goal or assist for Johnstown Jets of the Eastern Hockey League, the U.S. Amateur Hockey Association has to change its record books.

Playing his 11th season of senior hockey, Hall became the first player in Eastern League, U.S. hockey to score 1,000 points last Monday night when he scored the winning goal against New York.

The 39-year-old Hall was born in Toronto and worked his way through peewee, bantam and junior classifications, playing with Oshawa Generals in the Ontario Hockey Association junior league. Then he played three seasons with Toronto Marlies in International Hockey League. He is in his 10th season with the Jets.

In the off season, Hall is a truck broker in Johnstown. He married a Johnstown girl, is the father of three children and says he is satisfied to wind up his career in Johnstown.

HAS 981 POINTS

Hall started the 1960-61 season with a career total of 961 points all but one of them piled up while wearing a Johnstown uniform.

A 20-goal year, considered by most in hockey as a good season, has been Hall's worst. Only twice in his career has he scored less than 30 goals. And usually he has 40 or more assists.

He was a defenceman in minor hockey but how has settled down as a left wing.

His only appearance in a professional game was last season when he was called up by Rochester of the American League while they were shorthanded.

CANADA DEFEATED

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (CP)— Brian Flood and Peter Wright of London, Ont., representing Canada, were eliminated by Spain in the first round of the Orange Cup international junior tennis tournament Wednesday. In singles, Juan Gilbert, defeated Flood 7-5, 6-1, and Alberto Espinga dispposed of Wright 6-4, 6-0. In the doubles, the Spaniards won 6-2, 6-2.

Sonny Liston Named Next To Patterson

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, the first man to win back the big crown, today was named "fighter of the year" by Ring Magazine which also picked light heavyweight Guillo Rinaldi of Italy as the winner of its Progress Award.

Patterson, previously, had been named the winner of the 22-word Joe Bell Memorial Cup as "fighter of the year" by the Boxing Writers Association. The 25-year-old New Yorker, who is supposed to box Ingemar Johansson in a third match March 13 at Miami Beach, lost his title to Sonny Liston in 1959 and won it back by a knockout last June.

Rating the boxers for their accomplishments in 1960, Ring listed heavyweight Sonny Liston, the No. 1 contender, as the runnerup to Patterson in the yearly ranking.

Rinaldi's victory over light heavy champ Archie Moore is a non-title bout clinched the Progress Award for the 25-year-old Italian veteran of 111 of his 1960 fights and rocketed to the No. 2 place in the 175 - pound rankings.

Also cited for his progress was heavyweight Robert Cleroux of Montreal.

Ottawa 'Heavenly' City?

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Ottawa is noteless in Europe and this year beat great shucks as a sports centre with pro football in big stature action, but it is fast becoming a home for outstanding Canadian athletes. Here are a few: Barbara Ann Scott, Anne Heggtveit, Russ Jackson and now Ron Stewart, the country's out-standing male athlete of 1960.

Stewart, a five-foot-six-inch 170-pound backfielder and a native of Toronto, ran away with the CP poll just as he scored among the leaders in the Big Four. The selectors were asked to name the three individual performers among men, in order of preference, and he was first choice on 36 of the 114 ballots returned. Voters were computed on a 3-2-1 basis and he received 24 second choice votes and 12 for third place for a 90-point-total. The others weren't close.

Rod Gilbert Tops Juniors Score Race

TORONTO (CP) — The flying Frenchmen from Guelph — Rod Gilbert and Jean Ratelle—have captured the top two scoring positions in the Ontario Hockey Association junior A race — the same positions they held a year ago.

Official statistics released Wednesday which include Tuesday night's game show Gilbert, a carry right-winger, has scored a pace-setting 28 goals and 24 assists in 22 games for a league-leading 52 points.

His teammates, centres Ratelle and Bob Cunningham, share second place with identical records of 14 goals and 27 assists each for 41 points.

Peterborough Petes' Duffy Sentenne is fourth spot with 12 goals and 21 assists for 40 points, two more than Murray Hall of St. Catharines Teepees. Peterborough captain Wayne Roddy, returning to action after missing three games, is in sixth place with 35 points.

Niagara Falls Flyers' goalkeeper Wayne Rutledge continued his mastery over the league's eager forwards, allowing only 59 goals in 24 games for a league-leading 2.58 goals - a-game average.

American League

Names All-Star Squads

NEW YORK (CP)—Names fashioned to Canadian football fame were sprinkled through the list Wednesday when the 23 American Football League all - star teams were announced.

The offensive and defensive teams—plus a list of honorable mentions were picked for The Associated Press by a panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

The league, which hit the No. 1 all-star spot was Jack Kemp of Los Angeles Chargers, one of four men the California team placed on the 22-man first-string squads.

Kemp was with Calgary Stampeders in 1957 and for about seven weeks, played in a couple of exhibition games, was let go. He was named quarterback on the all-star AFL squad.

It will be largely on Kemp's throwing arm that Chargers will pin their hopes for the championship Sunday when they meet the Oilers for the AFL title.

End Art Powell of New York, one with Toronto Argonauts and Montreal Alouettes, made the first - string offensive squad but the others all from the United States mention list:

Quarterback Al Dorow, one of the B.C. Lions; Saskatchewan Roughriders and Toronto Argonauts, now with New York.

Halfbacks Abner Haynes, Dallas; Dave Kocourek, Oakland.

Fullback Billy Cannon, Houston.

Ends Bill Groman, Houston; Bill Miller, Buffalo; Bob Mischak, New York. Centre: Jim Otis, Houston. Guards: Jon Gilliam, Houston; Gustave Sucich, Dallas; Bob Mischak, New York. Centre: Jim Otis, Houston. Guards: Jon Gilliam, Houston; Gustave Sucich, Dallas; Bob Mischak, New York. Centre: Jim Otis, Houston. Tackles: Ernie Ladd, Houston; Ed Husmann, Oakland.

Canadian pro football clubs who shoot the works in August and September in one great spending spree and squander the kitty is nearly empty in December, say the wall facts fit. Their hired hands are getting restless about their Grey Cup payoff.

"It's a crying shame," exploded a player this week after reading that the players' pool in the Green Bay - Philadelphia National Football League final was 70 per cent of the $301,455 net receipts. This amounted to a healthy $414,018.

"I'm not bowling about the money they get, because the players deserve every nickel of it, but I fail to see why we can't get something like this in Canada. The owners in our league take all the money. Not one day, and maybe not too far off, we're going to get a fair shake in the Grey Cup dough."

The players in Canada have a case.

Their share in the Cup final amounts to $28,000, or $600 a man for each of the 36 dressed players on the winning and losing teams. The individual clubs may pay other players on the roster, but it is entirely up to them.

WANT SAME CUT

Compare this with the $6,150 each Philadelphia Eagle player received from the winners' share and $3,185 a man for each of the losing Green Bay Packers.

"We're not asking for this kind of money because net receipts in the Grey Cup would run about $300,000 compared with the nearly $900,000 in the NFL final, but we'd want a percentage just like they get."

This is something the pro players in Canada has been talking about for several years. And when they read of the player pools in the baseball series, which is figured on receipts for the first four games only of the best-of-seven series, "we get a little lichy," the footballer said.

The baseball players' cut usually runs around $10,000 each after those on the winning team and about $7,000 for those on the losing team. The first-place teams in the National and American League each receive 70 per cent of the total receipts of the first four games of the series and other clubs get money on a graduated scale.

FOUR NFL SHARES

In the NFL only the second place teams in the eastern and western divisions get a cut along with the division winners.

The Canadian Football League pays off on a graduating scale to clubs in the Big Four and Western Interprovincial Unions, but the division of the money is not announced.

Canadian players have been talking about a better share in playoff money since 1957 and their case now is the strongest it has ever been. With introduction of the partial East-West, lengthening schedule in 1961 for a playoff berth total, it is expected that the four teams in the East and the two in the West will attract bigger crowds—and more money—than ever before.

Many players aired their views in a Canadian Press interview in the dressing room during Cup week and the talk then was that they'd like to have representatives at the CFL annual meeting in Montreal Feb. 9-11. The Green Bay-Philadelphia payoff could get the players cracking.

Two Pennies Found Blank On One Side

MONTREAL (CP) — Shop-owner Max Mazoff has two penalties, both blank on one side.

He found them in a coin box he bought from the Bank of Montreal.

On one side of each coin is a likeness of Queen Elizabeth. On the other side, where there is normally a maple leaf, it's smooth.

Mazoff said he doesn't know whether the pennies are worth. But in any event he's not interested in selling them.

"I've already turned down two offers," he said. "One fellow offered me $10 apiece."

N. A. Parker, master of the Royal Mint in Ottawa, said the pennies are apparently an error in high speed production.

"They might have stuck together. On rare occasions coins stick together and blanks occur. But they are not collector's items. At a high speed of production it's bound to happen once in a while."

Must Have Truly Free Press Says Pickersgill

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Only 36 countries where a truly free press exists can the governments know what is really going on, J. W. Pickersgill, Liberal member of Parliament for Bonavista-Twillingate, said on Tuesday night.

Speaking at a banquet at the annual conference of the Canadian University Press, Mr. Pickersgill said it is not possible to maintain an effective and uncensored government in any country that does not have a free press.

He told the delegates from 70 student newspapers that the only way they could find out what could know he was being told the truth would be to subscribe to a newspaper in a free country.

Earlier, R. was announced that for the fourth year running, The University of Western Ontario newspaper, The Gazette, would adopt some method for general excellence among English-language university papers published at least twice weekly.

The lottery is competed for by member newspapers of the C.U.P., the organization which provides student publications with news.

Many of Older Women In TV Holding Fine Jobs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Although the younger crop of glamorous actresses complain that few of their number are able to nail down steady jobs in television series, many of the older women are making out just fine.

For instance, there's Francis Davies in The Andy Griffiths Show; Marian Lorne on The Garry Moore Show; Verna Felton in Dennis and Gladys, the stars of Bringing Up Buddy; Ruth Masters and Dena Maganade, both on the long side of 30.

The employment problem for the sexy blondes and brunettes remains. But the veterans of the private eye dramas, where it is important for one hero to get involved with a new damsel each week test the interest of the girl-watching fan.

CAN ESTABLISH OWN

It's different, however, for the older women. They can establish their own, non-competitive personalities and, if the show is a success, stick with it to the limit or until something better comes along.

Let us take, as prime example of this fortunate type of actress, Miss Dore Merande who portrays one of the Bowne sisters—Miss Iris—in Bringing Up Buddy, a delightful situation comedy.

Miss Merande, whose role is that of a mildly eccentric, old-fashioned, elderly spinster, is in off-TV life a mink-jacketed, Mercedes-Benz - driving, Dubonnet-drinking New Yorker who has been a well-employed Broadway actress for 30 years.

She is still hanging on to her New York quarters.

"I just like to know it's here," she said during a holiday visit. "But I must say I'm getting to like this television, even if it means getting up early every morning and spending my week-ends studying the next show's lines."

Assertion on Nuclear Weapons Made to Warn World of Danger

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Talk of Red China getting nuclear bombs is causing more confusion than frightened children who are warned about the bogey man.

This was underlined in New York at a meeting of the Planned Association for the Advancement of Education. A British authority said that a dozen nations will have atomic bombs within about six years and, sure as the sun rises, one of these will be exploded through accident, by failure, or madness.

Writer - scientist Sir Charles P. Snow's aim in making the assertion was to rally his brother experts to the cause of warning the public just how perilous is the nuclear situation.

For the science association's special symposium on China stressed the great effort that the Communist mainland, with its population of more than 600,000,000, is making in industrial and technological development — the implications are clear.

WORRY REMAINS

Although the United Nations General Assembly has again passed a resolution about preventing the spread of nuclear weapons, diplomats express alarm that, in fact, such a spread will continue unless a full-scale East - West disarmament agreement is reached—and that seems remote.

The Soviet Union, apparently, has not yet given nuclear weapons to its mighty ally, Red China, but some diplomats believe this may well be done since the Chinese can be expected to manufacture the bombs for themselves, and perhaps in the near future.

In this line of thinking, the conditional offer of the United States to give its NATO allies a share of control over atomic weapons systems has a bearing on Red China.

Should this plan go through, diplomats speculate that the Russians may adopt some similar scheme in the Warsaw pact—the counterpart of the NATO—and Red China, too, might be included in an agreement.

The implications are in the news from a number of directions, notably the report—widely denied—that Israel was working on a bomb. Although Israel declared its project was merely for peaceful purposes, President Nasser of the United Arab Republic seized the opportunity to declare that if war would begin with if the Arab countries discovered that the Israelis really were working on atomic bombs.

The most spectacular development was the explosion of the third French atomic bomb in the Sahara, recalling the fiery protests that have been made at the prospect of President De Gaulle's nuclear policy.

Against this "summit" conference of African nations has been scheduled and the French policy is expected to receive another attack. The thinking of many African countries follows the line of President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana—who told the UN General Assembly:

The element of French intimidation contained in the bomb was a positive provocation against Africa and a threat to world peace."

Gene Autry Likely to Devote Lots of Time to Ball Club

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Something new has been added to Gene Autry's spacious office in Hollywood.

On all four sides are paintings and statues of horses, including Gene's longtime steed, Champion. The newcomer is a dummy of an actor wearing baseball cap and fielding glove and the sign "Joe all-star pride of the Golden West Angels."

Explained Gene: "That's our new shortstop."

Gene is the boss of the new American League baseball club, Los Angeles Angels. His advent to the game has not gone without criticism. Some writers have attacked the big-league expansion as greed and expressed fears that Autry would bring a rodeo atmosphere to the sport.

Gene's reply:

"Some of those eastern fellows may have graduated from Harvard and are very good on theory, but they never had to meet a payroll. They don't know what it is to run a business.

GREEN NOT EVIDENT

"I set in on sessions with all the owners and I didn't see any evidence of greed. I think the owners are public-spirited businessmen who want to do what is good for baseball.

"As to adding showmanship to the game, I haven't any plans in that direction. I think baseball is good as it is."

Gene wears his millions well. He may ride a bit heavier in the saddle, but his voice still rings and he still talks earnestly in his flat Oklahoma tones. He admitted that the Angels will occupy a great deal of his time. Does this mean an end to his performing career?

"Not necessarily," he said. "But I think I owe it to the club to be on hand most time as possible getting it started next year."

AT THE MOVIES — Jack Kosh and Lloyd Jeffries sadden romance in the comedy romp, "Please Turn Over", a Peter Rogers production for Columbia Pictures' release. The comedy is the story of a teen-ager who writes a best-seller about her suburban parents' "private lives", and opens today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE MOVIES — Joe Lagano appears with Hunter Hall and the Bowery Boys in the boisterous comedy "Hot Shots", opening Friday at the Park Theatre. Also on the same program are more comedy with Red Skelton in "The Great Diamond Robbery". Also shown on the giant half program is a Three Stooges comedy.

Aces Shade Amerks 4-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Quebec Aces, playing with the fine form they showed early in the season, moved within a threatening to take over second place in the American Hockey League.

The Aces Wednesday night posted their third straight victory, a 4-3 decision over Rochester Americans, to move within one point of the idle second-place Cleveland Barons.

Meanwhile, Springfield Indians stretched their lead to 14 points by downing the last-place Providence Reds 6-3 and Buffalo Bisons strengthened their hold on fourth place by whipping Hershey Bears 4-3.

Defencemen Jim Morrison was the main cog in Quebec's victory, scoring one goal and assisting three others. Danny Lewicki, Michel Harvey and Jean Marie Cossette were the other marksmen for Quebec and Dave Creighton, Ron Ingram and Jim Faulkner, tallied for Rochester.

Bruce Cline scored two goals for Springfield at Providence, running his season's total to 22. Ted Harris, Bill McCreary and Gerry Foley added singles for the Indians.

RETURNS 'SCORES

Dan Poliziani, Bob Beckett and Earl Reibel back in the lineup for the first time since Nov. 19 after suffering back injury, scored for the Reds.

Phil Maloney's second goal of the game with less than five minutes remaining in the game gave Buffalo a victory over Hershey in Buffalo. Billy Dea and Brian Cullen scored for the Bisons' total. Hershey snipers were Milt Pavelich, Claude Laforge and Jim Morrison.

Dennis Delparty, up from Sault Ste. Marie of the Eastern Professional League for his first start in the Buffalo net, made 22 saves. Hershey's Al Millar blocked 28 drives.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Friday, December 29

General tendencies: This is a day when you are mentally on the qui vive — sharp, astute and able to act in a very inventive and ingenious manner in whatever arises to test your ability to handle emergencies, as well as the little events of everyday living. Get out and let all know what you have on your mind, for you can put your views, projects across now.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Keeping very busy with preparations for the New Year holiday is commendable, but don't neglect the important financial affairs and reports on that line of activity. Budget your time wisely, then all is fine.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Every opportunity is open to you now to get your monetary affairs in the very best possible order. Confer with associates, banking institutions, customers, everyone you can contact so that you insure and increase regular income.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Be sure you sit down and analyze just what your true goals and aims are and how best to achieve them. Then take the initial steps that will lead you in the right directions including personal well - being and desires. Grow.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — The right day to confer with the key people who can help you to become more successful in the future. Confide in nobody if you want to get the finest results. Selling is the ideal for having a wonderful time with loved ones.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — Discuss with close friends all plans for the holiday and how you can make it the most memorable ever. Get into a fine cooperative spirit and see to it that everyone shares in the expenses equally, as well as the work attached to it.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 23) — A very good day to get in touch with very powerful individuals you know and have them advise you best how to do in the future so that you increase income as well as material prestige. Get a higher credit rating immediately.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Avail yourself of every opportunity today to learn just what your position is with key persons in your life who are of a different culture or understanding to yours. This will lead to expansion in the early future.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — It is possible now to come to a far better understanding with all allies if you use your intuition so that you comprehend their and your desires better. Then also use a more modern method of operating. Expand.

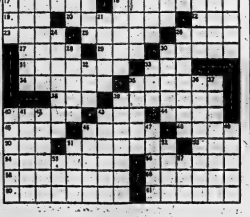
Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Ideal day to have a serious conference with partners and clear up any misunderstandings plus making more sensible plans for the future. Then get together this evening for a few hours of fun and frolic. Be charming.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Important you keep busy every moment today completing work on hand and pulling personal matters attended to. If you labor with enthusiasm and believe in what you are doing, you can accomplish a very great deal now.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — This can be a most delightful day and night if you are most friendly with everyone and make excellent new contacts. Enjoy those dear friends whom you have seen for a long time, too. Be the incomparable Aquarian today, P.M.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Closest kin should come first on the agenda today and tonight. Do everything in your power to reach greater rapport with them. Be kind, good, generous and express your affection in some tangible way. Don't hide that light under a bushel.

If your child is born today — he (or she) will be one of those inventive and astute youngsters who will have the ability to solve problems in a facile and clever way. So, be sure you give all fine an education as you can, since the cracker - jack sales person is in this chart and the ver: fine government worker. However, first be sure you teach perseverance or the life may be spent accomplishing very little.



CARS DERAILED

GRANDMERE, Que. (CP)—Two diesel locomotives and three baggage cars left the tracks in a spectacular derailment early Tuesday morning near the Canadian National Railways station in this community 125 miles northeast of Montreal. No one was reported injured. The wreck was reported caused by a broken rail.

Moscow Denies British Frogman Still Alive

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A bitter attack on suggestions that Commander Lionel Crabb was still alive and working in the Soviet Union was published Wednesday night in the government paper Izvestia.

Commander Crabb said in a report on the Izvestia article that British experts would regard it as "underwater espionage."

Crabb, the naval commander who disappeared in 1956 while on a division mission in Portsmouth harbor, landed in the harbor at the time was the Russian cruiser Ordzhonikidze, which carried Soviet Premier Khrushchev on a visit to Britain.

Izvestia said reports began to circulate in newspapers that Crabb was still alive shortly after then Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden stated it was not in his country's interest to disclose details of Crabb's death.

Canadian Saw Congolese Seeking Belgian Paratroopers On 'Sub' in 8-Foot Creek

The Congo's 14,000,000 people are split into 70 tribes. Is the following story, Bernard Dufresne, Canadian Press reporter since since independent, describes social conditions in a country which promised resurrection of the dead can swing an election.

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP) — Who would dream of looking for a submarine loaded with Belgian paratroopers in a creek eight feet wide?

Answer: Congolese soldiers; with fixed bayonets and rifles ready to fire.

Incredible as it may seem, it happened at Stanleyville, deep in The Congo.

Capt. Jean Parisseau of Edmonton, officer in charge of the Canadian signals detachment there for four troubled months, tells the ridiculous spectacle.

Still shaking his head, he tells this story:

"One day there was a rumor around town that Belgian paratroops were coming to kill all Congolese. Somebody reported they would come by submarine sailing up the Congo River which flows past Stanleyville.

"The river is alive with crocodiles and it's too deep to go poking about in it. So the troops searched the little creek instead, trying to find the sub.

"When they found nothing they gave up in mixed disgust and fear, believing the white man's magic had made the submarine disappear."

That is the kind of blind, unreasoning superstition and ignorance that still exists in parts of The Congo and rules the minds of some of its 14,000,000 Africans.

For all the Belgian administration's physical development of large cities and busy industries in 80 years of colonialism, that kind of human image kept the giant dropped in the lap of the world when it granted The Congo independence.

It's the same kind of superstition and ignorance that made many Congolese believe independence meant everything they could hold in their hands.

Congo confidence men made a killing in the months before independence Day, last June 30. They sold little pieces fitted with earth that was supposed to turn to gold once the country was free of Belgian rule.

It's the same kind of ignorance that made it possible for Patrice Lumumba to gain electoral support and brief, but disastrous power by unscrupulously promising resurrection of the dead once he was prime minister.

BLAME BELGIANS

When none of these things happened it was easy to make the Congolese believe it was the Belgians' fault. The result was the July and August "events" as the Congolese describe the rioting, looting, rape, drunkenness and chaos of last summer.

The primitiveness of the Congolese goes far beyond mild superstition. It extends to cannibalism, about which there is a growing body of circumstantial evidence, and to other recorded forms of atrocities.

The atrocities committed in tribal warfare in southern Kasai and northern Katanga provinces are examples. These villages raiders cut off the arms and feet of dead victims and dismembered and decapitate the bodies.

Knowledgeable Belgians in The Congo say the tribal warriors, armed with spears and relatively little chance to work in poisoned arrows, do this because they believe that even if a white doctor could by his magic bring bodies to life, he could not make them whole again.

Belgians in Albertville, on Lake Tanganyika, tell of a recent case here, say the missing body of an Irish soldier killed by Balubas last month never will be found. Nine Irishmen were killed and their bodies recovered, one was seriously wounded and one is missing.

The Belgians figure that the missing soldier was the last man to fall. In the Baluba mind he would be the bravest and strongest. They would take him away to eat parts of his body, believing they would acquire some of his strength and bravery and be saved from the white man's bullets.

Since then, strong bodies of Nigerian troops have been sent through the Baluba area, killing those trying to stop their patrols. The Baluba are reported thoroughly cowed by their fellow-Africans and have removed road-blocks set up earlier to stop UN patrols. They want to make peace by talk rather than shooting.

Belgians experienced in the ways of the Congolese say that the only thing they understand is force.

"Kill a few of them when they get nasty and you'll have peace," one Belgian told me. "Of course, they'll act up again a little later and you'll have to kill a few more."

Belgians say: "When you see a Baluba with a bow and arrow beside him on the ground it's okay to walk by him. But if he picks the weapon in his hand shoot to kill. If you pass him by without shooting you'll get the arrow in the back."

Not all Congolese fathom there are about 70 — are as warlike. Some are peaceful, but do the whole they remain primitive, no matter how long their contact with the white man.

A Belgian druggist points to his clerk as an example. Each year he gives the clerk two weeks off to visit his native village a few miles from Leopoldville.

"When he returns he is just as wild and stubborn as when he first came to me 15 years ago. I don't know what happens in his village but when he returns he gives us a hard time for weeks until he cools down again."

With such states of mind existing in varying degrees across the country, it is no wonder that independence and self-government were bound to fail. Many foresee become angry when it is suggested that they were not prepared for a change and that it might have been better to wait a few more years.

The more articulate simply say the people of Leopoldville or any administration would ever have prepared them better than it did.

Probably the most powerful force for raising the educational level of the Congolese and helping him out of near-savagery is the missionary. The Roman Catholic church counts some 4,000,000 members in The Congo, including about 400 ordained priests and five native bishops. The Protestant churches of various denominations claim a total of about 1,400,000.

Missionaries super vise most schools. Few students keep on after the six years of primary education. Converts from pagan-ism have more or less swamped the small numbers of missionaries via schools, orphanages and hospitals. The missionaries have relatively little chance to work in depth with their faithful and it is doubtful that all adherents are fully convinced of their faith.

The Congolese do not see that they have need besides to run hospitals, schools industries, shops, public services and government administration is an indication of their inability to cope. They see it as a sign of their "technicians"—the catch-all word for Europeans—for any kind of assistance.

Most of all they want the Belgians to come back, but as Jean Bolikango, moderate leader of the Puna party, says: "Only those Belgians who want to help us, not those who come here to exploit us."

This reporter remembers last August when 80 per cent of all white homes were vacant, except for housebovs who showed up daily to clean floors, polish furniture and trim gardens.

This was after most Europeans had fled the country during the summer troubles.

"Madame will return," they would say with almost childlike faith. "Madame has only gone to Belgium on a holiday."

Now most white homes, not otherwise occupied by UN civilians or military personnel, are filled once more with Belgians who have returned in a steady stream since late September.

The Belgians are back and they are the most highly regarded by the Congolese. For them, the African has not lost loyalty or generosity.

A young Belgian who lives in the African quarter says that his black servant company spent weeks hiding in her apartment, not even daring to turn on the lights at night. Congolese comrades brought her food daily and did not disclose her presence.

A Congolese never goes hungry. If he is out of work he moves in with a "brother"—all Congolese call all Congolese "brothers"—and shares his food and house.

There are practically no interracial marriages. A young man they doubt the Belgian security administration would ever have prepared them better than it did.

Would Have Restored Rank To Eisenhower

NEW YORK (AP) — Former president Harry Truman said today he had planned to restore President Eisenhower to five-star army grade he would have been defeated in the 1952 presidential race.

He made the remark to reporters who accompanied him on his usual morning stroll in 13-degree weather.

Eisenhower resigned from the military upon entering politics eight years ago. There have been reports of a move in Congress to restore his grade as general of the army when he leaves the White House.

REPORTS ON CONGO — Bernard Dufresne, Canadian Press staff writer, relaxes at a Leopoldville cafe during a break in his reporting assignment in the Congo. Dufresne, now back in Canada, went to The Congo in mid-August to cover the fast-changing political situation and the activities of Canadian troops in the United Nations Congo force. Mortgage-Loan Rackets Will Be Stamped Out

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Mortgage Association says that it is determined to stamp out mortgage-loan rackets which are defrauding Canadians of millions of dollars every year.

A. M. Greenway, president of the association, said long-burn swindles and confidence games will be made public and relief sought for the victims.

He said rackets had victimized thousands of persons in Ontario and other parts of Canada.

Ontario government legislation last July, requiring all mortgage brokers to register in the province, stalled a few racket, but did not crush it, he said.

Mr. Greenway said the racket is thriving again with some swindlers working from outside the province and others using loopholes in the Mortgage Brokers Registration Act to operate as "financial counsellors."

"These people have one aim—to collect fees for their services without providing an iota of service," he said. "No loans are ever made."

Red China Trade Delegation After Canadian Wheat

Mainland China Suffered Floods, Drought, Insects

OTTAWA (CP)—A Communist Chinese trade delegation has started in Ottawa its four-month tour of Canada amid speculation that, among other things, it may be looking for wheat and other farm products Canada is trying to sell.

Arrival of the two-man delegation in Montreal Thursday night coincided with a report by the official Peking People's Daily that mainland China has suffered a "great calamity" with more than half its cultivated land hit by floods, drought or insects.

The Chinese pair, Yang Jo-Liang and Lin Liang, declined to discuss their plans or their itinerary with reporters. They were told through an interpreter only that they "have many friends to see."

Both men were in Canada a few years ago on a similar visit. This time, their hotel accommodation is being arranged by the Royal Trust and Canada Steamships are expected to stay in Montreal three or four days. Their destination after that is not known.

Bank spokesmen said that so far as they know the Chinese "aren't after anything unusual." They added that they will be sponsored by the Canadian government.

In Toronto, Cheng Yien-fong, Nationalist Chinese Consul-General in Toronto, commented on the visit by suggesting that Canada establish an embassy in Formosa with a view to increased trade. He said the embassy would help deter Canada's diplomatic recognition of the Communist regime.

Canada's trade with Red China has been a puzzler. It started at $2,000,000 in Canadian exports in 1957, with boosts boosted to $30,000,000 in 1958. Exports dropped to $11,000,000 in 1959 but are expected to reach $20,000,000 for 1960.

PEKING (Reuters) — Disastrous natural calamities during the year caused serious disruption of some industry as well as heavy agricultural losses, the main Communist newspaper disclosed today.

However, China probably met production targets in the main branches of heavy industry despite the dislocation of the national economy, the Peking People's Daily said.

The newspaper hailed the success in industry in front-page editorials today. The paper disclosed Thursday that floods, droughts and insect plagues hit half the cultivated land during the year, causing heavy crop losses.

The "unprecedented" natural disasters affected all branches of the national economy, including industry, People's Daily reported.

Last year, China news agency said drought was the biggest single damaging agent this year. In Hopei, Honan, Shantung and Shanhsi provinces, 80 per cent of the autumn crops were seriously stricken as a result of drought "causing six to seven months," it reported.

RIVERS DRY UP

Eight of the 10 rivers in Shantung province were reported to have dried up completely.

Typhoons and floods in north and northeast China caused losses in coal, iron and steel production.

NINE ONTARIO MUNICIPALITIES WILL BE BIGGER

Annexation Brings Many Problems

TORONTO (CP) — Nine Ontario municipalities will face Sunday morning, the first day of 1961, with a new sense of civic pride.

Six of these — Aylmer, St. Thomas, London, Port Dover, St. Catharines and Welland—will be bigger because of annexation, while Port Credit, Pelawawa and Stittsville will have new prestige with official recognition as a town and villages.

The annexations bring some large-size problems to the municipalities. But the Ontario Municipal Board ordered them because of requirements for future growth and public service.

The London annexation, which is the three-year study, will increase the city's total area to 50,000 acres from 8,450, making it second in Metropolitan area Ontario's 157,000-acre area.

It will increase London's population by about 89 per cent, giving it 181,281 residents. The assessment will rise to $260,000,000 from $135,000,000. London will annex parts of Westminster and London townships.

The Catharines annexation, which met with loud opposition, will add the towns of Merritton and Port Dalhousie and a part of Grantham township to the city. The annexation will increase its size and double its population, to more than 90,000.

A Merritton group appealed unsuccessfully to Premier Frost to have the OMB decision nullified. They said they feared higher taxes and a loss of local autonomy, but the OMB decision stood.

London Judge Not Happy About Striptease Club

LONDON (Reuters) — A London judge, hearing a case against a striptease club, complained Thursday about the devotion to duty of the policemen who collected evidence.

When a police sergeant testified that he attended performances at the club on four occasions between Aug. 31 and Sept. 16, Magistrate Paul Bennett commented: "I can never understand why the police have to go so many times."

The sergeant described an act featuring "Sonnie Bell, the dingdong girl," who appeared on stage with a bell attached to it and involved invitees to feel the bell.

In another act, the sergeant said a naked woman was whipped by a man in a pirate costume.

Paul Raymond, the owner of the club, was released on bail. Raymond's place, one of many "strip-tease" clubs that now flourish in London's Soho district, has a reported membership of 47,000.

TANKER STILL BURNING

ISTANBUL, Turkey (Reuters) — Two powerful explosions Wednesday rocked the 18,500-ton Yugoslav tanker Petar Zoranic, which was in flames in the Bosphorous here since colliding Dec. 14 with the 20,900-ton Greek tanker World Harmony.

Federal Election In '61 Unlikely Says Diefenbaker

WINNIPEG (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Thursday there is "possibilities" but "very few probabilities" for a federal election in 1961.

Mr. Diefenbaker gave this answer to a question about a general election at a press conference in his private railway car.

The Conservative leader was back to Canada from a Christmas holiday in Jamaica and Prince Albert, covered a wide range of subjects in answering questions.

At one point, referring to the question, he remarked: "You always have a question about an election."

The prime minister was reminded that after the 1960 conference on federal-provincial relations in Ottawa, negotiations were to be continued by mail. He was asked if there was any report.

The system of opening Parliament in the fall and continuing after Christmas was "an experiment" and he was pleased with progress made so far.

72-Page Leaflet On PC Party Off the Press

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative party headquarters published a 72-page booklet Thursday recording the accomplishments of the Diefenbaker government in the first three years in office.

The message is directed at Conservative party workers to whom thousands of copies of the booklet will be distributed.

The obviously low-budget party publicity project grew out of a meeting party executives last summer for more energetic publicity to counter the party-hampering effects of the Royal Commission on Publications, he remarked: "You always have a question about an election."

Entitled The Record Speaks, the pamphlet was prepared by Dalton Macadam of the headquarters staff.

The pamphlet, the preface says, is "a factual statement" document that in each year of the present Parliament Canadians have worked more, produced more, spent more and saved more than ever before in our history."

Negro Sharecroppers Are Evicted For Voting, Establish Tent City

SOMERVILLE, Texas. (AP)—A Negro tent city, now in its seventh week of existence, is squirming a domestic, lived-in and perhaps even permanent look. Racial tension in Fayette County is mounting because of it.

Most of the tent city sharecropper residents, who say they were evicted by white farmers because they registered to vote, have shot off slightly wounded Thursday. Investigation indicated the bullet was fired from a passing car. It hit Mrs. Ella Mae Bell in the arm as he slept in his tent.

The tent city is located about three miles south of this West Tennessee town, seat of Fayette County. Nine Negro families live in the tents now, including about 50 children.

The Negroes say they can't find jobs. Their spokesmen predict the tent city's population may rise to 300 families when sharecropper leases expire the first of the year.

While residents there are almost no jobs for Negro sharecroppers in Fayette County now. Last year there were hundreds.

Mechanization in Fayette County farm mechanization is responsible along with smaller cotton allotments.

John McFerren, Negro grocer and spokesman for the Fayette County Civic and Welfare League, predicts even more white landowners will go broke trying to prove machines are profitable on the small, sometimes hilly farms.

McFerren, who distributes food and the tents donated by parties he refuses to name, said the Negroes are prepared for a siege.

The tents, mostly about 20 by 30 feet, are warm and now some have rugs covering the mud. Wood stoves provide heat and kerosene lamps give a dim light.

Residents share one outhouse, erected by Christmas Eve. Before the conditions were primitive.

Communist Pressure on Berlin Seen Eased by Trade Pact

BERLIN (Reuters) — Communist pressure on Berlin eased today as West Germany signed a trade agreement with East Germany and prepared to sign another with Russia.

West and East Germany Thursday night agreed to extend their present trade agreement beyond its Dec. 31 expiration date, suspending a Communist threat against Western access to this divided city inside East Germany territory.

The Communists were reported to have acknowledged in both parts the statute quo in West Berlin. But East Germany indicated today any concession to the West was an expedient until its industry became less dependent on West German supplies.

Noting that Russia had agreed to supply East Germany with all necessary materials if East-West German trade ended, the official Communist newspaper Neues Deutschland added:

"But we must realize that, as far as materials are concerned, we cannot draw freely from the sources available.

"We therefore call on every citizen of our country to be as thrifty as possible."

State Planner Bruno Leuschner said recently that production methods in many East German factories would be changed in 1961 to free them from dependence on West German supplies.

West German newspapers said the new trade pact means that the East plans to, new moves against West Berlin for the present, but warned that the Communists have not dropped their aims.

Kurt Leopold, West German official in charge of interzonal trade who signed the extension with East German trade official Heinz Behrendt, said both sides agreed not to disclose any details of the agreement.

Village Sorrowful After Fire Took Mother and 11 Children

NOYAN, Que. (CP)—This tiny village reacted with anger and sorrow today to the fire that killed Mrs. Abel Vosburgh and 11 of her 15 children Thursday.

The brother of the dead woman said the family lived in the "poorest house in the village" and could not rent a proper house.

Fire Chief William Beerworth said he is quitting.

"Everyone has lost someone," said Rev. William Sellwood, Anglican minister of Noyan.

He went to pick cards with them in the evenings in that house—now I won't see them again," said a friend, 15-year-old Adrien Peaudry.

The early - morning blaze broke the community shock to the ground. Pushing out of the ashes were the metal bedframes in which the victims were trapped.

Six bodies were found in one bed.

The 11 dead children ranged in age from two months to seven. Mrs. Voshurgh was 43.

The only person to escape from the blazing shack was Mr. Vosburgh, 63-year-old unemployed laborer. He suffered burned hands.

The four surviving children were away from home at school.

Mr. Vosburgh, tape over a bandage on his head, said:

"A crackling noise woke me up. My wife said: 'The stove's on fire.'

"I went right outside. Then I tried to get back in. It was impossible. I didn't know what I was doing. I tried to make a hole but when the stove exploded it was impossible."

Cut Husband's Throat But Only To Save Life

CASPER, Wyo. (AP)—Mrs. Paul English of Calgary cut her husband's throat with a razor-blade to save his life.

The incident occurred at isolated Pathfinder Dam, 50 miles southwest of Casper, on Christmas Day. It didn't become known until a Casper physician told of it today, although doctors say it is his patient.

The Canadian residents were riding 3 p.m. Sinclair-Arabian Mrs. English's father and caretaker at the dam, when English became unable to breathe because of a flareup in an old throat injury.

Before a physician could reach him, English instructed his wife how to open his throat with a razor blade so he could get air.

The physician said the operation was successful and that English was flown to Rochester, Minn., Wednesday for further treatment.

Four Killed Near Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Four persons were believed killed today in a level-crossing collision between an automobile and a train in Ottawa's west end, police said.

The CPR train had left Ottawa's Union Station at 10:05 a.m. bound for Brockville.

Skies were clear but a thin coating of snow covered streets in the Woodroffe area about seven miles west of Parliament Hill.

THINK HARRIMAN TO BE KENNEDY'S ROVING ENVOY

Will Stay at Home, Send Proxy Abroad

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President - elect John Kennedy says he is seriously considering appointment of a world - roving ambassador to represent him in talks with high foreign officials including heads of governments.

There are reports Kennedy's choice for such an assignment will be W. Averell Harriman, former ambassador to Russia and former governor of New York.

Harriman, who conferred with Kennedy here this week, refused to confirm or deny it, Kennedy headquarters had no comment.

The president-elect announced that he is thinking about naming a roving envoy came at a press conference Thursday in which he unveiled parts of the Kennedy program on the Atomic energy.

He also said again that he'll look with little favor on a president of the United States doing a great deal of travel abroad.

FOR LONG REVIEW

Kennedy and Senator J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, met reporters after they reviewed international and domestic problems, and after Kennedy had announced that Fulbright will serve as his special assistant to help plan broadranging foreign policy and legislatory agencies.

Fulbright, former dean of the Harvard Law School, has served as member or chairman of some of the government agencies he sharply criticized in a study called Prodigal.

State Planner Bruno Leuschner said recently that production methods in many East German factories would be changed in 1961 to free them from dependence on West German supplies.

West German newspapers said the new trade pact means that the East plans to, new moves against West Berlin for the present, but warned that the Communists have not dropped their aims.

Communist Revolt Against Rocks

Violence Also Flares At Antwerp and Mons

BRUSSELS (AP) — Mounted police and strikers clashed in downtown Brussels today in a melee of swinging sabres and flying rocks. Police dismounted and was killed, the first fatality in the country-wide strike, now in its 11th day.

The striker was killed by a sabre blow, Socialist leaders of the strike said. It was a minority of interior spokesman said a civilian fired on the demonstrators and "a man was killed." Police said at least 12 persons from both sides were injured.

The death on this most violent day of the walkout came in fighting that broke out when strikers stoned the Brussels headquarters of Belgium's Sabena "Airline."

Violence erupted at the big southern port of Antwerp and also several cities in the industrial south, where fighting against Premier Gaston Eyskens' economy program has been most effective.

In Antwerp strikers wrecked a streetcar track and battled two postal workers who refused to join the strike.

In Mons, strikers clashed with police in the southwest industrial city of Liege were two other outbreaks of violence in and around Charleroi.

CABINET APPROVES POLICY

Eyskens held his regular cabinet meeting while the disorders were taking place. A communique said the cabinet had approved measures so far taken.

The cabinet reaffirmed the policies it outlined before the House of Representatives would be allowed to debate the controversial austerity legislation to raise taxes and cut welfare spending to offset losses of Congo revenue.

Socialists said the demonstrator was killed after several waves of strikers smashed many windows in the Sabena Airlines terminal and administration building in downtown Brussels.

The trouble came from a small group of the demonstrators, as was the case Thursday. Again Socialist union leaders had called on the marchers to avoid violence.

Some could not be restrained when they moved up to the airline offices, where they drove out men from repair shops have been working.

Some strikers darted in between the police horses and into the Sabena offices, breaking windows and homes of workers who refused to strike.

The demonstrators in Brussels stalked the streets shouting "Down with the government Tuesday" and "to the gallows with Eyskens." Parliament reconvenes Tuesday to consider the austerity program.

Former Italian Cavalryman, Age 70, Gets Wish, Serves in Old Barracks

PINEROLO, Italy (AP) — A nostalgic former cavalryman, Lt. Antonio Poli—returned to duty in the old barracks where he served 50 years ago. But the atmosphere wasn't the same — all the horses had gone.

Poli served in a cavalry regiment in this town at the foot of the Alps in the early 1900s.

Last summer, at age 70, he wrote, Defense Minister Giulio Andreotti:

"May I please spend at least a day as a cavalryman in my old barracks in Pinerolo? It is my life's last desire — something I dream of doing again before I die."

Andreotti agreed. When Poli arrived at the barracks Thursday, the guard presented arms. The old man was formally inducted into the service for a two-day tour of duty.

Armored cars had taken the place of horses in the old stables. The smell of gasoline and the roar of engines filled the atmosphere.

Poli found one consolation in the change.

"The food is better", he reported.

Revenue Picture Is Disappointing

MONTREAL (CP) — Dexter Gordon, chairman and president of Canadian National Railways, said Thursday in a year-end review that improvements in plant and method contrasted sharply with the company's 1950 revenue picture.

Over - all decline in operating revenues from the various Canadian National operations was estimated at 6.5 per cent, "reducing the system in a disappointingly large deficit position at the year-end."

Freight traffic revenue dipped by more than seven per cent and passenger revenues declined by about six per cent. Gross revenues of Canadian National Telegraphs, however, showed a very slim gain and the new high and CN hotel revenue moved slightly upward.

Canadian Army To Get Rocket Late in 1961

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Army expects to take delivery of the Honest John artillery rocket in the latter half of 1961, army spokesman said Thursday.

The Honest John rocket purchased from the United States Army. It is capable of firing a conventional or atomic warhead to the governmental ban not yet decided whether Canadian forces will be equipped with atomic weapons.

The Honest John is the thin weapon with a nuclear capability on order for the armed forces. The others are the Bomarc and CF-105 missile and the CF-104 low-level jet bomber.

The Honest John launcher and inert practice rockets will cost $1,800,000. They will go to the mechanized Canadian Infantry Brigade Group in Europe and to the Canadian School at Camp Shilo, Man.

The number of launchers and practice rockets to be delivered is classified information.

The army will establish a battery of about 220 men to handle the Honest John, which will be used to provide support for the brigade in West Germany in an emergency, army spokesman said.

Though dispots of nuclear warheads have been established in Europe, it was considered doubtful that any formation as small as a battery would get the nuclear —would be given responsibility for firing nuclear weapons, even in a defensive role.

FIT FATHERS MEET TO SELECT COMMITTEE HEADS

Laying the groundwork for the first Tuesday's inaugural meeting of the 1961 city council, city fathers met in caucus yesterday afternoon.

Purpose of the meeting was to go over possible appointments to the various civic boards and committees, including chairmanships for the coming year.

The various appointments to boards and council committees (chairmanships) will be announced Tuesday inaugural to be held in the council chambers at 8 p.m.

Dodoin Brands Unemployment As Inexcusable

OTTAWA (CP)—The leader of the country's organized labor movement Thursday branded unemployment as "practically inexcusable" in a young and vigorous Canada.

In a New Year's message to Jacobs, president of the 1,100,000-member Canadian Labor Congress, urged that 1961 be made the year "to put the Canadian economy back on the right track" and to end the unemployment situation is neither necessary nor peculiar to Canada, yet it is no excuse for the waste and suffering that results.

"This situation is particularly inexcusable in a country which is young, vigorous and the possessor of tremendous natural resources," he said.

"We in organized labor are optimistic about our ability as Canadians to end this waste and suffering and to build a greater Canada."

He urged Canadians to "face up to the changes which are resulting at a rapid pace from technical developments in many of our industries."

The labor leader also said that the birth of the New Party—a left-wing political movement covered by the CCF and the CLC—is expected to inject new thinking and new drive into the nation's political life.

"We look on it as a development which will at last provide a real democratic alternative to Canadian electors and offer a new opportunity for various reciprocal co-operation of work together in common interest."

VISITED PEKING

W. C. McNamara, chief commissioner of the Canadian wheat board, recently visited Peking and his subsequent report to Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton has aroused "a high degree of excessed" expectation that China may soon buy Canadian wheat.

In recent years China has been exporting small quantities of wheat. But while it is the world's second-largest wheat producer—after Russia—it has no large surplus for export.

The People's Daily, reviewing the country's calamity, says China's 650,000,000 people are confident of conquering the difficulty "and are developing winter production and making over-all living arrangements to the end of completely good harvest next year."

New Year's Eve Wassail Should Compare With Best

Young Master 1961 will be ushered in by a New Year's wassail that won't lack for noise, celebration or just plain whoopla.

In fact it might out-whoop many of its predecessors in the number of public parties in the offing.

Downtown welkins will ring in many a private house, sparkling spots and places where a "party" gather.

Just this in spite of the fact that this year New Year's Eve occurs on a Saturday, and the festivities should come at midnight.

And that is the moment for Auld Lang Syne, Happy New Years and osculatory exercises. The moment when will get the break probably, for it is likely that will stop at the witching hour.

Oh well, celebrators can play Hide-and-Seek with hogmanay others or some other innocent pastime to round out an enjoyable even'ng.

Nations Mark the New Year With Quaint, Novel Customs

Canada, unlike European countries, is not old enough to have any established New Year's customs. Our nearest approach is the New Year's blowout and a turkey dinner on New Year's Day, and there are appetites around.

But the "blowout" and the "feast" are not new as this story will show. Around the old world are some commonplace customs, some quaint and others novel.

Scotland and some parts of Germany a period called 'Ostersonntag' which is the period after Easter and also as part of the New Year ritual.

In Scotland, the bestiog of wives with a switch to drive away evil spirits and make them healthy (the wives, that is).

In some sections of the Scottish Highlands there is a custom which may sound delightful to some married men. It is called burning the "auld wife". This may sound like fun but the "auld wife" is represented by a straw dummy which is tossed into a fire as a symbol of "getting rid of the old . . . "

In Italy they "sow a woman in heir". It is a dummy of the wife, bursting with new and symbolic bursting rid of the old year. They also cake and toss out all the old pots and pans.

Then there are different versions of the "loving cups" which, it is claimed, started in monasteries. These are taken to the wassail bowl around which men have been gathering for centuries. Wassail comes from "Was Heil" which means "being good health."

In parts of England and Scotland it is considered bad luck to meet a woman the first thing on the first day of the New Year. Some folk are not good sifter. A child, or even will do but a dark man is preferable.

So in Scotland dark men must be in demand New Year's Eve and by arrangement he would be the first over the threshold.

The Scots in various places have other quaint customs to bring in the New Year. On New Year's Eve nothing must leave the house, not even dirty water or garbage. Some will not sweep the house because it is believed that anything left in the abode represents a loss in family of wages for the year.

The Germans must have fish on the first day of the year but they cannot cut apples or they face a year of itches and sores. Russian boys have stone throwings or they hazard disfigurement of their bodies with lumps.

The Romans had a novel twist. At the stroke of the New Year, two well-to-do boys of the city were sent out with bags of the things to flog everyone they passed. In some parts of Spain dried fruit and nuts are beaten to make them grow.

The New Year is a period occasion for celebration by French Canadians. Many of the French Canada that is still observed is that of the blessing of children. The head of the grandfather at the family gathering.

Canadians of Lebanese descent still go the New Year rounds and get the greetings "Fowrie and Ullack" meaning "Health and Peace."

So now you know why a person who says it first has to be given money. The younger folk have a time of it surrounding up well-heeled relatives.

The Belleville Club's four oldest on apple trees to assure a good crop. Also the practice in such custom was to pour over the trees the water in which the festivities had been held.

In several places in the world, Sweden in particular, bonfires were staged between the forces of summer and winter, and symbolic of the New Year.

And what New Year's celebration would be complete without it depends on where you are, some place the Scots, among others go for the jingle-jangle of pots and pans. In China they revelries usually last for three New Years. Everywhere the saxophone is distributed but is designed to drive away the evil spirits that roam the world.

Pleads Guilty To Cakes Theft

20-year-old Belleville youth will be sentenced next week in city magistrate's court for his part in the theft of 46 Christmas cakes and pudding and cup cakes from a bread truck here Tuesday.

The youth, Richard MacDonald, pleaded guilty to charges of theft when he appeared before Magistrate T. V. Wills.

Another youth, 16-year-old Robert Wilhemore, pleaded not guilty to the same charge and will reappear in court next week for trial.

Detective Harold Reid said that five juveniles had also been charged in connection with the cakes which were scheduled to appear before the magistrate Wednesday morning.

Detective Reid said MacDonald and Wilhemore were seen by the bank of the Moira River behind a service station at the corner of Cannifton and Dundas and College at, while the juveniles raided a parked bread truck and returned with the cakes. However, Detective Reid told the magistrate that he had entered the truck in company with one of the juveniles.

The cakes were hidden near the CNR trestle on the east bank of the river, said Detective Reid, but much was recovered because some were probably found by a passer-by while others were eaten by the thieves, while still others were thrown into the river.

The detective said the truck, which was parked on the service station lot for the weekend, was not locked.

"And he (the truck owner) is in business!" asked the magistrate.

Police Request Safe Driving On Holiday

"If you are going to celebrate on New Year's leave your car home and drive it safely."

That is the plain speaking advice of Ontario Provincial Inspector A. McDougall for motorists in the Belleville district for the New Year's holiday this weekend.

"Traffic wise we had a good record this year," he said, "but fatalities in the district on the holiday are for this we express some concern."

"Police would appreciate the same co-operation in safe driving for the New Year's holiday," he said.

The inspector noted however that traffic patrols would be increased this weekend with officers directing to keep a sharp lookout for any evidence of drinking and driving.

Police will be pulled off the road with any evidence that drivers have been drinking", he said.

Fire Damages Frame Cottage At Rednersville

A frame cottage owned by Mr. R. D. Redner of Rednersville, was damaged by fire early yesterday afternoon. A back shed and roof over the back room were damaged by the blaze, the origin of which was not immediately determined.

City firemen answered the alarm from their station under control. No one was living in the cottage at the time of the fire.

Today freemen were called twice to the city dumps. The first call was shortly before 11 o'clock and the second just before the noon hour.

Drivers of Small Cars Will Get Insurance Break

TORONTO (CP)—The driver of a small car stands a better chance of avoiding an accident than does the big-car operator, but any collision he is involved in will probably mean more serious injury to the small car's occupants, a Toronto insurance executive said Thursday.

Frederick Hall, vice-president in Canada for State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company, said both factors contribute to lower insurance premiums for drivers of small cars.

Two reasons the small car tends to be involved in fewer accidents, Mr. Hall said, are the vehicle's greater manoeuvrability and the fact it is usually driven more slowly.

Mr. Tone said owners of small cars have recently received a 10-per-cent discount on their insurance premiums.

Anti-Castro Agent Said Recruiting Men

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says in a dispatch from Virginiatown that an anti-Castro recruiting station has been set up recruiting men in the Northern Ontario community to form a force to upset the Cuban government.

The paper says seven men quit their jobs at Kerr-Addison Gold Mines Thursday on promises of $300 a month for the duration of six to 12 months.

They were supposed to have been heading for Mexico and then be smuggled to Cuba," the newspaper said.

"The report said the anti-Castro force was aiding the recruiting in beverage rooms in the Kirkland Lake area.

Virginiatown is 30 miles east of Kirkland Lake.

The story adds that an official of Kerr-Addison denied knowledge of the supposed plan but said three or four young men quit their jobs "just to get out and see the country" and said they were going to the United States.

The mine official said he had been recruiting in the area for help and that the newspaper adds, and that his success so far was due to fear that gold mines in the area were going to close down.

IN MEMORIAM

COULTER. — In loving memory of my dear wife, Hannah Pearl Coulter, who passed away December 30th, 1955.

Wonderful memories, woven in gold,
Of days in the picture I'll always hold.
Deep in my heart your memory is kept,
Dear wife.
To cherish and keep, while I have breath.
—Sadly missed by wife Florence.

GRYCE. — In loving memory of my dear mother, Hannah Pearl Gryce, who passed away December 30th, 1955.

—Always remembered by son Clarence and daughter-in-law Ruth and grandchildren Glenna and Dale.

GRYCE. — In ever loving memory of my dear father, George Gryce, who passed away three years ago, December 30th, 1957.

We are sad when we think of you
Lonely are our hearts today;
For those we love so much
Has forever been called away.
We think of you in silence,
No eyes may see us weep;
For memories are the keepsakes
Of those we love and keep.
—Sadly missed by husband and family.

LEPORE. — In loving memory of a dear wife, Maria Lepore, who passed away December 30th, 1953. Remembrance is a golden chain,
Time cannot break a link;
Love is the power that binds us
In the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
Death cannot sever
Our memory of those happy days.
But this very wise out never
Our memory of those happy days.
—Lovingly remembered by husband Nick and family.

LEPORE. — In loving memory of my dear mother, Maria Lepore, who passed away December 30th, 1953.

In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly, tenderly, fondly and true.
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
—Lovingly remembered by son Charles and daughter-in-law Jessie.

LEPORE. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Maria Lepore, who passed away December 30th, 1953.

Sad is the memory of a picture,
Of a lovely one, laid to rest;
The memory stays in our hearts
Because she was one of the best.
—Lovingly remembered by Bruno and Gola.

LEPORE. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Maria Lepore, who passed away December 30th, 1953.

Mother dear, we miss you
For always they will be.
Sweet memories are treasured,
Always in our memory.
—Sadly missed by Jack, Nina, Janice and Anne.

LEPORE. — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Maria Lepore, who passed away December 30th, 1953.

Those we love don't go away,
They walk beside us every day,
Unseen, unheard but always near,
Still loved, still missed and very dear.
—Sadly missed by Jim, Jo Ann and grandchildren.

LEPORE. — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Maria Lepore, who passed away December 30th, 1953.

Happy memories, fond and true,
Are the thoughts I have of you.
—Sadly missed by Rino and Gola.

SAGRIFF. — In loving memory of Daniel (Danny), who passed away December 30th, 1959.

We think of him in silence,
We miss him every day;
We often sit and wonder,
Why he had to go away.
Sweet memories are a keepsake
Of those we love so dear.
—Sadly missed by Jeannie Daddy, brothers John, Jimmie and Glen.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to convey my sincere thanks to all my friends who remembered me at Christmas, also during the year with cards, treats and gifts. Wish each and every one a Happy New Year.
—Mrs. Martha Horton, Hastings County Home.

We wish to extend our thanks, sincerely and from the heart, to everyone for their many friends and acquaintances, Bell Telephone Point Anne and Cement Plant for their good wishes and consideration during the period of our recent illness.
—Mrs. Helen Abel and family.

Mr. Clifford Ketchenson and family wish to thank their relatives, friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness, cards and floral remembrances during their recent and bereavement in the loss of a loved one, Mrs. Bruce Crook and the late Mr. John B. Bush Funeral Service.

Stelco Recalls 300 Employees

HAMILTON (CP) — The Steel Company of Canada today notified 300 employees of Hamilton works to start back to work Monday.

It is the first substantial recall since production cutbacks went into effect last March, resulting in a gradual reduction of Stelco's work force. Layoffs reached a peak of 2,000 late in November. Individual recalls, totalling about 40, were sent out during December.

"The recall reflects an upturn in orders and production in the rod and bar mills but it is too early to say whether it indicates a new trend," a Stelco spokesman said.

Around The Tee

The members of the Quinte Curling Club are in the midst of a holiday mixed bonspiel with 24-rinks in competition. The spiel opened on Tuesday night on a knockout draw principle, the teams being guaranteed two games. The losers in the first round drop back to the consolation event and the loser of the game in this event puts the rink out. Those in the first event go out after losing a game.

The spiel was down to the threes on Thursday night and in the seven o'clock draw a rink of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Bullford, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Wolfenden disposed of Ken Bulford, while a rink of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Booth with Mr. and Mrs. Bryson Leslie defeated a rink skipped by Bill Riley. In the other game Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Calkinson with Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Boyd defeated a rink skipped by Ez Goswell.

The members are getting ready to give the old year a shove out the door on Saturday night. A committee of Pete Acorn, Don Booth, Ralph Gerrard, Lloyd Sheppard and Bob Smith are in charge of the arrangements and by the grapevine there is going to be some fun. There will be a social curling until ten and then will come a buffet dinner with only the women of the club can provide and after the dinner, dancing to an orchestra will continue until the early hours. There has been a ready response for tickets and the party will be a real informal affair with lots of fun for everybody. It should be a good place to bid goodbye to the old year and greet the new.

Auto Insurance Statement Part Of '60 Licences

The statement of insurance coverage which Ontario motorists are required to file before renewing their 1961 auto licences, is not a separate form but is contained on the inside of 1960 ownership cards.

In yesterday's edition of The Ontario Intelligencer, motorists were reminded they would be required to give a statement of insurance coverage before securing new licences and since then the local licence bureau has received numerous calls from motorists asking for the special forms.

"The statement of insurance coverage is on the inside of the 1960 ownership cards, and is not a separate form," noted licence issuer George Olsen.

Representatives Of Three Student Papers Walk Out

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Representatives of three university student newspapers Thursday walked out of the annual conference of the Canadian University Press on a policy question arising out of the explosion of three students by Lovat Dickson.

Delegates representing the University of Alberta Gateway joined the walkout, but later returned. They declared a strong protest, however, at the way the conference handled a motion proposing the Laval newspaper, which followed publication of an offending article in the university's student publication.

Other delegations which withdrew represented the University of Toronto Varsity, Queen's University Journal and the University of British Columbia Ubyssey.

The walkout left some of the remaining representatives fearing that the three dissident delegations might leave the C.U.P. altogether, seriously weakening the organization for the third position.

The C.U.P. faces a deficit budget next year.

The withdrawals were led by Varsity editor Ed Roberts following the voting on the the Laval motion.

CENSURE MOTION PASSED

Roberts felt C.U.P. must act unanimously on such an editorially decision or not at all. His solution following quoting at a motion of censure of the Laval article "disrupt" and "paralyze."

It did not condone the content of the article—supporting to deal with a prostitute's impressions—but took exception to:

1. Explusion of the students earlier this year by the university council, precluding action contemplated, by the students' council.

2. Failure of the student council to support staff members of the paper—Le Carabin—and the principle of freedom of the press in that not enough effort was made to have the students reinstated or, at least, helped financially.

Edwin Johnston, of McMaster University, Hamilton, was elected national C.U.P. president as the three-day national conference concluded.

Other officers elected included National Secretary Michel Beaudoin, University of Ottawa. Regional directors include Robert Crewe, Queen's University, Kingston.

Council Votes to Return $100 to James Day for His Purchase of Part of Hill

TRENTON — Town council last night regretting its decision to cancel the sale of Mount Pelion to James F. Day, local realtor, for $100, voted to delete the resolution to do so from the minutes of the committee-of-the-whole meeting at which the decision was made and to return Mr. Day's cheque.

Councillor D. R. Fraser said that excavation operations on a lot over the hill, adjacent to the lot where he proposes to build once he has acquired the nine feet of mountain necessary to enlarge the lot, have, in his opinion, "blasted" into another lot owned by the town.

"I think he's over-stepped the margin of his lot," said the councillor. "If he's taken any town property, he should be made to replace it. It looks to me as if a six or seven feet cover over onto town-owned land."

"Councillor Fraser said that before again voting on such a resolution to sell any person should bestirring on the mountain.

"Once it's there, you can't get them from digging back on the mountain," he said.

Town engineer Walter Murray said he would like to make it clear that he was not the Walter Murray who called Mr. Day at 2:00 a.m. one day last week and told him to "buzzle up to the mountain; the water tank was overturned and is rolling down the mountain."

Members of Trenton's Public Utilities Commission said at a meeting a few days ago that they were afraid that if Mr. Day continued his excavating operations at the base of the mountain, the 750,000-gallon water tank might overturn and flood the town.

When interviewed last night, Mr. Day said, "Why should I be the victim of a few people of — politicians? I know what I'm doing. Why don't they ask me what I'm doing? Whoever started this row has an axe to grind. I'd like to find that motive."

When asked his opinion on a statement by a commissioner that "a school child might fall over" the sheer, 35-foot high cut in the mountain at the back of his lot, Mr. Day said, "Any child alive" in sand and gravel, Mr. Day said: "About 30 years ago a boy fell over the town-owned side of the mountain and was seriously hurt. Nobody has ever kept any precautions to see that it didn't happen again. The drop on the town's side of the hill is 200 feet. Why should a kid pick my side of the mountain to fall over, when he has a choice of town owned lots?"

Excavating Mt. Pelion

JAMES F. DAY

If excavation continues at the base of Mount Pelion say members of the Trenton Public Utilities Commission, some school child may fall over the 35-foot sheer cliff and be seriously injured or killed on the scene.

"Nonsense," says Mr. Day, instigator of the mountain slicing. "If any child wants to fall off the mountain, let him walk over a few feet to the town side of the mountain." There's a 200-foot cliff there that no one seems to be worrying about."

This photo shows the back yard of the lot on which Mr. Day proposes to build a fourplex.

Train Hospital Staff to Handle Any Emergency

TRENTON—While there have been no major disasters in the Trenton area and the chances of one happening are said remote, the staff of Trenton Memorial Hospital is being prepared for any emergency.

The first phase of a program to educate the hospital staff on how to proceed and act in the event of a major emergency went into effect with the opening of a film, "Fire and Your Hospital," in the nurses' lounge of the hospital. The presentation, sponsored by the Ontario Fire Marshal's Office, was attended by some 100 members of the hospital's staff. Fire chief Cecil Ellis introduced the film explaining its purpose and importance when it became necessary to put theory into practice. Inspector Robert Dauer completed the projection and sound equipment.

Dr. W. A. Gray, who heads the hospital's program, said stations will be allocated to members of the staff and it will be their duty to take up those positions when a signal in a code yet to be decided on, is repeated over the hospital's communications system. He said that the importance of the set-up is underway and practice drills would be held in the future.

Dr. W. A. I. McDonald expressed satisfaction at conditions describing the endeavor as "timely, and a step in the right direction, when the hospital is extended to the larger staff will have more and greater problems to cope with."

It was noted that the staff should be through their familiarization training and prepared for simulated demonstrations by the time the new wings are completed in the spring now. By that time the hospital's bed capacity and services will be doubled.

Open Batawa Ski Run Sat.

BATAWA — The official season's opening of the Batawa ski run will be held this weekend. Skiing conditions have been described as excellent. The snow now on the enlarged run will be in operation Saturday, Sunday and Monday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The snack bar and dining room will also be open all weekend.

Organized ski instruction and beginners lessons will be featured.

The ski patrol under the direction of RCAF personnel will patrol the runs in case of accidents.

There is a practice hill where beginners or children may ski in safety. The ski club now has more than 200 members and more are welcome.

Council Wants Gardens Debt Written Off

TRENTON — Town council has decided to recommend to the 1961 council that it write off the current Community Gardens debt in the amount of $12,707.61 and to chalk it up against working capital.

Vagn Lange, chairman of finance on council and chairman of the gardens committee, filed that the debt could be retired in five-year periods, but since it appeared that "if the town wanted a Community Gardens it would retire the present deficit each year," it seemed better to write the present debt off at once. He said that October and November had been profitable months at the Gardens.

A bill from an out-of-town surveying firm for $660 for surveying in parts of Murray and Sidney townships under consideration by council council for annexation, will be considered before being paid. The bill is higher by $100 than the maximum price agreed upon and higher by far than the minimum price hoped for by council.

Literature supplied by a St. Catharines firm, outlining the benefits of concrete in constructing motor car bodies into ambulances, was filed with the hope of Councillor Lange that "we don't ever have to use it."

A letter of appreciation of official had written to council to point out the dangers of allowing the trees to grow on sides of buildings where the public gathers. Council was urged to suggested that a list of such buildings be drawn up and that the building inspector asked to check each building after snowstorms.

The task of choosing among several construction companies for the job of widening and resurfacing Division St. will be given to the 1961 council. Mr. Adams of the Lakeshore Construction Company of Montreal appeared before council last night to outline to council the company's proposals regarding the contract. Council listened but declined to make a decision binding the 1961 council.

The inaugural meeting of the 1961 council will be held in the town hall Tuesday, January 3rd at 11 a.m.

Toronto Woman Killed on Street By Her Husband

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Margaret Templeton, 31, was shot to death and killed on the street near here home Thursday. Police arrested the husband George at the scene and charged him with murder.

Two estranged couple's two children, aged 3 and 3, were with their mother at the time. The Templetons separated eight months ago.

Police said Mrs. Templeton was on her way to shop when her husband appeared at her door from her mid-city home and shot her in the chest, a few feet off 303-calibre rifle was recovered.

An autopsy showed the two bullets hit Mrs. Templeton in the heart and stomach. It also showed the victim was in the early stages of pregnancy.

Denis Paquette a boarder in the home in front of which the shooting took place, said a man came into the home and gave a gun to Clement Lapointe, owner of the home.

"I just shot her. Call the police." Paquette quoted the man as saying. He said he ran out side and found Mrs. Templeton lying on the sidewalk. The two children also witnessing heard their mother.

STOCK MARKET DOWN IN 1960 —The stock market in 1960, as reflected in trading on the New York Stock Exchange, started with a high on January 5 but declined rapidly during succeeding months, reaching a two-year low on Oct. 25. It recovered partially as the year ended. Some described the slackening of the economy as a recession. There was a spurt in defence stocks in May, after collapse of the Paris summit conference, and some market lift was provided by lowered interest rates in August. But the stimulations were short lived and the market dropped sharply in September. (CP Newsmap from AP).

Status Symbols

Prof. Carl Carlosi of the New York State College of Agriculture has come up with an observation which ...suspect of profundity.

"A deer slugs across the fender of a car is coming to be as big a status symbol as the car itself," he observes. "There is little difference between the man ...o feels he must own the biggest house on the block ...d the man who feels impelled to bring home the ...gest buck of the season."

Now the first reaction of most hunters to that ...tement is likely to be that Prof. Carlosi is sniffing a very cold trail.

Bagging a big buck is often a matter of luck, but ...hunter likes to regard it as proof of skill, concrete ...idence that he possesses an admirable combination ...woodsmanship, patience, endurance, marksmanship ...d know-how.

A hunter feels about a big buck exactly the same ...y that a fisherman feels about a forty-pound muskie ...a four-pound speckled, that a tennis player feels ...ut a love set, a bridge player about a grand slam, ...golfer player about a big pot won by a bluff with ...pair of deuces, a cricket bowler about the hat trick ...d a baseball pitcher about a no-hit game. All are ...oof of superiority.

Surely owning the biggest house on the block does ...t provide evidence of any particular skill? It just ...eans that the owner has a lot of money.

Ah, and there's the rub. That is how a great many of us regard making money, as something which ...curs, or does not occur, but which has no direct ...lationship to our aptitudes or attitudes.

But to the man whose ambition is to make money ...d to be good at it, the biggest house on the block ...just as much concrete proof of his skill as the big ...ck is proof of the hunter's abilities.

All this may seem a long way to many that there ...o reason, and no purpose, in stating it.

But the truth is that many a man who believes he ...ants to make money never concentrates on this at all. ...e says he works to earn a living, but what he really ...s endeavor to do a certain task superlatively— ...may be making cars or digging ditches or teaching ...hool. The status symbols he seeks are cars that ...ok well and run smoothly, or ditches that are deep ...d straight or pupils who win scholarships. If he ...ally worked to make money, he would not worry if ...s cars conked out, the ditches caved in and the ...tudents failed, so long as his profits per car, or salary ...re larger than those of others doing similar work.

The truth of the matter is that very few of us work ...rimarily to make money.

And a very good thing for the country.

Many Unsafe Cars

A Toronto Telegram story states that Provincial police spot checks uncover a higher percentage of unsafe cars than does the Ontario Department of Transport safety station on Highway 400 in Toronto. The score—67 per cent of older cars unsafe when checked by the police, 34 per cent unsafe when checked by the transport department. The explanation—safety checks at the station are voluntary, and most people do not take their cars there unless they believe them in good shape.

These figures ought to shock a lot of motorists into action. Three out of every four cars the police think might be in bad shape are just that. Over half of the older cars their owners think are safe are not.

Of course, many of the flaws may be of a minor nature—things which would not necessarily cause any trouble but which might do so.

Still, these figures are high.

Not only old cars are unsafe. Some new cars are found to have unsafe brakes, blinding lights and other defects. Although General Motors' Harlow Roberts' brand new car had to have the steering ...djusted before it would pass the safety check.

Could not the Ontario Government require new ...ars, at least, to pass a safety check before their sale ...as permitted?

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

RESOLUTIONS, NOT RESOLUTIONS

There is always quick feeling about New Year's resolutions and ...e rapidity with which they are broken.

Two things need to be said about this matter. The first is that we never need to wait for any special day when good things are being considered. The best time to make them is right at the moment that their need becomes apparent. The length of their duration should not even considered at all.

The second thing to be said is that as a matter of fact, the best resolutions are never ...eriously made, not even when ...e do our deepest understanding. For improvement of one's conduct and the deepening of one's faith is something that goes on continually if it progress at all. And it is a quite unconscious process. Somebody or other some of the things most influential in our lives grow up unnoticed. We do not need so much to make good resolutions as to be genuinely resolute and steadfast in the way we live our lives all the time.

We do not stop, ponder, and become better. The natural process is incremental as we go along.

Not resolutions but resolutenesss — and this without any let up.

A Sturdy Little Fowl

By Jay Berbie in the Milwaukee Journal

Nicholas Pyke, American consul general to Portugal, was pleased with himself that day in 1850.

All summer long a plague of cankerworms had infested his native Brooklyn, N.Y., magnolia shade tree leaves until the ...ity was bare. The assistant consul felt sure he had found the cure. English friend had assured him that English sparrows — really a kind of weaver finch, originally from Africa — were death on cankerworms. He watched, delighted, as the sight of the tough, cocky little birds burst from the cage he held in his hand and fluttered into the trees.

Pike's flock, the first English sparrows in the United States, failed to multiply. Others, released in a New York cemetery two years later by the same purpose, multiplied like flies and spread like measles.

They devoured not only the cankerworms, but also fruits, vegetables, fresh food, garbage and bread crumbs. They ...ed sorghum seed from their houses, stole food and nesting material, destroyed the eggs and young of other species and fell on farmers' fields like locusts. They drove swallows and ...crested fire hazards in warehouses and lumberyards; their impudent brawling chatter rang in every city street.

By 1875, English sparrows had made their way from New York to Maine to California, even ...ing Salt Lake Valley on the mule trains hauling borax. From ...ir native Europe they were ...upstanding little fowl." ...bumptious new bird fell in ...h with the exasperated ornithologist declared the English sparrow to be "the worst ...avian pest ever introduced into ...his or any other country". An ...rate public condemned it as the ...feathered rat" and a "cunning ...ief." Many states and the ...vernment barred its importation ...n an unrestricted alien.

Only recently congress lifted the ban, after more than a century, on grounds that so many ...ds were now that nobody could possibly want to bring in any more.

Strictly Personal

Lets Us Pray For Strength, Not Fortune

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS.

Purely Personal Prejudices:

Most praise of great figures is given not so much to their true honor as to exhibit the praiser as one of taste and judgment, and thus elevate him in society with those he praises.

The really long-lasting habit of poker motorists is keeping you from a similar practice behind the wheel, and then suddenly speeding up to make a light, while you are trapped in a traffic snarl-up.

There is a profound difference between praying for strength and praying for good fortune; and it is the difference between trusting God as a source of spiritual energy, and viewing Him as a kind of celestial welfare worker.

I never realized how truly relative is the term like "wealth" is until I recently heard an extremely rich man complain that he could no longer able to live on the interest of his interest.

It is not necessary for the theology, we need to think that all wickedness is due to "sin"; now, in an age dominated by psychology, we are inclined to call wickedness is due to "sickness"; but the latter view is just as dangerous as the former: some people are bad because they are sick, and others are bad because they are bad.

Sometimes it takes a man for sainthood more than a stiff upper lip at 2 a.m. to give a child a drink of water, or stepping out of a helicopter in the dark without losing balance, muttiness and the fates.

Heroes goes in a straight line and passion in a circle; therefore, a person in the grip of passion is usually moving "up" in the sense he is progressing.

The most irreconcilable quarrels are those that begin about nothing; the quarrels that are about something can be settled by an appeal to the facts or reality or measurement or impartial judgments; but a quarrel about nothing is really about a basic antagonism between two persons. There are homicides, in fact, begin over some trivial dispute such as a neighbor's leaves which are nothing to do with real causes of conflict.

People want to embarrass your adversary, the most devastating question is simple, to quote him out of context.

Many a bright young man yearns to be a martyr who cannot even stand to wear a woolly shirt next to his skin.

Ninety-eight per cent of what we call "charity" deals with symptoms; only two per cent with causes — little wonder, then, that charity is a vast and ceaseless enterprise.

No Problems In This Land

Prime Minister Alexander Frick says that the little principality of Liechtenstein, which lies between Austria and Switzerland, has no social problems at all — "and should any arise, we can settle them over in my office."

Liechtenstein has only about 15,000 people, all of whom are busily occupied in one way or another. The standard of living is good.

It is politically stable — the prime minister has been in office 18 years and his party for 27.

There are only 60 government employes, although the press association reports that the police force is about to be increased to 12 men, so as to handle the tourist problem — if there should be any. This is attributed to become [illegible]

Switzerland handles the principality's postal and customs systems under contract, also furnishes a few officials.

The economy is stable, and Liechtenstein reports a healthy post business in false teeth, artificial arms and legs, dentistry machinery, boilers, and electronics.

It has no army nor need of one, only a stuffed, uniformed soldier in a museum. No navy! The highest income tax in the richest man can pay is 13 per cent — and most pay much less.

Communism is no problem at all.

It must sound like heaven to the men worrying how to bring about disarmament, settle the undeveloped countries and solve a myriad of other problems at the United Nations.

A remark by Prime Minister Bennett in the House of Lords is worth remembering, that the year 1931 comes with great responsibilities and possibilities but also with an assurance that Britain, doing her utmost, will give so good an account of herself that the world and she will be cheered and greatly encouraged. But it would be a time of trial which will call for the supreme proof of our effort of the people. That supreme effort will be made with confidence by British.

Letter To The Editor

Complains Weather Forecasts Faulty

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

From the experience of many stranded motorists last Thursday and Friday, motorists in the Belleville and district is on an "ice-cold" basis in the weather bureau's "inaccurate weather forecasting is concerned.

Many families from some distance both east and west of here had intended coming to use the highways, based on good weather forecasts, resulting in some two hundred cars being stranded. The resulted in the local forecasts for Thursday and Friday were "Sunshine and mild" with just light snow flurries, as far west as Toronto, and this at a time when approximately one hundred miles of these highways were fast becoming impassable. This resulted in many motorists using the highways, which they would not have done had the forecasts been correctly reported to them.

Accepting the fact that this past storm was a freak, caused by unusual cold air mixing along the lake shore, I do not believe that all the errors in forecasting can be attributed to this. I also do not understand the lack of communication between the R.C.A.F. report to be in ignorance of such a storm when it has been in progress for some hours.

It would appear from past experience that automobile drivers will have to take "pot luck" on weather when they take a trip as most forecasts appear incorrectly unreliable, and this is all the more unfortunate as we read of the latest progress in meteorology.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Do you give me information on the progress and treatment of cataracts? I've had them in both eyes for some three years. Do you recommend an oculist or an optometrist? — G.A.D."

Maybe, maybe, not. It's like asking me if pain above the head is a sign of a headache or a sign of a broken leg in the arm. There is only one sensible answer. Tell the physician about the pain, and by testing in various ways he'll soon enough find out whether or not the heart is to blame any other answer, I would give it to you, but that's my job.

THE PACKSACK

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

Press Censorship Tighter In Many Areas of World During the Past Year

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Press censorship, often disguised, grew tighter in many areas of the world in 1960.

Censorship at the source, with a government withholding information, was the most common form of news suppression.

Charges of suppression long have been heard in Communist countries and others under dictatorships. This year, they were raised in the United States. Democrats cried foul during the presidential campaign when the Eisenhower administration refused to release a government-sponsored survey of American prestige abroad.

A favorite method of censorship in many areas was to restrict travel by foreign correspondents, close their lines of communications, and threaten them with expulsion.

At the close of every year The Associated Press asks its bureaus around the world to supply information on censorship and clarify any case affecting the flow of news across international lines.

Here are some of the countries where censorship of one kind or another was reported in 1960:

WESTERN EUROPE

In some parts of Western Europe public schools of censorship like news developed into a fine art.

The French government though on occasion openly seizing newspapers for publication of stories officially considered offensive, usually censored stories through the back door.

There was heavy censorship at the source and a more complicated method involving national security laws. Spain is a good example, prohibited speculation before a month bomb load in Africa. No national security was involved.

President de Gaulle's administration imposed censorship openly on the Parodi affair of arrest in Algeria. Foreign correspondents who defended them must lost credentials and found official sources closed.

West German officials on several occasions attempted to withhold unfavorable news.

In most other West European capitals the picture was the reverse—little official, open interference with the press but many attempts to withhold, toss down or "manage" the news.

EASTERN EUROPE

The Soviet Union retained its censorship—strictest in the world —on all news coming in or going out.

The approach of other Communist countries to the concept of a free press was varied. In East Germany, where the Communist party controlled the Democratic Press, the party handed down the official line; newspapers published it and radio broadcasts broadcast it.

No censorship was clamped on foreign newspaper men, but they were not allowed to travel freely throughout the country.

Communist Poland imposed no travel restrictions and no press censorship. But one correspondent was expelled for writing "objectionable" stories. Many were warned not to write about certain subjects.

LATIN AMERICA

Political turmoil in Latin America often was accompanied by strict censorship.

The free press vanished in Cuba when the independent newspaper Information discontinued publication in December, under increasing pressure from the Fidel Castro regime.

Castro made increasing use of censorship at the source, plus harassment of newspaper men, to minimize publication of anything critical of his regime. Newspaper men frequently were detained.

The Venezuelan government cracked down during November leftist riots by exercising what it called "control" of outgoing news dispatches. Officials stationed in cable offices read news stories before transmission and pointed out "inaccuracies or exaggerations."

Argentina instituted censorship on several occasions when Peronists touched off anti-government rioting. Several newspaper men were jailed briefly.

Nicaragua halted a trend toward liberalizing press restrictions by clamping on censorship Nov. 11, following disorders in Caraso province.

MIDEAST

Many Mideast countries continued a tough, open policy of censorship and didn't blush about it.

Egypt nationalized all major newspapers and applied light censorship to outgoing press stories. Foreign correspondents were hindered by restrictions at times.

In Iran domestic censorship worsened. One editor was jailed.

In the Sudan, harassment of unpopular foreign correspondents was a favorite method of censorship. Travel was restricted.

Israel maintained a military censorship on all aspects of news coverage.

In Saudi Arabia, Lebanon, Iraq and Jordan censors wielded blue pencils.

Turkey's army-controlled government was warned against publishing anything which might "incite the population." Foreign correspondents filed news stories unhindered.

AFRICA

There was no direct censorship on one of the year's big stories—The Congo. But Belgian advisers to army commander Col. Joseph Mobutu carefully watched for press criticism of the Belgians. Newspaper men repeatedly were warned against such writing and expulsion.

The Union of South Africa used no direct censorship but during racial disturbances imposed limitations on the press. Several South African newspaper men and one Canadian, Norman Phillips of the Toronto Star, were jailed. The International Press Institute criticized Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd for discriminating in the use of censorship critical of plans to make South Africa a republic.

Freedom of the press shone brightly in Nigeria. The federal premier set up rules governing news conferences and welcomed all questions.

FAR EAST

Freedom of the press took a beating in the Far East.

President Sukarno's guided democracy plan brought indirect censorship and virtually complete control. Foreign correspondents were harassed by censure censorship.

Japan did not censor the press but the government threatened correspondents with the Official Secrets Act, a 1941 World War II anti-espionage law. Detectives at times shadowed foreign correspondents so "incorrect news" would be passed.

Viet Nam's press printed only what it was told.

Martial law, a year continuing martial law, blue-penciled no stories. Censorship was exercised by foreign correspondents often were delayed.

Thailand strictly controlled the domestic press and several times banned certain reporters and foreign correspondents during a civil war.

Red China has a complex and subtle forms of control. Newspapers are licensed and the government controls the supply of paper. But the press generally was freer than in the rest of Southeast Asia and foreign correspondents operated unhampered.

Hong Kong's colonial administration applied indirect pressure to force foreign and television stations to take news from the government information service, but there was no direct censorship.

India, Ceylon and Pakistan represented all graduations of press freedom. India's press was generally unrestricted. Ceylon drew up legislation giving the government press control. Pakistan threatened newspaper men with laws which make "treasonable" publication punishable by death.

His family is in Trois-Rivieres, 70 miles northeast of Montreal, was informed of his death Thursday night.

One of Canada's best-known writers, Dr. Panneton was numerous literary awards under the pen name Ringuet and was a former president of L'Academie-Francaise.

Born in Trois-Rivieres, he was educated as a physician and turned to writing as a hobby.

He was named ambassador to Portugal five years ago.

He was a graduate of Laval University in Quebec City and of the University of Montreal where he later became professor of otorhino-laryngology.

He became chief of that department and the ophthalmology department at Notre Dame Hospital, Montreal.

WIFE FEARSED

His best-known novel was Trentes Arpents, published in 1938. It was hailed as one of the most authentic and imaginative works of French-Canadian literature.

The novel was translated into English, German and Dutch.

Jet Service To Be Extended

MONTREAL (CP) — Trans-Canada Air Lines announced Thursday it will extend its daily jet service to the continental Europe Monday, Jan. 2.

Jet service has been in effect to London and Prestwick since June 1.

Starting Monday, the 137-passenger aircraft will also operate between Canada and Belgium, Paris, Brussels, Dusseldorf, Vienna and Zurich.

The new service will include one weekly transatlantic flight through Halifax and another over the Hudson Bay route from Vancouver and Winnipeg to London.

PREMIUM DROPS — The foreign exchange premium on the Canadian dollar started to shrink after Finance Minister Fleming's Dec. 20 budget.

Just before the budget, the dollar was at a two-cent premium over the U.S. counterpart. Exchange dealers in New York gave a closing quotation of $1.00 21/64 in U.S. currency.

Graph shows value of the Canadian dollar in terms of U.S. dollars since 1951. The two currencies haven't been at par since the closing months of 1955, and in 1957 the premium reached a peak of around six cents. (CP Newsmap.)

24 New Caribou Aircraft Ordered By U.S. Army

TORONTO (CP)—A $18,000,000 order for 24 DHC-4 Caribou aircraft is to be delivered to the United States Army in 1962 was announced Thursday by de Havilland Aircraft of Canada.

The order increases to 31 the total number of Caribous ordered by the U.S. Army since the first-five were delivered for evaluation tests in 1958.

The Caribou is a troop transport plane specifically designed for use on short-take-off fields.

This latest order will give de Havilland a production rate of four Caribous a month until late in 1962 and add 600 employees to the 2,000 now working at the plant in suburban Downsview. Since 1950 de Havilland has sold more than $121,000,000 worth of planes to U.S. military forces, including nearly 1,000 Beavers and 200 Otters.

A COMET IS BORN

Comets, those light streaks that dart through our solar system, are actually fallen stars in a fantastically huge and fast orbit around the sun. But where do they come from?

Perhaps from an area far out in space. Scientists believe so. Into it them miles from the sun, suggests Fred L. Thornton, of the Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn.

Britain and Dutch theories indicate that comets are born in a cool or cold shell of comet-stuff disturbed by passing stars. These stars may shake loose small quantities of comet material, perhaps dust — and send it on its hell-bent trip to the sun.

MEMBER OF FAMILY

There may be a "should-be" scientist in your family. So says A. F. Jenzano, director of the University of North Carolina's Morehead planetarium.

The "should-be" scientist is a child who may have a potential for science but is either not aware of it, or not regularly exposed to the inspiration of interest to encourage it.

At early as the age of seven, children can be read science fiction stories. Parents can take them to planetariums, encourage them to enter science fairs, start science hobby clubs, or read literature and science merit badges in Boy Scouts and Girl Guides.

burgh's brother, was bitter in his attack on the Verbaarle annexation.

"He (Verbaarle) built this shack only because no one would rent him a house with all those children," he said.

"And then that stove. He picked it up on the riverside or something. It was no good for someone else but he could make it go. So he could make it go."

FAMILY TRAPPED

"That stove" trapped the family inside the flimsy walls when it exploded, spewing flames throughout the tiny interior.

"I'm quitting. I'm quitting," said Boerwort. "All those children.

"I've never seen anything like it in 18 years of fire fighting," Mrs. Clytie Hylton, sister of the dead woman, said.

Some of them had work. His last job was in the fall. My sister had a hard life. And to end up burning like that."

Archie Derrick, owner of Nixon's general store, said of Verbaarle:

"He had no money but he loved his family. He's a good living man. He had many children but he loved them all. Each that came he loved."

Mr. Bellwood, who went around the village spreading the grim news, said:

"It's a grim Christmas. In a closely knit community like this, there are very few folk who are not related."

The dead children were Doris, 10; Ray, 17; Richard, 13; Phyllis, 13; Catherine, 16; Audrey, 9; Beverley, 7; Robert, 4; Carolyn, 3, and 1½; and Duane, six months.

JAILED FOR FRAUD

TORONTO (CP)—A man who passed himself off as heir to his grandfather's estate and defrauded a bank of $36,000, was sentenced Wednesday to three years in penitentiary. Gordon J. Cantrell, 31, brought back from Vancouver, pleaded guilty last week to forgery and uttering a forged cheque.

were only 12 acclamations, all for the public and separate school boards.

St. Thomas will annex 1,780 acres of Yarmouth Township to boost its size to 4,500 acres. Its population will increase to 22,323 from 19,951.

Welland, which will annex Crowland, Thorold, Humberstone and Pelham townships, will increase to 8,600 acres from 1,650. Its population will increase to 36,000 from 17,000.

AYLMER EXPANDS

Other annexations effective Jan. 1 are the town of Aylmer annexing part of Malahyde Township, and the town of Port Dover annexing part of Woodhouse Township.

Three municipalities are to receive new official recognition. Port Credit becomes a town, and Essa Township and Stittsville become villages.

The annexations will create many new problems for the larger cities.

School trustees in suburbs joining London are wondering what to do with $250 surpluses. An official of the Ontario department of education has told them they rebate them to the taxpayers, they may become personally responsible for the fund.

If the Ontario Municipal Board does not rule on the matter, the question may have to be settled by the courts. Trustees of a separate school in Westminster Township have said they planned to refund a $14,000 surplus to the ratepayers.

MAY DO SAME

Other boards being annexed may be considering following the same.

Fred Hicks, chairman of the Wilton Grove board, said he couldn't see a legal reason why his board couldn't refund the money.

He said his board intends to go ahead with the refund until somebody tells it to.

Also in London, engineers are studying the city's future to determine whether it is safe for use by London Transportation Commission buses. At present, the suburban buses use the bridge.

Hog Producers Put on Spot By Order Says MacDonald

TORONTO (CP) — A recent government order to change Ontario's hog marketing scheme has placed the Hog Producers' Marketing Board in the "unenviable" position of either refusing to conform with the order or breaking with member producers, CCF Leader MacDonald said Thursday.

He said the government order giving the board until Jan. 16 to find a new method of selling hogs is in line with the demands of the big packers.

"The member producers have repeatedly directed the board not to change their sales methods and certainly not to open the door to the packer-gearing control of hog marketing and prices in this province," said Mr. MacDonald in a statement.

Hog producer delegates from across Ontario will meet in Toronto Jan. 3 to discuss the problem.

"The government has already destroyed producer control and replaced it with arbitrary slaughter quotas, as far as hog marketing is concerned," Mr. MacDonald said.

"It now remains to be seen what action the producers will take in face of the government effort, on behalf of the packers, to take over the marketing agency which they, the producers, have built over the last 25 years."

He said an earlier government order, placed through the Farm Products Marketing Board, imposed a new procedure for choosing members of the hog producers' board in the hope "that the vote next March may elect some who are more amenable to the government." Today, the hog producers' board and the Farm Products Marketing Board will meet to discuss possible new methods of sale.

Jerry Wishart New President Of Chamber

turned to Brussels Thursday night, conferred at Leaden Palace with the presidents of the Senate and House of Representatives. The monarch also met with Eyskens.

The Socialists contend that the burden of the new austerity program will fall heaviest on the workers. Eyskens contends the economies are necessary to offset Belgium's financial losses in The Congo.

The economic battle has spawned a new outbreak of the long-time conflicts between the Catholics and Socialists, and between the French-speaking Walloons and Flemish north, that often have divided Belgium.

The strife eased in the big port of Antwerp. Seven ships left during the night and early morning, but Police said seven ships and 9,000 members of the Socialist-led General Workers Federation had stopped work in the port but 4,000 members of Catholic-led unions were still on the job.

The Catholic unions, closely affiliated with Eyskens' Social Christian (Catholic) party, have denounced the strike as a revolutionary attempt to overthrow the government.

Eyskens requested the Christmas with the debate on the government's economic reform program still in progress, as assemblies Tuesday.

PLAN DEMONSTRATION

Agitation among some of the strikers for their Socialist leaders to call a general strike timed to coincide with the return of Parliament, Department store workers in Ghent yesterday rejected to join the strikers in a bid demonstration Wednesday.

The Socialist strategy so far has been to call work stoppages and demonstrations in addition to in north Belgium, where the Catholic unions are strong. But the strike has been least effective.

Firemen Will Be Trained In New Method

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto firemen will be trained in a new method of starting a stopped heart beating again.

The method, which does not require an incision, was developed by Dr. Alan Hopkins of Toronto and Baltimore. Doctors say it is almost as effective as the previous method and does not have the bad side effects of surgical shock.

The system consists of planting the heel of the left hand firmly against the lower chest and pressing to the left. The heel of the right hand is then pressed against the left hand in a regular pattern of pulsations at the rate of 60 to 80 a minute.

Both hands are used so that the point of contact with the heart will remain steady.

Bridge St. United Church WMS, W.A. Hold Yuletide Meet

The Afternoon Auxiliary of the WMS, with a back-drop of the Nativity creation of Bridge Street United Church, held their Christmas meeting jointly in the Sunday School auditorium, with a large crowd in attendance. A prettily lighted tree and bouquets of flowers, with a back-drop of the festivity scene, gave a special setting for the meeting. As the members began gathering, Mrs. Bird, pianist of the Auxiliary, played selections softly on the piano.

The devotional service was in charge of the W.M.S. members. Mrs. Davis, 1st vice-president, presided, and opened with prayer.

After welcoming everyone she expressed the happiness of all in having Mrs. McArthur able to attend, regretting her not being well enough to assume her duty as president. Everyone present was also much pleased to have Miss Clarke in attendance; her first visit since her accident of months ago. As this was a special meeting, little business was transacted. The treasurer, Mrs. Finkle, reported $1,180 forwarded to the Presbyterial treasurer up to the end of November, as allocation being $1,800.

Mrs. Davis urged everyone to bring in her offering, and felt the December offering would bring the amount required. She thanked the W.A. for its donation of $50 to the W.M.S. meeting in January 5th, and will be a pot-luck luncheon.

Mrs. Bird, president of the Woman's Association, conducted the business session. Greetings from reporting business already taken care of at an executive meeting. She then invited to the pleasure of the Association Mrs. Davis, and Miss Clarke with the W.M.S. in this occasion.

Mrs. Davis in charge of the program, which included the worship service in the form of a candle - lighting exercise, entitled "Candles of Christmas". A candle - lighting exercise, entitled "Candles of Discipleship". The setting for this consisted of a large five pointed star, covered in gold foil. Each point fitted with a candle holder, and a large candle in the centre. In front of this stood a tall lighted candle in a holder. As Mrs. Davis took her position, those taking part also went forward, being joined with the others as they filed through the doorway of "I Heard the Bells of Christmas Ring".

Mrs. McFie then read the Scripture, Mrs. Davis reconciling the first candle, symbolizing "Faith", lighted the small candle from the large lighted one, reciting a selection on Faith.

Mrs. McFie lighted the 2nd candle—"Love". Mrs. E. Gilmour the 3rd, "Trust" reciting a poem on the subject, Mrs. Wright beat the 4th "Love" reciting a poem on the subject.

The first carol lighted by Mrs. Hibbard was "Fellowship", a poem on the topic was recited by Mrs. Hibbard, Mrs. Demara, Gaye Davis exercise with the solo, "O Holy Night". The two solos so beautifully sung, were by Mrs. Hibbard, the candle lighting service.

Mrs. Morden contributed an interesting reading, entitled "When The Drugs Goes Dead," consisting of a boy and a man saying, "Mr. Lanning" in a humorous manner. For successive seasons crops had failed thus, times were hard, and Mr. Lanning, as usual, was broke. He heard such depressing stories he felt like committing suicide.

The story opened with Mr. Lanning walking to work on the morning before Christmas, having left his family who were full of the Christmas spirit. He felt under the depressing conditions all activities should be abandoned for this year until more prosperous times. As business proceeded during the day, the same tired people came in, but he noticed a certain spirited tone in their speech and a lighthearedness not evident other times. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year were expressed with smiles and hearty handclasps.

BURDENS LIGHTENED

Mr. Lanning, as the day wore on, noticed that his burden and lightened his burdens, for these people, to a degree. The bank closed, he arrived home to be met by an excited clamor, telling him Santa was coming, and had decided not to play the roll of Santa Claus this year, he would have to as the man who was to be in class suffered an accident.

Later in the evening Mr. Lanning is dressed in the Santa Claus outfit, behind the scenes, peering through a small opening at the proceedings out front.

A sea of smiling faces met his gaze, as each person watched the child performers. At last his part was announced. Out he came amid clapping and welcoming of an expectant group of children. Present after present was presented. Upon coming to one for himself he was about to put it aside when the shout went up. "Open it." To his joy and surprise he was voted the "Man of the year" by the student body.

The concert ended, each repaired to his own home, whether it was shabby from lack of paint or more prosperous. Mr. Lanning went home, too, realizing that irrespective of conditions there's a special spirit pervades at Christmas that cannot be erased. He knew for the time being hearts were lighter and of better cheer. Christmas.

Mrs. Finkle, in thanking Mrs. Morden for such a delightful reading, voiced the opinion of all present, that her story following the worship service, had made all present in the spirit waiting for the Yuletide celebration.

Mrs. Davis added her thanks to all who contributed to the program. The Society wishes to thank Mr. Wishart for constructing the stars.

Mrs. Davis closed the meeting, when all were invited to the "Ladies Parlor" forming a large circle there. Mrs. Wright's Association served a delicious lunch. A happy time was enjoyed.

The table—decorations were attractive in red and white, red cloth covered with large oblong cookies, dolly. Mrs. McFie's beautiful piece of driftwood in centre holding bouquet in white and tinsel accompanied by miniature figures.

C.G.I.T. Hold Candlelight Vesper Service

TWEED — The members of the Canadian Girls in Training held their annual candlelight service on the evening of December 18, in St. John's United Church in a beautiful setting of colored lights and greenery, which provided the most fitting background for the C.G.I.T. uniforms in blue, white, navy, baby blue and blue tams. Nearly the complete membership of the girls and the leaders, along with associate leader, Mrs. Grace Porritt and her younger girls filled the choir loft. Miss Janet Graham C.G.I.T. president, was in charge of the service and is to be congratulated on her diction and poise. Miss Graham then read Scripture the president read the Christmas story in pleasing manner.

Mrs. A. G. Allen directed the choir which was heard in three anthems, all particularly well done, while Mr. Fred Porter played the organ.

Others taking part in the service were Joan Blakely and Kathryn Coulter who read the Christmas Story from the Scriptures. The candle lighters, Sherry Curry, Norma Lough, Joyce Davis and Jan Wooten. The Rev. D. Louis pronounced the Benediction.

The leaders, Mrs. Flora Hewett, Mrs. Dorothy Sedore, Mrs. Sylvia Purvis and Mrs. Patterson were congratulated on their efforts in presenting such a beautiful Christmas service.

Christmas Concert

ZION HILL SCHOOL

HALLOWAY — The annual Christmas concert of Zion Hill School was held on the evening of December 21 with a large crowd in attendance.

The teacher, Miss Ruth Morgan and music teacher, Mrs. A. Greaves, and pupils, presented a varied program, with Mrs. Stanley Slackey performed the duties of chairman.

The following program was given: Opening exercises, "Greetings," Bonnie Rowe; opening chorus, "Christmas"; a dialogue entitled "Concert Fever," junior chorus, "Calling Santa Claus"; recitation, "The Christmas Spirit," Robert Huffman; class by Marilyn and Bruce Kennedy, "Frosty the Snowman"; dialogue, "Child Psychology"; an exercise by five juniors, "Why We Like Christmas"; "The Christmas Drill" by six girls and boys; recitation, "Mrs. Santa Claus"; Ann Robertson; trio by Brenda Blacey, Wayne Bowler and Linda Wilson; "Christmas Eve Shadows"; beton twirling by Sonia Mastrangelo of Stirling; dialogue, "Wanted a Housekeeper"; "Jingle" by four junior girls; lighted ballet twirling by Sondra Chambers; a pageant, "The Secret Child"; Zion school chorus, "The Friendly Beasts"; "Christmas Night"; and closing chorus, "White Christmas."

Santa Claus distributed presents and candies to the children.

Women's Institute

WOOLER W.I.

The December meeting of the Wooler Women's Institute took the form of a Christmas party and a grandmother's meeting combined. There were 42 guests and members present. The meeting was opened in the usual manner. The answer to the roll call was "Something My Grandmother Told Me" and proved interesting and varied.

The club room was beautifully decorated for the Christmas season. A large table was tastefully appointed with red carnations and candles. A fully decorated Christmas tree made the setting complete.

During the business, Mrs. Roy Putman reported on the service machine for the Girls' Club. A letter was received from Mrs. Lymburner and she will be able to come to the 60th anniversary meeting. It was decided that the W.I. again hold its annual "Fashion Show" next spring. The Institute will be catering to the sale at Hoard's Station in January.

Mrs. Max Haggarty, convener for the evening, introduced with a reading, "An Old Fashioned Christmas." Mrs. Jean Austin played a medley of Christmas favorites on the piano. Mrs. Vera Teal gave a reading, "The Christmas Story." Nineteen grandmothers were called to the front and prizes were given to the tallest, the shortest, the oldest and the youngest. The oldest grandmother present was 93.

All the grandmothers were also called to the front and joined in a sing-song.

Mrs. Elgin McMaster read two humorous readings, Mrs. Wesley Hubbs was the winner at a contest. Mrs. Angus Gunter gave a reading.

Mrs. Mac Anderson presented gifts to Mrs. Herman Morrow and Mrs. Gerrard Finkle, leaders of the "Third Meal" short course, on behalf of all the ladies who had completed the course.

Mrs. Henry McColl, at the piano, led the ladies in a medley of Christmas carols.

A delicious lunch in the form of a salad plate was served and enjoyed by all.

Few Want Their Children To Think Critically About Sex, Religion, Democracy

TORONTO (CP)—A group of Ontario teachers was told Thursday that few Canadian parents want their children to think critically about religion, sex or democracy.

Sybil Shack, president of the Manitoba Teachers Society, addressed the annual dinner of the Ontario Public School Men Teachers Federation, meeting here with other Ontario teachers' groups.

Miss Shack said teachers are constantly told that they must develop a critical attitude among pupils. They were also told to teach respect for democracy.

"How can you teach children to have respect for something and to criticize it at the same time?" she asked.

Teachers may become so wrapped up in subject matter that they lose sight of larger meanings, Miss Shack said. Children in grade 5 learned the paths of the North American explorers on a map but few considered the moral aspect of this invasion of a continent.

SAYS RESPECT NEEDED

Miss Shack said it is difficult for an elementary teacher to gain the respect given a high school or university teacher by the community.

"An adult is often condescending to the remembered cruel tyrant of his childhood."

For this reason, she said, elementary teachers must inlist on equal educational background for teachers at all levels.

In another meeting, Mrs. E. Jarman of Belleville, president of the Ontario Public School Women Teachers Federation, said there is no likelihood of an immediate merger with the men's group. The men's federation agreed in principle Wednesday to a merger. She said:

"There is one fundamental problem that must be resolved and that is the difference in emphasis which our two organizations place on professional aspects as opposed to salary matters. Our federation places great emphasis on professional development activities."

CLASSES TOO LARGE?

High school teachers heard at their meeting that the average size of an Ontario class is 32.1 pupils, while the ideal size is 25 or smaller. The Canadian average is 26.34.

A report to the annual assembly of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation said most experienced teachers agreed in a survey that successful teaching can be carried on only in classes of 35 or smaller. They also agreed that vocational and technical classes should have no more than 26 pupils.

In another business, the secondary school teachers asked the University of Toronto to establish a course leading to a bachelor of arts degree for persons who want to teach the industrial arts. Industrial arts courses in Ontario who want to improve their qualifications now can take only a course offered in Burlington by the Buffalo State University.

Registrar A. P. Gordon of the University of Waterloo said the request will be considered.

He also said the three-period principals' committees of existence. It will be replaced by a standing committee of principals whose decisions will be backed by the federation's 12,000 members if they agree.

The committee will be given some of the most difficult problems facing the federation, including summer courses for students, driver education and objective-type examinations.

Theatre Guild Holds 3rd Business Meet

The Belleville Theatre Guild held its third general business meeting of the season at the recreation rooms, Pinnacle Street, on December 22. The president, David Jardine, was in the chair. There was a small attendance.

Plans for the second night of the season were discussed. Harry Mulhall will direct "Box and Cox," the Belleville entry in the E.O.D.L. elimination festival being held in Belleville early in February and sponsored by the Theatre Guild. A reading from a play was held at the conclusion of the meeting and it is expected that rehearsals will commence immediately.

Two three-act plays are planned for the spring, one to be directed by Mark Heitsho, which will be staged in the early part of March and the other directed by Dr. S. Rose, in May. Mr. Heitsho will be holding readings for "The Curious Savage" shortly, dates to be announced.

A number of excellent color slides, taken by the Riley Studio, of the Guild's latest production, "The Heiress," which was staged last November, were shown and an opportunity was given the members to order these slides.

Seamed Silhouette

By VERA WINSTON

Seaming can play a major role in the creating of a fashionable silhouette, as it does in this dress.

The seaming extends from the top of the bodice to below the hipline to control the fit of the light-weight shadow-check wool. A mock yoke, the neckline has a buttoned closing at one side and the skirt is box-pleated.

The color is one very fashionable just now—grape.

Many Attend Christmas Services

TWEED — Large congregations were in attendance Christmas Sunday in all the village churches when the wonderful story of the Savior's birth was told again. Adherents of all Christian faiths were in attendance at the church of their choice when the age-old message of peace on earth was again repeated.

At St. Carthagh's Roman Catholics began the observance of Christmas with the traditional midnight Mass on Saturday night at 11.30. Canon C. H. Eaton was the celebrant at all Masses, assisted by the Rev. Peter Murphy on Christmas Day.

St. John's United Church in a setting of lighted trees and lighted garlands of greenery, also held a Yuletide service with the senior and intermediate choirs, under leader-S. H. Connor heard in two anthems. Soloists were Mrs. A. G. Allen, Mr. C. Mills and Mrs. M. The ladies of the choir sang in three-part harmony, "Angels O'er the Fields." The intermediate and junior choirs, under Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Ostrom, sang two anthems—"Going to Bethlehem" and "Joy To the World," with Mr. Fred Porter at the organ.

Trim Tunic Overblouse

By ALICE ALDEN

The tunic is on top this season, no doubt about it!

This tunic dress is very much in evidence and the tunic overblouse is doing all right, too.

Ever so comfy and nice is this tunic double, grand to wear with button-down shirts or turtle neck sweaters and with either shorts or skirts. It is fashioned of wool in such luscious shades as red, purple, moss green and rust.

The matching self belt can be tied casually for waistline emphasis or dispensed with for a free-swinging change of pace.

HOW OFFICIAL WASHINGTON USED TO CELEBRATE

Tomorrow the celebration of the New Year begins. It is later eating so turn back the pages of time and see how many customs have fallen by the wayside. If we roll the years back to the 1890's, for example, this is what took place in the nation's capital.

The festivities began at midnight on New Year's Eve when all the Simmons hostesses, the late Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, assembled at the magnificent hall of which she gave annually at her estate Friendship. Cabinet officers from all over the country, Officials of both high and low rank were present and those in attendance, society who were not invited just "didn't belong!" Most of those invited stayed the night through, finishing up with breakfast at six a.m.

On New Year's Day, at eleven o'clock on the dot, all official Washington, including the representatives from foreign powers, arrived at the White House to be received by the President. Official dress uniforms and morning clothes were the order of the day for the gentlemen; the ladies' finery.

While this reception was in progress long lines of people were forming in front of the White House. Sometimes these lines ran for blocks down Pennsylvania Avenue. The butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker, and just plain folk, were going to have a chance to shake the hand of their chief Executive and wish him well.

After the officials had been greeted, the President would appear on the front steps of the White House and shake hands with one and all. The great wonder is that he had a hand left when the hundreds of greeters had passed by!

President John Adams held the first of these full-scale receptions at the new White House on New Year's Day in 1801. The curious, with few exceptions, continued every year until 1932, when then then President Herbert Hoover presided at the last official and public reception to be held on this day.

Now, back to our schedule of the day in the nation's capital, nearly thirty years ago. .

After being received at the White House, members of the foreign powers (the diplomatic Corps) filed themselves to the Pan American Union, where our Secretary of State always was host at a very gala luncheon.

By three in the afternoon, the Cabinet, all members of the Cabinet, and the Chief Justice of the United States, held open house and it was considered proper that officials and those in the social picture, stop by to offer greetings. Officer members of the armed services were expected to call upon the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy. (We didn't have the Defense Department and the Secretary of Defense in those days.)

This was lived through this typical New Year's celebration, ended up in one of two categories. Those who went home to bed completely exhausted—and those die-hards who managed to make their appearance at small private parties in the homes of friends.

It is easy to understand why all the official and social "musts" of the past — the receptions and calls — were discontinued.

Delightful and carefree interesting, they became impossible with the tremendous growth of our own government, and the huge number of representatives now here from foreign countries. Today, visiting friends and attending private parties, just like any other city, is the order of the day in the nation's capital!

QUESTION BOX

Question: Please tell me again what to do when you receive cards from people you have forgotten! I have received so many this year, and here it is almost the New Year's. I can't very well send a Christmas card this late. Should I send a New Year's one?

Mrs. K. D., New York, N.Y.

Answer: No. It's too late for that too! The cards would be received after the date to call. Why not write a personal note to those whom you particularly want to thank for their thoughts of you. Don't make excuses for not having sent them a card! Just thank them.

* * *

Question: When you attend a luncheon at the home of a friend and a maid opens the door and escorts you to the living room, telling you that your hostess will be down in a moment, what do you do? Naturally, you sit down to wait, but my question is, do you stand up when the hostess finally makes her appearance? Suppose other guests have arrived in the meantime, do we all stand? — Mrs. T. F. N., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: To begin with, the hostess has been extremely rude in not being present to greet her guests. Short of a sudden emergency, there is no excuse for her being late at her own party. However, if she does arrive late, you, and any others present, should rise to your feet to greet her.

Question: There is an ad for a restaurant that has been running almost every day in our daily paper. It shows a couple entering the dining room. The man has a pipe in his mouth and the headwaiter greets them. Isn't this out of line? — Mr. S. A. C., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: It most certainly is! It would be extremely bad manners to enter a restaurant carrying a cigaret or cigar. To do so with a pipe is beyond the pale! Pipes should be smoked in the privacy of one's home, or if visiting the home of friends, permission should be asked before smoking one. While it may be ambrosia to it's owner, a pipe may actually nauseate others. Regardless of this, it should not be smoked at table at anytime!

Mother's Helper

ASK the boys in your neighborhood either new years or a few old for your son! He may alternate between chores in baby games and freedom of being left out of other activities. The best thing you can do for him is to inspire friends of his own age, even if it means extra driving for you.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three teachers and a woman's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counsellors and social workers

Frances P. — My husband keeps piling work on me.

Timothy P. — She has the boys home to help her.

Frances P. — We live in a rural community and I'm used to hard work. But it's never been as bad as now. The strain fed me to a heart attack and I'm not supposed to get upset or do heavy work for the next three months. But who'll do it?

Tim drinks, so in order to be sure of cash in the house I held an outside job for eight years, until I got sick. I also must tend the coal fires and take care of Tim's 82-year-old mother. We have two jobs at home, one if who'd like to join the navy, another if who wants to take an outside job. But my husband expects them to stay home to help me with the house, wait on his mother and do the heavy chores. This doesn't sound fair to them.

The goat-grabbers is that my mother-in-law is in good health and can wait on herself. But with the fires around, she won't budge. She says no keep because her check is only $26 a month, and I'm even having trouble claiming her as an income tax exemption. She has a daughter she could live with, but they don't want her there because she makes trouble.

I want my husband and his mother to pitch in more.

Timothy P. — My wife just wants to sound like a heroine. I help with the heavy work for most of the time. I admit I go overboard with a bottle once in a while, but I make up for it. And I hand over money to her, too, after I get in a day's work at the gas station.

As for my mother, she's a quiet old gal who wouldn't hurt a fly. But my sister doesn't act right toward her, so I took her in to make her last years as happy as possible, she can be as funny as a barrel of monkeys and the boys like having her around, especially with their mother away on a job or on a strike.

Our younger boy will join the navy if he wants, but the older one seems contented the way things are. He works part-time at the post office, then does a few home chores and looks out for Grandma. If my wife can't do the coal stove, she can always ask him or me.

But I think she's just moneymad. She wants money from me, from my mother, from the boys, from her own job, too. And another problem for my mother's care. Maybe I drink too much, but maybe she's driving me to it.

* * *

The Council — The P. household seems to be dedicated to the buck, with the accent on passing it rather than earning it.

For Mrs. P. it's like a game of musical chairs where she's the one left over when the music stops. She'd like to stop the merry-go-round by a few other members of the family to help her.

As a start we suggest that the local family service association be invited by Mrs. P. to decide what fixed duties must be assigned to whom. Carrying out individual responsibilities would be the "ticket" for enjoying family membership.

The kingpin here should be Mr. P. but, due to his irresponsibility and shirking of his role, all the other roles are knocked askew. We agree with Mrs. P. that the boys should be released to begin their own lives instead of serving as flunkeys to fill in the blanks left by Dad, Mom and Grandma — who can all handle those blanks themselves if pipped down.

There are limits to which a plucky woman like Mrs. P. can go to hold a shiftless bunch together. Mrs. P. has just about reached those limits.

Readers' Friday Column

As conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

. . . I wonder if you would give recipes and instructions to make fish and chips for about 30 people? . . . a sure method for baking eggs in oven in same quantity, say for thirty people. I'd like them to be akin to fried eggs, yet not crusty and done evenly at what temperature? . . .

Mrs. H., Ohio

ANSWER:

The French way to bake eggs is this.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

FRIDAY (Seafood Supper)

Oyster Stew or Clam Chowder; Shrimp and Celery Salad; Sesame Seed Rolls; Egg Nog Chiffon Pie or Old-Fashioned Custard Pie; Tea.

BAKED EGGS.

To bake 9 eggs, in a generously buttered baking dish which will accommodate them, put 9 jar rings (screw-on part for 1 quart jar) buttered on the inside. Inside each put one 2" piece of lightly cooked bacon — 3 slices smoked back bacon trimmed to fit is perfect. (If desired spread this thinly with liver pastey. Break egg into a cup and slip one into each jar ring. Add a few grains of mustard, salt cayenne and 1-2 teaspoon salt to 9 tablespoons cream and spoon over each egg. Cover baking dish with foil and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes or until eggs are set. Remove rings before serving. Note: If deserted jar rings may be omitted — but naturally eggs all run together.

A much simpler way is to bake eggs for frying bacon crisp but not hard, then arrange the slices in groups of two on a large plate or in individual baking dishes. Break one egg over each two slices of bacon, season with salt and pepper and bake slowly at 200 deg. Fahr. soon as possible.

Christmas Concerts

EGGLETON SCHOOL

MADOC JUNCTION — On December 21st Eggleton church was filled to capacity for the annual Christmas concert presented by the pupils of Eggleton School, S. S. No. 24 Sidney under the training of their teacher, Mrs. Bert Reide. The Y.P.U. group also assisted with a few numbers.

Mrs. Bruce Stapley efficiently officiated at the piano during the evening by playing the accompaniment for the songs, carols, choruses and drill.

The pastor, Mr. George Dyson was chairman for the following program: opening number by all the school singing "National Anthem" and "Christmas Bells"; Ronnie Croft responded forward and gave the recitation — "Christmas Wish"; a group of the Junior pupils presented "Mother Goose Up to Date"; reading "I'm Waiting for the Twenty-sixth"; by Lloyd Clancy and eleven pupils; Lois Danford, Gerald Stapley, Mary Jones, Linda Frost, Lisa Stapley, Judy Johnson, Billy Stapley, Teddy Clarke, Carol Danford, Keith McMullen and Brian Kovach, a play — "The Walking Christmas Tree".

All enjoyed the musical numbers, played by Miss Marlene Bruce, on her accordion. A group of juniors sang "Long Long Ago". A recitation "Fun for Grandma", was then given by Lisa Stapley. The Y.P. group sang two selections. Fifteen boys of the school sang, "Notion for Christmas". The play "The Best Christmas Ever", was well presented by Dianne Frost, Gloria Stapley, Sheila Clarke, Mary Jones, Wayne McMullen, Lloyd Clancy, Ivan Reide and Keith Jones.

A group of the senior pupils sang "Thirty-two Feet and Eight Little Tails". The beautiful Christmas Story was read by Mrs. Murray Meeks, followed by seven girls singing Christmas carols. The closing number was a chorus by all the pupils, "He's Coming Today, Hallelujah".

Santa arrived and with his helpers, the gifts by beautifully decorated and lighted tree, were soon distributed. Each child was also given a treat of a bag of candy and nuts.

Watermelon pickles go particularly well with any creamed turkey dish.

Focus on Health

A bath soon after surgery, adult histories of childhood ailments, and the Dodge City syndrome are among topics the week of focus on health.

DODGE CITY SYNDROME

Television westerns have added at least one more hazard to modern life, the American Medical Association reports.

More and more young men are turning up with gunshot wounds in the leg and foot, accidentally self-inflicted while practicing the fast draw. Doctors also call it the "Dodge City syndrome." They point out that gun clubs have sprouted across the U.S. dedicated to the fast draw.

SURGERY TO BATHTUB

To get patients back to normal soon after surgery, doctors now are working at leaving wounds unbandaged and letting patients take baths and shower as soon as the day after their operations.

In a test of 100 patients, aged 2 to 78, handled in this way after surgery, St. Louis doctors find no adverse effects on the healing of clean, well-closed wounds.

CHILDHOOD ILLCERS

What happens to the adult who had a duodenal ulcer as a child?

A Mayo Clinic study indicates that the child ulcer sufferer has a good chance of ulcer symptoms when he becomes an adult, or as adolescent. The Mayo study covered 44 children who had ulcers before the age of 16. Of these, 30 were followed up study at ages 15 to 2

250 Canadian Signallers In the Congo Doing Vital Job Well for United Nations

Canada's signallers in The Congo work directly for the United Nations; their presence has little direct effect on the Congolese. In this story Leopoldville Defense, Canadian press reporter just back in Canada after being in The Congo since mid-August, describes their duties and living conditions and their contact through the native people.

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP) —Canadians performing a vital job for the United Nations in The Congo are from all accounts is doing well.

The bulk of the Canadian contribution is a 250-man signals service task is to pass messages, some in code, between Leopoldville headquarters and seven regional UN offices.

The 37 Canadian Signals Unit takes strictly for the UN military and civilian authorities. It handles no Congolese traffic, nor does it train Congolese signallers. The situation results from UN assistance and design.

The available Canadian manpower, working for the most part in intense heat and humidity, is limited to the limit. The Congo is big country and the unit could not do more without reduced efficiency.

In addition, UN policy, to which Canada adheres closely, prohibits bilateral assistance to The Congo from member countries. Under this policy, all aid must be channelled impersonally through the UN and its specialized agencies.

UN HANDLES MONEY

For example, the Canadian government paid $1,000,000 into a special UN fund for The Congo. The UN decides whether the money goes toward job-producing public works or helps meet the high operating costs of the UN force.

The Congolese know nothing about Canada and don't care. On the whole, they make no distinction between Canadians and other blue-helmet UN troops.

So far, Canada has done little to try to make itself known as distinct from social contacts individual Canadians have with the Congolese. They, however, are good ambassadors, especially with the 60odd Congolese who work around the Canadian camp as cleaners, housekeepers, kitchen waiters and assistant cooks. These Congolese appear intensely loyal to their new bosses. It's a novelty breed of kindness such as getting a Christmas party for the children of Congolese workers, or sending flowers to the funeral of a relative.

Apart from the signallers, there are a few small Canadian elements in the UN organization.

POLICE IN CAPITAL

A group of 10 Canadian Provost Corps police is kept busy in Leopoldville investigating auto accidents, thefts and other incidents involving UN personnel.

The key men in UN air operations are from the RCAF, but there again the job is limited to UN movements of troops and supplies. Only occasionally, under special circumstances, does the UN fly Congo troops and supplies.

At the start of operations Canada offered six Caribou aircraft with crews, but because Canada wanted to retain control of these aircraft the UN said no. The UN insists on control of all national contributions.

Even the twice-weekly RCAF North Star supply flights from Evreux, Que., to Leopoldville come under UN command once the piloted leave at Pisa, Italy, a refuelling point and UN staging area.

There are eight Canadian army officers on the UN Headquarters staff here and all but one have duties dealing almost wholly with UN matters and generally out of direct touch with the Congolese.

The exception is Lt.-Col. Jean Berthiaume of St. Hyacinthe, Que., generally regarded as the only UN officer who has the ear and trust of Col. Joseph Mobutu, The Congo's current boss.

CALL HIM PAPA

The Congolese call him "Papa Berthiaume," a nickname he encourages, especially in his private visits to the African quarter where he keeps in touch with opinion.

His standing as a trusted UN officer has not gone unrecognized in the local press which once "promoted" him of "General" in a news story.

Other Canadians, in small ways, have succeeded in winning over a few Congolese.

One is Cpl. Hans M. Breiter, 30, of Kitchener, N.B., a German-born hygiene assistant in the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps who is stationed at Gemena, in northern Equator province.

Gemena is a small bush town with more thatched huts than modern houses and where a signals detachment requires constant vigilance against the threat of tropical diseases. So far, no one has been affected.

To keep busy, Breiter has been giving first aid and practical nursing care to the Congolese in the town.

'PRACTICALLY GOD'

"He's the best kind of ambassador we could have up there," said an officer who visited Gemena. "He's practically God to the Congolese. It's quite a sight to watch him bounce black babies on his knee after treating them for minor hurts."

Outside the scope of the UN, Canadians, as individuals, have done little for The Congo.

A Red Cross team and three doctors represent the only Canadian medical assistance. Six others who arrived about 1 for a three-months tour returned to Canada in the fall.

Canada's representation figure in civil aviation, but only because the chief of the International Civil Aviation Organization mission happens to be a Canadian, Jean - Paul Fournier of Montreal.

Fournier has prepared plans to start in 1961 a training program for Congolese radio technicians and air traffic controllers, airport jobs now held by a few Europeans, Americans and Canadians.

Apart from the effects of political and military ups-and-downs in the country, morale of the Canadian troops is generally good. Morale usually dips after each holiday as the feelings of Canadians by Congo troops last August or the Canadian-Congolese battle at the Ghanaian embassy Nov. 27-28, when the Canadian officers mess was caught in the line of fire.

GRIPE ABOUT PAY

At such times the desire to leave the country becomes more pronounced.

The biggest gripe is about the Canadian government's delay in announcing a generally-expected special allowance for service in The Congo.

The signallers have been here since mid - August without any sign when the allowance will be announced or how much it will be. Apart from their pay, and the minimum foreign service allowance of $9 a month, the Canadians are paid 65 francs ($1.30) a day by the UN.

Because UN civilians get an allowance of $30 a day, plus their regular pay, and the headquarters' military staff get a UN allowance of $12 a day, the 65-francs - day troops feel like "poor relations."

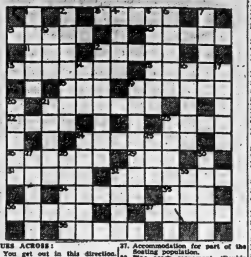
Canadians serving with the UN Emergency Force in Egypt receive a special Canadian allowance of $30 a month. It is understood the recommendation to the government from the Army is for more than that.

After a rough start in August and September, rations served to the Canadians are improving and more plentiful but there is no such variety as in messes in Canada. Rations are supplied by the UN.

MAN SEVEN OUTPOSTS

The signallers man their equipment 24 hours a day here and in the outposts: the port of Matadi; Coquilhatville and Gemena in Equator; Stanleyville in Orientale; Luluabourg in Kasai; and Kamina and Elizabethville in Katanga. Gemena is scheduled to close shortly, to be replaced by another detachment in Albertville, in Kivu.

Outside their work, the Canadians in Leopoldville have little to do: a movie three nights; an afternoon swim when off duty; a bit of outdoor sport such as tennis; an occasional afternoon or evening on pass downtown.



They live comfortably, one to a room in the boarding wings of a large private school in the best residential district of the capital.

On detachments, the smaller groups of eight to 10 man usually occupy a villa or apartments. They have fewer recreation facilities than here.

The absence of any UN policy on leaves for these is probably the major factor in the Canadian government's decision to limit the Congo tour of duty to six months, instead of a year as originally planned.

Rotation is to start in January, but some troops will not leave until about April.

New Political Year Starts Amid Uneasiness About Britain's Two-Party System

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A new political year opens amid uneasiness about the future of Britain's two-party system of parliamentary government.

With Prime Minister Macmillan's Conservatives sailing smoothly into their 11th year of rule, potential dangers for democracy are seen in the relative feebleness of opposition parties.

Popular support for High Gaitskell's Labor party appears to be slowly waning. Despite repeated warnings, Labor's struggle for its soul proceeds as furiously as ever, leading some commentators to suggest that Labor is failing the nation.

"The Labor party is in grave and imminent danger of destroying itself," warned James Margach, writing last October in The Sunday Times.

Labor's morale, long a poor third in British politics, moved chalkingly close to Labor but still had some distance to go to threaten the big battalions. In the "Little General Election" of November, eight byelections in the space of a week showed few startling trends. Six Conservatives and two Labor members defended their seats successfully. In four constituencies, Liberal candidates moved ahead of Labor into second place but only once threw a scare into the winning Conservative.

In all 11 byelections were held during 1960. Only one seat changed hands, the Conservatives wresting Brighouse and Spenborough from Labor in a March 17 vote.

With his political opposition occupied in internal battles, the Harold Macmillan has had little trouble keeping affairs in low key. In January, he forged the domestic scene for an African tour, climaxed by his historic "wind of change" speech at Cape Town, publicly dissociating Britain from the South African government's policy of racial apartheid.

In the Cold War, Macmillan pursued a conciliatory policy toward the Soviet Union but, with other Wester leaders, was disappointed when Nikita Khrushchev torpedoed the summit conference at Paris in May. As the time approached for the inauguration of John Kennedy, Macmillan hoped for a fairly early meeting with the new U.S. president, partly with the aim of discussing the possibility of a new Western initiative.

ATTACK MERGER IDEA

On the home front Macmillan came in for criticism from some section of the British press for what became known a "Mac Merger." This resulted from an off-the-record meeting with American correspondents, leading to published reports that Macmillan had alluded to the possibility of "Atlantic Union"—an ultimate merger of Britain and the United States.

Macmillan denied that he had even mentioned the phrase Atlantic Union. He said he had spoken in generalities about the need for increased Western cooperation to cope with the Communist challenge.

In the major cabinet shuffle of the year, Macmillan selected the Earl of Home, former Commonwealth relations secretary, to succeed Selwyn Lloyd as foreign secretary. Aviation Minister Duncan Sandys succeeded Lord Home at the Commonwealth relations office. The shuffle was made necessary by the resignation of Derick Heathcoat Amory as chancellor.

GAITSKELL OPPOSED

On the Labor side, it was a trying year for Gaitskell. Apart from the interminable wrangle over nuclear strategy, it was obvious that a vociferous minority in the party wanted to dislodge Gaitskell from the leadership. At the party conference at Scarborough in October, some Laborites marched up and down in front of the leader's hotel, chanting "Gaitskell Must Go."

Finally a rival candidate emerged when Harold Wilson, after some hesitation, declared himself a candidate for the leadership, marking the first time in nearly 30 years in which the incumbent leader has been challenged. In the vote Nov. 7, Gaitskell easily triumphed, less than one-third of the 250-odd Labor MPs voting for Wilson.

Nevertheless the big defence debate continued, with Gaitskell standing firmly behind the Western alliance despite pressure on the left for unilateral disarmament and something approaching neutralism. The unilateralists had a voting victory at Scarborough but Gaitskell promised to "fight and fight and fight again" to reverse the decision at the 1961 conference.

FIVE KILLED

CLEVELAND (AP)—Five children, ranging in age from five months to four years, died in an apartment building fire Thursday night. The mother, Mrs. Arotha Hawkins, 22, separated from her husband, told firemen she was asleep on a day bed when the fire broke out. She was not injured.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Comes the New Year weekend and sports-wise its glut of American football games, professional and college.

Up here in the Canadian north we'll be sitting in our igloos, toasting chestnuts over a whale-oil fire, watching the one-eyed monster in the living room, and thanking the good stars that we're not being toasted to death by Florida sun, dodging the California smog, or lubricating tonsils on that Rose Bowl orange juice.

Much has been said and written about the difference between American and Canadian styles and rules of football. We do not believe competition—when the Canadian champions could take the measure of such teams as the Philadelphia Eagles, the Green Bay Packers, the Baltimore Colts, the New York Giants and clubs of that ilk, but it seems to us, anyway, we can show the Americans a thing or two in the rules department.

It appears, to this department at least, that American teams on the offensive sometimes do a helluva lot of work without any remuneration.

They will "march" down the field from say, their five-yard line to the opponents' thirty. They make go rains on three downs and they must kick or attempt a field goal. The kick usually sails short of the field goal misses it is retrieved by a handy cop behind the deadline, handed to officials and, the defending team gets it on their own 20.

The same sequence for the punt reception. In a lot of cases the ball is kicked well behind the goal line where somebody retrieves it—and again it goes to the 20-yard line with the defending team in possession.

Canadian football authorities maintain that the American rules make for more down-to-down play the game or give a hard-pressed club time to get its wind, so to speak.

However, it has its good points. This was demonstrated in the Eagles-Packers game of last Monday in the dying seconds of the bruising classic.

With time running out the Packers were on the Eagles' 38-yard line. Without the time-out rule the clock would have ended the game before Vince Lombardi's men could have become organized.

Thirty-five yards and a few seconds to go. The Packers worked the time-out rule to death and nearly got away with it. They took time out and ran the ball into bounds to stop the clock. It was a desperate move, all the Packers had left.

But they worked the ball closer with the second hand barring the clock face. Then with 12 seconds remaining Starr flung his lucky Taylor and Hornung rammed it down to the nine-yard line before big Chuck Bednarik hauled him down—and the game was over.

A camera-shot of the pass revealed that there was an Eagle foul on the play, but apparently the officials and the Packers didn't notice it. At least nothing was said or done about it.

Darrell Royal, now coaching the University of Texas and who mentored the Edmonton Eskimos in 1953 is in favor of abolishing the tie.

He says: "No compensation is given a team for working the ball to the opposing 35 or 40-yard line. When you get that far and stall you punt. It usually goes into the end zone. The team then stands there and on its hips, knowing full well that his team will be given the ball at the 20. Why should a club be given 20 yards for doing nothing?

"In Canada," Royal said American college coaches, "they give you a point if you make an unreturnable punt beyond the end zone. That is fair. Look at it this way, too. A punt return is an offensive operation. But there dead, dull stereotyped old punt into the end zone by itself is a one-man deal. Why not bring all the 22 players into the play? There's a premium on group performance. When you get right down to it, we reward a team for inhalence. It's not right."

Patterson Boxer of Year

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)— Robinson, who last year was Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson of Rockville Centre, N.Y., Thursday was named boxer-of-the-year by the National Boxing Association.

"Patterson's historic feat in being the first to regain the heavyweight title made his choice unanimous among the committee," said Tony Petronella, chairman of the NBA's ratings group.

Patterson, 25, became the first fighter to rule the heavyweight division a second time with his five-round knockout of Sweden's Ingemar Johansson in their second bout at the Polo Grounds last June 20.

Johansson had dethroned Patterson in their first match at Yankee Stadium, June 22, 1959. He dropped Floyd seven times in the process of his three - round triumph.

Sugar Ray Robinson of New York was cited by the NBA with its designation as its boxer-of-the-month for December.

Says Maroons Would Play Smoke Eaters

CHATHAM (CP) — Playing-coach Ted Purvey of Chatham Maroons said Thursday he'd like Port Smoke Eaters to play Maroons an exhibition game here before the British Columbia team leaves for Europe and the world hockey tournament.

Purvey said in an interview the game would give the Maroons a chance to repay the Smoke Eaters "for the fine hospitality we received when we played the Allan Cup finals in Trail last season.

Chatham, of the Ontario Hockey Association senior A loop, won the Allan Cup and as a result was the first choice to represent Canada next March in the tournament in Switzerland. However, the Maroons decided instead to make a tour of Russia and Sweden.

Purvey said that an exhibition game be played between the two teams was made earlier this week but Smoke Eaters turned the Maroons from their unsuccessful tour.

Trail playing - coach Bobby Kromm had also expressed interest in here to have his team play the Maroons before leaving Jan. 29.

Russ Send 'Feeler' to Calgary Team

CALGARY (CP)—The Siberian sky-liners of the Western Hockey League have been approached by a Russian promoter suggesting a tour of Russia by the team early next year.

The Calgary newspaper says it learned that the proposal "so far has not reached official or diplomatic sources," but a "feeler" has been sent out to the club.

If the Stampeders are interested, a game between a Russian tour would be played against the team representing Russia at the world hockey tournament in March, the newspaper says.

The guests would be played before the tournament, making it possible for the Stampeder Athletic Association to "feel out" the Siberian outfit.

The Albertan quotes the promoter, described as operating in New York but willing to remain anonymous, as saying the Russians are definitely not interested in playing a National Hockey League team.

An official of the Calgary exhibition and stampede board, which owns the club, confirmed that he had been receiving representations on the matter for the past month.

Half-Million Fans Will See 'Bowls'

NEW YORK (AP) — The New Year's weekend college football bowl firing in the United States opens tonight in the Tangerine Bowl game at Orlando, Fla., and winds up Monday with the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif.

About 500,000 fans will turn out for 5 assorted bowl and all-star games.

Heading the list in usual is the oldest one of them all, the Rose Bowl clash, this time between the University of Minnesota (8-1) of the Big Ten and Washington State (9-1) of the Big Five.

Minnesota ended the regular season as the No. 1 team in the U.S. in the annual Associated Press poll and is a seven-point favorite over Washington, five other top 10 teams this year will be in action.

Mississippi, No. 3 tackles Rice in the Sugar Bowl; Navy, No. 4 opposes Missouri, No. 5, in the Cotton Bowl; and Arkansas, No. 7, meets Duke, No. 10, in the Cotton Bowl.

EXPECT BIG CROWDS

The Sugar Bowl crowd is expected to hit 81,000, with Mississippi favored by 10 points over Rice (7-3). Missouri (9-1) is 6½-point choice over Navy (9-1) at Miami, where a crowd of 76,000, including President - elect Kennedy, is expected. The Cotton Bowl turnout is estimated at 65,000 and Arkansas (8-2) is a seven - point choice over Duke (7-3).

That leaves seven other bowls for Sunday headed by the Gator at Jacksonville, Fla., between Baylor (8-2) and Florida (8-2) and the East-West Shrine game in San Francisco, Florida and Baylor are rated even, while the east is a five-point choice over the West.

The Gator Bowl crowd is estimated to be 50,000 with CBS TV to start at 2:15 p.m. EST. A turnout of 60,000 is looked for at San Francisco, with NBC TV at 4:30 p.m. EST.

Tonight's Tangerine Bowl matches the Citadel (7-3-1) and Tennessee Tech (8-2), with 11,000 fans expected.

In addition to the Rose Bowl, Monday's other attractions are the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans, the Orange at Miami, Fla., and the Cotton at Dallas, Tex.

Expansion Adds Need For Laws

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Estes Kefauver said today enlargement of baseball's major leagues adds to the need for a new federal law to require wide-open competition in player drafts.

Congress will reconvene Tuesday, Kefauver, Democrat-Tennessee, said he will introduce a bill to allow any major league club to bid not more than 40 players exempt from being drafted to other clubs in an annual preseason draft.

"The advent of new teams in the American and National leagues makes this all the more needed," Kefauver said in an interview. He added that it would permit weaker clubs to build their power and thus provide better competition.

Kefauver heads the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee investigating underworld infiltration of boxing. He plans more hearings on this in January.

Hockey Team Reinstated

REGINA (CP)—The last-place Prince Albert Mintos were reinstated in the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League Thursday after a special meeting of league officials.

They were indefinitely suspended last Tuesday by league commissioner Frank Boucher of Saskatoon following the announcement by manager Steve Ruzniak that Prince Albert had sold defencemen Jim Neilson to Brandon Wheat Kings of the Manitoba Junior League.

Boucher overturned the suspension for actions termed "detrimental to the welfare of the league."

The reinstatement, effective immediately, is based on the understanding that the deal involving Neilson to Brandon will be rescinded and that three players who had disputed with under the league player pool system will be retained by Prince Albert.

COSTS RUN HIGH

WASHINGTON (AP)—The USS Constellation fire in the Brooklyn, N.Y., navy yard will bring the largest total in benefit payments ever arising from one accident under the Federal Employees Compensation Act, Labor Secretary James Mitchell said Thursday that compensation to survivors of the 50 dead and 300 injured may go as high as $55,000,000.

Junior Jottings

The Macs, carrying a four-game winning streak, will visit the floundering Cobourg Rockets in the Intermediate town tonight, when a Belleville win will lift them into a tie for first with League champions.

Currently tied with Whitby for second spot, each with 12 points, the Macs have won two and tied two of their last four starts. Coach Bill Hill will have his fingers crossed that the lowly Rockets don't pull an upset tonight.

Peterborough Canucks are two points ahead of Whitby in the Senior loop while Kingston is in fourth with eight points. They play there tonight. A Peterborough lineup shows that Belleville Bee Hives coach has been dropped from Scotty Bowman's "A" squad to the "B's". He will not see action.

None of the Macs has caught up to Paul McGill in the scoring race as yet, although McGill missed Wednesday's game due to his injury. He was in the game and wanted to dress but Coach Hill felt it best to give the blades until Friday at least. He'll likely play tonight. Moe Gainer is just two points back of McGill in the scoring race. Hunter has three goals and eight assists for 17 points.

There is a bitter feud going on between Cobourg management and the Ford family of Gananoque. The Ford boys, Pete and Dave, have quit the Frontenacs after playing last year and part of this. They were refused travelling money, so the story goes, and "you" Ford is up in arms. He was quoted Wednesday as saying he would drive the boys "300 miles to play hockey for anybody except Kingston." Pete and John worked out with the Macs once here and will likely join the club if returns can be obtained from the Frontenacs. One is a defenceman, the other a winger.

The MacFarlands used a bus to travel to Wednesday's game for the first time and manager Bob Macfarland said they were travelling by bus from here on in. It's much safer than cars especially in the wintertime.

Pieton Merchants have yet to play a home game this season. Manager Bob Macfarland the completion of the Picton arena's new ice surface and one is sure yet just when it will be ready.

The Macs have a full schedule for the next week, playing at home to Kingston on Wednesday, Cobourg Rockets on Thursday, Whitby on Saturday and Peterborough night in Belleville January 9. Canucks are the only club the Macs have not beaten in league play. They're losing once, all in overtime.

GETS ADDED TERM

SUDBURY (CP)—A prisoner from the Burwash Industrial Farm here, who escaped briefly Wednesday, was sentenced Thursday to six months in Nipissing detention home to be added to the 14-month term he already was serving. Gerard Lionel Allard, 24, of London, Ont., escaped while working on a garbage clearing land. He had been sentenced at London for breaking and entering.

Meet Oilers for Title

L.A. Rated Underdogs

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Houston Oilers will put Los Angeles to double their defensive efforts in the Texans' fourth game Sunday when they meet Los Angeles Chargers for the American Football League championship.

The Chargers have a habit of scoring 27 points and more regardless of their breaking loose in the final 15 minutes.

While winning the AFL western division with a record of 10 victories and four losses, the Chargers exploded for 137 points in the final quarter while defeating the opposition to 66.

Los Angeles Chargers, will be a 4½ - point underdog for the league's first title clash. Houston also has a 10-game winning streak in which the Chargers scored 46 points a game. In the same stretch, Houston was winning three games and being shut out in another while averaging only 20 points.

Over the 14-game season, Houston held an edge on offense over the Chargers, 3,536 yards over the Oilers on total defence.

With its top-lately passing attack and the third-best ground game in the league, Houston averaged 351.2 yards and 24 points a game. The weakest pass defence dropped the Oilers to sixth ranking on total defence, with with the opposition averaging 3,071 yards and 29 points.

Los Angeles ranked fourth in both attack and defence, each averaging 336.6 yards and 26.6 points. The Chargers were third in total defence, however, allowing an average of 3,082 yards and 23.2 points a game.

Ironically, the two division champions each had a record of three of the five shutouts recorded in the AFL's first year of operations. Los Angeles was blanked by Dallas Texans and Boston by Oilers. Houston was shut out by Dallas, Boston was on the receiving end of shutouts registered by Buffalo Bills and Dallas.

American Tennis Star Suspended

Fleming Says He'll Play In Canada

VANCOUVER (CP)—Halfback Peter Fleming said Thursday he expects he'll play football in Canada for the next four years, and probably longer.

The four-year duration would be from the end of a contract he signed recently with British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union. The contract covers three years with an option for renewal for a fourth.

"My three year contract doesn't necessarily mean I'll be there three years," the former Iowa University star told a reporter Thursday. "I could get cut from the team."

That would release both sides from contract obligations, Fleming said, "but I wouldn't try doing anything deliberately to get cut."

"I have no intention of jumping my contract," he added, clarifying earlier remarks which indicated he might break his contract to join Philadelphia of the National Football League champions, if they made him a better financial offer than that contained in his contract with Lions.

The 21-year-old speedster finished second in the WIFU scoring and set team records in rushing and scoring during 1960. He came to the Lions two years ago.

NEW YORK (AP)—American tennis star Chuck McKinley was suspended indefinitely by the United States Lawn Tennis Association Thursday for his racket-throwing tactics in the recent Davis Cup interzone finals at Perth, Australia.

The length of the suspension depends on action of the association's executive committee when it meets in New Orleans Feb. 4.

McKinley, ranked fourth in the U.S., is the country's chief Davis Cup hope now that Barry MacKay and Earl Buchholz have Kramer's touring group.

McKinley, 19, of St. Louis, said he is not thinking of following the pro trail. His suspension was announced here by George E. Barnes, president of the USLTA.

"No one from the USLTA contacted me or gave me any formal notification," McKinley said in an interview in St. Louis. "I don't know what the charges against me are. I still hope to play tennis and I intend to keep in shape."

WON'T TURN PRO

The USLTA indoor tournament begins Feb. 9 (in New York) and maybe the executive committee will see fit to let me play when it meets the preceding week. But there are thoughts of turning pro at this time."

The USLTA did not specify the charges against McKinley. But an association spokesman left no doubt that it was the racket-throwing incident after McKinley and Buchholz lost to the Italians in the doubles at Perth that prompted the suspension.

Barnes said the decision was made because McKinley "acted in a way detrimental to the welfare of the game" while in Australia as a member of the U.S. team. Barnes said the suspension was concurred in by David Freed non-playing captain of the team.

Ring Bouts Took Lives Of 10 Boxers

NEW YORK (AP)—Ten boxers, five of them professional and five amateur, died in ring contests during 1960 according to the annual survey of Ring magazine.

Four boxers met their death in the United States, two of them pro and two amateur. Four died in Mexico. The other fatalities were in Algeria and France.

Tommy Pacheco, 20-year-old Puerto Rican, died as the result of a New York pro bout and Lewis Tuffpe, a Jlouston welterweight, died 104 days after being injured in a bout at Pensacola, Fla., One of the amateurs who died in the U.S. was Charles Mohr of New York, a University of Wisconsin boxer.

All four of the Mexican fatalities were professionals. They were Cleon Zarate, Mexico City lightweight; Santiago Perez of Saltillo, Mexico; and Soo Gueret of Mexico City and Rafael Rodriguez, of Mexico City.

Soo Birds Win Over Hull Ottawa

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds increased their second Hockey League edge to four points hursday night with a 5-3 victory over league leading Hull-Ottawa Canadiens.

The largest crowd of the season, 3,500, watched as the Soo trailed 1-0 at the end of the first period and then took a 3-2 margin at the end of the season. It was their third victory over the league leaders this season against five losses.

Centre Norman Waslowski, who came to Thunderbirds in a switch with Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League, scored two goals. Single counters for Soo went to Alain Caron, Fred Hills and Cliff Schmautz. Hull markers were scored by Yves Lecas, playing-coach Glen Sloan and John Annable.

Roy Edwards took Dennis Dejordy's place in goal and stopped 26 shots. Dejordy and defenceman Bob Wilson went to Buffalo Tuesday for defenceman Rino Robazza, Wawrzeski and Edwards.

Referee John Ashley called only two penalties, one to each team.

Queen's Invitation Tournament

Quinte Wins Cage Crown

Quinte Secondary School of Belleville captured its second Queen's University Invitational basketball tournament yesterday, defeating Waterloo Vikings in the finaler game by nap a perfect four-game record.

The QSS squad, coached by Max Woolley and led by Most-scoring Bill Green, met the Waterloo club for the second time in the Queen's gym at nine o'clock last night and took the Vikings by a 56-46 score to wrap up the championship.

Earlier in the day, QSS downed Waterloo by a 42-36 score in the tourney's opening game. They went on from there to beat Queen Elizabeth of Kingston 53-34 and KCVI of Kingston 49-37 in gain entry into the finals.

Waterloo, after dropping their first game to QSS, won from there on in to qualify for the titular game. One of the Waterloo victories came at the expense of Belleville's other entry in the tournament, Moira Secondary School.

Moira, coached by Jack Perry lost a pair of close ones to bow out of competition. They dropped a 29-27 tilt to Queen Elizabeth and a 37-33 game to Waterloo.

Eight teams in all were entered in the tournament. They were Quinte and Moira from Belleville, QECVI and KCVI from Kingston, North Bay, Smith Falls, Waterloo and Cornwall.

Quinte team officials this morning credited the victory to QECVI while Paul Campbell was top point man in the win over KCVI. Followll, Green, Locke, Davis and Campbell were high on the scoring list all day.

Woolley's team, undefeated in a couple of local exhibition tilts, will play in the Bay of Quinte COSSA league with teams from Napanee, SCIVS, Trenton, Picton and Moira. The league schedule will open January 6.

Members of the winning Quinte team are: Doug Rose, Rick Locke, Bob Followll, Gary Davis, Paul Campbell, Bill Green, Larry Mills, Gordon Marriott, Bob Michaud and Alex McNaught.

Award. Three was no tournament last year."

The victory yesterday made it two out of three for Quinte. They lost out in the tourney several years ago before 'challenging up the 1955 and 1960 victories.

Gary Davis and Rick Locke were the top men in the champions' initial win over Waterloo yesterday. Bill Green and Bob Followll sparked the win over QECVI while Paul Campbell was top point man in the win over KCVI. Followll, Green, Locke, Davis and Campbell were high on the scoring list all day.

Woolley's team, undefeated in a couple of local exhibition tilts, will play in the Bay of Quinte COSSA league with teams from Napanee, SCIVS, Trenton, Picton and Moira. The league schedule will open January 6.

Members of the winning Quinte team are: Doug Rose, Rick Locke, Bob Followll, Gary Davis, Paul Campbell, Bill Green, Larry Mills, Gordon Marriott, Bob Michaud and Alex McNaught.

Harmsworth Races in 1961

U.S.A. Issues Challenge

DETROIT (AP)—The United States has issued a formal challenge to Canada for the Harmsworth trophy, the top prize of international powerboating.

Leonard H. Thompson, secretary of the Yachtsmen's Association of America, said Thursday he had sent the challenge to the Canadian Boating Federation at Toronto.

Canada's Miss Supertest III won the trophy for the first time two years ago on the Detroit River. Miss Supertest successfully defended the Harmsworth last August at Picton, defeating three U.S. challengers. The Canadian hydroplane is owned by Jim Thomson of London, Ont.

Thompson said the American challenge was made at the request of Joe and Lee Schoenith of Detroit, who hope to enter Gale VI in the international event. The Schoenihs are experimenting with a Packard power plant in the new Gale VI.

Their Gale V was one of the boats defeated by Miss Supertest at Picton. The others were Nitrogen and Nitrogen Too, both owned by Sam Dupont of Wilmington, Del.

Gale will have to compete in time trials to any other American boats decide to challenge for the 1961 Harmsworth.

Starting most year Harmsworth rules specify that a challenging country can enter only one boat.

NOT SURPRISED

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders were not too surprised to hear Thursday that Steve Owen has signed as head coach of Saskatchewan Roughriders.

General Manager Jim Finks said Owen's contract with the Western Interprovincial Football Union club had ended with the last game of the season and Owen was told he was "free to accept any offers."

Owen took over here as coach after the resignation of Otis Douglas. Stampeders still have not announced a coach for 1961.

'Bums' Offer Coach Job To Durocher

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Leo Durocher, complaining that he needs a job he baseball, may get next season with Los Angeles Dodgers. They want to take him on as a coach.

"I'm not signed yet," Durocher said Thursday. "But I'm tremendously interested and flattered by the possibility of joining the Dodgers."

Durocher is expected to meet Dodger officials next month.

"We would be happy to have Durocher," said Dodger general manager Buzzie Bavasi. "We know that once he gets back into the game it will not be long before he will get offers from other clubs to serve as manager. At that time we will, of course, be very pleased to release him."

Durocher began his managerial career with the old Brooklyn Dodgers in 1939 and later became manager of New York Giants. He quit the Giants in 1955. Leo has said big league clubs probably been giving the "brush" when scrapping managerial candidates.

Present Belgian Upheaval Caused by Congo Crisis

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Obviously, the immediate cause of the present Belgian upheaval is the country's disastrous entanglement in The Congo Crisis.

But the external pressures created by Belgium's hasty liquidation of its African empire have blown the lid off a Pandora's box of endemic hostility in the normally placid bilingual kingdom.

The austerity legislation that created the wave of strikes and violence was clearly tied to the heavy financial losses sustained as a result of Belgium's hurried abandonment of The Congo.

The government's handling of the situation had been a subject of bitter controversy, and the opposition Socialists vehement in their denunciations, first of repressive rule, later of insufficient preparations for the colony's abrupt transition to independence.

FEEL VICTIMIZED

When Premier Gaston Eyskens introduced his sweeping measures to deal with the agonizing blow to the country's economy, Socialist resentment was exacerbated by the feeling that they fell most heavily on the working class.

Despite its majority of 45 in a 212-seat chamber of representatives, Eyskens' right-wing coalition would have been sorely threatened by an all-out general strike. But antagonisms older than The Congo dispute cut across the solidarity of the working class.

The chief support for the Socialists came from trade unionists in the Flemish - speaking southern half of the country. The unions of the Flemish - speaking south, after early signs of sympathy, withdrew their backing as the opposing sides took up positions along traditional ethnic lines.

Religious bitterness also played its part in fanning the flames as Eyskens' Social Christian party, strongly influenced by the Roman Catholic Church, clashed with the anti - clerical Socialists.

Belgium's experience offers a reminder that national unity in a biracial state can be gravely weakened in times of crisis.

Violent Belgian Strikes Have Serious Political Overtones

By FRED CHEVAL

BRUSSELS (AP)—The violent Belgian strikes that have paralyzed wirker against worker and pitting Socialist against bourgeois are directed primarily against the government's proposed austerity program.

There also are political overtones in the rioting by Socialist-led union members against the Conservative - Flemish Catholic government of Premier Gaston Eyskens.

The Belgian Socialist party with more than 700,000 union members and supported by other Socialist-controlled union organizations, is unyielding in its quarter fight against the bill that would increase taxes and cut social benefits to offset Belgium's losses in The Congo.

Joining the Socialists in moral if not active support are many independents who see the measure as a subterfuge for a tax increase, and many rich businessmen who would be hit hard by the program.

TAXED THE MOST

Belgian workers already are the most heavily taxed of the six-power European Coal-Steel Community.

Opposed are 800,000 members of the Christian (Catholic) trade unions and others who see the demonstrations as revolutionary attempts to topple the Eyskens government.

The bill was hastily put together by the government to cope with budget deficits and the worsening economic situation caused by Belgium's loss of its big former colony in Africa.

Besides a tax increase estimated by the government at 6,000,000,000 francs (120,000,000), the bill also contains provisions that would limit unemployment allowance payments to workers and reduce the scope of pension benefits for early retiring civil servants.

ALONE TO WAGES

The bill increases taxes on real estate, automobiles and dividends. It also will increase sales and municipal taxes.

The bill, the government says, will provide the savings amounting to 10,000,000,000 francs ($200,-000,000) in government expenses. Though Socialists have seen it, the strike movement and demonstrations have a political significance.

Everyone believes that a face-saving compromise is likely. The government has indicated its willingness to bend.

Many observers also believe that the government may have to resign, and call for new elections, as a result of the disturbances. The present tension has shown the impossibility of governing efficiently until the man in the street has his say again.

SAILORS LIKED JOKE

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bob Hope returned from a Christmas tour of U.S. Caribbean military bases Wednesday and told reporters he got his biggest laugh while entertaining servicemen at the navy's Guantanamo base in Cuba. "I told them, 'Here you don't have to be a friend of Fidel, just reach out and feel their chin.' They loved that one," Hope said.

Yvonne Lime Will Return To Nice Husband and Baby

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — When pretty blonde Yvonne Lime turned up this fall as a secretary in the office of Buddy in bringing Up Buddy, a woman fan wrote a letter to the actress.

"Why," she demanded, "did you leave your nice husband and lovely baby to go to work in an office?"

Well, the lady will be happy to know that on Friday, Jan. 13, Yvonne will return to her nice husband and a lovely baby. Happy, a featherweight situation comedy which helped fill in the Perry Como hour during the hot summer months, will be returning to the NBC air waves. Thus Yvonne, Ronnie Burns and the baby (played alternately by Twins David and Steven Born) will be back together again.

In what Hollywood calls "real life," Yvonne and Ronnie, who play the young couple, are respectively spinster and bachelor. When Happy failed to survive the fall network schedules, Yvonne went to work in Bringing up Buddy, and there was some idea of building up a romance between Buddy and Yvonne at some point or other in that series. That's all over now.

All sorts of remodelling work is being done on the series to improve the show.

Tuesday's repeat of NBC's Project 20 The Twisted Cross will mark the fifth time the harrowing documentary about Hitler's rise will have been shown since 1956.

AT THE McCARTHY — Jack Lemmon (left), commanding a Navy ship, and Tony Curtis, a Navy supply officer, are starring together in the Fred Kohlmar production, "The Wackiest Ship in the Army." The Columbia Pictures' comedy was filmed in Cinemascope and Eastman Color, and will play a special Holiday Season engagement, beginning at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE PARK — Red Skelton, your TV host for the Park's "Giant Laff Show" in Mickey Rooney's "The Great Diamond Robbery", showing today and Saturday at the Park Theatre. On the same program Huntz Hall and the Bowery Boys in "Hot Shots", also shown on the Giant Laff Show are Three Stooges in "Income Tax Sappy Hattans. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00, doors open at 12.30 p.m.

Saturday, December 21

General tendencies: Today gives you with every sort of chance to get a great deal accomplished, but it is necessary to go through tonight a tendency to be over - emotional and happy and to over - indulge in eating habits should be studiously avoided. Make sure you have plan to get your affairs on the rails and enjoy arrival of the New Year with all senses fully alert.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Get your letters, writing done as short and precise fashion etc. Then git busy with the holiday preparations, etc. There's nothing that will take the prestige you enjoy. Keep in touch with influential people.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — This is an excellent day to get your monetary affairs handled quickly. The remainder of the day is then fine for making friends, but be discriminating and wise in the selection of those you want to be in your circle from now on.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — You are one morning when you will be faster to none and concentrate all on own desires and ambitions. Improve health and appearance. Have lots of fun tonight, but don't be extravagant. Watch the new-year right-now-ities.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — Go ahead and make those arrangements you like in a quiet and determined fashion. Spend the evening. It would be best to be most co-operative and appreciate or make so that there can be no arguments. Be feminine, wear a smile.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — You have every opportunity now to convince a good friend of your ability and capability through some - hearted co-operation. You have a wonderful time, but be sure you treat others as you would like them to treat you. Be kind.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Morning is ideal for any civic affairs that are important. Later, don't raise the ire of anyone you are with. Be delightful and amusing with everyone and this can be a very wonderful day and evening for you. Smile.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — This is one of those fine days when in A. M. you get wonderful ideas that will help you to be more successful. Be careful during remainder of the day that you are not sarcastic, especially with closest ties.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — Morning should be spent getting finances and practical affairs in order. Be very careful later while driving out on the road and steer clear of that individual who attempts to argue. Be a peacemaker and win out.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — This is one morning when you can come to a far better understanding with associates, so be sure to have a friendly conference with them. Be careful in P.M. you do not invest or spend money extravagantly. Maintain present security.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — During A. M. you can handle any work or problems wisely and confidently and get the co-operation of those not so well off as you. Be careful this evening that you are not forceful with others or you can get into serious trouble.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Plans for holiday fun can be completed very nicely this A. M. Later, don't deviate from these arrangements, otherwise every - thing is bound to go wrong. Be sure you have not been unnecessarily extravagant. Dress very smartly.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — During A. M. you can get all affairs connected with home and family handled ideally. Increase harmony and security for the future. Maintain a cheerful attitude throughout the evening and make good impression on serious friends.

If your child is born today — he, or she, will be one of those spiritual and mentally alert young stars who is always up to something. Be sure you early teach to finish whatever is once started. Once this habit is formed, then the chart becomes most successful, especially in a profession where cleverness and speed are most required. Give as formal an education as you can afford. Be understanding.

CHILD FOR ADOPTION
CHRISTIE — a lively, pretty 8-pound girl is waiting for parents of her very own. She has brown hair, blue eyes and a sweet disposition. Little Christie is a healthy, normal child and was premature by three weeks. Born with honors. There is a history of Huntington's Chorea in her family but she has been examined recently and there is a very remote chance of developing the disease. We think this. Christie will be placed as the foster child to adopts her, fully aware of her background and able to accept it.
Roman Catholic couples wanting to inquire further with a view of adoption, should write to:

Many Prominent Canadians In Diplomacy, Politics, Sports Died During 1960

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Death reached into the spheres of politics, diplomacy, sport and entertainment to claim many prominent Canadians during 1960.

Such famous names as Arthur Meighen, Earl Baving, Lester and Frank Patrick and Mack Sennett were among those who died.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, 86, was prime minister on three occasions and served 43 years in the years in Parliament and hailed by admirers and foes alike as one of Canada's great orators and statesmen, died in his sleep in Toronto Aug. 2.

Premier Paul Sauve of Quebec, who died Jan. 2 after a heart attack earlier to succeed the late Maurice Duplessis, died of a heart attack June 13 at 61. Although in office only 114 days, he had already made particular progress on his hard helping solve some complex problems concerning control of the thorny question of relations between Ottawa and Quebec.

Another outstanding Liberal defence minister and MP for Hamilton, Brig. Gen. Ralston, died from 1940 to 1954, died of cancer June 13 at 68. He was Canada's first health minister and drafted the family allowance legislation. After leaving Parliament he became an insurance executive and public speaker and a leader in promoting Canada Council.

FORMER PREMIER DIED

Many other political personalities who died in 1960 were: Hon. Thomas D. McConnery, five premier of New Brunswick in 1917; Senator Frederick Mundell, 75, former provincial leader in the Nova Scotia legislature; Hon. Ian A. Mackenzie, 66, of Saint John, N.B., and Vancouver, former lieutenant-governor, and Eric Hanson, 70, former lieutenant-governor of British Columbia.

Death took three sitting members of the House of Commons and five former MP: Hayden Stanton, 62, MP for Leeds; Gordon Fraser, 69, PC representative for Peterborough since 1940; William Ross, 70, MP for Cochrane since 1940; Niagara Falls, and Clarie Gillis, 61, CCF member for Cape Breton South.

Other sports personalities who died were: Lester Patrick, 70, the "Silver Fox" who climbed from coach of the New York Rangers, died in Vancouver Jan. 1; Frank Patrick, brother of Patrick died at 74. Both Patrick's had won spots in hockey's Hall of Fame.

George Dudley, 68, Midland, Ont., former amateur athletic director of the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union, died May 8. He was also president of the International Ice Hockey Federation.

KILLED IN ACCIDENTS

Tom Foley, 38, Ottawa radio executive known through out Canada his between - period commentary during hockey games on Hockey Night, was killed in a car accident near Ottawa Jan. 22, died Nov. 21 in a plane crash in Colombia, one of the country's two major car drivers, died Nov. 21 in a plane crash in Colombia.

Sport stars of the past who died in 1960 included Howie Morenz, a member of the original world champion Montreal Canadiens hockey team; Jack Laviolette, 80, star defenceman with the same team; died between 1910 to 1919, and George (Buck) Boucher, 70, another hockey League player and coach from 1921 to 1934 and a member of the Hall of Fame.

Rt. Rev. Philip R. Beattie, at 62, Anglican Bishop of Montreal and of the Anglican Church of Canada, died Jan. 1. Richmond, B.C. He was elected bishop of the diocese in 1952.

Rt. Rev. Antonio d'Eschambault, 63, chairman of the history of the Roman Catholic Church in Canada, died May 18 at St. Boniface, Man. Archbishop emeritus of St. Boniface, who died included Bishop John Lambert, 65, world spiritual head of the Butterfield, at Wilson Hut-ly entertained Mr. and Mrs. Roy Neal of Belleville.

Recent guests of Mrs. Charles Dafoe were Mrs. Dafoe's sister, Mrs. Allbouse, of Peterborough and Mrs. Wood, James Malmont of Port Hope.

CHURCH SERVICE

On Christmas morning the pastor, the Rev. Frederick A. Fletcher, B.A., conducted a church service for Rawdon church in Wesley Pleasant United Church. Members of the Rawdon and Bethel were in attendance. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion with poinsettias and evergreens. Miss Carol Sharpe rendered a vocal solo. Organ music was provided by organ, and piano by Mrs. Kenneth Weaver and Mrs. Ross Sharpe.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Seymour of Springbrook were Christmas guests of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Seymour with relatives at Peterborough.

FIGHT TO A DRAW

STOCKHOLM (AP) — World champion Mikhail Tahl and Norway's Nordic champion Svein Johannsen fought to a draw in the opening game of an international chess tournament Thursday night. Tahl, of Soviet Russia, offered a draw after the 40th move and the Norwegian accepted.

Sent for Trial On Murder Count

TORONTO (CP) — Joseph Beckett, 36, Thursday was committed for trial on a charge of murder in the Nov. 22 death of Robert Hamilton after a drinking bout in a downtown rooming house.

Pathologist Dr. Chester McLean testified at a preliminary hearing Thursday the victim had suffered multiple injuries and that her nose and three of her ribs had been fractured.

Stanley Clement told Magistrate Donald Graham the 35-year-old victim, formerly of Arnprior, had been drinking with him at a rooming house servicing his own the night of Nov. 22.

GROWTH SLOWER — Canada's gross national product—the sum of all goods and services—grew during 1960 but at a slower rate than during the previous year.

In 1949 the gross national product was $18,343,000,000 compared with an estimated $34,000,000,000 for 1960. The 1960 figure, if expressed in 1949 dollars, would be $5,160,000,000. (CP Newsmap.)

Hold Hope for Economic Upturn in '61; Job Seekers Present Biggest Challenge

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian economy, which fell short of the rosy hopes for 1960, faces continued challenges in the coming year.

Unemployment has shaped up as the country's biggest domestic problem, with growing numbers of young people looking for their first jobs in an economy that is struggling to maintain its headway.

No less sobering are other aspects of the Canadian outlook.

Finance Minister Fleming, in his budget speech, saw "a period of less intense economic activity" ahead. He spoke of future problems for export trade—an area of trade that did much to keep 1960 from being worse than it was.

Private forecasters spoke of the slowdown as a recession but many called it a mild one and forecast an upturn in the latter part of 1961.

In a year-end statement, Trade Minister Hees said a number of "strong sustaining forces" underlie the economy including a firmer trend in housebuilding and a continued rise in personal incomes. He also predicted little or no increase in capital spending by business in 1961 and said the export prospects are clouded by business hesitation in some major markets.

GROWTH SLOWED

The year just ending began with high hopes that the 1959 upswing would continue unabated. There was even official fears that the expected upsurge would produce harmful inflationary pressures. The government forecast that the Gross National Product—total value of goods and services produced — would rise six per cent to between $36,000,000,000 and $37,000,000,000.

Instead, total production hit an annual rate of $35,342,000,000 during the first nine months of the year. This was 2.9 per cent above the corresponding period of 1959 and only 2.2 per cent ahead of the 1959 full year figure of $34,485,000,000.

Higher prices accounted for a good share of the increase. Physical volume of national production gained 1.6 per cent in contrast with the average annual gain of four per cent in postwar years.

In his Dec. 20 budget, Mr. Fleming said most if not all of the immediate forces of inflation have been spent. The consumer price index at Nov. 1 was 126.8, up 1.3 points from a year earlier.

The budget speech pointed to records set during 1960 in production and consumption, trade and employment.

The number of Canadians at work in November as against a 5,930,000 a year earlier.

But the labor force grew faster —up 2.8 per cent on the average —and numbered 6,438,000 in November. Monthly unemployment figures set postwar records, and mid-November found 429,000 jobless, 6.6 per cent of the labor force.

SOME BRIGHT SPOTS

There were some encouraging signs in the economy.

Labor income was up by a relatively strong four per cent and by the third quarter of the year was hitting an annual rate of $18,436,000,000.

Moreover, there was a growing pool of purchasing power Canadians had $7,128,000,000 in savings accounts at mid-December, up $800,000,000 from a year earlier.

It appeared the country had grown by some 360,000 people during the year. The population passed the 18,000,000 mark early in November.

Industrial production, after hitting a 1960 low in July, registered three monthly advances in a row. But these weren't enough to offset the first-half decline. The index of industrial production, adjusted for seasonal variations, stood at 158 in October, about 2 per cent from the January peak of 173.5.

House-building activity picked up toward's year end after a sharp slump. The government's altered National Housing Act mortgage terms to make down-payments easier, and was forecasting 130,000 new homes would be started this year as against 114,300 in 1959.

The same buoyancy, however, did not develop in business and industrial construction. It appeared that total capital investment in 1960 would fall short of earlier expectations of a 3.5-per-cent rise to $8,712,000,000.

The biggest and brightest economic story of the year was told in the strong upswing in export sales.

Despite a two-per-cent decline in exports to the United States, total exports to the end of November rose to $4,953,800,000, up 6.4 per cent from a year earlier.

Overseas exports rose 20.9 per cent as markets in Britain, Western Europe and Japan bobbled up Canadian goods, notably industrial raw materials. Canada's imports remained virtually unchanged.

Four monthly merchandise trade surpluses in a row during July-October helped cut down the big deficit which stood at $213,800,000 at the end of November.

Finance Minister Fleming forecast that surpluses would exist until the big deficit would largely disappear by year's end.

CUTS INVESTMENT

He estimated an over-all trade deficit in goods and services of about $1,000,000,000 for the year, the lowest since 1955. Virtually all of this would be a deficit from "invisible" items, mostly interest and dividends on foreign investors, freight costs and tourist expenditures.

His budget moved to push this figure even closer to a balance by withdrawing tax incentives to the inflow of foreign capital.

But the budget, and other official statements, were not entirely gloomy optimism for the future of export trade.

"We now find ourselves in a re-equipped and highly competitive world," Mr. Fleming said, and called for renewed efforts to keep Canadian goods competitive.

He said that in Western Europe —one of Canada's most buoyant markets this year—there have been indications that a slow down in the rate of expansion, particularly in the United Kingdom. Canada's largest overseas market, had been close to a standstill for the early summer.

Meanwhile Canada in trade faced the uncertainty of what might develop in the powerful six - nation European Common Market, which is erecting a common tariff barrier against outside goods.

TARIFFS MAY RISE

In Geneva negotiations of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, which will continue well into 1961, Canada was fighting to maintain favorable terms of entry for this country's goods Mr. Fleming and Trade Minister Hees spoke of possible Canadian tariff increases if the Common Market nations wipe out existing preferences given to Canadian goods in that wealthy market.

Another problem for the future was the possibility of the United Kingdom slicing itself with the Common Market, with a consequent loss for Canada of its Commonwealth tariff preferences in Britain.

In the important field of capital expansion in Canada—a key economic stimulus in the past—there was little sign of an early pickup.

Mr. Fleming said many areas of North American industry have excess capacity. He indicated a lack of adjustment in world wide markets catch up with productive capacity.

Canada's capital investment generally has expanded less rapidly than in the past, he said.

And with the removal of incentives to foreign capital, a greater share of investment will likely be financed by Canadians.

The rate of foreign capital inflow in the past, the minister said, is a necessary stimulus to our current economic circumstances."

British Experts Await Facts On Baby Budget

By BORIS MISKEW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) Financial experts are awaiting further information from Canada before trying to assess the economic effects of Canada's supplementary budget.

The budget, brought down last week by Finance Minister Fleming, was aimed primarily at restricting foreign investment. Its effects were speedy.

The Canadian dollar appears in line on the point of reaching or dropping below parity with the United States dollar for the first time since the early 1950s. It had whittled down to a premium of one-third of one per cent when the London market closed Wednesday.

The Daily Telegraph says the supplementary budget has given two potential advantages to Canadian business by causing the premium on the Canadian dollar almost to disappear.

It will help Canadian exporters, particularly of manufactured goods as newsprint, whose contracts are often expressed in U.S. dollars, the Conservative newspaper says.

"It will also aid certain Canadian manufacturers, who have frequently found themselves at a disadvantage against outside competition in their home market when the premium has been high."

The Financial Times says the reshaping of Canada's "external payments situation" could be because the Canadian authorities have become convinced that capital it may be in the longer run.

A falling off in the capital inflow from the U.S. should help strengthen the country's current account payments, the influential newspaper adds.

A fall in the value of the Canadian dollar in the wake of a contraction in the capital inflow from the United States appears to encourage imports in some measure.

"But it could be some little while before Canada begins to benefit on a large scale from these processes. . . ."

Virgins Scarce Among Engaged States Doctor

HALIFAX (CP) — Dr. Jean Lawson, wife of a Presbyterian Church minister, said at a conference of university students Wednesday that these days if a girl is engaged she is more likely not to be a virgin."

Dr. Lawson, wife of outspoken Rev. Frank Lawson of St. John's Presbyterian Church here, said the morality appears to have declined since her student days in the early 1930s.

"Sometimes girls come to me and they say they have been told by a lawyer to get married without any shame. I see other girls who are completely unwitted. They say they had to give up the only friends or fiances because they were afraid of losing them."

A medical doctor and mother of three children, Dr. Lawson spoke to delegates attending a conference sponsored by the Student Christian Movement. The conference is based on the theme "Sex in the Image of God."

Dr. Lawson said some girls seem to think the gift of an engagement ring gave their fiances certain rights; they forget they have their own rights to consider. "She is under no obligation to her fiance. If there are any rights they are in her discretion."

If an engaged girl finds herself pregnant, the couple should advance the wedding date, Dr. Lawson said, but couples not in love should not marry simply because the girl is pregnant."

Christianity's Competition

BY ROY L. SMITH

A famous preacher of a generation ago was fond of saying, "Christianity will never be split to pieces on a fact." By this he meant that there was nothing that was really true which could be called a competitor of the Christian gospel. The truth is the common property of all Christendom.

The author of the Fourth Gospel was the spokesman for the Christian church. Even in the ancient city of Ephesus which was, according to all the evidence in one of the four great cities of the world in the first century, its only rivals being Alexandria, Antioch and Rome. As intellectual centre it was second only to Athens. At one time or another the greatest lecturers, philosophers, orators and creative thinkers of the world appeared at the Ephesian forum to deliver scholarly addresses on a wide variety of themes

The Uniform Sunday-School Lessons are based on Jan. 1: "The Gospel of the Love of God," John 1: 20: 30-31.

It was, in part at least, for the purpose of competing with the Intellectualism, that the author of the Epistle of John penned his argument. He, too, lectured. Other Christian leaders, were declaring their faith in Jesus as Messiah, and to do so successfully they had to answer the challenge of them by the highly trained and scientific Greek thinkers. The Fourth Gospel, however, historical it may be in the longer run.

A falling off in the capital inflow from the U.S. should strengthen the country's current account payments, the influential newspaper adds.

A fall in the value of the Canadian dollar in the wake of a contraction in the capital inflow from the United States appears to encourage imports in some measure.

Offer to Abolish Maximum Wage In Two Years

LONDON (AP) — English Soccer League clubs have offered to abolish the maximum wage of £20 (|56) in two years' time in a bid to avert a players strike set for mid-January.

The £4,700 professional players in the English League have threatened to go on strike Jan. 21 unless demands for abolition of the maximum wage and better working conditions are met by the league clubs.

The players will meet in London Jan. 8 to discuss the new proposals. Their strike threat still stands.

Representatives of the 92 league teams and the players thrashed out peace terms at several special meetings.

KEEP TRANSFER SETUP

The proposals to be put before the league clubs and the players are:

1. The present transfer and retention of players system to stay.

2. The maximum wage for the next two seasons to be stepped up to £25 ($31) a week and then abolished.

3. The present signing on fee of £10 to be increased.

4. Longer contracts up to three years for players who are not for only a year. But they cannot be sold to another team unless the club agrees.

Grim And Silent Strikers Stage Funeral Parade

Try to Turn Slain Man Into Martyr for Cause

BRUSSELS (AP) — Carrying black-bordered flags, about 2,000 grim strikers paraded through the main streets of Liege peacefully today.

Strike leaders called it a "mourners' demonstration" for Francois van der Strappen, 30, who was killed in Friday's fighting between state police and demonstrators in the worst outbreak of violence during the 12-day strike.

The marchers shouted no slogans and ignored the police for the first time since the demonstration began in the Belgian capital. There were no incidents.

Police say the man who shot van der Strappen came to the aid of a policeman who was being mauled by demonstrators. The Socialist deputy and Senator Gaston Eyskens for van der Strappen's death in an apparent attempt to give their campaign a martyr.

As Belgians uneasily awaited the new year, fearing it would be the worst since World War II, Premier Eyskens plans to talk to the country by radio and television, perhaps tonight.

Strikers Adamant

Nearly 1,000 strikers today began another march through the Belgian countryside.

As they moved off from Socialist party headquarters, a union official told them: "Make this a silent demonstration. Perhaps at last we will do more than shouting slogans and broken windows."

The strikers are trying to show signs of easing during the holidays, but the grave political differences remain as large as ever.

The first week of the new year brings several events officials feel could spark new violence.

Eyskens goes before Parliament Tuesday in an effort to ram through the government's controversial economic reform program. The bill is opposed by the Liberal government over bitter Socialist opposition.

Socialist leaders have scheduled huge demonstrations and walkouts for Wednesday in Brussels and Antwerp.

Also, a demonstration Friday turned into a sprawling brawl with 2,000 persons armed with stones and clubs against 400 Socialist police wielding sabres. In addition to the one man killed, 13 persons were injured.

Strikers and police also clashed Wednesday in demonstrations at Mons, Couillet, Marcinelle, and in the northern port of Antwerp. Cobblestones were torn up at homes of workers who refused to join the strike.

Eyskens charged the strikers with harassing him and communists were behind the violent opposition to his program to offset Belgium's drop in foreign trade. The program calls for cuts in government services and higher taxes.

King Baudouin, his honeymoon in Spain just short, called in Socialist party President Leo Collard and Premier Eyskens at 2:00 p.m. today.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. EST in the Privy Council offices.

Returning by train to Ottawa Friday night, Mr. Diefenbaker told reporters the cabinet would have before it, either today or in the immediate future, decisions on two groups of appointments. They are:

1. Members of the productivity council, set up by act of Parliament during the pre - Christmas sittings to encourage Canadian industry to compete more effectively. It would like to announce an outstanding businessman whose field has been the expansion of production," the prime minister said.

2. Members of a royal commission on Canadian health services, to include representatives of the medical and dental professions, businessmen and a woman—possibly a nurse.

VISITED HOME

The prime minister spent the Christmas season in Saskatoon with his brother, Elmer, and his 93-year-old mother, Mrs. Florence Diefenbaker, a patient for three years in the University Hospital. He also visited his home in Prince Albert.

Mrs. Diefenbaker has been on the critical list since Nov. 20, her personal physician reported in Saskatoon Friday night.

Dr. D. E. Ralston said, however, that Mrs. Diefenbaker has improved during the past few days.

Mr. Diefenbaker told reporters he had no intention whatever of calling a general election in the new year.

WILL MOVE

Mr. Diefenbaker also said that soon after Parliament resumes its session Jan. 16 the government will publish a white paper. The committee of 15 to 18 members set up to review the Civil Service Act.

He then hopes to meet President de Gaulle of France, Chancellor Adenauer of Germany, Premier Macmillan of Britain and Premier Antonio Salazar of Portugal in Spain for short, called in Socialist party President Leo Collard and Premier Eyskens at 2:00 p.m. today.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he will make the first two days of the Conservative party's March 17-18 annual meeting in Ottawa, attended by 1,500 delegates, but will fly back to London in time to address the closing session.

Claim Woman Accepted Bribes To Pass Children

MOSCOW (AP) — A scandal broke out into the open Friday. It involves bribes paid by wealthy Soviet families to get unqualified children into institutions of higher learning.

Higher education is considered vital to Russia child's future. Without it one joins "the dark people" — those unqualified for anything but menial jobs.

The Literary Gazette broke the scandal in an article entitled Bribes. It told about a woman in Leningrad who handled applications for colleges.

The article said that, at a time when examinations were being set, this woman named Shchelochilina already has 12 applications neatly in a notebook.

Opposite each name was the sum she was charging to pass each listed person into the institutes. The sums ranged from 400 to 3,000 rubles roughly $375 to $750.

She would leave her office with a desk drawer open. A client would walk in and slip money into the drawer. When Shchelochilina returned she would shut the drawer with an elegant gesture of the cosmetics.

"Then conversation would continue as though nothing had happened," the Literary Gazette reported.

The newspaper did not say what has happened to her.

The Queen's honors list gave special encouragement to the arts, covered an unusual variety of sports, hailed the achievements of scientists and recognized the services of businessmen and civil servants.

Tucked among the big names for was that of Stanley Winfield, a 50-year-old London policeman who started work underground at 13 and in 1930 was severely injured and blinded in a mine accident. He no operates a telephone exchange for the National Coal Board.

In the arts, a knighthood went to stage producer Tyrone Guthrie, a commandership of the Order of the British Empire (CBE) went to composer Alan Rawsthorne and an officership of the order (OBE) went to actress Margaret Rutherford.

In sport, Godfrey Rowland Bolster, who is unconquered on county bowling is known to all cricket lovers, got an OBE.

Another OBE went to Doris Elaine Chambers, former British women's golf champion, who established the British women's team that matches the United States, Canada and South Africa.

A barmaidry, hereditary knighthood giving the bearer the prefix "sir," was conferred on Hugh Fraser, millionaire Scot who heads a department store empire, big public and charitable services.

Among the 31 new knights bechelor was Alfred Lovell, professor of radio-astronomy and director of the Jodrell Bank experimental station.

The only life peerage in the list went to Labor elder statesman Tom Williams, former minister of agriculture.

Peru Ends Cuban Relations, May Trigger Mass Action

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Peru broke off diplomatic relations with Cuba in a move that diplomats say may trigger a mass move by Latin American governments to isolate the Castro regime.

Growing anger among leaders of hemispheric neighbors was evident over the activities of Cuban agents charged with spreading revolutionary propaganda throughout Latin America.

Uruguayan President Benito Nardone told an Inter-American Friday night that his government may sever the Cuban ambassador in Montevideo and cut all ties with Havana.

There was speculation among diplomats in Lima that Colombia, Venezuela and Chile may follow suit and freeze out Castro agents.

A petition was being circulated in Peru's parliament by Socialist Roberto Chiari to break diplomatic and trade relations with Cuba.

Five other Latin American countries — Guatemala, Haiti, Nicaragua, Paraguay and the Dominican Republic—have withdrawn their top diplomats from Havana.

The Peruvian government charged the Cuban Embassy with "evident interference" in Peru's internal affairs by handing out Communist revolutionary propaganda among other acts.

In one of the strongest denunciations of Castro's regime by a South American government, Peru declared "the foreign affairs policy of the current Cuban government violates all standards of international law."

Havana was charged with subsidizing subversive agents to incite destruction of the legally constituted authority of governments, those of the Catholic Church and of the armed forces."

The Cuban charge d'affaires was ordered to leave Peru as soon as possible along with all other members of his staff.

Opposition leader Ernesto Castro was reported hardening inside Cuba. Castro, a dandified ex-army officer, is the most outspoken critic of Premier Fidel Castro's regime in Cuba.

Castro's supporters were reported gathering inside Cuba Friday night denounced his regime in a broadcast the announcer said was coming from somewhere in the first territory of Cuba."

Underground sources had spread word of the impending broadcast and it was delivered on schedule at 9 p.m. with a 15-minute-long manifesto calling for "unity in the struggle for freedom"

U.S. Justice Dept. Blocks Eviction of Sharecroppers

SOMERVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Southern Negro sharecroppers in this rural area relaxed today behind a shield of temporary federal court orders halting their eviction.

The justice department won the preliminary victory in its historic first test of a section of the 1957 Civil Rights Act dealing with intimidation or coercion of potential voters.

Negro leaders here in Fayette County and in adjoining Haywood hailed the new court action with delight but cautiously declined to predict the future.

The big legal tests are yet to come. The government has civil suits against landowners, merchants and bankers in both counties charging organized economic pressure against Negroes who attempt to vote.

The effect of the temporary orders is to stay eviction notices until trial is held on the case has been set.

Lower lawyers feel the trials may plow new legal ground. It seems certain that the issue of property rights will loom large in the arguments.

The temporary orders against eviction came at the 11th hour Friday with the government appealing the refusal of a district federal judge in nearby Memphis, Mort of the sharecropper contracts expire Jan. 1.

In Cincinnati, the sixth circuit court of appeals agreed with the government. The court's temporary injunction barred eviction of Negro sharecroppers in Haywood County.

In Memphis, about six hours later, district Judge M. S. Boyd

Mass of Arctic Air Closing In on Ontario

TORONTO (CP)—A mass of Arctic air has hit Northern Ontario and is closing in on the southern parts of the province.

It should cover most of Southern Ontario by tonight, the weather bureau reported today.

Overnight temperatures hit 43 below zero at Atikokan and 31 below at Kapuskasing. Forecasts are for 25 below at Kitchener, 16 below at Muskoka and five above at Southern Toronto tonight.

In southwestern Ontario, temperatures will be moderated by the Great Lakes.

The weather office said there is a possibility of local snowfalls.

Issued a restraining order barring eviction of 400 sharecroppers in Fayette. A hearing for a temporary injunction was scheduled for Jan. 5.

In rendering injunctions, the federal department contended that the eviction notices were part of a scheme to drive Negroes from voters. More than 60 per cent of the population in the two counties is Negro.

The defence said the notices were simply the result of farm mechanization which reduced the need for human hands.

TRADE OFFICIALS BAFFLED OVER CUBAN BUYING

'Too Early to Hazard Guess on Extent'

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian trade officials say they are in the dark, as yet, on how much new Cuban buying in Canada may evolve from the much-publicized Cuban buying mission that visited this country early this month.

"It's a little early to hazard a guess on whether much is coming of it," one official said.

The consensus of persons close to the situation is that it may be some time before they will know whether Canadian exports to the Caribbean island republic will come close to an optimistic Cuban forecast of a tenfold increase.

Another trade official said the government exactly what is being bought by Cuba is the businessmen who were hit in October by the United States' embargo on all shipments of American goods except food and medicine to Cuba. The U.S. has labelled Fidel Castro's government as Communist-controlled.

REPORTS INCONCLUSIVE

Some Canadian exporters have notified Ottawa that negotiations or agreements concluded with Cuba. In fact, a number of them have reached Ottawa, So far, officials say, these reports are inconclusive.

For one thing, they say, some sales contracts take a considerable time to negotiate. Prices and other terms have to be worked out. Moreover, there likely would be a time lag between the placing of orders and the actual movement of goods.

The Cuban mission headed by Cuban Economy Minister Regino Boti visited Ottawa Sept. 8 and spent the next week to 10 days visiting suppliers in Toronto and Montreal.

One point on which government officials are unsure is whether the Cubans have made any large volume of cash purchases.

SAID CASH AVAILABLE

Mr. Boti told reporters during his visit that Cuba is in a position prepared to buy $150,000,000 worth of Canadian goods over the next year, and had the cash to do so.

There have been press reports that the Cuban instead have been offering credit terms to Canadian businessmen. One official said that there is no truth in that report.

Trade Canadian exports to Cuba topped the $15,000,000 mark in 1959, figures for the first three quarters of 1960 show. Exports at about two-thirds of last year's pace. Most goods have contributed to Cuba's strict foreign exchange controls which limited the island's imports mainly to vitally-needed goods such as industrial materials.

The Canadian government's policy has been to keep trade relations with Cuba as normal. However, it has said that the export permits will be granted for strategic materials, or for "bookkeep" items which include goods which seek to avoid the U.S. embargo by coming through Canada.

C'est la Vie! Everywhere Whoopee Except in Usually Lively Montreal

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadians kick up their heels and celebrate New Year's Eve and as early, possibly belatedly, last of 1961.

Montreal will be more or less unconfined. The more or less decorous celebrations there will be clinations and where you happen to be.

Out of everywhere a couple can dance in the new year for $5 but in early Toronto and Vancouver night spots the prices run as high as $40.

Lively Montreal will greet the new year with empty streets and warm homes and the Quebec liquor commission has ordered night clubs, bars and taverns to close at 10 p.m.

Train, bus and air lines are increasing schedules New Year's Day to meet an expected overflow of traffic. The CNR ran a special train out of Edmonton Friday night to accommodate 200 Jasper-bound skiers.

One of the biggest parties being thrown in the Maritimes is by the town of Dartmouth, N.S., across the harbor from Halifax, where 1,000 guests are expected with nearby suburbs.

Halifax itself has the top fixture of Quebec celebrations, where the weather is predicted fair. One of the main social feature of the weekend is the Commodore Club's levee Monday morning. In Toronto, hotel bookings are normal, but weather forecaster says a snow storm is expected.

The RCMP and police are using all available cars in Manitoba during the weekend. Road travel is expected to be heavy in Saskatchewan.

In Edmonton, private parties are more popular than public celebrations.

British Columbia temperatures are expected to continue in the high 40s. Downtown clubs in Vancouver are reported booked solid.

News Agency Tass Terms Invasion Report False

Pro-Western Premier Appeals to Allies for Aid

VIENTIANE (AP) — Premier Boun Oum's pro-Western government said today northeast Laos had been invaded by seven Red North Vietnamese battalions supported by artillery and that the town of Nonget was under attack.

(The Soviet news agency Tass, in a dispatch from Hanoi, quoted the North Viet Nam foreign ministry as terming the invasion report "absolutely false" and as an attempt to camouflage "the intervention of the American imperialists" in Laos.

The Soviet puppet paratroop Capt. Kong Le, leader in Laos, was also threatening to call in "volunteer units from Afro-Asian countries" if "intervention" by the United States, South Viet, Nam and Thailand does not cease.

Prince Boun's office said his Southeast Asia kingdom, which the U.S. supports with military and civil aid, reserves the legal right to appeal to friendly countries to defend . . . its national territory if the invasion is not halted.

Word of the attack came in intelligence reports from the country's two top military commands and military region, the government said.

In New York, United Nations officials said the Laotian delegate, Sisouk Na Champasak, called on Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to discuss the situation. A UN spokesman said no request was made for UN intervention.

(In Singapore, a British diplomatic source said: "Our information indicates these (invasion) reports should be discounted.")

A communique issued by the Laos premier's office said reinforcements were being rushed to the invaded area. It added:

"We will fight with all the forces at our disposal against this foreign aggression."

The United States has poured $200,000,000 in military aid into Laos in five years. The Soviet Union is airdropping military supplies to Kong Le's rebel force and Premier Boun's archfoe who was driven from Vientiane.

Leftist Pathet Lao troops, aided by North Viet Nam and Communist China, have been supplied by the Soviet Union.

Western military experts in Vientiane said there have been "considerable" reports of escalation for two or three weeks that four new Viet Minh battalions and 75 tallons were operating along the mountainous northeast Laotian border.

But reports from this area—producing province — have not always been entirely correct due to poor communications, military experts said.

Fathers of Two Indicate They Believe Reports

KIRKLAND LAKE' (CP) — RCMP have moved into the investigation of reports that an "assassination squad" has been recruited in the Kirkland Lake area.

There were denials Friday by the men allegedly recruited for the force, but the fathers of two of them indicated they believe the reports.

RCMP officers from this Northern Ontario mining community went to Virgintown, 30 miles east of here, Friday to interview a man reported to have signed up for the anti-Castro force. Police refused any comment on the results of their interview.

RCMP here said they have no knowledge of any anti-Castro agent operating in the area.

Toronto report said earlier the unidentified agent was receiving unmarried youths to help in the training of members of the Cuban government of Fidel Castro.

Two of the seven men reported to have signed declined any connection with the movement.

Alec Jones, 26, and John Pitt, 21, both of Virginitown, said they are taking a holiday in the United States and will visit California.

Jones' two sons, John Patterson, 20, and Leonard Diggles, 22, left Thursday for a trip to Mexico. Patterson is married to the wife living in Toronto for Lucika and Elliott.

Argue Predicts Better Times Under New Party

OTTAWA (CP) — CCF Leader Hazen Argue said Friday 1961 could be a good year for Canada — "but not under an old party government."

He said in a New Year's message:

"Under the Conservatives — as under the Liberals before them — the country is exposed to a year of grim and massive unemployment, of talk but no action on the problem of the technological age pension, of the continued drain of our most educated defence folly instead of policy, of double-talk on disarmament, of underdeveloped countries given only a few crumbs to remedy their exploitation.

"But 1961 will also be a year of political preparation for a brighter tomorrow for in 1961 the New Party will be born.

"It will be a year when the final preparations will be made to develop policies for a Canada that Canadians people a program which will provide a real choice—a choice between the interests, fixed ideas and vested seeking of the old parties and the drive, new ideas and concern for justice of the New Party."

Quit Feeding Pigeons Order To Charwomen

OTTAWA (CP) — A certain number of birds have been dropped recently that a formal federal pigeon policy has been adopted.

But there was an emphatic denial Friday of any declaration of war against the pigeons of Parliament Hill.

Said Gen. H. A. Young, works department deputy minister, in recommending a recurring reports that the government is trying to starve the birds into mass evacuation:

"Perhaps you could say the department of public works takes on a status of benevolent neutrality in respect to pigeons."

Despite this assurance, there was word that charwomen who work in the Parliament Buildings have been given strict orders to refrain from feeding the pigeons.

One woman had been in the habit of giving bread to the birds each morning. This week some government personage, undoubtedly told her to quit the kindliness.

Gen. Young said this was not a directive from his office and that perhaps some official of the Commons or Senate had decided on the starving tactic about the Hill was an untidy practice.

Predict 3,200 Will Be Killed During Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Approximately 3,200 people will be killed in street and highway accidents in Canada during the 1961 safety Highway Safety Council forecast Friday.

Only cheerful note in this otherwise gloomy prognostication was that the total is not a proven correct — would mean a second straight year without an increase in fatalities.

There were 3,302 motor vehicle deaths in 1959. The council expects that final figures will show a similar total of around 3,200 this year.

President of Successful Company Talks Back to Retired Employees

By THOMAS COLLINS

(In this column several weeks ago there appeared a letter from a retired employee to the president of the company. How come the president and the company who asked if he might have a reply.—A.)

MR. GOLDEN YEARS: EMPLOYEE WHEREVER YOU ARE.

Dear Mr. Golden Years:

It is unfortunate that men like myself who must formulate the policies that govern the retirement of men like you are not always permitted to know you personally.

You think it would make a difference if I did, that if I knew your wife's first name and how your third grandchild came out with the colic I would have a better understanding of the human side. Let me assure you that your leaving the company on a pension at age 65.

I wouldn't. I already have an understanding of those human things that is probably why than most men have. Otherwise I would not be crafting the policies for this company.

The company which hired you and now retires you on pension at age 65 is a human, a good, moral, and human company. It simply would not survive in this modern age if it were not. I think I speak not just for our company but for most of them.

Now to get down to specific points:

FORM LETTERS OUT

You made fun of the form letter that companies give their employees at the retirement ceremony. You have a good case there. Every employee in individual who has made his own personal contribution to the company deserves a personal letter when he retires. Beginning now our company will do away with the form letters.

The second point you made, which apparently was facetious on your part, was to the effect that since we had praised you as one of the builders of the company, you perhaps deserved part of the stock. Would you prefer that we retire you and say we could have done it without you?

A company owes much to employees who stay it develops and it is inclined to be extravagant in its praise of the employee when they retire.

The truth of the matter is that the vision which created the company in the first place, the venture in human elan's part that launched the company, the purchase of the tools to do business, the providing of facilities where the business could be done, and the management and guiding spirit that enabled the company to become a success were beyond the pale of any employee.

You did not build the company. People who were willing to gamble their money on a vision built it. Don't criticize the company president if he tries to give you a month for as long as you live.

You made a crack about the 10-karat watch. Again, we are trying to help you. Would you rather have an apple?

You made a crack about expense accounts. It is well believed that you should have been able to buy a friend a couple of beers at company expense in order to get the company look good. Do you realize that a company could give this right to 1,400 employees? Do you really think the company's prestige and progress depends on its strangers' buying beer for their friends?

You complain about other employees in the group generally denied the rights that have been given them in their union contract and leaving the red little slips on the company when quitting time came. Here, I fear, you are naive.

If any employee of a large company had any idea how much bookkeeping and power the modern business executive requires he deserves a personal letter with the demands — and in the spirit — of organized union labor, he would give a moment of grateful thanks that the company had no such bookkeeping.

You complain about bus fare and coffee, lunch money, pension fund deductions, the income tax, and flower funds for the office. Isn't the company somewhat at fault?

Any large company and most food companies I know of are striving to find time during your working hours to relieve you of the retirement problems of employees. We try to provide an adequate pension for you, and we know now, we indoctrinate our employees for the leisure that is to be theirs.

It is not the company's responsibility alone, I dread to think it is the government's responsibility, but during your working years, have a responsibility to figure out your own destiny, and a duty not to complain when you get to it.

Perhaps you have some pat answers such as not retiring a man at 65. Think of the problems arising on the payroll employees who have reached a point where they can no longer produce satisfactorily for the company. It means asking out of your paycheck, right out of something, the money to do it.

We live in an age when it is fashionable to throw bottles at nasty people who gamble their lives to build a factory or a store. An employee who has not been smart enough or courageous enough to do the same might consider a few minutes of thankfulness.

Will Circulate Questionnaire On Proposal

TORONTO (CP)—A questionnaire will be circulated to Ontario high school teachers concerning proposals to change or abolish Grade 13, the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation decided Friday.

The resolution, proposed by John Calhum of Ottawa, was passed unanimously. It authorized the questionnaire be sent to all Grade 12 and Grade 13 teachers.

The move follows a proposal by President Claude T. Bissell of the University of Toronto in his annual report, released two weeks ago.

Dr. Bissell suggested that Grade 13 be recognized as the ending of high school education and Grade 14 be developed in advanced study in selected subjects preparing for university.

Members of the federation warned Toronto board of education it must increase its minimum salaries to check the outflow of teachers from the Toronto area.

In a press conference at the end of the meeting, several speakers criticized the federation's failure in negotiating committee with Toronto rates which is the salary scale of 230 Ontario boards.

Victims of Loan Sharks Obtain Quick Redress

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto law firm says it has been able to obtain redress for hundreds of victims of high-pressure loan deals without even going to court.

There were indications that mortgage loan sharks who have victimized householders in Ontario and the rest of Canada are anxious to avoid the publicity involved in legal proceedings.

Officials of the Ontario Mortgage Brokers Association said Friday they hope recent publicity on high-interest loans will encourage more victims to come forward.

The bearers were Douglas Law, Bernard Law, Kenneth Chiurko, George Shipp, Richard Valiquette and Douglas Blair all grandsons of the deceased.

Winter Works Projects Help Ease Area Unemployment Says Cecil Hiuser of NES

Government approved winter works projects, most of which have already commenced, are serving to save the jobs of some employment in the Belleville and Hastings county area this season.

This was indicated today by Cecil Hiuser, manager of the national employment office here who says that winter works projects will be employing close to 175 workers when they all get under way.

To date 19 winter works projects have been approved, the last three of which are expected to get under way early in the new year.

Two of the larger winter projects now under way are in the Bannockburn and Maynooth areas, where the Department of Highways is spending $65 per and 30 men each underbrushing and clearing the right of ways.

Despite the winter works program, however, there is an increase of approximately 10 per cent in unemployment in Belleville and area this year as compared with 1959.

As of Thursday evening there were 1,248 persons registered in Belleville and area registered as seeking work with the employment office. This compares with 1,135 persons registered at the same time last year. At this time.

TAKE UP SLACK

Winter works programs have served to take up some of the slack in the laboring classes.

Currently there are 1,235 persons receiving claim benefits from the local employment office, 1,062 being regular claimants and 1,155 who, receive benefits under the temporary assistance in claimants over last year is only about two per cent.

Post-Christmas layoffs at retail stores and at the post office will have little if any effect on the number of unemployed to receive benefits at the local office. In most instances seasonal help at local retail stores were students and married women who would only work long enough to qualify for unemployment benefits.

"In most cases our office would not be consulted in the hiring of Mac. Hiuser.

Just over 150 persons were hired at the local office to assist in the Christmas rush. These people, all hired through the employment office, worked 10 to 12 days during the rush period.

The closing of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company plant at Deloro early in the new year will see additional unemployment in the Hastings area. Permanent layoffs have now commenced at the plant in readiness for the complete shutdown early next year.

DUCKS MULTIPLYING

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York state's waterfowl population, boosted by an increase of more than 250 per cent among ducks in the St. Lawrence-Lake Ontario area, is nearly 80 per cent above average. The state's conservation department said Friday a check from the air showed 310,000 waterfowl in the state, compared with the normal record of 170,000 at this time of year.

CARDS OF THANKS

We, the widow and family of the late Lorne Caughey, wish to express our very sincere thanks to all for the many kindnesses shown during his illness, for the beautiful floral tributes and for the many cards received and visits paid during his long illness. We are grateful for the special "Thank you" to Dr. Desmond and the nursing staff of the Belleville General and their staff for their efficient and kind attention during his stay in hospital. Also for his comforting ministry. We are grateful also to all our friends and relatives and friends for the calls, flowers and cards, and many sympathetic acts of kindness and sympathy shown us during the sad loss to the members of the Burrs United fraternity for the memorial service on Christmas Night. Again we say, "Thank you all."

The family

We would like to take this means of saying sincere thank you to our Neighbors and friends for the kindness shown us during our illness in the Belleville General Hospital and since his return home.

E. Sandercock Gives Greetings For New Year

As we enter a New Year, each reflects on the friendships made and developed during the year and with the composition of all, many things have been accomplished.

Almost every department of government touches in degree on the subject of "Human Betterment". More particularly would I mention such departments as Public Welfare, Health, Labor and Education. Through them we are working consciously to better the life of every Ontario citizen.

One of the pleasant features of public life lies in the opportunity it affords of associating with others having a common interest and public services. My hope is that by working together in the New Year that even more may be achieved than in the past.

Wishing each and every one of you, A very Happy and Prosperous New Year.

W. E. "Sandy" Sandercock

City Council Committees Said Being Reduced

A reduction in the number of council standing committees will in all probability be a change in local civic government to be announced at the inaugural meeting of city council next Monday.

Councillors held a caucus meeting on Wednesday and although committees chairmanships were not announced, street rumor has it that the number of committees will be pared, possibly to four.

Committees which will remain are rumored to be finance, public works, traffic and personnel. Among committees to be dispensed with are likely to be fire, city property and welfare.

It is understood that the work of committees being dispensed with would be taken care of mainly by the finance committee.

Car Production Up Slightly From Last Year

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian car and truck manufacturers produced 395,085 vehicles in 1960 compared with 388,272 last year says the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

Passenger car production was 325,171 units compared with 300,940 and trucks totalled 69,896 compared with 67,323.

James G. Sykes, general manager of the automobile association, said projects by the motor companies during the year totalled $168,000,000, an increase of $8,000,000 on the previous year. Employment averaged 33,264. Sales and excise taxes remitted by Canadian motor vehicle manufacturers also totalled $168,000,000.

"We estimate that there are now 3,900,000 vehicles in Canada —more than 4,000,000 passenger cars and 1,300,000 commercial vehicles. These registrations represent a vehicle for every 3.4 persons," he said.

Mr. Sykes said motor vehicle sales in 2980, including imports, will undoubtedly be the highest in history. Passenger car sales are estimated at 435,000, while truck sales are estimated at 75,000.

The Year in Retrospect

1960 Saw Council Engage In Many Controversial Issues and Settle Some

TRENTON — The beginning of 1960 saw James MacDonald installed as Trenton's mayor with William Bradshaw, C. V. Graham, Vegn Lange, Howard Ault, R. J. Whittle and D. R. Fraser forming his council.

On Jan. 19, Councillor William Bradshaw, who had topped the polls in the Dec., 1959, elections, died of a heart attack. Councillor N. J. McNair, 90, who had placed seventh for the six-man council, was appointed to replace Councillor Bradshaw as chairman of public works.

During the year, council became involved in a number of controversial issues. Councillors were forced, by a scarcity of water and public opinion, to abandon a resolution to construct a $35,000 toward the replacement of a strip of the Wooler Road.

In June, the Weaver Ambulance Company notified council that it would cease to supply ambulance service to the town by Aug. 1. Mr. Weaver said that he could not afford $1,000 annually on this phase of his business over a two-year period. Council, with the exception of Councillor McNair, voted to pay the company $1,800 for the period and extend the service until the end of the year.

Council embarked on plans to annex a number of suburban property townships despite rumors of lively opposition from residents of the areas. Two public meetings have been made of the areas.

For the first time in history, council decided to hold committee-of-the-whole meetings on the Thursday prior to a Monday night council meeting. The press was barred from these meetings, but later they were opened to the press and public by common consent of the councillors.

Thirty acres of Murray Township were annexed by the town of Trenton. A sub-divider now is developing this area.

Council also approved an official plan for the town. The plan was formulated by members of the Trenton and District Planning Board, with Project Planners of Toronto acting as consultants.

OPENS TERMINAL

In January, Mayor MacDonald officially opened the new Trenton air terminal at RCAF Station Trenton. Air Commodore F. S. Carpentier, air officer commanding Air Transport Command, was host to a number of civic officials at the opening of the terminal.

On Feb. 8, the Chamber of Commerce was re-formed with Douglas Ward as the professional chairman.

On Feb. 9, Walter Murray of Pte. Anne, Que., arrived in Trenton to take up his duties as town engineer.

In February, Walter Davis, welfare administrator for the town, said that the number of relief recipients was the highest in years.

On Feb. 16, town council voted to share the cost of building a new subway under the CNR line on Sidney Street. This project is nearing completion.

For 10, 100 airmen from RCAF Station Trenton took part in a flag raising ceremony to honor the birth of Queen Elizabeth's second son.

On March 10, at a special meeting of the Board of Education, it was revealed that five members of the board had brought in a vote of non-confidence in the high school principal, R. S. McIlwain, at a previous meeting from which the public and the press had been excluded. Four members then had voted against the motion. A controversy, which achieved province-wide publicity, ensued following this announcement. The principal and a number of the staff resigned as a direct result of the action of the board. The high school was pink-listed by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation. Following the intervention of the Minister of Education, the pink-listing was lifted April 23.

On March 21, the Trenton Drama Club was given an award for the best one act play in the Eastern Ontario Drama Festival at Deep River.

On April 1, the 1960 tax rate was announced. The residential rate was set at 84.27 mills, 0.27 mills over 1959; the industrial rate was set at 90.27 mills, 5.00 mills over 1959.

RECEIVES CHARTER

On April 8, the Trenton and District Association for Retarded Children received its charter.

On April 26th, Rivera Pole 31 sprinkler heads from the Frankford area.

On May 5, Hilda Calloway, 62, and Arthur Monroe, 53, were burned to death when the house in which they lived was gutted, possibly overloading of electrical outlets.

On May 26, the Board of Education announced plans for a seven-room addition to Trenton High School, to be completed by the spring of 1961.

On May 28, four North Star aircraft left RCAF Station Trenton with food and medical supplies for victims of an earthquake in Chile.

On June 15, the town received a letter indicating the fact that the town had been free from fatal accidents for two years.

On June 27, the first sod for the new addition to Trenton Memorial Hospital was turned by Mayor James MacDonald.

On July 1, eight local teen-aged girls were reported missing. Later, two other girls disappeared. It was rumored that the girls were members of a "Hate Your Parents Club", although this was denied by the parents of the girls and later, when the girls returned home, they also denied knowledge of the existence of the club.

On July 13, Mrs. Blanche Bibby, 76, of Wellington died at the wheel of her car in a traffic runpast accident on Dundas St., near Peter Messervey, 34, a bystander, was struck by the Bibby car and killed. A passenger in the car, Miss Rose Strong, 53, of Wellington, died a few hours later in hospital. A bicyclist, Harry LaFrance was struck by the car and is in hospital for weeks.

CONGO AIRLIFT

On July 18, four North Star aircraft carrying food and medical supplies left RCAF Station Trenton for the Congo. This was the forerunner of many such missions.

On August 9, the first nine army signallers left RCAF Station for the Congo U.N. force.

On August 20, Chief Constable F. J. Taylor marked 25 years with the police force in Trenton.

On August 31, the Hon. Byron L. Cathcart, Minister of Municipal Affairs, officially opened the new Trenton Memorial Hospital

1961–No Time For Heroics

New Year's is traditionally a time for new beginnings, for the making of new resolutions, the drafting of plans. Even in the life of an individual, the belief that the coming year presents a sheaf of clean pages, upon which he can write what he wishes, is largely illusionary. Our future is already largely determined by our past, by the habits and skills which we have acquired. Still, for the individual, resolutions generally do little harm, so long as they do not promote a spirit of despair when they're later broken.

In larger affairs, though, briskly thriving over a new leaf can be not merely useless but actually dangerous. In the field of international affairs, for instance, the pattern of the coming year has already been largely fixed and any vigorous attempt to distort it into some new and unexpected shape could do irreparable harm.

At no time in the world's history was this more true than today. The remedy for our ills will not come quickly—but it may come eventually if we can hang on.

Time is our greatest friend—but it can also be a foe if nothing is done with it. If, at the end of 1961, the world is a better place than at its beginning, if the prospects for the future—for there being a future—are brighter as 1962 dawns than they were a year earlier, it is much more likely to be because many men did many little things which were possible than because one man attempted and achieved the seemingly impossible.

The fact most frightening—and at the same time the most comforting—about the world as 1961 arrives is that it is in much too tense and dangerous a state to survive many years without a definite and pronounced change in the attitudes of man. The year 1961 may be a decisive year but, if the decision is going to be linked to disaster, this may not be apparent to us who live its history and perhaps may not even be discerned by those who view it decades hence from a better perspective. Just to hang on, just to avoid catastrophe, may not appear a noble aim, but it could well represent a remarkable and decisive achievement.

No Petty Pace

"Tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow drags on this petty pace from day to day."

But the pace has quickened since Elizabethan times and Shakespeare would hardly write thus if he were talking of contemporary times.

The pace is no longer petty but furious—just how fast some of us may have not completely grasped until we read the prediction by Mr. Charles C. P. Snow, the eminent English scientist and author.

Snow declares that within six years a dozen nations will have atom bombs and hydrogen bombs.

This, in itself, does not demand clairvoyance. But Snow goes a step further and makes a prediction which coincides with common sense. If enough nations have these weapons, he declares, some of these bombs are going to go off. Once again, this is not an entirely new forecast. Most of us, though, ought to be shocked when Snow asserts that it is a certainty that nuclear bombs will be used by some of their possessors within the next decade.

He adds an "unless"—unless the United States accepts restriction of nuclear armaments. One might have supposed that Snow would have linked the Soviet Union with the U.S. in this statement but he did not —which is just as well. We believe Russia can be persuaded to alter its conditions for such restrictions or whether because he regards the conditions outlined by the U.S. as less realistic than those of Russia is not clear.

Snow is best known for his contention that there has already arisen in the civilized world a barrier to communication between the two classes of the educated, the men of science and the students of the humanities. As a man of reputation in both classifications, he speaks with authority. It is to be hoped that this difficulty in communication does not prevent his latest warning being heeded.

Otherwise the pace of our tomorrows, no longer petty, will light all of us the way to dusty, very radioactively dusty, death.

STRENGTH for the DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

FACING A NEW YEAR

Strength for the day.
Strength for the week.
Strength for the year — and all the years that lie ahead.

Tomorrow we shall begin a new experience. We shall enter a new year. Our feet will be set in the pathways unknown to us before.

What may the next year bring forth? Of that we are — mercifully — in ignorance. But of one thing we are sure and we can be sure of this one thing that it should turn darkness into light, foreboding into assurance and joy. The thing of which we can be assured is that God who made the world still sustains it. Everything came from His hands. As seed, were His words.

we have had occasion to remind ourselves so often that we are His and therefore the future is all His.

We Christians believe that in the power of love, we have something which will give us strength for the day, strength for the week, strength for the year and for all the future. Think of what life would be like if we had to face its circumstances without this assurance.

Let us rejoice in the new year to use whatever religious faith we have. God is not interested in the amount of faith we possess but in its vitality. "If ye had faith as a grain of mustard seed," were His words.

Wrote Classic Limericks

By C. D. in the Winnipeg Free Press

Arthur Henry Reginald Buller (1874–1944) was professor of botany at the University of Manitoba from 1908 until 1914. He then retired, but lived on in Winnipeg until his death. He was the author of Researches in Fungi (seven volumes) — a monumental work written and published over many years and still a standard authority in this field.

Dr. Buller was an Englishman, educated at Owens College, Taunton, and at Leipzig and Munich. He taught for a time at Birmingham University. But most of his adult life was spent here in Canada.

Dr. Buller, undoubtedly will live as an outstanding scholar. He is embalmed in 13 lines of print in the new Canadian encyclopedia. He was skilled in fellow-Manitoban, John Robert Logie, only this year returning to his native province, from Olds, to become head of Brandon College.

The brief notice—and the brevity is not a criticism — records the academic honors won by Dr. Buller, including the crown of a fellowship in the Royal Society. But, somehow, it misses entirely the all important Dr. Buller was a connoisseur of limericks.

There was a young lady named Bright,
Whose speed was much faster than light,
She set out one day
In a relative way
And returned home the previous night.

It should not be taking too much of publishers of books of quotations to add some of the works these lines to Dr. Buller. "Anon" is not good enough.

He would have wished to be remembered for his quality as a writer of limericks and also for those seven volumes on fungi.

Did Steam Die Too Soon?

Vancouver Sun

Railway fans, the most sentimental of all breeds of aficionados, have cause to weep in their beer. An expert has testified that steam died prematurely.

H. F. Brown, an American railway consulting engineer now in London ostensibly to read a paper to the Institution of Mechanical Engineers, told them: "The all-embracing economies that have been introduced, massive power do not appear in the statistical record." And he had the figures to prove it. Here are the cases:

Bigger trains are being hauled faster today in the United States, he argued, it is not primarily because of modernization but because the railways have fewer locomotives and are suspending passenger trains making many stops.

Steam engines have been built more powerful than any diesel and are cheaper to run, being the long-haul jobs just as they have been. Even some new brand-new diesels against precommercially elderly steam powered ones, he said, were the best test. Today, as the diesels age, their repair costs are running much higher than steam's. The diesel, he argued, has to carry the charges for interest and depreciation, are also higher.

Mr. Brown's conclusion was that diesels pay off in yard switching jobs, not elsewhere.

All of which, unfortunately for steam buffs, is academic argument.

All the cumbersome supporting plant for the repairers and the facilities for fuelling and watering the engines now may. They will never be rebuilt.

But, if Mr. Brown is right, it is sad to think that the romantic music of the steam whistle need not have vanished from the land.

Monk First Accountant

Fortune

The father of the accounting profession is an unsung, largely unknown figure who was a Franciscan monk, Fra Luca Pacioli, who was born a century before Columbus.

But Dr. Buller was a better than Shakespeare when it came to limericks. These two outstanding examples of his art, everywhere quoted, fill all newspaperdoodlers must be, in recording what a fine fellow he was. They should regard as his two greatest quatrains. Dr. Buller was much more than a mere limerick writer.

He was a great gentleman—scholarly, courteous and sensitive gift of humor—qualities sometimes displayed in a literary form.

These, no doubt, are qualities which are part of the man; qualities which tend to die with him and with those who knew him in the flesh.

And yet the rich literary form of Dr. Buller's humor is his literary monument—his memorial. They will live on the lips of generations that never knew the man.

There is a sadness here which is unrelieved by any gaiety.

If you look for Dr. Buller's limericks you will find only one on the Steins and the one on the theory of relativity, you can find them in books of quotations. But except for one such book—Robert Hamilton's "Canadian Quotations and Phrases"—the compilers overlook Mr. Hamilton gives but one of the two) the reference books

Strictly Personal

New Year's Is Marked At Wrong Time

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Another one of my campaigns that never got off the ground (like the New Year's-day-or-no-Monday campaign) is the one to restore the New Year to its traditional place on March 25th.

Nothing is more artificial than celebrating the New Year on Jan. 1, which makes no sense at all—historically, seasonally or psychologically.

Most of us would be surprised to learn that starting the year on Jan. 1 is comparatively recent. The ancient Romans, sensibly, began their year in March — hence September, October, November and December, meaning the 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th months.

Then, with the introduction of the Christian Era, Lady Day (March 25th), Easter Day, and March 1 have all been considered as New Year's Day.

When the calendar was reformed in the 16th century, January 1 was officially named New Year's Day; but the civil and legal year began on March 25 for another 200 years. It was not until 1752 that it was fixed, like the calendar year, on Jan. 1.

The new year should properly begin in the spring, when nature is reawakening to the new cycle of birth, blossoming and growth. But the end of the old year, in the fall, makes more sense, for a very real change is taking place in the earth and in the whole solar system.

But Jan. 1 is just another grim winter's day with no natural or psychological meaning for anyone. Its celebration is not keyed to the promise or the regret, as in primitive cultures, and hence all we do is observe it by rioting and drinking and cracking up cars. Its sacramental character has been wholly lost in the modern world.

There are a few glimmer that the forced gaiety of New Year's Eve celebrations, which are attended mostly by young people want to show that they have been initiated into maturity that night.

Staying out as late as possible, and getting as drunk as the liquor supply permits, have become the only identifying marks of the miserable initiate of communal conviviality.

And, in retrospect, the only source of amusement is playing the morbid Numbers Game, of totting up the auto fatality rate over the holiday hours. By what right do we designate those who celebrate the new year with sacred rites to the gods of fertility as "primitive?"

Pacioli's exposition of double entry bookkeeping was set down at the time of Leonardo, and Goethe later described it as "one of the finest discoveries of the human intellect." Oswald Spengler asserted in The Decline of the West that Pacioli's work ranked in importance with the discovery of the new world and the theory of the rotation of the earth around the sun.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

40 YEARS AGO

January 2nd, 1941.

With the gayety and festiveness of its second wartime year—and holidays fast fading into a memory, Belleville shook its figurative self from a position of New Year lethargy and resumed the more serious things of life in an attempt at normalcy today.

There were a few indications of the gayety of the celebrants who did not arrive home until the early hours of the morning, stayed with the comforts of their beds and also such aids as bicarbonate of soda.

There was a decided undercurrent of restraint due to the absence of loved ones. Partying started early and nine o'clock festivities were under the auspices of the Belleville Club, the Trianon, the Armories, Alma Club and other places provided the setting.

Thursday City theatres were the scenes of gay New Year's Eve audiences and the Rex Revellers was ushered in in the traditional style.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Turnbull of Montreal, who had been visiting the parents of the latter, Ald. and Mrs. A. M. Kennedy, have returned home.

Lance Corporal and Mrs. Leslie Thompson of Barrie have returned to their home after spending the holidays here.

Pte. Cecil Stewart and the officers of the 15th Regiment received a radio message from the Duke of Argyll wishing them a Happy New Year.

Mr. Walter Robb has returned to Montreal after spending the holidays here.

Old English Ice Houses

BBC London Letter

A total lack of refrigerators in the countryside is still not present people of a century or two ago. Ice houses were common in midsummer—provided, of course they belonged to the class who lived in such houses. Examples many of which had an ice-house in the grounds, is a recent BBC broadcast Angela Rodaway described some of these old ice houses which appear to date from the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries.

The ice-house was a vault, either built underground or within a man-made mound of earth, usually constructed at a short distance from the house it belonged to. During the winter it was stocked with enough natural ice taken from ponds and lakes to maintain a supply for the rest of the year, the ice being stored between thick layers of straw for insulation, and the entrance to the vault closed with a heavy door.

At Tockington Manor in Gloucestershire, Angela Rodaway visited an old ice-house with a roofless, which has a six-foot circular well, which goes down earth several feet thick at the base. The walls are built round it and the entrance roofed with a slab of slate about four inches thick.

In the old days, the lower floor was usually used to be flooded in winter by damming the stream that made the nearby pool, and while frivolous people got out their skates, the more practical men were busy trying to collect ice for the ice-houses. A well-known method of a different kind is that at Ashbridges in Hertfordshire, which was actually cut out of the hillside and is reached through a long passage.

When ice was needed in the kitchen for culinary use, preserving food or making ice-creams, it was taken from the ice house, broken, and put into large oak ice-boxes lined with zinc, and with a zinc container for the food.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

BOTH, FATHER AND HIS PSYCHIATRIST FIGHT CLAUSTROPHOBIA

"Dear Dr. Molner: I read the question concerning claustrophobia by 'Kitty,' who stood if he should take a plane trip. I suffered from the same apprehension but took a most extraordinary four years ago. I had to make a 3,000-mile trip by plane. I am an executive in a company and, if couldn't back out.

"I went to a psychiatrist and his confidence in me. I told him about it. Just go.' For days I was hoping something would happen to prevent my going. I didn't. I went.

"Scared? Sure I was, but I expected to be. Since then I have travelled countless times by plane.

"Subway? Scared to death. "Later I became a good friend of the psychiatrist. He told me that he, too, had the same fear and never has until I did.

"I'm G.'s' letter represents my anxieties to a 'T'. I still shake when I ride in elevators, and when I drive through a tunnel. But soon I am flying to Europe for a vacation, but I expect it. If I don't go, I will be worse. Each one more fears will build up and be more difficult.

"I am not going to miss the good things in life because I am afraid — because I have a shock, or my heart bump up in my mouth. I just say,'confidence, boy, you can do it.' Read a book till it passes." — J.J.

This interesting letter pretty well speaks for itself. It puts me in mind, particularly of some arthritis sufferers. Some, who just say, 'oh, no,' refuse even to move around, find their joints growing steadily stiffer.

Others, who say, "It hurts — but I'm going to keep moving anyway," are better off in their joints, and in some cases have very little trouble.

It's too bad that the world contains as much pain as it does, and too bad that some people acquire paralyzing fears. But what if it happen, and I can think of no better answer than the letter appearing above.

As to the psychiatrist who suffered from the same trouble as his fellowmen, and some nobody once observed, "Doctors are people, too!"

"Dear Dr. Molner: My wife, in her late 40's, perspires something terrific when she relaxes. In fact her dress from neck to waist becomes wringing wet. I am concerned. The outburst of perspiration no doubt weakens her." — W.S.

There's no reason why perspiring should weaken anyone. You live in a warm climate, and that may be the answer. I could postulate when I don't know a lot more details than you could possibly give in a letter. But I do suggest this: Developing unexplained sweats can be a sign of some chronic infection of which the patient is not aware. A chest X-ray would be a wise precaution. Or a blood count. Or a urinalysis. There are several possibilities.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What happens when I hit my arm, and don't even know it, but a big black and blue mark appears about 18 days. — Mrs. S. F."

This could be a letter term than blood clot. Anyway, bruises, and bruises especially women and perhaps more often in those who are overweight. Fat people, I mean stout.

Its deficiency in calcium is the cause that comes most readily to mind. Other nutritional deficiencies, like lack of sufficient Vitamin C or Vitamin D, or Vitamin K, may also be involved. Such bruising also may be a sign of acute liver trouble, but tests made to see if any blood disorder exists.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THIS 31st DAY

There are lots of 31st days. But this one is unusual. It's the last day of 1960. This waning year will pass into history with all its joys, its sadness, its perplexities, its regrets, its wonderment.

But, 1960, you were worthwhile. Let us not be wrapped up in the thought of things that "might have been." Let us say, rather, that the New Year and the days that tomorrow will be not only another year but a chance for another year that shall be for us an opportunity of great proportion.

It is never too late to mend. It is never too late to do better — to be greater.

It is certainly better to live in the Now, rather than the Then. Pass on. This is the 31st day.

Tomorrow shall be the 1st — of a brand new baby year.

Goodbye, 1960. To more. Give more. Live more. Let us find in the upcoming New Year more of solid worth and never let us down under pressure — or ment.

Goodbye, 1960. Thank you for what you gave, and you for what you took away. Thank you for everything. We are smiling. We don't cry now.

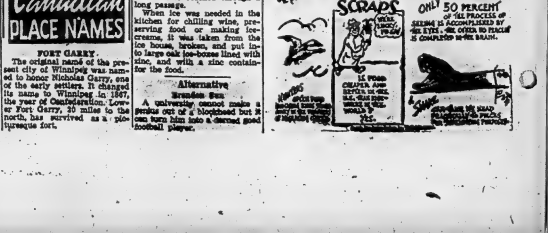
And we are going to carry 1960 memories with us. For that little new fellow is going to be a year of solid worth and he, too, gets to his 31st day. Perhaps a two-line prayer to the great God of Folks everywhere might be in order: "Help me to forget it is an 'Auld Lang Syne.' That is all. God."

Goodbye, 1960. Goodbye!

THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARK

A banker seems to me a good guy to have in a New Year's Eve Inspiration. To a retired banker who, from the other side of the cage, has seen it all come through the frenzied twenties, the stark thirties, the grim forties and the abundant fifties, I posed the question: what's the matter with the ordinary Canadian's attitude to money?



"Nothing," he said. "They keep it or spend it according to their individual needs. But there is one very queer thing about Canadians and that is their attitude towards taxes. They look on taxes as a sort of penalty. They seem to think they are being penalized for something when they are taxed. They don't realize they are being fined.

They don't realize that it is still their money, even after they have paid it. It is their money."

What they don't realize is assessed as their contribution to the upkeep of the country or the province or the municipality; and it is still their money while the government is engaged with the spending of it are spending it. Most Canadians appear to feel that taxes paid is money lost; but I am willing to wager that the rank and file of Canadians don't realize that with their money, their personal money, that is being spent together in the hundreds of millions at Ottawa, the tens of millions in the provincial and hundreds of thousands in the municipality, they are losing their grip on something whatever the matter with Canadians' attitude towards money.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

After Motives, Not Just Ways

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

There is a little way and a large way in which to start a New Year. According to one method we merely turn over a new leaf; according to the other we re-examine our whole record.

The little way is to make a nice neat set of new resolutions; the large way is to reverse the motives by which we carry them out. The little way is to think only how we can get ahead during the New Year; the large way is to concern ourselves with the roads by which others are to get ahead.

I realize that the most popular voices of our time are those which tell us how to be successful, how to keep sweet in the midst of the world's bitterness, how to stay calm despite society's perils, how to win our own prosperity and happiness even though humanity at large is threatened by atomic warfare. And I realize also that one's own state of mind is an essential factor in personal happiness.

But I cannot believe it is the Christian attitude to be content with inner sweetness while the world is going sour, or to be satisfied with personal success when society heads into distress and destruction. And I feel sure that my thoughtful readers are starting this year of 1961 with a concern for the larger outlook as well as the personal successes.

The late Dr. John Henry Jowett tells us that on a certain rainy night he was leaving his place of stay in a small Scottish village for the railway station. His host supplied him with a lantern to pick his way among the puddles, but it was a great help, said Jowett, when he came around a bend in the road and saw the station light which gave him direction.

In the dark night we need not only the flashlights of personal faith and courage to illumine the immediate steps, but also the beacon lights to show us the long road and the larger goals.

Am I putting the issue too strongly when I say the world is now at the fork of a road, one line of which heads back toward the Dark Ages, the other forward to what may prove another Renaissance of learning and another Reformation of religion?

What we face this forking of the road we recall how Matthew closed the Christmas story of the Wise Men. He said, "And being warned of God in a dream that they should not return to Herod, they departed into their own country another way." Never in all the centuries since those words were written have wise men seen more clearly the necessity of choosing between the road which leads back to Herod and the other way which leads forward from Bethlehem.

Herod ruled by the motives of hate and fear — by piling faction against faction. He kept his provincial kingship in Palestine by playing up to bitter rivalries of the several Roman powers.

How different was the way of Jesus. He could easily have won a popular following among His countrymen by playing on their hatred of Rome. But Jesus tried to reach men around the ideal of brotherhood.

It is much harder to rally people around the banner of love than around the banner of hate. How easy it is to arouse men's anger and fear today. How many demagogues can get a popular following by inflaming the passions of people. How many organizations are keeping secretaries in revival-like jobs by capitalizing on popular fears and prejudices.

Yes, there is a trend today back toward the Herod way of appealing to men's lower motives. We see it manifested by certain members of the United Nations. We saw it appear in the recent national election. We are prone to show it in our private living.

Like the Wise Men of the Christmas story we must take a road from Bethlehem which leads to Christ's way of co-operation in the common enterprises of education, health, promotion, social welfare and international understanding.

There is an old Chinese proverb, "The longest journey begins with the first step." If our first steps be away from Herod's hate and fear toward Christ's road of love and faith, we are headed for a Happy New Year.

Wedding

PFEIFFER — MAY

On Wednesday, December 28 at 2:30 p.m., a very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernhardt May, of 15 Lane Avenue, Belleville, when their daughter, Ann Margaret, became the bride of Theodore John Pfeiffer, of Tendaldi, Ontario, son of the Reverend J. Pfeiffer and the late Mrs. Pfeiffer. The bride and groom's father was the officiating minister.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her white taffeta gown featuring a molded bodice with matching organza skirt. She wore a white feather headdress and carried a bouquet of pink chrysanthemums.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Noreen May of Belleville, who was attired in blue lace over taffeta with white feather headdress and carrying a nosegay of blue chrysanthemums.

Corporal Donald Wilson, of Picton Heights, attended the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served by the uncle and aunt of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred May.

The bride's table, with a setting of Christmas decorations, was prettily appointed with white damask, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped by two doves and wedding rings branch with white organza corsage.

Later the happy couple left for Toronto, London, Niagara Falls and the Georgian Bay district, where they will reside at Wasaga Beach. The bride travelled in a beige brocaded ensemble with fur trim and blue topcoat.

Guests attended from Kingston, Picton, Denbigh, Bloomfield and Belleville.

LUCK HELPS OUT

BRUNO, Alta., (CP) — Mrs. Noella Tregakowski won a $16,000 bungalow at a recent turkey shoot and later learned her son Robert had won $1,000 for selling her the ticket. A widow with seven children, she had been living on social aid since her husband died of cancer a year ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett D. Ketcheson, R.R. 3, Consecon, announce the engagement of their daughter, Marjorie Eva, to Dr. William John Fraser, son of Dr. and Mrs. John W. Farley of Trenton. Marriage to take place in King Street United Church, Trenton, on Saturday, January 28, at 12 o'clock noon.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Since Christmas we have been considering the thought about today's column. As we sweep about our daily tasks we became the victim of over-confidence, "Certainly" we reassured ourselves "something will come to hand as we pore over the endless literature for the morning program at CJBQ." Confidence was ill-founded. The search was in vain. The queer inspiration from others without and within was futile.

We must look for the proper meaning of the word happy as used during Christmas. We discard among other things that happy means "contented with one's lot." Then we recalled the sombre reminder from Her Majesty, The Queen that 1960 gave to our sorely troubled world little with which to be happy contented. We could detect no unending fear our pseudo sentimentalism — instead we felt that 1961's happiness must be unearned because we were disturbed about 1960's disinterest.

The more we thought about the article we write for a New Year's column, the greater became our respect for the Queen's honesty in her plea. The hope based on the realities confronting us. We can say at no better wish than just to copy the thought of the Queen and hopeful happiness based on a "full-time" job. We tried a "lot" which we can be more content with." We can use mile pattern of day and night, spring and fall, winter and summer and within the orbit of our planet earth, X and Y hopes for all readers of the Ontario and Intelligencer and our world within the universe a happier happy New Year. The truth of things as they are, as the Queen acknowledged, alone can bring the future hope of free nations and happy men closer to a world in 1961. And so with Tiny Tim may "God bless us, every one" for the next three hundred and sixty-five days.

Going Places

Nature's Wonders Are Pooled To Form a Gem-Like Retreat

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Kauai, Hawaii — The only place within paddling distance of Honolulu where you can see a grass shack is at the Eastman Kodak exhibit at Waikiki Beach. They built the thing, hired hula dancers to look pretty in front of it, and you'd be amazed at how much fun they sell that way.

But here on quiet Kauai, where Hawaii looks the most natural, fields of sugar cane wave like Kansas corn in the trade winds, you actually can eat and drink under a real thatched roof.

Not that that's but you can sleep in a bed built like a native hut, wash your face in a sea shell with water that comes from a fish-shaped jar, pull a towel off a driftwood rack and then drape it over the trunk of a palm tree growing right through the roof of your cabin, and cut your way out of the room grab a fishing pole from the closet and catch your own filet of mahimahi for breakfast before you're all right by the open air dining hall.

The Coco Palms Hotel is the creation of some Hawaiians from Philadelphia and places like that who thought others would be thrilled to the same nostalgic vision of a South Seas Shangri-la that they had come to fulfill. Not finding it, they built one and incorporated all their mirages on an island paradise as it may have been.

INDIGENOUS MATERIALS

Sprawling over a six-acre grove of more than 1,000 swaying coconut palms, the hotel is built almost 100 per cent of indigenous materials — native rock, native mahoganies, pandanas frond thatch and palm trunks for pillars.

Lagoons afloat with lillies and orchids meander among the one- and two-storey buildings spread over the grounds, and an outrigger is yours for paddling when the spirit moves. There are even peacocks and a baby deer for the kids to play with.

At night the dramatic Polynesian ceremony of lighting torches on the grounds before the setting in firelight, and the guests are summoned to dinner by the haunting trumpeting of a sea shell, such as ancient Hawaiian kings summoned their subjects to feasts.

Kauai boasts Hawaii's only navigable river, the Wailua, which winds calmly between steep cliffs where water hyacinth cling and the hau grow, their yellow blossoms turning red at night.

Near its source, a brick path leads from the shore into a dense and eerie jungle where twisting banyans unwind and compete for space with graceful papaya trees, blue-banana trees and rare ginger torch and Bird of Paradise plants.

The path turns to red dirt and finally emerges in a sun-dappled grotto of layered volcanic rock more than 100 feet high they curves and arches like a giant shell over an echoing hollow. From its peak a waterfall trickles musically into a pool in the bottom of the grotto, and from the layers of rock cliff, countless arms of fern dangle like graceful ornamentals.

It is easy to believe some pagan god had chosen this grotto to gouge a retreat out of the rocks for himself, and then decorate it to his taste.

WILD WONDERS

Kauai is full of such wild wonders. Miles of virgin beach fringe the island, and on a precipice cliff high above one of the lovely bays, Kenaiki Bay, a second hotel called the Plantation House will offer spectacular views of mountains, valleys and sea unmatched anywhere.

Valleys two-thirds of a mile deep and mountain ridges more than a mile high service Kauai's profile. There are raw misty canyons like Waimea where wild goats and pigs roam, and peaks like Waialeale where 300 inches of rain a year create the wettest spot on earth.

Banana bunches grow right by the side of the road, and citrenz compete in a kind of tropical poker built to see who can spot and pluck them first, though not before they are ripe. Orchids are considered good enough only for garnishing tourists' drinks, and rows of bougainvillea and acacia brighten the borders of the cane fields.

For color there are poinsettias 30 feet high, papayas in every one's yard and fields blue with pineapple plants. For Kauai's own special it's the rainbow eucalyptus, a weird "eruptions" of the Spouting Horn of Koloa where the waves geyser through cavernous coral rocks.

Rich in the history of ancient kings and legends of little people and pagan gods, unspoiled Kauai sleepily goes its untrammeled way. No television, trucks, buses or even a ferry to the other islands, make it the ideal secret honeymoon paradise for honeymooners of all ages. You'd never even know Waikiki is only half an hour away.

Telephone Pioneers Hold Yuletide Party

A recent delightful party was held at Colombos' Hall arranged by the executive of the Telephone Pioneers of America, for life members and pioneers.

The hall was tastefully decorated by Mrs. Christine Banks, by Mrs. Pat McKay of the entertainment committee and Mrs. K. V. Burkett, wife of the president of the local chapter.

The early part of the evening was devoted to bridge and euchre and the ladies were rewarded.

A humorous skit was provided by three telephone employees and much enjoyed.

The life members were presented with a gift from the Council and there were members from Napanee, Picton and Stirling present.

Christmas carol singing was also enjoyed to the accompaniment of Jimmie Conrad at the piano.

A bounteous buffet luncheon was provided by the ladies, complete with coffee, presided over by the gentlemen. It was topped by a centre piece that this would be an annual affair.

Holy Trinity W.G. Enjoys Yuletide Party

SHANNONVILLE — Due to the inclement weather of last Thursday the annual Christmas Party of the Women's Guild of Holy Trinity Church, Shannonville, was held over until Friday evening, and despite the cold weather, 13 members and two guests were present. The meeting was held at the home of the president, Mrs. S. Fitzgerald.

The devotional period of the meeting with prayer, followed by the singing of a hymn and prayer for Mrs. G. Topping, who is still in hospital. Each member made a donation toward the purchasing of a plant and a card to be sent to Mrs. Topping.

A short business period followed. The next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Wilson on January 5th with Mrs. M. Edwards conducting the devotional and Mrs. R. Kilpatrick the program.

The highlights of the evening were the exchanging of gifts among the members, and the presentation to the wardens.

On behalf of the members, Mrs. B. McBride expressed their appreciation for the work the wardens have done for the church after the church affairs.

A. Houston presented Mr. Fitzgerald with a box of cigars and a box of Kleenex. Mrs. Bride made a similar presentation to Mr. Whittle.

Mrs. McBride took charge of the program with several contributions enjoyed and prizes given to the winners.

Mrs. T. A. Long gave a reading on the best things we get are from those who have nothing to give. Mrs. Fitzgerald closed the meeting with prayer after which the members adjourned to the dining room where the table was set with all the Christmas treats. An enjoyable social hour was spent and a hearty vote of thanks given to Mrs. Fitzgerald.

"I WANT MY DADDY"—Little Caroline, three-year-old daughter of the President-elect, John F. Kennedy, sent a press conference reporter herself when she wandered out on the patio where Kennedy was holding a press conference and refused to give her a hand to put them on. Regina Home Conducting Experiment in Kindness

REGINA (CP)—Embury House is conducting an experiment in kindness. It is a home for emotionally disturbed children.

"Society has thrown them out but we can't," says J. S. White, deputy minister of social welfare in Saskatchewan.

The institution, along with five others of the same type across Canada, is seeking an answer to the problem of dealing with and treating emotionally disturbed youngsters.

This is a new field and no one knows what to expect, says Joseph Cels, a trained social worker and superintendent of Embury House.

Built in 1919 and used until 1947 as a children's aid home, it was named after Judge Emerson Embury, a leading Regina lawyer. A. W. Embury, Lt. can accommodate 32 children. The staff numbers 18, three of whom are social and case workers.

"We attempt to expose the children to a completely different set of adults," said Mr. Cels.

Mr. Cels feels each youngster has to be approached from his own level of human relationship.

PROGRESS SLOW

With some you can only make a start by playing sports; with others, through a verbal approach. If they talk of things you've got to answer them that way.

Yesterday a boy who had been with us a few days said an arm around my shoulder. This is the first time he has shown trust in anyone in all this time."

Mildred Battel, director of the provincial child welfare branch, said: "We do not mean they will be mature adults when they grow up but they will have the strength to continue the problem of growing up."

Embury House treatment is basically kindness, patience and understanding. The children knew this pleasure at home; had no incentive to please.

"We expose them in the opportunity of giving themselves fulfilment," said Miss Battel.

"Some have a low opinion of themselves and we try to give them the experience of success. This means giving the right answer in school, learning how to do a tumble at the Y or making things with their hands in craft programs."

Embury House admits it record isn't perfect. Since April, 1956, four of the 17 children returned to some institution. Of those four only one "didn't do as well," said Mr. White.

Canadian Author Refuses To Visit French Country Because Hubby Absent

By Marguerite Villeneuve
Canadian Press Correspondent

PARIS (CP)—Canadian author Lionel Leforest has just second literary invasion of Paris, refused to set foot an inch outside the metropolis.

She would loved to have seen the French countryside, she said, but wanted to do it in company with her husband whenever they can take a trip to Europe together.

Her husband, Roland Faucher, is a chemist in Ottawa where they have been living for 16 years.

Perhaps that is why "I am not allowing myself to make comparisons between Ottawa, where I have lived so long, and Paris, where I have spent two such pleasant visits."

But, she said, Ottawa "is a dull city, that can only be stirred up by the scandals natural to a small place."

She came here in September for the launching of her second novel, Deux-Actes-Hitler (sword), by her Paris publisher, Robert Laffont, and returned home Dec. 11.

In 1956, when her novel Avec ou Sans Amour (With or Without Love) won the prize of the Cercle du Livre de France, a separate six weeks here at the invitation of the publisher.

HOPES FOR PRIZE

During her last visit she admitted she was stirred up, by the possibility that her new novel might win the prize.

"There is suppose all around us. At the beginning, a manuscript has been full to bursting. Then the editor asks you for a picture "just in case" and a little later for the "biographical note," because the contest is getting near.

"The day of the award I went to Montreal, Place Viger (seat of the Cercle du Livre de France) said to me: 'The jury is hesitating between you and another author.' I was more excited than on the day of my wedding."

Her first novel has sold about 5,000 copies. Publication of the second was decided upon during her first visit to Paris. She's now working on her third.

MENTIONED NEW NOVEL

"I spoke to Mr. Laffont about the first draft of a novel I have in my pocket, 'Show me,' he said, 'I am going to pass it on to my first reader.'

Thereupon editing was advised by Laffont already wanted not only to publish Deux-Amer but to present it for the Prix Femina.

Mrs. Martin was educated by the Ursulines here and the Dames de la Congregation in Quebec City but, she said, she does not cherish the memory.

"At least the Ursulines had a library" but at that time she was not thinking of becoming an author.

She went into radio starting in Quebec City and later making a name for herself with The CBC in Montreal before moving to Ottawa with her husband.

Yuletide Party Enjoyed by Milltown B.C.

The usual Christmas party of the Milltown Birthday Club was held at the beautifully decorated home of Mrs. Betty McBride, and a delightful party it was with the prizes going as follows: 1st to Mrs. Bernice Driver, 2nd to Mrs. Gertrude Merry, consolation to Mrs. Lena Fitzgerald, lone hand to Miss Sharon Rose.

Games were played with the prizes being awarded to Miss Muriel Fitzgerald 1st, and Mrs. McBride, and a delightful party it was with the prizes going as follows: 1st to Mrs. Bernice Driver.

A delicious lunch was served by the hostess and the holiday trimmings that fit in.

Everyone expressed thanks and appreciation to everyone was wished a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Next party at the home of Mrs. Olive Vance.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three children and the editor of the women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, refers out for advice, encountered by guidance counsellors and social workers

Mrs. T. Y. — I tell her to get married to stay the way God made her.

Vivian Y. — If I can be less of a mooncalf, I want to go through with the operation.

Mrs. T. Y. — My daughter is 20 years old, tall, very slim and attractive. But she's always been self-conscious about the size of her breasts. She binds herself tight, slouches when she walks and wears loose jackets to hide her figure. She's always dreamt of showing herself in a clinging gown. Now she's making an appointment with a plastic surgeon. I tell her this is ridiculous, that the bosom goes with the rest of her body and shouldn't be tampered with. It's true she has a large bust measurement, and she doesn't look comfortable in it's 39 per cent in her mind.

She thinks that a couple of operations are no joke and that only knife touches your body should be a serious illness. I call it silly vanity.

Vivian Y. — My mother didn't tell you that she and I don't agree that my breasts are overdeveloped. They're out of proportion to the rest of me. It isn't a matter of vanity, as my brother says. It's a matter of plain comfort, as well as peace of mind, for me. As an artist, I'm troubled by the aesthetic imbalance of my figure.

It's awful to feel a ty body looking at just one part of you. Even if it's not so, that's how I feel. Besides, if my bosom is this uncommon size, how will I be if I marry and have babies?

If the plastic surgeon assures me he can cut me down to a size 34 or 36, I'm buying it.

The Council — The decision here should not be influenced by Mrs. Y.'s natural maternal fears, but by the validity of Vivian's request and the objective opinion of accredited physicians.

Nature is not perfect. Natural processes can go haywire in the body, as we see in cleft palates, elephantiasis, congenital hip dislocation, malocclusion of teeth and other abnormalities. Girls are frequently shortchanged by hormonal high-jinks which produce either too much or too little mammary tissue, and plastic surgeons have developed a perfectly sly foolproof techniques for correcting excessive deviations in bust development.

Once the physicians acknowledge the need — physical, emotional aesthetic — there should be no more hesitation than there would be over straightening teeth or correcting weak feet. This is an approved form of cosmetic surgery and plastic breasts that are in correct proportion to the rest of the body, and that function normally, are lovely.

Vivian's motivation appears entirely valid. She wants a body and vanity which prompts one to look at herself with pride. In the best sense, leads us to be the best people we can be.

As to "tampering" with Nature, isn't it — and isn't tampering with floodwaters which might otherwise cause a tragedy of people? Isn't a tunnel tampering with a mountain which otherwise would be a barrier to civilization? Is man a will and a brain with the ch check up on her design?

It may take more than this operation to cure Vivian's fear to the sun and keep her out high. But without it the whole Vivian is irritating, hair-alive, is unnecessary shadows.

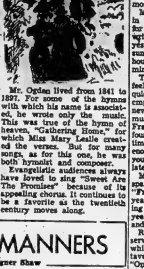
Stories of Famous Hymns

By Norma E. Powell

"SWEET ARE THE PROMISES"

Sweet are the promises, Kind is the word,
Dearer far than any message man ever heard;
Pure was the life of Christ, Sinless..I see;
He the great example is, and pattern for me.

Sweet is the tender love Jesus hath shown;
Sweeter far than any love that mortals have known;
Kind to the erring one, Faithful is He;
He the great example is and pattern for me.



List to His loving words, "Come unto Me."
Weary, heavy-laden, there is sweet rest for thee;
Trust in His promises, Faithful and sure,
Lean upon the Saviour and thy rest is secure.

CHORUS

Where He leads, I'll follow,
I'll follow all the way;
Where He leads, I'll follow,
Follow Jesus every day.

William Augustus Ogden, whose name was familiar to readers of ever gospel hymns and hymnbooks, was born in Ogdensburg, New York, in the last half of the nineteenth century, turned out both the message and the music for "Sweet Are The Promises."

His hymn verses were inspired by a verse from the Bible — "Let us not be tampering with Matthew 11:28: "Come unto Me, all ye that labor, and are heavy-laden and I will give you rest".

Mr. Ogden lived from 1841 to 1895 and during his lifetime was associated with which his name is associated. Among these only the music This was true of the hymn "Safe in heaven, "Gathering Home," for which Mrs. Mary Lasile composed the verses. But for many hymns for this one he was both hymnist and composer.

The evangelistic audiences always have loved to sing "Sweet Are the Promises" because of its appealing chorus. It continues to be a favorite as the twentieth century moves along.

MODERN MANNERS

ANCIENT CUSTOMS AND SUPERSTITIONS

May I join the universal wish that will be on everyone's lips today and tomorrow, "A Happy New Year"? And start the coming year bring health and happiness to you and yours!

Yesterday we talked about the traditional observance of New Year's Eve in Natalie's Capital, over thirty years ago. Let's go further back today and delve far back into the past.

It is interesting to note that January first has not always been the day for the New Year. In many different countries, during ancient times, the year's Day was variously set as the middle of March, early in March, March 25th and the 31st day of December. Only since 1752, when England adopted the Gregorian Calendar, has January first been accepted as the beginning of a new year.

In these olden days many customs were followed and superstitions held sway over many lands. For example, one custom was known as "dipping." The family Bible was opened by the master of the house. He opened the book at his eyes closed placing a finger at random on a page. The passage found in this way was supposed to indicate the fortunes of his house for the coming year. The text was solemnly read, and interpreted by the family as foretelling the luck and fate in that respect.

One superstition that was taken most seriously was that concerning the "first footer." The first person to be the first to enter. Among others considered very unlucky were grave diggers, persons who walked with their toes turned in, those with flat noses, and that met in the middle, and men with light, or blond, hair! So unfortunate people believe in all this, that in many villages a dark-haired man was chosen to go from house to house where he was the first to enter, thereby preserving the good fortune of the house in the year to come.

Another belief was that it would bring bad luck to throw anything out on New Year's Day even if it were ashes or a bit of rubbish. Another idea brought about a ceremony called "breaking the cake." A special cake was dashed against the front door, then everybody rushed to pick up a piece and eat it, praying meanwhile that neither hunger nor want should enter the house.

This custom began centuries ago is still observed in many lands. It is one that we follow if it is the paying of calls upon one's friends on New Year's Day. This delightful custom is said to have originated in China, where they declared that they could call upon their friends with a clear conscience because all of their debts had been settled before the stroke of midnight on the last day of the old year.

QUESTION BOX

Question — I am writing this in hope that You will print it and will see it in their newspaper. I'm a waiter in a coffee town. The customers come into the restaurant where I work, put they stay and stay and stay. A group may come in one whole evening, ordering very little food, but getting waited on nevertheless. Nine times out of ten they leave no tip. I have to make most of my living through tips. By failing up tables for a whole evening, I'm losing money for other customers. Do you think I should go on strike? — A. Philadelphia, Pa.

Answer — No, I don't. If a group of students sits around all evening, they should take up a collection among themselves before they leave. They should tip you not only for your service but also for holding up your table. Perhaps the man who runs the restaurant is to blame for using this effect might help the situation. Perhaps he can warn them their patronage, but I do think that customers who treat the waiters should be brought home to them in a rather forceful manner.

Question — My little daughter is to be a flower girl at a wedding. She is to be here next month. I am wondering if it is customary for her to give the bride a gift? If so, what type of gift would be appropriate? Also, I'm not sure what the dress my child is to wear? — Mrs. V. S., Rochester, Minn.

Answer — The correct procedure is the other way round. The bride presents the flower girl with a gift, just as she does to her attendants. Usually the bride chooses the dress that her flower girl is to wear, and the mother pays for it. The parents assume this responsibility.

Question: I am never sure who to send a card to when sending a letter of condolence. For example: Do I send one to one of my best friends dies, should I write to her or to her mother, whom I do not know intimately? If there are two sisters, should I write to both? Is it just to the one I know best? — Miss B. S., Kingston.

Answer: I would suggest, in answer to your first example, if you write to the girl that you know so well, and ask her extend your sympathy to the rest of the family. In the case of the sisters, I would write to the one you know best, extending your condolences to the other one.

New Year's Eve

By Mary Moore

My major New Year's resolution is to improve the quality and variety of the cooking that the Moore household and to improve the quality of the cooking service to the readers and every proof pay in this audience.

I am not an addict of spectator sports. I am an addict of participating sports and activities and in the cooking field I have strong competition.

Mothers and cooks and home economists have been shamefully coaxed and cajoled into buying everything ready-prepared. I claim you are victims of most of the lies of eating if you do not prepare the food yourself.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

SATURDAY

(New Year's Eve Supper or Late Supper)

Hungarian Veal Goulash (see Wednesday); Hard Poppy Seed Rolls; Sweet Butter; English Trifle (see Wednesday); Coffee.

MONDAY

Smoked Haddock with Milk Gravy; Cream Whipped Potatoes; Buttered Spinach; Finger Salad: Carrot and Celery Sticks, Radishes; Fruit in Jelly; Shortbread or Sugar Cookies; Coffee.

I think family fun clustered around the kitchen and dining-room and fireplace and the TV is the best kind of fun.

Youngsters and adults who are cook; youngsters and adults who are creative; youngsters and adults who enjoy reading; youngsters and adults who can sing and play the piano and organ; families who worship together — these all have the foundation on which a lifetime of happiness and service can be built.

The reason I speak out so strongly on joy to be had by parents with their children in their homes is my observation of the young people in my Sunday School class.

Sometimes I invite the teenaged girls to my home and give them a cooking lesson. Twenty girls attend Home Economics classes in high school, and a few of them are potential good cooks. But the majority are not. They have been denied the privilege of learning to cook from their mothers. Why?

Mothers, the following is directed to you.

Let your young people — boys included — help you. If they say "Mother, what are you cooking for lunch?" answer it possible by saying "What would you like?" and follow this by saying "you can help me — because you know how to make . . . Yes! us say French Toast; grilled cheese sandwiches, etc."

This draws them in, for they need to be needed.

For instance, 7-year-old David Miller — my secretary Eleanor's son — loves to cook and cooks well. She never makes a French toast, for it is David's specialty. When she is busily getting home at noon from working overtime for me, he often has lunch started for Sandy and his mother and himself. The soup may be a little on the cool side for the perfectionist heated because it was put on to cook before the grilled sandwiches were done — but who cares? We've enjoyed a lovely, unhurried, unscrambled, under-baking-powdered, undercooked, overcooked cook in my home! It would fill a big garbage pail. But it was a time of fellowship, fingertip contact never suffered and oh how it has grown! Gifts of friendship. Now my young people's confident hosts and loving it.

Mothers, teach your children how to cook! Encourage them to invite their friends to your home for lunch. Your Sharp, regardless of the extra time and trouble it requires. Train them to live happily at home.

Love and the Happiest of New Years. From your Family Friend Mary.

Christmas Concerts

JOHNSTOWN S.S.

JOHNSTOWN — A successful entertainment (Sunday School) was presented at the Johnstown school on Thursday evening, by the pupils of the church.

The chairman for the evening was Mrs. Lloyd Lynch. The audience was welcomed by Brenda Harder. Four boys, Peter and Dexter Harder, Ralph Vanderpool and Billy Huffman, sang, "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer." A recitation was given by Herbert Huffman called "Scared" and a duet by Joanne Harder and Marion Bush and Gail Lobzee, "Star of the East."

Carol singing was enjoyed, with Mrs. Lloyd Lynch leading. Miss Eleanor Clapp's class presented a pageant, "The Nativity." A recitation was given by Gail Lobzee at home.

Santa arrived and distributed gifts.

Much credit is due Mrs. Alex Bush who began practising with Miss Gail Lobzee, Miss Thelma Smith and Evelyn Harry, for their hard work.

WEST HUNTINGDON S.S.

The West Huntingdon Sunday School presented a short program on Thursday evening. Arthur Wilson was the chairman.

The singing included prayer by Mr. Alex McCurdy; recitations by Fred Hills, Ross McCurdy, Allen Cooke and Sherrie Martin; piano solos by David Cooke, Miss Pollock; piano duet by Mary Ann and Irene Pollock. The readers gave a Christmas story; Misses Sharon and Donna Hammond a song.

Santa Claus appeared and distributed the presents.

Second Glance

By Viva Richmond Graham

PRECIOUS SUBSTANCE

"No one ever regarded the first of January with indifference. It is that from which all date their time, and count upon what is left."—Charles Lamb.

The New Year is somewhat like the little boy, when asked how old he was, answered: "Five."

Whereupon his questioner remarked, "My, you aren't very big for your age, are you?"

Replied the child, "Well, I've been five for only a day-so-far."

Time concerns us all, and many are the comments that have been made about it by most of all walks of life and of all eras.

A Chinese woman, who attained renown in a medical career, was asked when she did most of her studying, said, "In odd moments." This corresponds so aptly with Charles C. Colton's "Much may be done with those little shreds and patches of time which every day produces, and which most men throw away."

Many recall the lines learned in school, remembered chiefly for the beauty of the expression written by Horace Mann: "Lost yesterday, somewhere between sunrise and sunset, two golden hours, each set with 60 diamond minutes."

The Belleville housewife who feels her morning is far too quickly, and if she does not accomplish the work planned and dispatched before noon, is much in common with Benjamin Franklin's "Lost time is never found again, and what we call time enough always proves little enough." Or with Virgil: "Tell your tale before midnight. It is not then you will sleep."

Much has been said about the past year. Much of it negative. "From each of us each passing year takes something." According to Spencer Herbert: "A year doth nothing else but open and shut."

Ralph Waldo Emerson observed: "The years teach much which days never know." Gustave Flaubert went further: "Oh, you two years! How you do it matter! Everything every minute, passes, dissolves, that one be counted has an end."

WASTE OF TIME

Many are concerned with people's wasting of time but Clare Waltham charmingly expresses youth's unawareness: "Oh, to be young and laugh again and lift up great handfuls of wild mirth! Not aquaesint it, confident there would always be waste time regardless of age, as Sir Franklin Lucas is concerned, is to be punctual. "Punctuality," he says, "is the art of wasting only your own time." But if one would be punctual, then, in the words of years, George Bernard Shaw would agree. "Yes, keep your ideas, which may always be trusted to find youthful and vivid expression. This is the secret of youth."

Those who hunger most for time are the busiest, such as Bernard Berenson, who once wrote: "I wish I could send you a busy street corner, bat in hand and beg people to throw me a few hours of their (usually old pro's) claims "To save time is to lengthen life." That brings to mind so-called day-

L.A.P.M. 8 Sponsors Yuletide Party

At the last regular meeting the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Patriarchs Militant No. 8, I.O.O.F., held their Christmas party in the Odd Fellows' Hall on Front Street.

Games and contests were enjoyed, after which Santa distributed gifts to all the members.

A lovely turkey supper was served, convened by Mrs. Dorothy Hutchinson. Mrs. Marjorie Large and their committee.

Games and contests were convened by Mrs. Florence Pollitt.

At a previous meeting, the Auxiliary held its annual inspection. The inspecting officer, Mrs. Hattie Wonch, P.P.A., North Bay, was introduced by Mrs. Alice Storms and welcomed by the president, Mrs. Sadie Smith.

Members of Canton Belleville No. 8 assisted the Auxiliary.

General business was discussed and the candidate initiated.

light saving time which, insists Clarke A. Sanford, was an idea from the old Indian who cut off one end of his blanket every night in order to make it longer." While the most reassuring comment that, "Time will only enjoy using its wasted time," is said anonymously, this evening's precious substance is something of a conundrum: "Time is measured into seconds, minutes, days and months of a year," . . . for "Fifteen Time holds these fragments into another New Year."

And thank our readers for such a wonderful year, just ended.

A Happy, Happy New Year to all!

Divinely Wasteful

By ALMA MASON

When one is inspired to pity and to pity's child, compassion-ate concern, one should act quickly without stopping to think. When opportunity to be helpful knocks on the door of the heart, we should hasten to open the door. There is a God-given instinct that tells us the human heart into an extravagant and rapid expression of love.

All divine love does flow in and out of the heart like a cool and refreshing river; a river that never becomes arid and stagnate on the calculating sands of counting the cost.

Life is more than meat and the body more than raiment." When cold, calculating thoughts from a worldly and selfish pinnacle enter the mind, the sanctuary crystal beauty of a selfless act is never nourished; never takes living shape; never goes forth to ease a weary heart or to transform a grey world.

Do we stop to count the cost when we are inspired to erect a hospital o. a college or a home for the blind? Is it possible to estimate the value in dollars and cents the broad sweep of the work of a Stanley Jones in India or the Albert Schweitzer or Dare we attempt to balance the cost of a college education against the inspirational value of our scientists, engineers, doctors, lawyers and teachers?

Loving sentiment can never be balanced with the coin of the realm. Such thinking is the effigy of the Midas heart and Midas mind.

How impoverished and bleak it would be if it were governed by practical principles alone.

At times we should be divinely extravagant and wastful in the cause of brotherly love. We should be for the growth of our own souls. We should abundantly shatter the alabaster vase of love and sacrificial giving. In doing so our small world would become fragrant with immortal perfume. May I in pity give to those A precious vial of perfume rare.
In deeds that spring externally,
Not linked with thought of time or care;
With love, uncalculated, free,
Nor bound with wisdom of the mind,
May I, in human sanctity,
Minister joy to living kind,
May priceless gift or counter-part
Pass quickly on nor count the cost
And heed the urging of my heart
Before the swift-winged hour is lost.

TONIGHT

when it's "one for the road"...

Fine whisky, in moderation, plays an important part in the art of gracious living.

Knowing when to make a "gracious refusal" plays an equally great part in the art of sensible living.

This is especially true when the New Year's party is breaking up . . . when you're about to drive home and someone suggests, "How 'bout one for the road?"

Tonight, if you are doing the driving, say: "Yes, I'll have one for the road. But, please make it coffee!"

U.S. Space Technology Comes Of Age in 1960, Man Could Circle Earth in Coming Year

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Polaris lightened from submarine. Pioneer 5 rounds ground sun. Explorer, Tiros, Transit, Midas, Explorer, Courier can't lose orbit. Atlas shoves 4,000 miles. Space supsule recovered.

These were the major Cape Canaveral headlines in 1960. What will they be in 1961? They could read:

American astronaut circles earth. Saturn, Centaur superrockets launched. Instrument package lands on moon. Nuclear operational, Minuteman hits target.

U.S. Space technology came of age in 1960 as determined bands of scientists, technicians and engineers transformed research and development into a giant leap for space and missile achievements.

The first steps were taken in weird making space useful for military operations and for man in his everyday life.

Courier is the forerunner of a military communications system, a Midas, will lead to a system of detecting enemy missile launchings instant it is launched. Transit, seemingly simple, provides ships, planes and submarines with accurate, all-weather navigation.

Echo, the super quiet balloon, world-wide radio, television and telephone networks. Tiros one day will beam weather forecasts from space and may lead to actual control of the weather.

However, at year's end, the Soviet Union apparently leads in the race to get the first man into orbit. The next 12 months will see a quickening of this vital sweepstakes.

Russian scientists apparently are skipping a short ballistic flight in favor of rocketing a man into orbit from the start. They demonstrated they have the capability last August when they launched two dogs and other animals in an Earth orbit and returned them safely to earth. However, a similar flight failed in December when an animal-filled spaceship burned up during re-entry.

The Soviets hold a commanding lead in exploration of the moon. They have sent not a lunar vehicle in 1960, but the previous year they hit the moon and took the first pictures of its hidden backside. Two U.S. attempts to hurl a rocket around the moon in 1960 fizzled because of trouble with the Atlas-Able booster rockets.

The U.S. plans an extensive assault on the moon starting next summer with the first flights of rockets designed to land on the moon with a load of scientific instruments.

Decisions Will Have Bearing On Industry

OTTAWA (CP)—Decisions are expected to be taken in four foreign capital cities in the next few weeks which will have a big bearing on the future of the Canadian aircraft industry, informants said Friday.

The questions:

1. Will Italy, The Netherlands and Belgium accept compromise for the F-104 Starfighter jet plane from Canada?

2. Will the new United States administration buy some 32 Canadian transport planes in exchange for Canada's acquisition of some 6 American jet interceptors?

Canadair Limited, Montreal, is the Canadian company directly concerned in the foreign negotiations but there are much wider ramifications because Canadair deals with some 1,200 suppliers, in Canada, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and West Germany as well as still holding sections of the American Starfighter. The Canadian edition is known as the CF-104.

Lockheed of California, the Starfighter designer, has seen up say business to component parts for West Germany.

STRUGGLE TO SUPPLY

But Canadair is engaging Lockheed in a stiff battle to supply parts which may be ordered by Italy, "the Netherlands and Belgium. If these three countries hope to get their starfighters in squadron service by 1963 or 1964 Canadian and the other chief Canadair contractors in the $420,000,000 CF-104 program are looked up for production and delivery of the first dozen or so European manufacturers.

The first CF-104's scheduled to come off the Canadair assembly line in Cartierville RCAF probably will take its first definite test in May or June and some CF-104 squadrons may be operational with the NCAF Air Division in Central Europe.

European orders placed in Canada for the Starfighter parts would mean millions of dollars worth of business for the Canadian aircraft and electronics industry.

Jobless Training Courses Will Start Jan. 23

BRANTFORD (CP) — Training courses for the unemployed will begin Monday, Jan. 23, the board of education and National Employment Service announced Friday. A similar course will be started soon in other Ontario areas.

The program, financed 75 per cent by the federal government and 25 per cent by the Ontario government, will teach the jobless of this area new trades such as machine shop work, radio, television, welding, commercial, typing, drafting and bookkeeping.

Recent amendments to the federal Vocational Training Act increased the province's contribution in the re-education scheme to 75 from 50 per cent—provided the number of trainees equals 3½ per cent of the registered unemployed.

Brantford is one of the first communities in Ontario to take advantage of the plan. Other areas lagged behind other provinces in the program.

H. W. King, chairman of the Brantford employment committee said unemployed persons taking the course will be eligible for unemployment insurance benefits and when they run out living expenses will be paid. Single trainees will receive $2 a day and

Board Will Make Detailed Study of Magazine Economics

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's publishers are advancing in the year into detailed study of magazine economics after a recent outburst of patriotic notes interspersed with bars from the Star Spangled Banner.

Canadian publishers will have another annual meeting before the three-man commission in public hearings resuming here Tuesday. This time they are to present specific recommendations for controlling restrictive competition in the periodicals field.

The new phase of the inquiry was announced in November with announcement by commission Chairman M. Grattan O'Leary and Commissioner James E. Coyne, of Toronto, senior partner in a firm of chartered accountants, has been hired as financial consultant to the commission.

In the spotlight will be the all-important question of advertising limits for media, with submissions scheduled from the Association of Industrial Advertisers, and the Association of Canadian Advertisers Incorporated in conjunction with the Canadian Association of Advertising Agencies.

To date, there have been 143 submissions from organizations, industry and individuals — all saying wordy note of the importance of the publishers before the commission but with the magazines themselves steering clear of specific proposals for limiting them.

Next week, however, the Exchequer Court meeting room of the commission is expected to finally crackle with suggestions. Among those scheduled are the Periodical Press Association, an organization of Canadian consumer magazines, farm, business and trade journals; the Canadian Newspapers Association, and Maclean-Hunter Publishing Company Limited, which publishes such weekly-circulation magazines as Maclean's and Chatelaine.

All three presented briefs at the first of public hearings in November before Mr. O'Leary and Commissioner Coyne. Mr. Johnston and Claude P. Taschereau. They withheld recommendations pending completion of the hearings, preferring to get the benefit first of submissions by the organizations' subsequent cross-country swing.

Other scheduled participants in the public hearings include the Interprovincial Farm Union Council of Saskatchewan and Catholic Confederation of Canada Limited, Canadian Association and the Canadian University Press.

Philosophical bearings will follow Jan. 17-19 and, if necessary, Jan. 24-26. Certain to be back at the rebuttal round are Time and Reader's Digest — the major villains in the eyes of Canadian publishers who accuse them of taking advantage of the available Canadian advertising dollar.

Pilots Blamed For Four Crashes By Department

OTTAWA (CP)—The transport department has investigated four crashes and blamed the pilots for all of them.

The department said in a statement Friday that each of the crashes involving small private aircraft, were due to failure of the pilots to maintain enough air speed.

Two of the pilots were killed. The other two were seriously injured. Only one passenger was injured. Two planes and he, too, was injured seriously.

One crash occurred Aug. 6. A Piper JXC plane owned and flown by Robert Cowan crashed near Peterborough was on a flight near Ontario's MacKenzie Lake and was killed. Cowan and the Groombridge was killed. The department said:

"The pilot permitted the aircraft to stall and spin at too low an altitude to recover to be affected."

Another accident was last Sept. 5 when a de Havilland DHC1 owned by the German Stith Hac monie Incorporated and piloted by Wilhelm H. Brandt crashed near a Stouffville, Ont., private airfield.

The pilot made a left-hand circuit and approached the field at a height of 300 feet. When almost over the field, he made a steep turn to the left. The plane stalled and spun to the ground. Brandt and a passenger, Herman Ranz, were badly hurt.

The pilot failed to maintain sufficient flying speed in a steep turn at low level," the department concluded.

Two other crashes, one of them fatal, occurred in British Columbia.

Frederick Varley, Portrait Painter, 80 on Monday

As in previous years, between 20 and 40 old friends will gather at his studio in this village 20 miles northwest of ormnto and Director Charles Band will propose a birthday toast.

Mr. Varley has something to look forward to in the new year. Thursday a one-man exhibition of more than 50 drawings and several paintings—all done in the artist's 80th year—will open at Toronto's Roberts Gallery.

Mr. Varley has led, and says he believes in, a full and at times troubled life.

TWO EXPRESS

"Trouble is good for mankind," he said in a recent interview. "When you are in trouble you get an understanding of life and you find the answers to many questions."

Born in Sheffield, England, he studied at the Sheffield School of Art but admits he didn't know how to paint until he took courses at the Academie Royale Jes Beaux Arts in Antwerp.

After coming to Canada in 1912 he joined the new Impressionist school of landscape and portrait painters who attempted to break away from formalized European styles.

Other members of this school, later known as the Group of Seven, were Mr. Varley's old friend Arthur Lismer, A. Y. Jackson, Lawren Harris, J. E. H. MacDonald, Frank Johnston, and Frank Carmichael.

Commissioned as a Canadian war artist during the First World War, he went overseas. The stark, powerful canvases of some of the western front during that period now hang in the National Gallery.

ASTONISHED PATRONS

After World War I he took up portrait painting. His unbusiness like independence frequently astonished patrons, according to Massey family.

Once when the late wife of former governor-general Vincent Massey insisted that Mr. Varley change the expression in a face given her in a portrait, the artist reportedly took the mushrooming face and slashed the canvas to ribbons.

In the late 1930s he took to teaching and for 10 years was head of the Ontario Art Association. The school was swept away at the beginning of the Second World War as Mr. Varley himself broke and out in Montreal.

At that time, desperate for rent money, he gave away sketches that often sell today between $200 and $1,000. Toward the end of the war he got married and rented a small studio in the city's gallery district.

NOW RECOGNIZED

Recognition came again after his latest patrons, Donald and Estelle Gordon, began to take an interest in him. He is now living with the McKays in a gracious Toronto home.

Mr. Varley is famed for his quick wit and for his salty and water color paintings. With people he has little economy of line is celebrated.

Varley's draftsmanship is his outstanding feature, says Toronto painter Franklin Arbuckle.

"His paintings are hung on the skeleton of a drawing."

Another Toronto artist, R. York Wilson, said: "Varley is no longer identified as a Canadian painter. He's known now in art all over the world. He belongs to universal art. . . .

"Many of his paintings today [MP] for $10,000," says Arbuckle, "but I'm glad they've got collectors who really enjoy."

TAKING ADVANTAGE

The New York World Telegram and Sun [MP] declares appeal to be taking "distinct advantage of a necessary United States diplomatic problem" to "whip up the American embargo on exports to Cuba."

"Washington appears to have a real problem, calling for some counter-action," the paper declared the editor.

The Chicago News comes to Canada's defence, saying the United States is "out with Poland and Yugoslavia, both having Communist governments. It would seem Canada has little with United States which decided to pick up its marbles and quit playing with Fidel Castro.

"We cannot expect as some divine-inspired right unqualified support for a twist in our foreign policy which Canada has a right of formulating."

The Cleveland Plain Dealer raises the question of whether Canada can buy the Canadian goods with dollars seized from exiles.

WOULD BE SURPRISED

"We would be surprised and disappointed," says the paper, "if Canada refused to act as like her good neighbor but as a rival [MP] sphere."

Western Diplomats Entering New Year With Clearer View Of African Aspirations in UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Western diplomats are entering the new year with a clearer picture of African aspirations as a result of increased membership in the United Nations.

One less of the 1960 sessions of the UN General Assembly, these diplomats say, is that too much - discussed "African bloc" and "Afro-Asian bloc" are not blocs at all in the sense of the nine-country Soviet group, which votes with one voice on all questions.

The arrival of 16 new African countries and the Mediterranean republic of Cyprus as UN members of 1960 boosted the total membership to 99 and shifted the centre of gravity of the organization eastward.

Within the Asian group, which admits Cyprus to its caucus meetings but excludes Israel, Nationalist China and Australia, now totals 46 and will increase as more African countries move into their own in a few years.

Speaking of African alone, the confident which is the term for members—South Africa, Egypt, Ethiopia and Liberia—before the UN was formed, now holds 40 votes, more than any other area.

Such a bloc, the diplomats say, could be decisive in UN votes but the record of the 15th General Assembly—now in recess until March—shows that the local realities, including politics, economics and even tribal differences are reflected in the UN.

Perhaps the most significant result among the African countries came on a vote over the Congo question. It was the assembly by a roll call of 70 to 0, with 30 by seat the delegation of President Joseph Kasavubu, overriding aside the claims of deposed premier Patrice Lumumba.

Nine African members, all former colonies of France, voted in favor of Kasavubu. Seven, Algeria, Mali, the United Arab Republic, Morocco and Tunisia, voted against and six others, abstained. These votes were a defeat for the Soviet Union.

In addition to the 24 French-speaking nations, the 16 new African states admitted to the UN include five English-speaking Nigeria, the most populous African country with more than 33,000,000, and one bilingual part Haiian-speaking and part English-speaking.

Eleven of the newly-independent countries elected to remain within the French Community and it was within this group that the second thing to a single-minded bloc was seen.

When the assembly was debating a resolution calling for UN sponsorship of a referendum in Algeria, the 11 countries tried to soften the terms in favor of France, which has been fighting a rebellion in the North African territory for more than six years.

When an amendment version was passed by a vote of 63 to 5 with 31 abstentions, such small French community nations as Ragon, Chad, Ivory Coast and Upper Volta voted against it.

The Africans managed a move concerned about the question of electing a non - permanent member of the Security Council. They defeated the attempt of colony-holding Portugal. Liberia was elected on a two-year term—the first Negro African country to get on the council.

The strength of the moderate and pro-French African powers was surprise to Communist efforts to Morocco which tried to get a resolution condemning its claim to the territory of Mauritania. In other words, Morocco's defeat was due to the block of African members who voted against the Communists.

Although the East-West struggle was in the background of assembly debate practically all the time, there were few direct clashes. The stand of the new African countries was generally judged. When the assembly voted 70 to 11 to condemn the Soviet bloc not to consider seating Red China, 24 of the African picture was not conclusive.

Three of the new states—Mali, Senegal and Nigeria—voted for the resolution. Guinea and Cameroon, Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana has consistently and flagrantly rejected the idea of siding with either the East or the West in the cold war, but Nkrumah's visit to Communist countries of colonialism caused concern, particularly in Washington.

However, Premier Christian Herter's assertion that Nkrumah was followed the Soviet line was considered one of the greatest democratic blooopers in the first part of the General Assembly.

Canada Criticized, Lauded By U.S. Press on Cuba Trade

WASHINGTON (CP) — Perhaps no Canadian issue in recent years has raised such widespread editorial comment in American newspapers as that concerning trade with Cuba.

From coast to coast, editorial writers have taken to task those criticizing Canada for allegedly aiding Castro, or the United States for criticizing President Eisenhower's regime and others defending Canada's trade relations with the United States has no right to tell Canada what to export from Canada in its trade relations with foreign against Cuba.

Widely carried in American papers were various reports from Ottawa quoting Cuban Economic Minister Regino Boti as saying he was prepared to place orders for $150,000,000 worth of goods — about 100 times the Canada from Canada in 1959.

The New Orleans States Item wants "Ottawa to keep its hands's best customers and that it will be a tragedy if it puts our hands if Ottawa-Havana relations get chummier than they already are."

Kidney Transfer Is Functioning

BOSTON (AP) — A kidney transplanted from the body of a woman killed in an auto crash to the body of her identical twin sister is functioning, officials of Peter Bent Brigham Hospital reported Friday.

In an operation Wednesday, Lana Nightingale of Steinbach, Man., gave a kidney to her sister Johanna, whose own kidneys are diseased.

Friday the hospital reported that Johanna was in satisfactory condition and Lana is making excellent progress. She has been out of bed once.

Doctors had hinted kidney trades since she was seven years ago but transplanted kidney continues to damage the diseased organ eventually will destroy it.

Peter Bent Brigham Hospital has performed successful kidney transplants involving identical twins and one between twins not identical.

The Los Angeles Mirror News suggests Canada's lack of courage in Canada's foreign policy in the Cuban affair serves United States interests.

"Maybe we should pay a little more attention to those when Canada has a legitimate beef instead of looking out the window."

In Florida, the Tampa Tribune says "Canada surely ought to be sufficiently concerned about a neighbor to do this hemisphere to join with the United States in denying it the economic aid it requires for survival."

Adds the Chicago Tribune: "We should think that before launching out on co-operation in the more remote areas of the globe, the Canadians might consider the advisability of a little co - operation with the United States in the containment of communistic activities in this hemisphere."

End of Personal Diplomacy Seen in Kennedy's Move

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

In planning the appointment of an ambassador-at-large to handle most of the foreign travelling for him, President-elect Kennedy brings to an end the personal diplomacy as practised by President Eisenhower.

Instead of following the Eisenhower pattern of undertaking personal diplomatic journeys abroad, Kennedy seems ready to rely on himself and his top foreign policy advisers and remain in the White House as president.

That doesn't mean Kennedy would reject the proposal made by Premier Diefenbaker for a summit meeting of Commonwealth leaders, or that he would refuse to meet with Premier Khrushchev.

PREPARE IN ADVANCE

Undoubtedly such meetings will take place. But Kennedy wants to make sure that he himself can do all the essential negotiations. The issues involved are too delicately concluded through long-distance telephone echelons or heads of state meeting for a few weeks, summit meetings would be the culmination of the long purpose of signing agreements that have been patiently initiating fresh controversial bargaining.

This may not please Khrushchev's liking. The Russians have shown their preference of major issues between East and West be done only at the top—by heads of state rather than diplomatic advisers.

But previous meetings between Khrushchev and Eisenhower failed to make headway in major objectives they seemed to have aroused new confusion and bitterness. Instead of leading into new summit talks unless Kennedy first feels assured of achievements in the diplomatic sidelines.

During his eight year in the White House, Eisenhower visited 26 countries. He made his last official trips to Ottawa, in 1953 and 1958. But in spite of all his travelling, the American administration finds that world popularity for Eisenhower personally have not increased.

The shattered summit conference last May following the U-2 spy plane affair and the Japanese riots that prevented a showdown from visiting Japan were humiliating blows which the United States is still recovering.

Two Men Killed As Cars Collide On Sharp Curve

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two men were killed and four persons severely injured Friday night when a car and a truck collided head - on on a curve on Highway 26 near Stayner.

In Sudbury, Thomas Hearn, 17, of Worthington, Ont., was killed Friday night in a snowstorm when his jeep was struck by a freight train at a level crossing 30 miles west of Sudbury.

The fatalities were Ontario's first of the new Year's holiday weekend. Earlier Friday, four were killed at Ottawa when a CPR train ripped a car in a level crossing.

Killed at Stayner were John Patterson, 45, owner of a nursing home at Collingwood, and his father-in - law, Lorenzo Wilbe, 81, of Goderich. Mrs. Patterson was in critical condition in hospital at Collingwood.

Police said there were five persons in the car and one in the truck. The Patterson car apparently was bound for Barrie, 20 miles northeast of Stayner.

Those killed at Ottawa were George Stead, 62, an engineer with an Ottawa business machines firm, and Mrs. Stead's two orphan boys they had cared for since 1952, Jeffrey Lee Davis, 12, and Kenneth Davis, 12.

Mr. and Mrs. Stead had six sons and two daughters and about 10 years ago took the two then little children of the Dollard-ma Aid Society under their care.

The fatalities came as Ontario police intensified their watch for erring drivers. In Metropolitan Toronto police Friday night spotchecked 1,000 cars in a one-hour night vigil for tipsking drivers.

Seven persons met their fate only one person to charge with impaired driving. Cars spot-checked in the two nights of the tabled 4,965. Another 76 drivers were charged with other offences Friday night and 42 cautions were handed out.

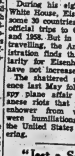
When the uproar was over he checked. "Adam, Ed", he said. "The boys all: got the same amount, and did the girls. But not fair shares.



He thought a moment while the children waited. "Every girl must give every boy the same amount out of what they grabbed. Then every boy every girl a different equal account.

Uncle Tom's smart. Those kids ended up with exactly equal shares, although less than a quarter each.

How much did each boy grab originally?

Cross-Canada Survey

1960 Death Toll of 82 Hunters Worst on Record Hundreds Others Wounded

By HARRY CALNEK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

More Canadians than ever lost their lives in hunting accidents in Canada during 1960.

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press showed 82 shooting fatalities and hundreds more wounded in the bush, with carelessness again the chief cause of accidents. In 1959 about 31 persons were killed.

The carnage was greatest in Ontario where wildlife officials reported 34 deaths and 140 accidents. The toll was 10 greater than 1959, the previous record year, and compared with 18 in 1958.

Only Prince Edward Island was free of fatalities—for the third consecutive year.

At the beginning of the autumn season in Northern Ontario a hunter travelling by boat along a river in the evening dusk spotted a movement on the shore. He thought it was a moose.

Not until he had emptied his rifle did he hear human cries. He had killed one man and critically wounded another.

This sort of incident, with varying circumstances, was reported again and again across the country.

MANITOBA LOWER

An intensive safety program seemed to be paying off in Manitoba. Two died in 1960 compared with five in each of the two previous years. The record was set in 1946 and matched in 1953 when 11 died. There were 23 accidents this year.

Behind Ontario were Saskatchewan and Quebec with 12 deaths each. In addition two persons were killed at home in Quebec while cleaning rifles or while children were playing with them. Another Quebec hunter was drowned. In 1959 the Quebec toll was three and Saskatchewan's six.

Seven died in New Brunswick compared with five the previous year; six were killed in Alberta, about the same as in other recent years; four were fatally shot and four others drowned while hunting in British Columbia compared with six. Hunting deaths in 1959 four lost their lives in Nova Scotia compared with two, and Newfoundland, fatality - free in 1959, had one death in 1960.

While carelessness was the chief cause, there were other factors. Terrain peculiar to certain parts of the country and different methods of hunting, such as deer hunting in Quebec, also contributed to the toll.

SHOT HIS WIFE

Near Belleville, Ont., a man and wife were hunting and decided to try their luck in different areas. The husband came upon his wife and shot her. She spent several weeks in hospital but recovered. He said he mistook her for a partridge.

"Failure of the hunter to positively identify the target before aiming at as game causes about half the accidents," said Allan Young of Ontario's hunter training program.

"Every year two boats loaded with duck hunters were passing on the Muskeg River. A hunter in one boat mistook the other boat for a flock of ducks—God only knows how—fired a volley and killed cowboys."

With an estimated 1,400,000 licensed hunters in Canada and the number rising each year, the importance of safety training was being increasingly recognized.

Except for Quebec and Newfoundland, each province has some form of hunter training and the rise in Quebec fatalities has prompted consideration there of the introduction of a program.

AIMED AT YOUNGSTERS

Most training schemes are sponsored by fish and wildlife organizations. Where training is government-sponsored the clubs provide volunteer instructors. Almost all programs are aimed primarily at teen-age hunters.

Ontario, with more than half a million licensed hunters, began a training program in 1957 on a voluntary basis. In 1960 it became mandatory for a novice 16 years and compared with 18 in 1959.

Only Prince Edward Island was free of fatalities—for the third consecutive year.

At the beginning of the autumn season in Northern Ontario a hunter travelling by boat along a river in the evening dusk spotted a movement on the shore. He thought it was a moose.

Not until he had emptied his rifle did he hear human cries. He had killed one man and critically wounded another.

This sort of incident, with varying circumstances, was reported again and again across the country.

MANITOBA LOWER

An intensive safety program seemed to be paying off in Manitoba. Two died in 1960 compared with five in each of the two previous years. The record was set in 1946 and matched in 1953 when 11 died. There were 23 accidents this year.

Behind Ontario were Saskatchewan and Quebec with 12 deaths each. In addition two persons were killed at home in Quebec while cleaning rifles or while children were playing with them. Another Quebec hunter was drowned. In 1959 the Quebec toll was three and Saskatchewan's six.

Seven died in New Brunswick compared with five the previous year; six were killed in Alberta, about the same as in other recent years; four were fatally shot and four others drowned while hunting in British Columbia compared with six. Hunting deaths in 1959 four lost their lives in Nova Scotia compared with two, and Newfoundland, fatality - free in 1959, had one death in 1960.

While carelessness was the chief cause, there were other factors. Terrain peculiar to certain parts of the country and different methods of hunting, such as deer hunting in Quebec, also contributed to the toll.

SHOT HIS WIFE

Near Belleville, Ont., a man and wife were hunting and decided to try their luck in different areas. The husband came upon his wife and shot her. She spent several weeks in hospital but recovered. He said he mistook her for a partridge.

"Failure of the hunter to positively identify the target before aiming at as game causes about half the accidents," said Allan Young of Ontario's hunter training program.

"Every year two boats loaded with duck hunters were passing on the Muskeg River. A hunter in one boat mistook the other boat for a flock of ducks—God only knows how—fired a volley and killed cowboys."

With an estimated 1,400,000 licensed hunters in Canada and the number rising each year, the importance of safety training was being increasingly recognized.

Except for Quebec and Newfoundland, each province has some form of hunter training and the rise in Quebec fatalities

Tel Aviv Lawyer Wants to Talk To Eichmann

TEL AVIV, Israel (Reuters)—A Tel Aviv lawyer said Thursday he has applied for permission to interview former SS Colonel Adolf Eichmann in an effort to obtain a retrial of a criminal libel suit concerning the Nazi massacre of Hungarian Jews.

The lawyer, Samuel Tamir, said in a letter to the inspector-general of police that Eichmann possesses information that might lead to a retrial of the libel case, generally known as the "Kastner trial."

Dr. Israel Kastner, wartime leader of the Jewish community in Hungary and news editor on an Israeli Hungarian - language daily newspaper, was assassinated by extremist youths in March 1957.

He had become a controversial figure in Israel two years earlier when he was accused of collaborating with the Nazis in Hungary and thereby aiding them in the extermination of the Hungarian Jewish community.

GRUENWALD ACQUITTED

The attorney-general brought a criminal libel case against the accuser, Malkiel Gruenwald, a pamphleteer, but the Jerusalem district court acquitted Gruenwald and said Kastner had "sold his soul to the devil."

The attorney-general appealed against the judgment to the Supreme Court, which in January 1958 posthumously cleared Kastner of "cooperating in the wartime massacre" by the Nazis of 500,000 Hungarian Jews, and of allegations of collaborating with the Nazis. It found him guilty of perjury in a former senior Nazi officer from punishment for war crimes at the Nuremberg trials.

The court imposed a one-year suspended sentence on Gruenwald for libelling Kastner.

Minor Hockey

Holidays failed to dull enthusiasm as far as the kids were concerned on Saturday morning with the usual number of games being played in the Frances and Bantam loops.

In Bantam action, Maple Leafs edged Red Wings 3-1 on goals by Terry Young and Alex Bradley. Darrell Allen and Bruce Holmes drew assists. Larry Moore scored for the Wings, helped by Dan Blatchford.

Barons doubled the Rangers 2-1 with Ian Brooks scoring a pair of goals. Gary Cameron added another goal while Jim McCreary and John Holgate drew assists. Mike Smith and Stephen Scott had Ranger yoals.

Bruins downed the Maple Leafs 3-2 on the strength of Ron Hannah's three-goal performance. Jim Dalgleish also scored while Murray and W. McTaggart had assists. Doug MacDonald potted one for Maple Leafs assisted on the other, by John Kiser.

Quinns and Canadiens fought to a 3-3 deadlock. Richard Ellis potted two Quinte goals while Bob Beecher had the other, assisted by Bill Hoard and Tom Cale. Dennis Jones and Ken Casselman goals and helped-on the other. Scored by Robert Mark. Cecil Haley also assisted on one goal.

Bob Parsons spanked the Rovers to a 5-1 win over the Black Hawks. Parsons scored two goals and set up the other for Paul Goodfellow, who also had an assist along with Ted Herring. Steve Thorne bagged the Hawk goal with help from Greg White.

Bob Cummings Reveals Health Secrets in New Book

By JAMES DACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Someone accused Bob Cummings of taking 800 vitamin pills a day.

"It's not true," quipped Bob. "I only take 600."

But all joking aside, Cummings' youthful vitality has long been the envy of other men of his vintage. And now he has revealed his health secrets in a new book called: Stay Young and Vital.

He doesn't give his exact age except to say that it's more than 50 Milton Berle claims that Cummings was his straight man in 1937 and comments: "He was no kid then."

PLUMPS FOR SEEDS

Cummings says that one of the best ways to prevent a scaly look in middle age is to eat seeds. He munches on sesame and sunflower seeds. He adds cereals also peanuts and almonds.

Other Cummings health tips:

Add powdered skim milk, wheat germ and brewer's yeast to food and drink.

Eat liver—either calf, beef or chicken—at least once a week.

AT THE MELLO—Last Day — Anna Maria Alberghetti as "Cinderella" in "Cinderella," the new Jerry Lewis, Ed Wynn, Judith Anderson, Ana Maria Alberghetti, in Technicolor! Hit Song: "Dream Come True"—Co-stars Ed Wynn and Judith Anderson.

Eat fruit whole—skins and all. That includes pineapple, he adds.

OVER EZALOUS

Cummings says he is no health peddler now, but was once.

"Back in the days when I was Deanna Durbin's leading man years ago, my zeal surely skyrocketed my common sense. With another dedicated vegetarian, I would march around the studio commissary at lunch time, carrying our vegetarian song which went like this:

"Nuts, fruits and nuts,
"Muscle, speed and guts,
"We're the guys who eat no ham.
"We eat no beef,
"We eat no lamb—
"We're vegetarians!
"Rah Rah! Rah!

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Johnny Munro quit football this week after nearly 20 years as a player and game official and, in keeping with the spirit of the season, bowed out with a few hearty chuckles. For instance, he remembered:

The time that he and Cookie Gilchrist "almost died laughing" on the field. The big Negro Toronto Argonaut half, then with Hamilton as Tiger - Cats, had knocked out in a game at Ottawa. But let Johnny tell it:

"I was bending over him when he came to and the first words he mumbled by Cookie were that 'everything looks black.' An Ottawa player standing by murmured 'New, Cookie, you're probably looking in a mirror.' Gilchrist thought it was a great joke and we both burst out laughing."

NEEDED HELP

Then, this year when the Tiger-Cats were having a horrible season in the Big Four, Munro approached coach Jim Trimble before a game and asked "anything to say, coach?" Trimble, a devout Roman Catholic, could think of only one thing: "Have you got a spare rosary?"

The 46-year-old Munro, a native of Toronto, was promoted this week to an executive position with his alma mater Queen's and immediately announced his resignation as a game official in the Big Four "with real regret." He had kind words for the players, coaches and, particularly for commissioned G. Sydney Halter of Winnipeg whom he described as "a great man" whose "direction is the best thing that has happened in professional football in Canada."

'GOOD GUYS'

"I can think of only twice in the last 13 years as an official when a player used foul language at me—and that was only minor, Believe me, these fellows are really good guys, even the tough bruisers, and I've made a lot of real good pals."

Munro believes the roster of game officials could be strengthened with the addition of a few more from the player ranks. They would find that officiating is the next best thing to playing pro ball."

Munro can back this up from his own personal experience. He played offensive and defensive halfback with Queen's Golden Gaels from 1934 to 1937, later joined Argonauts, and became a Big Four official in 1946. He holds some sort of a record at Queen's. During his four years there, a couple under the coaching of Ted Reeve, now Toronto Telegram sports columnist, Munro was never substituted, "played every game for the four years."

VANCOUVER (CP)—The challenge offered in stalking to within 30 yards of a wary beast is greater than the disappointment in not being able to do it often or successfully, says archer Vern Craig.

And that's at least part of the reason he and many others in British Columbia seek big game with bow and arrow instead of rifle.

"Speaking for myself," said Craig, who has hunted with a bow for 11 years, "I'm not particularly fond of killing but I enjoy hunting.

"With the bow I can get my hunting trip, maybe get within 100 yards of the game and, knowing I can't kill it from there and and can't get any closer, I can take time to look at it and enjoy the sight."

Bow hunting is, more of a challenge, he says, "because I know I've got to get close and keep the animal from seeing me."

During the last 11 years Craig has taken two deer and a cougar, a glomeration of smaller game. He served twice as president of the British Columbia Archers' Association and last year was secretary-treasurer.

PROGRESS IS SLOW

He says growth of the sport in B.C. has been steady but slow, primarily because the bow hunter now must compete on equal footing with the rifle hunter for game. There are no special seasons or areas for bow hunters but efforts are being made to get them.

Organized archery clubs operate in Victoria, Comox, Vancouver, the Fraser Valley, Kamloops and Prince George and there are about 100 members who are active bow hunters. As many or more non-members also hunt with bow in B.C.

They need the same hunting licence as the rifle hunter and are restricted to the same areas. Most bow hunting, however, is in the interior regions of the southern half of the province because heavy bush interferes with stalking difficult.

The rifle hunter can shoot through a narrow opening in the bush and hit accurately at considerable distance but the bowhunter must have a clear shot and considers 60 yards his maximum distance for a kill. Most game is taken at less than 40 yards although some has been killed at up to 100 yards.

IMPROVED EQUIPMENT

Craig said modern bow and arrow equipment is extremely accurate and the bow is becoming more powerful for its weight. A 45-pound plastic bow now able to shoot as well as the 60-pound U-bow.

But the range of the bow is much less than that of the rifle and it is on this argument that the archers are seeking permission to hunt in areas where rifle hunting now is prohibited.

Craig said he knows of only one accident in the field involving a bow hunter, and that was not serious.

SALE DECAYED

CHICAGO (AP) — Probate court Friday put off to Jan. 5 final approval of a contract for sale of 25 per cent of the stock of Kansas City Athletics to a Chicago insurance broker. The delay was granted to enable counsel to complete the contract. Charles O. Finley is buying the stock for $1,975,000. The American League has approved the deal and final approval by the court is only a formality. The stock is owned by the estate of Arnold Johnson.

TIPS
by JOHN WETTLAUFER

Interference — that old bogey of the air waves — often ruins a whole evening for the television fan . . . as well as his disposition! For some reason it's the "ham" or amateur radio operator who usually gets the blame, although he is very seldom at fault.

It is only when a ham's equipment is not functioning properly that it may cause interference. Since he must have an extensive knowledge of radio in order to build and operate his rig, he immediately recognizes the trouble and corrects it in order to operate effectively. Failure to do so could also cost him his Government licence.

Outside interference may be frustrating, but there's no need to let a troublesome TV set get you down. If a misadjusted set causes the picture to rock, roll, tilt, time to call the expert technicians at CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 205 Dundas St. For prompt pick-up, phone 962-5791.

It's Simple Job To Correct an Ailing Generator

By EUGENE R. MILMOE

When a car generator isn't working properly, one of three symptoms develops. The generator is delivering no charge; undercharging or charging too much. An excessive charge, incidentally can damage the generator and other electrical parts.

Generator trouble is frequently due to a dirty commutator or dirty brushes. Either case, cleaning is a simple, inexpensive job. If brushes are worn, they can be replaced. Or if a rough commutator is at fault, it can be turned down and undercut. Sometimes the generator drive belt is too loose or has snapped.

Of course, the generator may be blameless. For example, a faulty regulator can cause too little or too great a charge. A defective battery, loose battery connections or corrosion - crusted terminals are also sources the experienced mechanic will keep in mind.

From D. G.: "My brake pedal is released. Yesterday, I installed a new stop lightswitch but the pedal is still sticking, but the condition remains the same."

(A) Have the brakes checked for slight dragging and also for proper pedal clearance.

S. T. asked: "What are the usual reasons for hard starting when the weather and the engine are cold?"

(A) Heavy hot strong enough for cold weather starts, choke setting too lean, carburetor adjustment incorrect, engine oil grade too heavy.

W.C. Writes: "I drive a '55 sedan with regular stick shift transmission. Several weeks ago, the clutch started slipping. What are the possible causes?"

(A) The pedal adjustment may not be providing enough (1" to 1½") free play. This is common. However, slipping can also be caused by worn or damaged clutch driven, weak pressure springs, sticking or defective pressure plate.

From I. L.: "An ad I recently read recommended using spark plug gaskets whenever the plugs are changed. I checked and found that none of mine have any gaskets at all."

(A) There are a few car models which are precision machined to provide a perfect seal and thus do not require plug gaskets.

Senior Hockey

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Little Bobby Brown of Windsor near the end of an Ontario Hockey Association senior A game Friday night to give Windsor a 4-3 win over Woodstock Athletics and a five-point league lead.

In other action, Galt Terriers who crawled into the league cellar after the season had begun, registered their first jump in the standings over a regular team by defeating Stratford Indians 9-3.

Windsor now has 29 points, Chatham 24, Stratford 23, Woodstock 18, Galt 17 and Strathroy 16.

In Woodstock, Windsor captain Lou Bendo knotted the game at 11:09 of the last period and Brown's winner came 18 seconds later. Jerry Servis and Ron Brown scored the other Windsor goals while Larry Pratt, Ed Harrison and playing coach Jack Stoddard scored for the Athletics.

Woodstock outshot the Bulldogs 45-30. Windsor goalie Ken Odrowski put on a remarkable performance holding off the Athletics.

Referee Bill Brethauer called only three penalties in the game, with two of those going to Windsor.

Stratford, Galt Terriers got on a spirited first period drive that gave them a 3-1 lead as ex-Indian Bob Hooper set the pace, getting Galt's first two goals.

"Butch" Martin, Bob McKnight and Harry Neale netted Galt's other tallies. Stratford answered with markers by Dick Wray, Mel Cockburn and Ray Hearn.

Galt dominated the play throughout and withstood Indians spirited third period rally except for a goal mouth scramble during which Hearn tallied for Stratford.

League action continues tonight as Chatham visits Strathroy. Monday night Woodstock goes to Stratford and Chatham to Windsor.

AN OPEN LETTER TO MEMBERS OF THE BELLEVILLE AND DISTRICT FISH AND GAME CLUB.

Ladies and Gentlemen:—

As the most of you know, you have one of the best Fish and Game organizations in the district. Right now its membership is up around the 310 mark.

That's fine for even not so long ago when you held your meetings in a small room in the YMCA. Now even the spacious lower auditorium of the Club Canada is beating at the seams when all of you gather there.

You have a fine president in Bruce Kerr. You have an excellent, hard-working secretary in Ken Yorke. You have an executive that is doing a grand job arranging meetings, entertainment, projects, etc., for you.

You have always a fine collective interest in matters pertaining to hunting and fishing. You open your purses for draws and deer prizes. Your interest in meetings proves that.

President Kerr, secretary Yorke and your executive have worked hard to provide things of interest for you. You have appreciated them, that I know.

But what, for the luvanikin, has happened you with regard to the club's annual Fish and Game competition this year.

Ten handsome fishing prizes and three hunting prizes were put up for grabs early in 1960.

All of you were fishing at some time or another. A lot of you went a-hunting and came back with some fine trophies of the chase.

You had a halfava lot of fun angling for the big ones and tying in wait for vendace dinners. You worked hard amidst snow, cottage or wherever you had been for the night while seeking the fish or game.

But only one, that I know of, bothered to forward an entry to the Fish and Game contest. The rest of you just didn't bother, perhaps for another guy had a bigger and better entry, or you were just too danged lazy to do anything about it.

But you're not too big yet, if your memory is clicking on all four.

The contest committee has given you another chance. You can enter your hook, if you want to.

You are on your honor. No proof such as pictures or written sworn declarations are necessary. Just write in the hook on the special entry form and send it to Secretary Ken Yorke, Hastings County Home for the Aged. You can secure entry forms from any sports goods store or a member of the executive.

But do it right away. Otherwise several handsome prizes, trophies, etc., will be returned to the donors. So get the lead out and get that entry in.

Top prize is the Judge Anderson Trophy for the best fish, any category. Then there are cash and other awards for the best specks, brown, Kamloops and lake trout, pickerel, pike, small-mouth and-large-mouth bass and muskinonge.

For the hunters there are specialprizes for the biggest buck deer, the biggest black bear and the biggest brush wolf.

The awards will be made at the special meeting being held at the Club Canara on January 17th. So will eight deer prizes and a special draw for a Peterborough canoe, a 15-footer, complete with paddles.

The affair has been dubbed "Turkey Dinner and Trophy Nite." Some public has been invited and can secure tickets from Bishop's Sports, Station St.

Entertainment-wise two Walt Disney films in technicolor, "Beaver Valley" and "Bear Country" will be shown.

So there it is. It is your night. And it is up to you to make it the biggest and best yet.

Above all hack the memory and get that entry form! Use the Fish and Game Contest in as quickly as possible. That one big catch could be a prize-winner. Try it and see.

AND

A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

Swede Talks Back

Ingy Says Archie "Nuts"

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Ingemar Johansson, former heavyweight world champion, laughed Friday at Archie Moore's efforts to picture him as a cringing boxer.

"Let him talk," said Johansson, "he needs all the publicity he can get."

The Swede is preparing for a third title fight with Floyd Patterson March 13. In an interview Moore hinted Johansson lacked self-confidence and would cringe when Patterson struck. Johansson should talk, said Moore, or people won't buy tickets for the return fight.

Johansson said:

The guy is nuts. I don't need to boost my self-confidence by talking. Maybe I would, if I had been knocked down as many times as he has.

The Swede looked extremely fit in the ring during a workout. Presently weighing 206-pounds, he is determined not to weigh more than 198 for the Miami Beach fight. He says weighing only 181½ when Patterson defeated him in June was a big mistake.

VISITORS STUNNED

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — The beaten Boston College, trailing the University of Toronto 3-0 with less than a minute to play in the second period, rang up five goals within a few seconds and went on to stun the visitors 6-3 Friday night in hockey.

Leafs Have Silver Daddy

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Who is the person with a sackful of silver dollars and a fervent loyalty for the Toronto Maple Leafs?

"I honestly don't know," says George Armstrong, captain of the National Hockey League Leafs.

For three years now the unknown fan has been rewarding Leaf scorers and goalie Johnny Bower for goals and wins. Each player who scores a goal in a home game finds an envelope in his box at Maple Leaf Gardens the following morning with a silver dollar inside.

Bower got one each time the club wins at home.

"He's just a quiet Leaf fan, I guess," says Armstrong.

High men on the club for silver dollars this season are Bower and winger Frank Mahovlich. The dynamic pair has scored over 16 goals at home this season, 15 of them during Saturday night television games. Bower has collected on 16 home wins.

Both will be lucky if they fatten their silver collection tonight.

LOSING ON PENALTIES?

An old theory has it that a team can't win games from the penalty box. Theory may be a good part of Chicago Black Hawks' story this season.

The Hawks — a team almost overlooked when it would give Montreal Canadiens a run for first place—are struggling along in fourth place at the season's halfway mark.

The Hawks are the most penalized team in the league and three of their players are one - two - three among the top individual penalty getters.

Going into the weekend games, Chicago players have spent a total of 541 minutes in the penalty box in 35 games. The league-leading Canadiens have served 387 minutes in penalties. Maple Leafs 367 minutes, Boston Bruins 336, New York Rangers 281 and Detroit Red Wings 264.

The Hawks meet the Wings twice this weekend, at Detroit tonight and at home Sunday.

The Hawks' worst sinners have been ex-Montreal Canadien Bobby Hull, Montreal native Ab McDonald and back in Boston Sunday with Chicago early Leaf play at Toronto tonight and in New York Sunday night.

Hawks defenceman Pierre Pilote is the most penalized player in the league with 119 minutes in the cooler. Teammates Eric Nesterenko and Murray Balfour, both forwards, are next with 75 and 70 minutes respectively.

Note to Mr. Ahearne

"So Were The Macs!"

LONDON (CP)—British hockey fans were "terrific," Ahearne [illegible] said Friday he was left holding the bag for approximately $1,000 after the European tour of two National Hockey League clubs in the spring of 1959.

Ahearne runs the travel agency that books air flights and air-plane reservations for Boston Bruins and New York Rangers during their visit to Europe.

"The tour was a flop because it was badly planned," said Ahearne. "I lost somewhere around $1,000."

He said his loss resulted from the closing of a Geneva bank that was supposed to have provided financial backing for the tour.

Oilers, Chargers

Play On Muddy Field

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Los Angeles Chargers, losers in Houston's first American Football League game, worked out today with hopes of closing the 1960 season with a victory over Houston Oilers.

The Chargers and Houston Oilers meet in the AFL's first championship game Sunday before an expected crowd of 25,000. Kickoff time is 2:05 p.m. EST. The event will be televised by ABC starting at 1:30 p.m. EST.

The Chargers lost to Houston 38-28 in the Oilers' first league home game in September and won 24-21 on a muddy field in Los Angeles later.

The game is certain to be played on a muddy, torn field after several days of heavy rain. Irv Rice Bowl at Jeppesen Stadium tonight.

The Chargers, with 10-4 won-lost record, captured the league's western division. Houston, also 10-4, won the eastern division.

Coach Sid Gillman, of Los Angeles said the best all-around team in the AFL into the game.

The Chargers weren't tops in any of the league's 11 team statistical categories, but they never were more than fourth in any department. They were third in total offense, fifth in rushing, second in passing defense, third in rushing defence and third in total defence.

Charger hopes will ride mainly on the passing arm of quarterback Jack Kemp, once with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union and the AFL's top passer this year.

British Soccer Strike

Players Consider Offer

LONDON (AP)—Danger of an English soccer strike receded Friday as clubs and players chewed over an offer by the English football league to abolish the maximum wage.

The Professional Footballers' Association, which has called a strike for mid - January, announced that its members will hold regional meetings Jan. 10, 11 and 12 to consider the new move.

Sports writers confidently predicted that the league's plan will be accepted.

The offer was hailed by soccer writers as a victory for the players. It meets most of their demands:

1. Abolition of the £20-a-week salary maximum. The league proposes raising the figure to £30 immediately and abolishing the maximum altogether in two years.

2. Longer contracts. The league proposes players should sign for a club up to three years instead of for one season as at present.

3. Bigger signing-on fees. The league proposes to step up the £10 fee which is paid to a player when he signs for a new club.

4. An increase in the £10-a-week minimum wage. The league proposes raising it to £15.

The fifth point in the league's plan—retention of the transfer system as at present—is a rejection of what the players demanded. They want a player to be completely free to negotiate terms with a new club as soon as his contract is completed.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Coach Irme Seattle centre Guyle Fielder scored two goals as he writes part of the Western Hockey League's record book.

Fielder, 30 and in his ninth WHL season, scored his 200th and 201st career goals Friday as Totems tied Portland Buckaroos 5-5 in overtime in Seattle, boosting his point total to 203 in 213 games.

His highest total ever run up by a player in the WHL.

In Victoria, where the Cougars defended Spokane Comets 6-2 with four third-period goals, a brawl broke out with less than two minutes remaining in regulation time and referee Lou Farelli tossed nine players into penalties.

Vancouver Canucks whipped Edmonton Flyers 4-1 in Vancouver.

Tied for Top

Macs Trim Cobourg 13-4

Outscoring the opposition in every period, Belleville McFarlands moved into the Cobourg Rockets 13-4 in Cobourg last night to climb into a first place tie in the OHA Eastern Junior "B" league with Peterborough Canoeks.

The Macs and Canucks have 14 points apiece in top spot, two points ahead of the fourth place Whitby Hillcrests. Belleville's next game will be home against Kingston on Wednesday.

The Bell-coached McFarlands jumped into a 3-0 lead in the opening period and coasted against the winless Rockets, upped the lead to 7-1 at the end of the second and the final 6-3 margin after 8-3 in the final twenty minutes.

Spearheading the Mac attack were Jim Hull and Gary Gay-er, Hunter and Hull, along with rookie "Pug" Kellar.

Both Hull and Gary Goyer each scored five points, Hull two, three goals and an assist and Goyer on two goals and three helpers. Jack Hunter, the third man on the line, scored a couple of goals and assisted on four others.

"Pug" Kellar also starred with his first net-minding effort for play while defenceman Gary Reid had a goal and two assists, Bob Fenton, Tom Cook, Jim Helper and Gary Hull one goal.

Pete Woods and Pat Anderson drew two assists each, with Ray-Vito Kidd, McGuire, Larry Mawby and Don Forsythe getting one apiece.

Dave Hunter led the Cobourg marksmen on two Cobourg markers, while Jim Hunter, Jim Hall, Bill Haynes had the others. Gord Ewart drew three assists with Bob Walsh and Cobourg, and Doyle.

Referees Iven Locke and Ned Vitarelli handed out a total of 14 penalties, with Belleville drawing 11 of that number. Larry Mawby of the Macs picked up six minutes' seclusion while goalie Bill Moxon and Bev Walsh of Cobourg, Kellar, Hull and majors for fighting at 17.35 of the third period.

The Macs covered a pair of quickies, by Gary Hull and Kellar, at 3:03 and 3:39 of the initial stanza and never looked back. Kellar and Ebbie made it 4-0 before Doyle got one for Cobourg in the second. Ron Hull, Hunter and Reid added other second-period goals.

In the wide-open third, Hunter, Hull and Goyer made it 10-1 in the first minute and Cobourg's Doyle, Keller, Hull Waghorn, Cook and Bill Haynes completed the scoring thereafter.

Belleville fired 46 shots at Cobourg goalie Pete Cook, while Bill Moxon was tested 30 times by the Rocket attackers.

Belleville — Moxon, Reid; Anselmine, Goyer, R. Hull, Hunter, Gay-er, G. Hull, McGuire, Weston, McGill, Smith, Reid, Mawby, Forsythe.

Wolves Whip Hull 7-3; Kingston Bows

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sudbury Wolves turned out the league-leading Hull-Ottawa Canadiens 7-4 in Sudbury Friday night, downed them 7-3 and advancing to fourth place in the Eastern Professional Hockey League standings, thanks to a loss by Kingston Frontenacs.

The Frontenacs bowed to Kitchener Rangers 3-2 in the only other league action of the night.

At Sudbury, Al Cleary led the Wolves with two goals, Sam Bettio, Nick Polanco, Tom McCarthy, Jim Pajpela and Jack Martin each fired singles for the winners. It was Sudbury's first win in seven games.

Terry Gray, Billy Carter and Bob Dawes replied for the Hull-Ottawa scoring. Despite the loss the Canadiens hold a fragile grasp on first place, ahead of Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds.

Ron Ingram and Glaca with less than five minutes to play gave the Rangers their win, advancing them to within two points of second spot.

A hockey crowd watched the Frontenacs break into a 2-0 lead on two goals by Dick Meissner early in the game. Kitchener then took the lead on goals by Mel Pearson and Chuck Baloo.

Clocky's homing goal, a 25-footer, was followed by a protest by Frontenacs Kingston charged Kitchener attempt to gain a tie in the game's dying moments.

The loss left the Frontenacs one point behind the Wolves and four behind the second place Cornwall Royals.

Maroons Tie With Czechs

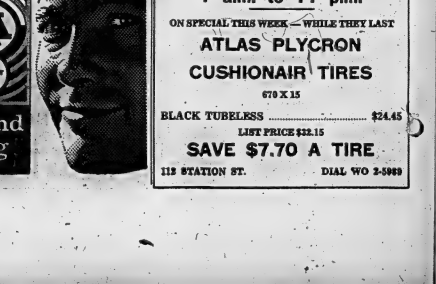
BRATISLAVA (CP)—The touring Winnipeg Maroons fought to a 2-2 tie with Slovan Bratislava, Czechoslovakia's secondary national team, before 13,000 fans in the mammoth Bratislava Stadium.

The stadium's ice surface measuring 200 feet by 97 feet, was probably the largest the Maroons have played on—and it seemed to take them almost two periods to get used to it.

The Czech team had scored two goals before Winnipeg could find the range at the 12:36-mark of the second period. At that point the Maroons had looked a bit lagged in failing to get their shots away.

But right-winger Tom Rendall, who scored both Winnipeg goals, sparked the Maroons to life by firing home a shot on a three-way passing play in the last minute of the period, with Rendall fired Dunsmore and Marrey Balogan assisted.

The Canadians opened the third period in determined fashion and Rendall scored off at the 26-mark when Rendall pushed in the puck from the goal line.



LOFTED A BOOSTER

Larry Bloomer had set up the goal for Rendall's second shot from the red line that the Czech goalie juggled and then dropped in front of his net.

The Czechs opened the scoring at 14:06 of the second period by picking up a rebound off the backboards and firing it past Marcons' goalie Gord Dibley. They scored again 30 seconds later and their 2-0 lead worried Winnipeg into action.

HOCKEY HINTS
By Lloyd Pendrel

"KNOW WHY YOU FAKE"

It may be safe to make a certain play or perform a particular skill in good but to understand the basic principle concerned will help you do it better. This is the case in learning to handle a skill, play or tactic will not only demonstrated but will explain WHY it should be done as is described.

It is always a mistake to say, "Never mind why, you play like Eddie and I think ahead of your man, just do it." The reason? It is a law of learning that when an athlete understands the purpose of a skill or tactic, he knows why he should do a certain thing in a certain way, he learns faster and applies his skill more intelligently.

A good example in hockey is found in faking—an art brought to a high degree of skill by such stars as Beliveau, Howe, Bathgate, Hull, Mahovlich and Brewer. Fundamentally, you fake in order to create what psychologists call "reaction time lag."

By faking you force your opponent to start a move. Then, when you go through with your actual manoeuvre, he must stop his initial move and make another one to match your final action. Having to stop and restart again takes time and it is during this time, often only a fraction of a second, that you gain the edge that makes your move a success. This is why a player who fakes well is hard to cover, hard to check or hard to get by. Few players would have enough to develop this skill. For more hints send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10c, Hockey Hints, 82 Bond St., Toronto, for the bulletin "Gordie Howe, Magic on Ice."

Fielder Sets All-Time Points Mark

SEATTLE (CP) — Gayle Fielder, Idaho-born centre in his ninth season in the Western Hockey League, Friday night became the league's all-time leading point getter.

The diminutive 5-foot-7-inch forward scored his team's second goal in the first period of a game against Portland Buckaroos and the point boosted his league total to 1,067 — one more than the number owned by Gordon Hornby, who has been inactive since suffering a broken leg while playing with Vancouver Canucks last season.

Fielder, a smooth-skating playmaker who has won the league's individual scoring title five times, including each of the last four seasons, boosted to 210 goals and 603 assists his record for regular league play in the WHL.

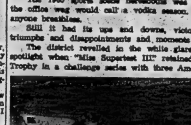
But There Were Other Thrills, Too



Harmsworth Stole Quinte Sportlight

BY GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The 1960 sports scene hereabouts was not exactly what the office word would call a vodka season. It didn't leave anyone breathless.

Still it had its ups and downs, victories and defeats, triumphs and disappointments and moments great and small.

The district revelled in the while glare of the publicity spotlight when "Miss Superstar III" retained the Harmsworth Trophy in a challenge series with three American contenders.

The most brilliant achievement, city-wise was the winning of the All-Ontario Junior "A" basketball championship by the Belleville Kennedys.

The big disappointment was the falling by the wayside of the Belleville McFarlands, the last club to win a world hockey title for Canada.

CANADA'S PRIDE

On Prince Edward county's famous Picton Beach, Bob Hayward, Canada's outstanding speedboat driver, hurled Miss Supersteet III to victory.

In the popular Belleville Service Darts League "Ted's" Wildcats won and returned the 1959-60 champions.

The Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club marked 1960 as one of its red-letter years. Last summer the new nine-hole golf course was officially opened. Improved the club an 18-hole status. Club pro George Belaza did a grand job, with his staff in the greens and course and with member co-operation had the "new nine" in operation by mid-August.

Many keenly contested tournaments were held with T. A. Carruthers winning the men's Labor Day tournament and Mrs. Jim Zens Corke the women's club crown. Brian McKeenie took the junior crown.

Members did well on "foreign" courses coming home with creditable performances and trophies. Gary Bowerman was a standout visiting the district men's field day championships among other events.

The Quinte Tennis Club besides its usual summer activities took an active part in junior work, several of its minors taking part in out-of-town tournaments and acquitting themselves well.

The Bay of Quinte Football League concluded a busy schedule with Belleville's fall minor leagues operating successfully.

The Belleville and District Fish and Game Club had its best season since its inception. Its membership grew somewhat, to over the 300 mark. It broke all attendance records with 325 when the club met to discuss the controversial "wild duck baiting" question.

Although tournament entries were down somewhat, the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club had a good year. The coveted Corbin Gold Trophy for men's rinks was won by Dick Adams. Whitey Fish, while a Trenton rink went to the Ontario finals.

Alley bowling marked an upsurge with Seeley's Clippers winning the Quinte Valley league championship and Parson's Cleaners taking the Quinte Classic League crown.

The Quinte Curling Club had a grand 1959-60 season and as well on their way to another. Players took part in many local and district bonspiels and brought home many trophies of the chase.

The "white wings" of the Belleville yacht club had an excellent season", one of its first appearance in the city in 1960, a Belleville club acquiring itself well in the Ottawa Flying Dutchman League.

The Bay of Quinte Football League concluded a busy schedule with Belleville's fall minor leagues operating successfully.

The Belleville and District Fish and Game Club had its best season since its inception. Its membership grew somewhat, to over the 300 mark. It broke all attendance records with 325 when the club met to discuss the controversial "wild duck baiting" question.

Although tournament entries were down somewhat, the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club had a good year. The coveted Corbin Gold Trophy for men's rinks was won by Dick Adams. Whitey Fish, while a Trenton rink went to the Ontario finals.

Alley bowling marked an upsurge with Seeley's Clippers winning the Quinte Valley league championship and Parson's Cleaners taking the Quinte Classic League crown.

The Quinte Curling Club had a grand 1959-60 season and as well on their way to another. Players took part in many local and district bonspiels and brought home many trophies of the chase.

The "white wings" of the Belleville yacht club had an excellent season", one of its

Kramer Says Italian Has Turned Pro

SYDNEY (AP)—Jack Kramer, pro tennis magnate, said Friday night he signed Nicola Pietrangeli of Italy's surprising Davis Cup team to a contract in August and had paid him $17,500.

Pietrangeli, standing a few feet away, said he "signed an agreement, not a contract, and I sent back the cheque."

Kramer said "that since the signing" I have given the matter much thought and will not make a decision until I return to Rome next year. I don't see any difference between an agreement and a contract." He added that Pietrangeli had returned the cheque.

Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola ousted the United States from the Davis Cup competition at Perth two weeks ago but lost to the Australians in the challenge round this week.

Briton Said Unhappy Over Fight Take

BALTIMORE (AP) — Terry Downes, working out here for his Jan. 23 date with Paul Pender's middleweight title, has no illusions about getting rich off this fight.

Downes, British champion of the division, is obviously unhappy about the financial details of the Boston bout, in which Pender will defend the European and New York - Massachusetts version of the title.

Besides taking only 39,150 of the television receipts, compared to Pender's 60,850, Downes also was forced to agree to a return bout within 90 days and a smaller share of that purse if he loses.

"It's in the driver's seat now," said the chunky English man. "If I win the champion I'll have a few things to say myself."

On his flight here from London Wednesday, the 24 - year - old Downes was accompanied by an attractive blonde wife, Barbara, 21-month-old daughter, Julie Ann Imber, trainer Tom Ryder and manager-promoter Mike Dowdy-Berry.

"After I get through with my travel expenses," said Terry, "I'll be lucky to clear a few thousand dollars."

Spiel Won By Peterboro

TORONTO (CP)—Bruce Sonley's Peterborough rink Friday night defeated Ron Ashcroft's Humber Curling Club's annual schoolmen's bonspiel, earning 32 points from its three rinks, and boosting its opposition by 21 shots.

Sonley skipped by Glen Carnegie, a school inspector from suburban North York played second. The team lost the trophy by just one rock, also gaining 32 points under the bonspiel's scoring system, but having a plus margin of 21 shots.

Sonley, with veteran Oliver Sicer as his vice-skip, used Jim Burns as second. Otto Simmers led for the Peterborough team.

Gardiner's lead was Mel Prudeaux with Conn Stewart as second and Sam Sutherland as vice-skip.

Al Robin's foursome from Oshawa placed third ahead of a Leaside High School quartet skipped by Jim Kerr. Stamford Township High School directed by Bob Chapman, was fifth, while a foot Tam O'Shanter squad under Bill Donald trailed the field.

PLUM TO ATTEND

WINDSOR (CP) — Cleveland Browns' quarterback Milt Plum has been added to the guest list at the sixth annual sportsman's night scheduled for Jan. 25. The National Football League player will appear to help the sponsors of the event, the Winnipeg Sportswriters and Broadcasters Association, raise money for the children's heart fund. Big Four quarterback Sam Etcheverry and former National Hockey League defence star Ken Reardon had agreed to appear earlier.

Bobby Dobbs May Coach Stampeders

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Bobby Dobbs, Texas A&M football coach, said Friday he has been approached about taking the coaching position of Calgary Stampeders of the Canadian Western Interprovincial Football Union. He said he will go to Calgary Tuesday.

Dobbs, who has one year remaining on a five-year contract with Tulsa of the Missouri Valley other was made by Stampeders' general manager Jake Gaudaur, but that he would "make no commitment" until after he returns next Thursday from Calgary.

The Stampeders were coached last year by Jack Owen, who signed Tuesday to coach Saskatchewan Roughriders, also of the WIFU.

Dobbs has been coach at Tulsa since 1955 when he came here from West Point where he was an assistant to Col. Earl (Red) Blaik.

Bisons Blast Amerks 4-2

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Richard Leduc scored a pair of shotgun tallies — double-barrelled blasts in the first and third periods—to defeat Buffalo Bisons 4-2 Friday night in the American Hockey League.

Cleveland Barons held on to their second - place margin but had a tougher time of it, blowing a 3-0 lead but going on to edge Providence Reds 4-3 on Gerry Hicks' overtime goal.

Ron Ascoli, Eddie Mazur and Bill Dineen gave the Barons what seemed to be a comfortable margin in the second period over the injury-riddled Reds.

But George Ranieri and Paul Larivee put Rochester back into contention before the period ended and Earl Rebel tied it up just past the midway mark of the third to force the extra session.

Rochester's home - ice victory moved the Americans into a fifth-place tie with Hershey Bears and Providence, one of the four fourth-place Bisons. The Americans outshot Buffalo 40 shots to 25 in less than a minute, Hank Bassen and Guy Rousseau turning the trick in the first period with Gene Ubriaco and Dave Creighton doing the honors in the second. Larry Wilson scored for Buffalo in the third.

The goal credited to Rousseau actually scored when Dennis Dejordy's goalmate Jean Gauthier steered Rousseau's goal - mouth pass into his own net.

best" said an officer.

The Belleville Power Squadron also enjoyed a busy season with 12 vessels registered in United States Power Squadron rendezvous. The squadron will hold a meeting on Jan. 9 at 8 p.m.

And President Al Kelleher of the Belleville District Progress Association reports a near-record year. There were no vacancies, a waiting list existing and the squad will go into early 1961 at full strength.

Football - wise Belleville Collegiate Institute's starry football team won the city championship while Quinte Secondary School was stripped in the finals by the Centennial Collegiate gridders.

Quinte's basketball squad wound up a year's splendid sports effort by the wayside when it tripped through the Quinte District University Invitational Tournament undefeated to win its second championship in similar competition.

Other Ontario Secondary Schools honors were won by teams from the Ontario School for the Deaf, hosts in girls and boys volleyball teams took senior "B" championships.

Basketball, never a keen spectator sport in the city, showed a marked resurgence at the mid-remption of play. Last winter the city was represented by one club. This year, four of the 12 teams in the Bay of Quinte Intermediate Basketball League are from Belleville. These are the Belleville Generals, Teachers and Northern Electric. Trenton and Picton squads round out the loop.

And Quinte Secondary's rugger basketball squad brought last-minute honors to the city with a 61-60 and city by walking off with the Queen's University Invitation Basketball Tournament. The Quinte squad swept through the eight-game tourney undefeated to capture its second crown in three years. Individual honors came when Bill Green was named the most valuable player of the tournament.

Fines Players, Walks Out

Blair 'Quits' Frontenacs?

KINGSTON (CP) — Manager-coach Wren Blair painfully watched his Kingston Frontenacs fritter away an Eastern Professional Hockey League game to Kitchener Beavers Friday night, then fined each Frontenac player $50 for "a poor showing."

He was so disgusted over Frontenacs losing a 3-0 lead and dropping the game 3-2 that he threatened to ask the parent Boston Bruins of the National League to relieve him of his job here.

"If they (Frontenacs) can quit on me, I can quit on them," he said. "I'll ask Lynn Patrick (Bruin general manager) to replace me if Kingston if he knows of an available replacement."

Blair then headed for his home in Oshawa.

Racing Card Is Approved

TORONTO (CP)—The Jockey Club's 1961 thoroughbred racing schedule was approved Friday by the Ontario Racing Commission.

The commission also approved Sunday harness racing meet at the Old Woodbine, beginning July 1 and ending August 30.

There will be 136 days' racing next season: Fort Erie, April 8 to May 8 and July 17 to Sept. 3, a total of 67 days; Woodbine, June 5 to July 15 and Sept. 14 to Oct. 28, a total of 71 days; Old Woodbine, May 4 to June 3, Sept. 4 to Sept. 16 and Oct. 30 to Nov. 5, a total of 58 days.

Will Enter 'Supertest III'

TORONTO (CP) — Jim Thomson of London, Ont., is expected to enter his Miss Supertest III in the Canadian defender in the Harmsworth trophy powerboat races next summer.

Bob Fridayson, commodore of the Canadian Boating Federation, said Friday Miss Supertest II is the likely challenger from the United States, pending other contenders—in the event.

"Unless something unusual develops in Canada—and nothing is in sight—Jim Thomson's Supertest will be the Canadian representative. Jim has already indicated he'll be back."

Miss Supertest III won the trophy for the first time for Canada last year after a succession fully defended it last August at Picton, Ont., against three American challengers.

SENT A CHALLENGE

The Lakeshores Association of America said Thursday it has sent a challenge to the Canadian Boating Federation on behalf of Joe and Lee Schoenili of Detroit, who also want to enter the event.

Beginning in 1961, challenging country can enter only one boat so a runoff is likely among various American contenders.

Finlayson said the initial challenge had to be in by Jan. 1, but subsequent entries could be made until next May 1. He said other countries would be welcome to send challengers.

Finlayson said a meeting of federation directors will be held here Jan. 8 to accept the American challenge and possibly conclude on a date and venue for the Harmsworth race in 1961.

A strong possibility will be Picton in August because of the success of this year's races there; An August runoff would permit American contenders to develop fully.

The year 1960 was for the RCAF a year of re-equipment, support and defence readiness. Among the new aircraft acquired were the Hercules turbo-prop transport (1) for use in supporting Canadian Army operations, and the Caribou transport (3) to replace the ageing Dakotas. Search and Rescue units were called upon for many mercy missions (3) such as the successful transfer of a seriously ill seaman from a ferry to a hospital ashore. The patrol scene (4) was common in Europe where the RCAF's Air Division is on the alert in defence of freedom as part of the NATO shield and where for the third consecutive year the RCAF won the Seymour trophy (5) emblematic of supremacy in air marksmanship among NATO's air forces. An aircraft of the RCAF Maritime Air Command (6) played the part in NATO by daily anti-submarine patrols over the North Atlantic. Rocket firing CF-100 aircraft (7) of Air Defence Command maintained a state of readiness throughout the year as part of the North American Air Defence system. Construction of the BOMARC/SAGE complex (8) to strengthen continental air defences in Canada was under way.
